BLAST CINCINNATI

—Chicago Cubs blasted Cincinnati 10-3 with four home runs and 20 hits and Washington edged Boston 7-6 in other night action. Philadelphia defeated Brooklyn 4-3 in 10 innings as were the athletics over the New York Yankees in Philadelphia.

The Brash Reds refused to play dead before the Dodgers, coming from behind three times before finally losing.

Chicago's attack against Cincinnati included four runs by Gene Baker, Ernie Banks, Ralph Kiner and Randy Jackson. Jackson also collected four singles to increase his league-leading batting average to .615.

Guelph Leads Cage Series

SUDBURY (CP)—Guelph's Heffernan "Y" cagers Friday night won the first game of their two-game, total-point basketball series with Sudbury International Hotel 82-63.

The series, for the all-Ontario intermediate basketball championship, will conclude here tonight.

Sparked by the three "shorties" on their club, little Jack Donald, the Heffernans led 56-28 at the half and had little further trouble.

Donald potted 32 and Don (Spider) McCrae, point-setter through the season with the Guelph team, canned 21 points to pace the southern lovadors.

Ray Puro with 18 points, Al McQuarrie with 17 and Jack Dupreslyn with 16 were the big guns for the Nats.

Selke Charges 3-Way Clique In National Hockey League

MONTREAL (CP) — Managing director Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens in a statement Friday said there "appears to be a three-way clique among N a t i o n a l Hockey League teams.

Selke's statement followed his return from an NHL meeting in New York made the new draft and supplementary legislation were approved.

Selke said he felt "we were moving a bit too rapidly" regarding a clause dealing with over-age juniors and players who had signed A and B forms. Because of the extent of Canadiens' hockey empire and junior affiliations," he asked that action on the clause be deferred one year.

Boston supported this stand but the opposition, led by Conn Smythe (president and managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs) and Clarence Campbell, (NHL president) was too strong for us, voting us down 4-3.

SAYS THINKS MISTAKE

Saying Canadiens still think a mistake was made but will respect the wishes of the majority and carry on, Selke's statement added:

"It seemed that where previously the league teams were strictly on their own, there now appears to be a three-way clique. One delegate suggested that Detroit would eventually line up with Chicago, Toronto would combine with New (York) Rangers, leaving Boston and Canadiens to go their own way or work out a three-cornered deal.

The regulation regarding juniors on pro-sponsored clubs "provides, for professional purposes, that following attainment of their 20th birthday all are automatically released Aug. 1 unless signed by a pro club.

The same applies to players signed by pro clubs to A and B forms—yours and opinion. If the players are not signed by the forthholding club or some other pro club they may be returned to their A or B category.

EASY TO WORK WITH

Regarding the "bonne entente" with Boston, Selke's statement said "it will be easy to work with" president Walter Brown and coach Lynn Patrick. "Bruins have a good team and would seek or accept very little from Canadiens."

"Conn Smythe, on his return from Great Britain in June, will likely give the Rangers on all-summer pass to the Weston arena, while Jack Adams will probably give Chicago three cheers on July 4 and have Fred Huber send Bill Tobin an old photograph showing super-star Bobby Goldham wearing a Black Hawk uniform. Sudbury Wolves Oust Matane In 6th Game Eastern Finals; Will Go West for Allan Cup

SUDBURY (CP)—For the first time in 17 years this city will represent eastern Canada in the Allan Cup finals.

Sudbury Wolves won the right to travel to western Canada for the Canadian senior hockey finals by shutting out Matane Red Rocks 2-0 in the seventh game of the eastern finals Friday night. The victory gave them the best-of-seven eastern championship 4-3. One game was tied.

The Wolves now will play either Winnipeg Maroons or Penticton Vs in the best-of-seven Allan Cup final. The Maroons lead their series with the V's 2-1. Two tie games have been played.

The team that represents the east this year will be the first one from Sudbury since 1937. That year Frood Tigers won the eastern championship.

FIRST PERIOD DID IT

The Wolves sewed up their series against Matane in the first period last night. Both goals were scored in the first 20 minutes and Nick Tomlak was the marksman on both occasions. Gordie Haale assisted on each of the counters.

Tomlak scored the winner at 15:31 after being Haale's pass inside the Matane blue line. He fired a drive from mid-ice and the puck hit netminder Marcel Pollin and bounced over him into the goal.

Fifty - four seconds later the Wolves scored the insurance tally. Tomlak slapped the puck into the net after Haale kicked out Andy Milne's shot. Heale also drew an assist on the goal, starting the play in motion.

It was remarkable that the Wolves didn't increase their margin in the first period and this could be attributed to Pallie, who kicked out 14 shots in the Sudbury nets while Al Miller, at the other end of the ice, had only two to handle.

Both teams played a man short for five minutes at the start of the first when George Defelice and Lafreniere were thumbed off for fighting. Of the total of nine penalties handed out during the game, Matane was tagged with six but neither team scored while a man was in the penalty box.

OUTSHOT MATANE

Trotsko almost bagged his third goal of the evening in the second period. His shot 15 seconds after the Sudbury boss had left the confines of the Matane goal post and whistled wide. Both netminders were called on to make a few outstanding saves in the middle stanza but the Wolves outshot Matane 14-6 to 9-7.

The Red Rocks took over the play in the third period but made no headway. Even they did get the shot by Sudbury forwards and defencemen they couldn't beat Miller. The Wolves' big winner in the game the Wolves changed to kitty-cat Play was monotonous and the ice was further hindered by their opponents' play.

Matane attempted to get to the Matane bench during the last minute of play but Referee Red Hoyda a sixth attacker but he couldn't get past the blue line. Every time a Wolf was ready to leave the ice the Wolves would threaten.

Play was monotonous and held up at the 13-minute mark of the period when Jim Bilodeau skated in the face during a scramble. The fans gave him a big hand when he left the ice after his injury.

Three Crowns Decided Today In Peewee Tourney

GODERICH (CP)—Three championships are scheduled to be decided today at the Young Canada Week Fee Wee hockey tournament, called "the biggest hockey tournament in the world for kids"

Goderich, winners of the A-group championship Friday night, will be trying for their third grand championship. In the list against them will be Midmay, C -group winners; Seaforth, B-group champs, and the winner of the AA group to be decided today.

Probably the biggest drawing card will be the fight for the East-West Challenge Cup between Wingham and Goderich.

The two teams Friday night battled through 22 minutes of overtime to a 6-6 draw, then quit because both sides were tuckered out.

Today winds up the annual week-end with a run of four under-12 hockey enthusiasts. It is sponsored by Goderich Lions Club and the Western Ontario Minor Hockey Association and this year drew 47 entries.

"A" TITLE

Goderich won the A championship Friday by defeating Lindsay 4-3.

The East-West game started at a rapid pace but the youngsters were tiring fast at the end. The score at the end of the first period was tied 2-2 but in the second period, Goderich took a 5-4 lead. Wingham battled back in the third and tied it up at 6-6.

A 10-minute overtime period brought no further score and the teams decided to try a sudden death period, first goal winning the game. After 12 minutes without a goal being scored, the referee of the game was called a draw and the deciding game scheduled for tonight.

Owen Sound tied Chatham in the AA group but was rewarded the game on the basis of 27 shots on goal to Chatham's 17. Owen Sound next defeated Sarnia 8-1.

Waterloo and Owen Sound battled Thursday in the AA group, defeating Kingston 5-0 and Woodstock 7-1. North Toronto also entered the semi-finals with a decisive 11-0 win over North Bay.

Kingston had previously defeated Winnipeg 3-2.

Here are the Friday scores:

Agrees Board-Freezing Practice Bad But OHA Has Open Mind on Matter

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association executive has criticized hockey players who hold the puck against the boards and forces a faceoff.

The executive, meeting Friday night prior to the annual session of the OHA today, agreed the practice was bad for the game but decided to have an open mind on two resolutions to be submitted by the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association in Vancouver May 9-15.

The Manitoba branch will ask that a minor penalty be imposed on a player who freezes the puck against the boards even if he is beld there by an opposing player. Another resolution asks that a minor penalty be imposed on a player who holds an opposing man against the boards for the purpose of obtaining a faceoff or to prevent an opposing player from playing the puck.

Herb Parker of Stratford said: "Unless the practice is stopped "the sooner we'll get a better game." He criticized players who slammed opposing players into the boards without making an effort to retrieve the puck.

Frank Buckland of Peterborough first spoke against the resolutions "would be daddies if they could get away with it."

President M. L. (Tory) Gregg of Wingham, said if players had to "go in and dig the puck it would make a much better game to watch."

The executive agreed to oppose a resolution to be submitted by the Manitoba branch that the ban on the transfer of junior players from Tier II to Tier I be removed for the next two seasons. It will also oppose two resolutions from Alberta asking that British Columbia junior players be declared non-imports in teams in western Canada and that the border line between Saskatchewan and Alberta as far as junior hockey is concerned, be abolished.

CRITICIZES COUNCIL

George Dudley, OHA treasurer and secretary - manager of the CAHA, criticized the OHA junior council for allowing an Intermediate playoff series to extend beyond the limits set.

"I was very disappointed in the junior council" said Dudley. "The OHA was to blame."

Lloyd Pollock of Windsor said it was due to the lengthy final series between St. Catharines Teepees and Toronto Marlboros.

Buckland said one of the "stupid blunders" was the interlocking schedule with a poker team.

Dudley said the OHA was "too big an organization for its members and its commitments."

"If these leagues are too big we (the CAHA) should know about it."

The executive was presented with a letter from Jack Sobki, president of the Hamilton Tigers of tenth C club, who asked for a full day extension to the May 1 deadline for declaring a club's intention to operate next season, to give him time to make some other arrangements for the operation of the team.

Sobie said if the deadline was not granted the club would withdraw from the OHA senior A series.

The executive decided to send a copy of the letter to the other six teams in the league asking them to either accept or reject the request or to hold a meeting of the clubs' officials to discuss the matter.

The Bargain of the Year

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

For many years the item from which you can get the most for your money has been conceded to be the U.S. postage stamp. Did you ever figure the probable cash outlay involved should you decide to duplicate the service of that little square of paper by acting as an independent contractor.

How much, for example, would it cost you to have a letter carried, say to Hawaii, Alaska or the Canal Zone? No doubt the bill would run well into four figures if you employed the services of a messenger. Yet by placing a stamp on an envelope you can get the same job done for three cents. No doubt about that is a real bargain.

But there is another purchase that you can and probably do, make which will bring you about the same dollar value as does the postage stamp. For my money one of the finest fishing licence is the bargain of the year.

Of course, nature has done the original ground work for the fishing licence. Lakes and streams stocked with fish long before Columbus came here. However, it has been amply proven that nature can't hold her own with the marsh and what is laughingly called civilization.

WILDLIFE DESTRUCTION

With the white men came, inevitably, the spending up and improvement of the country. Well, it may be improvement for us but to wildlife, all too often, it meant destruction. Lands were denuded of timber, lakes and streams were polluted; the natural habit of fish often was changed so that nothing could live there but harmful bacteria.

Even in the waters that would allow fish to live, things weren't much better. Man is an ingenious creature. He can figure out more devilish ways to destroy than any living creature. Fish couldn't possibly survive his methods of wholesale slaughter.

To late did conservation enter the picture in the tardy effort to undo the damage which had been done. Streams are being cleaned; the polluted waters are being reclaimed and restocked, but there is yet much work to be done.

Laws have been and are being made that protect the fish from further depredations, but laws are not enough. Unless they have the will in them, folks simply don't pay any attention to laws. And to make those laws effective we must have enforcement officers. All these things cost money.

FISHED OUT

Added to all this, regardless of our laws and enforcement, public waters can be fished-out all too quickly. For fish to exist in the open lakes and streams in sufficient quantity to make fishing for them worth the trouble, they must have help in the form of restocking.

Within a few hundred yards of my house flows a lovely river. I fished that river as a boy. In it were small bass, sunfish and the usual assortment of chub, catfish, suckers and such. Frankly, in those distant days 50 years ago the fishing wasn't very good—just about good enough to keep a youngster happy and occupied.

Today, in that same water, I can enjoy top-notch trout fishing for brown and rainbow trout—two fish about which I had not even heard when I was 15 years old.

The brown trout are a developed species stemming from various European subspecies, while the rainbow come from a land-locked variety of the anadromous Pacific coast species, the first ones taken from the Mt. Shasta area. What, I wonder, would it cost a single individual to buy the fish that I depend upon it, the bill would be prohibitive.

While the State and Federal Governments have loaned a financial hand in the rehabilitation of the fresh waters, mostly the job has been done by your fishing-licence dollar. As the years go on, more and more of these dollars are finding their collective way into the treasuries of our conservation departments.

HOW MANY GO FISHING

Maybe it would be interesting to take a look at the licence sales of the top ten states. After all, most folks don't realize how many men and women go fishing every year.

This is the score for 1953 for the states which sold the most licences. California 1,158,465; Michigan 1,146,387; Wisconsin 1,011,813; Minnesota 922,718; Illinois 829,165; New York 798,291; Tennessee 791,371; Ohio 785,996; Pennsylvania 757,625; Missouri 600,000.

According to a survey made by the Fish and Wildlife Service, the total income from the sale of fishing licences, both resident and non-resident, added up to $35,602,902. We can get a lot of work done, fish-wise, with thirty-five million dollars.

Remember anybody who buys a fishing licence gets his or her money's worth in a hurry. If you don't think so, ask any independent fish hatchery and buy some trout or bass. Generally, the cost is about two dollars a pound. Figured that way, one fishing trip will show you a pretty fair profit on your licence investment.

So the next time you catch an edible fish in public waters near your home, reflect for a moment that it is your licence dollars that has made it possible for you to do so. As I say, a fishing licence, for my money, is the bargain of the year—every year.

Maroons Game Away From Western Title

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — The big, burly Winnipeg Maroons are only one game away from representing the West in the Allan Cup final, thanks mainly to their amateur hockey supremacy in Canada.

Winnipeg blasted in three big goals in the first period here Friday night and the Penticton V's never seemed to recover. The visitors went on to post a 4-0 shutout—the first of the series.

The V's, down 2-1 with two games tied, must win here tonight to prolong the play-offs and preserve their chances of winning. Winnipeg has taken both games played here to date.

Bill Isaac, Maroons' Leaf star, playing-coach Odie Lowe, and Bill Robinson slapped home the three first period goals. Goalie Mitchell flown here from Winnipeg for the remainder of the games, replaced the fourth in the final frame.

A fight between Dick Warwick and Lowe highlighted a penalty-strewn second period and both men picked up five minutes for their trouble.

Howard Sparks Toronto Leafs In First Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big Elston Howard of the Toronto Maple Leafs is starting out to be one of the top performers in the International League this year.

Howard, property of the New York Yankees, proved he had power Friday night by blasting out a home run, a triple and a double as the Leafs handed the Havana Sugar Kings their first win in the league defeat in the second game of a doubleheader, 5-2. The Sugar Kings won the opener 4-3 in seven innings.

Richmond Virginians nipped the Rochester Red Wings 6-5 for their first victory of the season. Buffalo Bisons also won their first game by defeating Ottawa Athletics 7-3. The Montreal-Syracuse game was rained out.

Howard's circuit blast, a tremendous 400-foot home run in the second inning with nobody on and a 375-foot drive in the sixth that drove in another run.

SECOND FOUR

Jack Crimian hurled five innings in relief to gain the first victory for the Leafs in the four-game series with Havana.

The Cubans scored five runs in the first inning of the first game with Patapo Pascual getting credit for the victory.

Richmond hammered across five runs in the fifth, chasing Rochester's veteran Al Papai.

Veteran Ron Northey homered and drove three runs in the Bison victory. Paul Foytack, who started off slowly, gave up 12 hits, walked five but struck out eight.

Elmira Player Draws Suspension

GODERICH (CP)—Ray Gable of the Elmira entry in the Western Ontario Athletic Association intermediate B series has been suspended for an alleged attack on referee Wally Tennant of Owen Sound after a playoff game between Elmira and Owen Sound.

The WOAA announced Friday night by Tory Gregg, WOAA official.

He said Gable's case will be reviewed at WOAA meeting next Wednesday night.

Hanover won the Thursday game at Elmira 7-6 to tie a 2-2 lead in the best-of-seven intermediate B championship series.

Tennant said he and referee Cec Sheard had to make their way out through a hostile crowd after the game.

Sudbury Wolves 'Chip In' On Player's Salary

NORTH BAY (CP)—Bob Dawes, former professional hockey player with Montreal Canadiens, said Friday the teammates on the Sudbury Wolves have been "chipping in" to pay his salary since he was released by coach Max Silverman several weeks ago.

Dawes said the Sudbury players, who won the eastern Canada senior hockey championship against Matane Red Rocks, told him they would also pay his fare to western Canada.

Dawes said he was released after he acted as spokesman for Sudbury players in a dispute over Silverman's threat to fine the members of the team for playing cards for money on a bus trip during the Eastern Canada Hockey Association senior A season.

The player said he would like to get back into action. "The team has injuries to contend with now and I'm sure I could help," Dawes said in an interview. He came to the Wolves after resigning as coach of the Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A league.

"Rogue's March"

Agents of a country bordering India in the north are active, and Queen Victoria's Royal Midland Fusileers are dispatched there for active duty, among the officers being Peter Lawford. Just as the regiment is about to depart, Lawford is arrested and charged with treason. Unable to explain plausible evidence, he is court-martialled and dismissed from the service. Determined to vindicate himself, he enlists under an assumed name as a private in the Victoria Rifles, while his ordered to the relief of the Midland Fusileers. Discoveries and encounters Lawford volunteers to get through and bring back a relief party when the regiments are surrounded. He does so, an experience heroically in the ensuing battle; subsequently his name is cleared when evidence is uncovered that he had been framed by enemy agents.

2nd Feature
"The Ring"

In modern-day Los Angeles a minority group comprises citizens of Spanish and Mexican descent of whom Lalo Rios is a new-generation "pachuco" member: living in near-slum surroundings, a victim of bigotry and prejudice, he is unable to secure a steady job. Fleeing from a street brawl, he is picked up by Gerald Mohr, a fight manager, who grooms him as a boxer. After several victories Lalo becomes a hero to his pachuco friends. However, one soundly administered defeat convinces him he isn't of championship calibre. He begs for one more fight, with Champion Art Aragon, and again is badly beaten. His ring career is over, but it has taught Lalo that he can accomplish things on his own, and he accepts the challenge to build a better life.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 25, 1954

March 21 to April, 20 (Aries) — When you must do a thing, do it without qualms or misgivings. Do it (and all things) to the best of your ability and with the best intentions and you cannot help but gain blessings. Take someone to church.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Must become upset at criticism. It can help. Even if not deserved, it serves to teach us tolerance and gracious understanding. Yes be the peacemaker now.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — If you forgot something, made a mistake or used wrong judgment, don't hesitate to say, "I'm sorry," or "that was my fault." We always gain more dignity and prestige when we do.

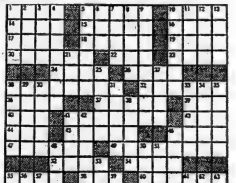
June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Your nature is an innately happy one, and you can often be among the most interesting persons in a gathering. So why ever let moodiness or misgivings lead you astray! Today calls for good humor.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — When you are half way through a situation don't sit back, relax or count your winnings. This is a frequent and dangerous error. Review, look for a better week; improve talent.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Read words of wise young heads at west end of dial-ers. Only then can you gain an all-around true picture and complete understanding. There is no excuse for neglecting prayer; church services when you really can.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Here is a suggestion to review for an improved attack on next week's problems, activity: Start with Pod's blessings at your church, and keep your inborn good humor to the fore.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Don't be caught in a rut of any kind—even so-called "little" ruts. If you aren't achieving as you should find a new method, approach, plan. You can do it—without fretting.



November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — This Sign of the Zodiac is usually a symbol of steady-going achievement, but you can fall behind, as all of us, if you aren't on guard. Today do some thinking about tomorrow, the future.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be careful not to make poor exchanges, rash statements, heedless moves. Such tendencies are prevalent now. You have a head: use it. Children, little tasks ask attention.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You have the mental agility to adjust to necessary changes; there may be some now. And you will do a good job if you have more faith in yourself and your talents. No delaying; ask God's help.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Today's influences may not bring all the opportunities you would like but, remember, all true blessings are still free and ready for the asking. Pray, enjoy nature, good reading, etc.

YOU BORN TODAY are practical, energetic, persistent, faithful and domestically inclined. You amave fine executive ability which should be developed. You may not care for managerial work but may decide upon the literary or other individualistic career. Nevertheless you can make very practical decisions and could hold a business position with success. Other assets are farsightedness, insight into others' motives and the ability to choose the shortest road between two points. Correct tendencies toward overpositiveness, fault-finding, being influenced through your sympathies. Birthdate of: Guiliemo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy.

Little Benny's Note Book

Yesterday I had auth a bad cold it didn't even keep me playing home from school and today I still have the remains of it, so I wasn't al-lowed out on account of the wuth weather, and I was looking out the window in the room playing, Heck, gosh shang the luck. Darn this darn cold. Listen to the fellows yelling and having fun, I said.

Why dont you think of the brite side of things for a pleasant change? ma said. Consider your blessings occasionaly, instead of your imagineery trubbles, she said, and I said, Well heck, even if I had a blessing I couldn't see the brite side and the blessing of having to stay in the house.

Then I'll tell you the brite side, ma said. I wouldn't let you go out in this nasty weather even if you didn't have a cold, no matter how many boys were playing. Heck, gosh shang the luck. Darn this darn cold. Listen to the fellows yelling and having fun, I said.

Why dont you think of the brite side of things for a pleasant change? ma said. Consider your blessings occasionaly, instead of your imagineery trubbles, she said, and I said, Well heck, even if I had a blessing I couldn't see the brite side and the blessing of having to stay in the house.

Then I'll tell you the brite side, ma said. I wouldn't let you go out in this nasty weather even if you didn't have a cold, no matter how many boys were playing. Heck, I think how much worse you would feel having to stay in the house without even a cold to console you she said, and I said, Aw, that's a heck of an argument.

It's so argument, it's simply a plain statement of true facts, ma said, and just then it began to rain so hard the fellows all started to run home to keep from getting still wetter, and I said, Oh boy, I feel feel how all rite. Those fellows are all running home, and here I am, inside a shedry and lafing at them running. Oh boy, hurraw for brite sides and blessings, I said.

Now Benny, it's not nice to feel fortunate over other peoples mis-fortunes, ma said, and I said, Maw-ee it aint, but it feels nice.

Which it did.

Land of Many Races

Soviet Russia is a land of many races. Three-quarters of her vast area is in Asia. This group of apprentices, whose home is only a few miles from the Pakistan border, saw Bill Boss, CP staff writer, taking photographs and asked him to take their photograph. The boy on the right was setting up the picture. "You'll see," he said, "there's nothing to it" — and the shutter clicked. The boy in the background has European Russian features. The others, Uzbeks, who are native to the region, are Oriental in appearance. — (CP Photo.)

Russia Powerful Contender For Oriental Mind Says Boss

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Soviet Union is a country with two windows, east and west.

The narrow window to the west is barred, for Russia looks upon the west as the sole source of international danger.

The broad window to the east is half open, for Russia looks upon the multitude of Oriental peoples as the most fruitful present field for Communist penetration.

Largest country in the world, with three-quarters of her 8,000,000 square miles in Asia, Russia is a powerful contender for the Oriental mind.

CURIOUS MILLIONS

Half the world's population is concentrated along her long eastern threshold. Hundreds of millions of impoverished people watch with curiosity and some envy the new governmental system being worked out by 210,000,000 citizens of the Soviet Union.

A visitor from Canada or the United States sees Russia as a fast-developing country whose people live in hard and austere life.

But a visitor from Pakistan, India, China or declared there has been a certain lessening in world tension as a result of the efforts of peace-loving peoples.

Malenkov also attacked the European Defence Community which he said was aimed at a revival of German militarism.

Malenkov urged the adoption of Russia's proposal for European collective security.

On home affairs he said the present five-year plan would be completed in four years.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The cold air which pushed down from the province Sunday has temperatures in the low 40s in southern Ontario and in the low 30s in northern Ontario this morning. Warm air flowing up over this cool air is giving a band of clouds and scattered showers and thunderstorms from Winnipeg to northwestern Ohio. As the cool air retreats northeast today and Tuesday, this band of clouds and showers will move across Ontario. Temperatures will rise rapidly in southwestern Ontario and more slowly elsewhere as the cool air is replaced by the warmer air.

Red-bearded Bill Boss says he has travelled the equivalent of 10 times around the world since he joined The Canadian Press staff in 1946. Just back from five months in the Soviet Union, he has completed a series of stories on life behind the Iron Curtain. Boss says the fact he speaks Russian was invaluable in his reporting. Malenkov in Surprise Talk Backs 'Co-Existence' Theory

MOSCOW (Reuters) Premier Georgi Malenkov made an unannounced, surprise speech in the Supreme Soviet today to emphasize that Russia believed in the co-existence of communism and capitalism as well as increased trade between the two systems.

Speaking to the Council of Nationalities, he declared there had been a certain lessening in world tension as a result of the efforts of peace-loving peoples.

Malenkov also attacked the European Defence Community which he said was aimed at a revival of German militarism.

Malenkov urged the adoption of Russia's proposal for European collective security.

STRONG QUAKE IN CALIFORNIA SCARES HUNDREDS

150-Mile Stretch Along Coast Jolted

WATSONVILLE, Calif. (AP)— Central California's strongest earthquake in nearly two years jolted a 150-mile stretch along the coast Sunday, frightening thousands, causing widespread minor damage to buildings and temporarily blocking a highway east of here.

A panicked crowd of some 500 packed the dog-racing oval at a dog show at the fair grounds five miles from here, "very much disturbed" an unidentified 16-year-old girl. She was the only injury reported.

The shocks, recorded by the University of California seismograph for 20 minutes starting at 1:33:47.5 p.m. PDT, (4:33:47.5 EDT) were felt throughout the San Francisco bay area, 90 miles to the north. Newspapers, radio stations and The Associated Press there were swamped with anxious telephone queries.

HIGH INTENSITY

The seismograph at Berkeley registered an intensity of 7.3 on the Mercalli rather high scale compared to more than 7 for the 1952 Kern county tremor in which one died and 8½ for the disastrous 1906 San Francisco quake.

Dr. Perry Byerly, university seismologist, said the shocks centred about 15 miles south of Berkeley. Reports indicated the towns of Hollister, Gilroy and Watsonville got the worst shaking.

The San Andreas and Hayward geological faults are source of many quakes—converge in this area.

In Watsonville police estimated damage roughly at from $25,000 to $40,000.

Chunks of concrete fell from the Bank of America building, plaster dropped from the ceiling and two walls of the bank cracked.

There were widespread reports in the area of toppled chimneys, fallen dishes and bottles and broken windows. The Gilroy-Watsonville highway over Chittenden pass was blocked for several hours when the quake opened a three-foot crack. Fast food and frozen food earth slides over five miles of the route.

One Out of Every 15 Ont. Drivers In Accident

TORONTO (CP) — One out of every 15 Ontario drivers was in a motor accident in 1953 and the highway department's motor vehicles branch announced in its annual report.

The report released Friday night as a speech committee of the legislature prepared to launch a study aimed at increasing traffic safety said the total of 1,062 persons killed in traffic accidents in the province is the highest since the war.

In addition, 71,000 persons were injured in accidents, 65,866, was up by 12.5 per cent over 1952's figure. Property damage involved, 110,357, rose by 12.4 per cent over 1952 and the total number of vehicles on the roads, 1,406,118 by 8.8 per cent.

The year was an especially black one for traffic fatalities involving children aged five to 14. In that age group, 116 were killed in traffic, an increase of 48.7 per cent over the 78 deaths during the previous year.

Battery, Made by Sunshine and Sand, Will Provide Useful Electric Power

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Just sunshine and sand may give useful electric power through an amazing invention announced today.

It is a battery made merely of razor-thin strips of silicon, the stuff that makes sand and glass. Sunlight striking the silicon creates a flow of electric current in atoms in the strips. The "fuel" is free and the strips can last forever.

The sunshine battery was developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories.

It already can create enough power to carry your voice for a long-distance telephone conversation or broadcast from a miniature portable radio transmitter, run a toy train or help do other work.

With further development, sunshine batteries may be able to supply enough power to run your car, your radio and your lights, to power ships and airplanes, even juice up a flashlight by day for reckless at night. Or possibly—if they could be made big enough and cheaply enough—give you all the current for lights, TV set and refrigerator at home.

Stevens Says Cohn Tried To 'Pervert' Army's Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Secretary Robert Stevens said today Roy M. Cohn used his position as chief counsel for the McCarthy investigating committee to seek a "perversion" of army rules in behalf of Pte. G. David Schine.

Stevens was back in the witness chair at the third day of public hearings by the Senate investigating subcommittee on the row between the Wisconsin Republican senator and top army officials.

Under questioning by special sub-committee counsel Ray Jenkins, Stevens first revealed that at a press conference on Nov. 13 he had said he knew of no current espionage at Ft. Monmouth.

Then, he added, on Nov. 16 Roy Cohn, counsel to McCarthy, came to his office and declared the senator was "very much displeased with my press conference."

MORE SPECIFIC

Frank Carr, staff director of McCarthy's sub-committee, accompanied Cohn, Stevens said.

Jenkins asked Stevens to be more specific as to Cohn's exact words.

"He said Senator McCarthy was mad and that I had misled him," Stevens replied.

At the hearings Friday, had been looking into alleged Communist infiltration at the army radar centre at Ft. Monmouth.

Stevens related that he told Cohn and Carr he was sorry McCarthy felt the way he did about his press conference statement.

Jenkins was taking Stevens chronologically through his relations with McCarthy since Stevens became secretary of the army.

After telling of the meeting with Cohn and Carr, Stevens said that on the next day—Nov. 17—he went to New York to see McCarthy. He said he felt McCarthy had misunderstood what Stevens had said at the press conference.

Stevens said he attempted to resume the dispute over Ft. Monmouth but he never retracted the substance of his press conference statement. He said he felt McCarthy's investigation of Ft. Monmouth was incorrectly painting "a very black picture."

ABEL HEADS SENATOR

During the week-end, H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defence, denied McCarthy's assertions that Hensel had tried to discredit and impede the senator's probe of alleged Communists in the army.

Hensel called it "false, untrue and malicious." He demanded that the sub-committee looks into his finances it also look into the senator's.

Reject Request U.S. Planes Join in Attacks on Vietminh

PARIS (AP)—France canvassed her major allies for fresh aid to stave off defeat in Dien Bien Phu today. The best it could do was to persuade Britain and the United States might consider sending forces to Indo-China if the proposed southeast Asia alliance is formed.

An authoritative French source in Geneva for the Asian conference said President Eisenhower's statement has turned down a French request that U. S. Air Force planes take Dien Bien Phu into action at once against the Vietminh rebels.

The information that U. S. State Secretary Dulles has told French Foreign Minister Bidault that Washington's position would be much different if the Western Big Four succeeded in their announced plans to form a 10-power Pacific counterpart of the North Atlantic alliance.

Britain and France have agreed to study the possibility of such a pact but made no further commitment.

LIGHT FORCE IN MALAYA

Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet was reported to have ruled out at last week's meeting of reservation to send British troops to Indo-China.

Sources indicated, however, that the British might send more troops and planes to neighboring Malaya and perhaps stage British naval manoeuvres off the Indo-China coast as a "show of force" to bolster French morale.

With no major new foreign aid pledges in sight, Premier Rene Joseph Laniel's cabinet was reported debating whether to send besieged Dien Bien Phu's commander, Brig-Gen. Christian de Castries, instructions to ask the Vietminh rebels for surrender without "honor."

French foreign secretary Georges Bidault said that should be the reported appeal for direct U.S. air intervention, said Sunday night before his departure for the Geneva conference!

"CRITICAL SITUATION"

"You understand that because of the critical situation wherein the defenders of Dien Bien Phu find themselves, everything should be tried to bring them aid."

This was taken as a sure sign Laniel's government was asking Britain and America for some new kind of help.

On the political front, chief of state Bao Dai of the French-sponsored Viet Namese government, gave the French premier a major boost. He announced Sunday he would not sign the treaties his government has signed with France at the French for Viet Namese independence.

The French had hoped to present the treaties at the Geneva conference as an answer to criticism that they are trying to preserve their colonial hold on the rich Far Eastern colony.

Concert Artists Prefer to Live In Russia

EDMONTON (CP)—Six touring concert artists from the Soviet Union flew from Canadians stimulating but prefer to live in Russia.

The most famous member of the troupe laughs off the idea of ever settling in this country.

Asked during an interview Sunday if he would like to stay in Canada, 29-year-old Leonid Kogan, internationally-known violin virtuoso, replied through an interpreter:

"Such a question makes me smile, it takes only a month and I'm homesick for such people I can arise."

Mr. Kogan has a wife and two-year-old son in Moscow.

He wouldn't say if he noticed any differences between Canadian and Russian audiences.

"I don't like comparisons," he said, "I have found Canadians very nice and they appreciate music very much."

The artists played to two packed audiences in the Edmonton Auditorium here Saturday night. The concert was sponsored by the Canada-Soviet Friendship Society.

BACK FROM SURVEY

OSHAWA (CP)—A Boeing B-17 landed here Friday from Pakistan where its eight-man crew had made an air survey of 13,000 square miles. The plane travelled 85,000 miles after leaving here in December. The survey of resources is part of Canada's contribution to the Colombo plan.

MASS ASSAULT ON FORTRESS MATTER OF TIME

French in Serious But Not Desperate Position

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Dien Bien Phu reeled under violent Vietminh bombardment today but the French said the rebels still held off their long-expected third mass assault to engulf the battered northwest Indo-China fortress.

The tightly - packed French Union defenders, driven into a cluster of fortifications less than a mile and a quarter across, were in an "extremely serious but not desperate" position, the French reported Sunday night. Today they said the situation is "unchanged."

Information is thin contact with the isolated, encircled plain said the morale of the garrison troops was "sky high" as they braced themselves for the bloody hand-to-hand fighting they hoped desperately would hold back another all-out enemy attack to wreck the Geneva conference on Asian problems.

The rebels levelled their heaviest mortar and artillery fire on the northern sector of the shrunken Dien Bien Phu redoubt. This was an area of trenches and holes in the crumbling defences on the northwest, opening of the gate for the hordes of Vietminh infantry waiting to sweep down from the surrounding hills.

The French command said the rebels maintained their pressure on their new defence line in that sector, established about 300 feet in depth in the rear of the gateway. But the French said the attackers had not been able to wipe out the line Sunday night and were still only yards from it. Reinforcements for Castries' command headquarters.

SHELL MEET SOON

A Vietminh broadcast heard in Hanoi said the opposing forces will be "face to face very soon" in a death struggle. The threat appeared to hang over the head that the rebels' Communist leaders were preparing to throw everything in their power into the battle for Dien Bien Phu. This would give the Reds a resounding propaganda victory to back up their claims at Geneva where an attempt may be made to negotiate an Indo-China settlement.

French planes nosed through mist and rain to parachute more reinforcements and medical supplies to the shrunken target area at Dien Bien Phu. The fortress under siege 175 miles from Hanoi is supplied entirely by air. The French have held out despite all of the arms they controlled when Japan fighting broke out there March 13.

(Peiping Radio broadcast a report from the Communist Viet Num news agency saying the rebels had captured the last French post west of Dien Bien Phu's main airstrip and had occupied "two thirds of the airstrip." The other airstrip, south of the main fortifications, has been in enemy hands for weeks.)

Marauder and fighters supplied by the United States struck new blows at the rebel attackers despite cloud and rain Sunday morning. They plastered the crossroads village of Muong Thanh, seven miles to Dien Bien Phu, Sunday to damage but the supply line from China has been reported in to make quick road repairs.

SAYS RIVER POLLUTED

BRANTFORD (CP)—Dr. Fred Rees of Dunsville, a commercial fisherman, says the Grand river is so polluted that $1,500 worth of fish be shipped for sale in New York and Montreal has been rejected. He will protest to the Ontario department of lands and forests.

Sudbury Youth Heads Society

SUDBURY (CP)—An 18-year-old Sudbury boy was elected head of the new president of the Presbyterian Young Peoples' Society, Algoma-Nipissing Presbytery.

Other executive members elected at the meeting were Miss Ruth James Breadner of Parry Sound, vice-president, and Mabel Sheila Smith of Sault Ste. Marie, secretary-treasurer.

LOSE POWER FOR 18 MONTHS

TORONTO (CP)—Half of the 472,000-kilowatt capacity of the giant Richard L. Hearn hydro generating station here will be lost for at least 18 months as a result of two explosions at the plant early Monday morning, Toronto Hydro-Electric System officials said today.

Hydro officials said the explosions and fire, which occurred at 2:30 a.m. EST, damaged the plant's No. 2 generator and No. 1 transformer.

Rita Hayworth, 'Dreadfully Upset', Prepares to Fight Neglect Charges

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP)—Rita Hayworth, "dreadfully upset," came here today to fight charges that she neglected her two daughters.

Prince Aly Khan, a former husband of the actress and father of the girls, flew here from his home in New York from the west coast a few hours later to "find out" what he could about the case.

His lawyer, Charles Torem, said the prince expected to meet Miss Hayworth.

She and her present husband, crooner Dick Haymes, drove to White Plains shortly after midnight from Washington, where they first learned of the charges against them.

First Session Of Geneva Parley Over in 20 Minutes

Ministers Reach Agreement On Conference Procedure

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (CP) — The conference on Indo-China and Korea adjourned after 20 minutes today and Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain announced:

"All the procedure is agreed. We meet tomorrow to start."

Before the historic meetings began in the old League of Nations building, Eden and Foreign Minister Molotov had come to a surprise agreement on one phase of the delicate question of the status of Red China at the conference table.

Russia has insisted the Peiping regime be treated as an equal of the Big Four; the United States has adamantly opposed giving Communist China that status.

The agreement worked out by Eden and Molotov was to designate Prince Wan of Thailand to take the chair at the opening session. Molotov will preside Thursday, Eden on Wednesday. After that the three will rotate the chairmanship.

CAN ALL SMILE

Eden described the agreement on procedure at this afternoon's brief conference meeting as "very good." "

"You can all smile and be happy," he told correspondents.

GOOD SIGN

A Canadian delegate said that the swift agreement on chairmanship is an indication that delegates are eager to get down to business as quickly as possible.

That chairmanship arrangement was approved at a meeting among the countries which took part in the Korea war against the Communists. Canada was represented by External Affairs Minister Pearson and Chester Ronning, Canadian minister to Norway and Iceland. Pearson later lunched with Australian External Affairs Minister Richard Casey.

Seating arrangements for today's opening meeting were also settled. The delegates will sit at a horseshoe-shaped table in the council chamber of the Palais des Nations. Canada is in the first row of delegates, besides Canada. Directly behind are the representatives of Communist China and North Korea.

Prince Wan was delayed in calling the meeting to order until France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was late arriving. Photographers were allowed to record the opening.

The prince, who told reporters, "Just call me Prince Wan" after being chosen chairman of today's session, was among the first to arrive. His full name is Prince Varaha Poungprasert Varaha Wankarn.

Pre-conference statements from delegates were optimistic in tone, but privately there was scant hope that the conference will find any final peace to Korea and an end to the bloodshed in Indo-China.

Thumb Pitted On Touching Car Windshield

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Now it's a pitted thumb.

Mrs. Gary May, 21, of nearby Fort Willer says she has proof positive of an unusual development in this latest case of pockmarked windshields, the mysterious car nuisance that has swept Canada.

Mrs. May and her husband received a thrill when the windscreen-tumbling rain drops Friday night, but it wasn't raining. She reached around to feel the windshield—and felt a sharp stinging pain on her thumb.

"It just felt as if I had got a rose thorn or a thistle in my hand," Mrs. May said.

Dr. D. C. Berry, medical officer of health for Lincoln county, said the mark was so small that he couldn't diagnose it as either a burn or wound.

The Mays said there are about two dozen small gouges in the car windshield.

Charge Kremlin Directs Attack On Dien Bien Phu

TOKYO (AP)—A United National radio broadcast, beamed to the Communist Chinese mainland and monitored here, accused tonight that Russia is directing the Communist attack on Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China.

The broadcast by the Voice of the United Nations Command—the UNC propaganda agency—was in both Korean and Chinese.

It said its information came from a Communist newspaper published in Nanning, a Chinese province bordering Red Viet Nam. The broadcast asserted the Feb. 11 issue of the paper said Chinese Communists and Russian ministries of sports and telecommunications had been in communication for months between Nanning and Moscow.

The paper said the contact was needed because of industrial development of the area. But the broadcast said Nanning is a quiet farming centre in one of China's most backward areas.

The broadcast asserted the new phone line was needed "so the Kremlin to give orders and to coordinate activities with the Communist high command in the battle for Dien Bien Phu.

STRONG QUAKE IN CALIFORNIA SCARES HUNDREDS

150-Mile Stretch Along Coast Jolted

WATSONVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Central California's strongest earthquake in nearly two years jolted a 150-mile stretch along the coast Sunday, frightening thousands, causing widespread minor damage to buildings and temporarily blocking a highway east of here.

A panicked crowd of some 500 rushed for the doorways of a dog show at the fair grounds five miles north of here, bruising an unidentified 16-year-old girl. She was the only injury reported.

The tremor, recorded by the University of California seismograph for 20 minutes starting at 1:33:47.5 p.m., PDT, (4:33:47.5 EDT) were felt throughout the San Francisco bay area, 90 miles to the north. Newspapers, radio stations and The Associated Press there were swamped with anxious telephone queries.

HIGH INTENSITY

The seismograph at Berkeley registered an intensity of 5.2 on the 10-point richter scale, compared to more than 7 for the 1952 Kern county tremor in which five died and 34½ for the disastrous 1906 San Francisco quake.

Dr. Perry Byerly, university seismologist, said the shocks centred about 9 miles south of Berkeley. Reports indicated the towns of Hollister, Gilroy and Watsonville got the worst shaking.

The San Andreas and Hayward geological faults are the scene of many quakes—converge in this area.

In Watsonville, the estimated damage roughly at from $25,000 to $40,000.

Cracks of concrete fell from the Bank of America building, plaster dropped from the ceiling and two walls of the bank cracked.

There was widespread reports in the area of toppled chimneys, fallen dishes and bottles and broken windows. Gilroy-Watsonville highway over Chittenden pass was blocked several hours when the quake opened a three-inch crack 30 feet long and caused rock slides over five miles of the route.

Russia Powerful Contender For Oriental Mind Says Boss

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Soviet Union is a country with two worlds, east and west.

The narrow window to the west is barred. Its looks upon the west as the sole source of international danger.

The broad window to the east is half open, for Russia looks upon the multitude of Oriental peoples as the most fruitful present field for Communist doctrine.

Largest country in the world, with three-quarters of her 8,600,000 square miles in Asia, Russia is a powerful contender for the Oriental mind.

CURIOUS MILLIONS

Half the world's population is concentrated along her long eastern threshold. Hundreds of millions of impoverished people watch with curiosity and some envy the new governmental system being worked out by 210,000,000 citizens of the Soviet Union.

A visitor from Canada or the United States sees Russia as a fast-developing country whose people live a hard and austere life.

But a visitor from Pakistan, India, China or Indonesia sees the fast progress and finds that Russia's living standards already are better than his own.

Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov's government watches a new West intently, as a potential danger—just as the West sees Moscow as a threat to peace. The controlled Russian press and radio concentrate on that deep suspicion.

But the Orient and central Asia are presented as striving to throw off the shackles of imperialism and exploitation or as having done this and now looking to the USSR as the one country safe and willing to help them toward a better life.

One Out of Every 15 Ont. Drivers In Accident

TORONTO (CP) — One out of every 15 Ontario drivers was in a traffic accident in 1953 and the highway department's motor vehicles branch announced in its annual report.

The report released Friday night is a government record. The legislature prepared to launch a study aimed at increasing traffic safety said the number of 1,082 persons killed in traffic accidents in the province is five more than 1952 and in the previous year.

But 72,000 persons were injured, an increase of more than 700. Property damage amounted to $40,000,000 or more, $4,000,000 more than 1952.

The number of accidents, 65,866, was up by 12.6 per cent over 1952's total. The number of deaths is up by 8.8 per cent.

Last year was an especially black one for traffic fatalities involving children aged five to 14. In that age group, 118 were killed in traffic, an increase of 48.7 per cent over the 78 deaths during the previous year.

Malenkov in Surprise Talk Backs 'Co-Existence' Theory

MOSCOW (Reuters) Premier Georgi Malenkov made an unannounced, surprise speech in the Supreme Soviet today to declare that Russia believed in the co-existence of communism and capitalism as well as increased trade between the countries.

Speaking to the Council of Nationalities, he declared there had been a certain lessening in world tension as a result of the efforts of peace-loving peoples.

Malenkov also attacked the European Defence Community which he said was aimed at a revival of German militarism.

Malenkov urged the adoption of Russia's proposal for European collective security.

On home affairs he said the present five-year plan would be completed five years ahead.

Battery, Made by Sunshine and Sand, Will Provide Useful Electric Power

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—Just sunshine and sand may give useful electric power through an amazing invention announced today.

It is a battery made merely of razor-thin strips of silicon, the stuff that makes sand. Sunlight striking the silicon creates a flow of electric current in atoms in the strips. The "fuel" is free and the strips can last forever.

The sunshine battery was developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories.

It already can create enough power to carry your voice for a short distance over telephone wires broadcast from a miniature portable radio transmitter, run a toy ferris wheel or electric train.

With further development, sunshine batteries each a foot square, could provide enough power for long rural telephone lines, Bell scientists say. The batteries would supply power by day, even cloudy days, and charge up storage batteries for night operations.

They could run walkie-talkie radios, be used for power in mobile electric equipment for military or civilian purposes, even juice up a flashlight by day for readiness at night. Or possibly—if they could be made big enough and cheaply enough—give you all the current for lighting, TV set and refrigerator at home.

Stevens Says Cohn Tried To 'Pervert' Army's Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Secretary Robert Stevens said today Roy M. Cohn used his position as chief counsel for the McCarthy investigating committee to seek a "perversion" of army rules in behalf of Pte. G. David Schine.

Stevens was sent to the witness chair at the third day of public hearings by the Senate investigating sub-committee on the row between the Wisconsin Republican senator and top army officials.

Under questioning by special sub-committee counsel Ray Jenkins, Stevens first related that at a press conference on Nov. 13 he had said he knew of no current espionage at Ft. Monmouth.

Then, he added, on Nov. 18 Roy Cohn, counsel to McCarthy, came to his office and declared the senator was "very much displeased with my press conference."

MORE SPECIFIC

Francis Carr, staff director of McCarthy's sub-committee, accompanied Cohn, Stevens said.

Jenkins asked Stevens to be more specific as to Cohn's exact words.

"He said Senator McCarthy was mad and I'd had a press conference on him," Stevens replied.

At the time, McCarthy had been looking into alleged Communist infiltration at the army radar center at Ft. Monmouth.

Stevens related that he told Cohn and Carr he was sorry McCarthy felt the way he did about his press conference statement.

Jenkins was taking Stevens chronologically through his relations with McCarthy since Stevens became secretary of the army.

After telling of the meeting with Cohn and Carr, Stevens said that on the next day—Nov. 17—he went to New York to see McCarthy. He said he felt McCarthy had misunderstood what Stevens had said at the press conference.

Stevens said he attempted to reconcile the dispute over Ft. Monmouth but he never retreated the substance of his press conference statement. He said he felt McCarthy's investigation of Ft. Monmouth was incorrectly painting "a very black picture."

FRIENDLY SENATOR

During the week-end, H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defence, denied McCarthy's assertions that Hensel had tried to discredit and impede the sub-committee investigation of alleged Communists in the army.

Hensel described it "false, untrue and malicious." He demanded that the sub-committee look into his finances it also look into the senator's.

Reject Request U.S. Planes Join in Attacks on Vietminh

PARIS (AP)—France canvassed her major allies for fresh aid to stave off defeat in Indo-China today. The best it could do was a reported possibility that the United States might consider sending forces to Indo-China if the proposed southeast Asia alliance is formed.

An authoritative French source in Geneva for the Asian conference said President Eisenhower's governments has turned down a French request that U. S. Air Force planes be allowed to join the strikes at once against the Vietminh rebels.

The informant said U. S. State Secretary Dulles has told French Foreign Minister Bidault that Washington considers there would be much different if the Western Big Three powers met by Soviet announced plan to form a 10-power Pacific counterpart of the North Atlantic alliance.

Britain and France have agreed to study the possibility of such a pact but made no further commitment.

SHOW FORCE IN MALAYA

Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet was reported to have ruled out at last minute appeals to send British troops to Indo-China.

Sources indicated, however, that the British might send more troops and planes to neighboring Malaya and perhaps stage British naval manoeuvres off the Indo-China coast as a "show of force" to bolster French morale.

With no major new foreign aid promised by anyone, Premier Joseph Laniel's cabinet was reported debating whether to send besieged Dien Bien Phu's commander, Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries, instructions to ask the Vietminh rebels for surrender with full honors of war.

French foreign secretary Georges Bidault, questioned about the reported appeal for direct U.S. air intervention, said Sunday night before his departure for the Geneva conference:

"CRITICAL SITUATION"

"You understand that because of the grave situation where the defenders of Dien Bien Phu find themselves, everything should be tried to bring them aid."

But there was a sure sign Laniel's government was asking Britain and America for some new kind of help.

Concert Artists Prefer to Live In Russia

EDMONTON (CP)—Six touring concert artists from the Soviet Union find conditions more stimulating but prefer to live in Russia.

The most famous member of the troupe laughs off the idea of ever settling in this country.

Asked during an interview Sunday if he would like to live in Canada, 29-year-old Leonid Kogan, internationally-known violin virtuoso, replied through an interpreter: "Such a question would never occur to me."

Mr. Kogan has a wife and two-year-old son in Moscow.

He wouldn't say if he noticed any difference between Canadian and Russian audiences.

"I don't like comparisons," he said. "I have found Canadians very nice and they appreciate music very much."

The artists played to two capacity audiences in the Jubilee auditorium centre here Saturday night. The tour is sponsored by the Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society.

BACK FROM SURVEY

OSHAWA (CP)—A Boeing B-17 landed here Friday from Pakistan where its eight-man crew had made an air survey of 12,000 square miles. The plane travelled 85,000 miles after leaving here in December. The survey of resources is part of Canada's contribution to the Colombo plan.

MASS ASSAULT ON FORTRESS MATTER OF TIME

French in Serious But Not Desperate Position

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Dien Bien Phu reeled under violent Vietminh bombardment today but the French said the rebels still held off their long-expected third mass assault to engulf the battered northwest Indo-China fortress.

The tightly - packed French Union defenders, driven into a cluster of fortifications less than a mile and a quarter long, were in an "extremely serious but not desperate" position, the French reported Sunday night. Today they said the situation is "unchanged."

Information on the contact with the isolated, encircled plain said the morale of the garrison troops was "sky high" as they braced themselves for the bloody hand-to-hand fighting they knew desperately would hold back another all-out enemy attempt to wreck the Geneva conference on Asian problems.

The rebels levelled their heaviest mortar and artillery fire on the northeastern corner of the shrunken Dien Bien Phu redoubt. This was an attempt to blast bigger holes in the crumbling defences in the northwest, opening a footgate for the expected third Vietminh infantry waiting to sweep down from the surrounding hills.

The French command said the rebels continued to "prepare" assaults on their new defence line in that sector, established about 300 feet behind the front line Sunday night and were still 200 yards from Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries' command headquarters.

WELL MEET SOON

A Vietminh broadcast heard in Hanoi said the opposing forces will be "face to face very soon" in a death struggle. The threat appeared to back up the belief that the rebels' Communist leaders were preparing to throw everything they had into a drive to wipe out Dien Bien Phu. This would give the Reds a resounding propaganda victory to back up their claims at Geneva, where an attempt may be made to settle the Indo-China settlement.

The Vietminh noted through mist and rain to parachute more reinforcements and supplies and rifles to the shrunken target area at Dien Bien Phu. The fortress, where some 12,000 men are now supplied entirely by air. The French said about 70 per cent of the arms they controlled when open fighting broke out then had been lost.

(Peiping Radio broadcast a report from the Communist Viet Num news agency saying the rebels had captured the entire outpost west of Dien Bien Phu's main airstrip and had occupied "two-thirds of the city." The city is the airstrip, south of the main fortifications, has been in rebel hands for weeks.)

Bombers and fighters supplied by the United States struck new blows at the rebel attackers despite unsettled weather Sunday. They plastered the crossroads village of Muong Pon, seven miles east of Dien Bien Phu, Sunday to damage the supply line from China but could not succeed in to make quick road repairs.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP)—Rita Hayworth, "dreadfully upset," came here today to fight charges that she neglected her two daughters.

His lawyer, Charles Torem, said the prince expected to meet Miss Hayworth.

She and her present husband, crooner Dick Haymes, drove to White Plains shortly after midnight from Washington, where they first learned of the charges

Ministers Reach Agreement On Conference Procedure

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (CP) — The conference on Indo-China and Korea adjourned after 20 minutes today and Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain announced:

"All the procedure is agreed. We meet tomorrow to start."

Before the historic meetings began in the old League of Nations building, Eden and Foreign Minister Molotov had come in a surprise agreement on one phase of the delicate question of the status of Red China at the conference table.

Russia has insisted the Peiping regime be treated as an equal of the Big Four; the United States has adamantly opposed giving Communist China that status.

The agreement worked out by Eden and Molotov was to designate Prince Wan of Thailand to take the chair at the opening session. Molotov will preside Tuesday, Eden on Wednesday. After that the three will rotate the chairmanship.

CAN ALL SMILE

Eden described the agreement on procedure at this afternoon's brief conference meeting as "very good."

"So can all smile and be happy," he told correspondents.

GOOD SIGN

A Canadian delegate said that the swift agreement on chairmanship is an indication that delegates are eager to get down to business as quickly as possible.

The chairmanship arrangement was approved at a meeting among the countries which took part in the Korea war against the Communists. Canada was represented by External Affairs Minister Pearson and Chester Ronning, Canadian minister to Norway and Iceland. Pearson later briefed the Australian External Affairs Minister Richard Casey.

Seating arrangements for today's opening meeting were also settled. The delegates of Red China and Indo-China shared table in the council room of the Palais des Nations. Canada is in the first row of delegates, besides Colombia. Directly behind are the representatives of Communist China and North Korea.

Prince Wan was delayed in calling the meeting to order when France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was late arriving. Photographers were allowed to record the opening.

The prince, who told reporters, "Just call me Prince Wan" after being chosen chairman of today's meeting, was among the first to arrive. His full name is Prince Varaidej Poungprapan Nai Walia Yakon.

Pre-conference statements from delegates were optimistic in tone; but privately there was scant hope that the conference would bring a final peace to Korea and an end to the bloodshed in Indo-China.

Thumb Pitted On Touching Car Windshield

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Now it's a pitted thumb.

Mrs. Gary May, 21, of nearby Port Weller says she has proof positive of an unusual development in this latest case of cockamamie windshields, the mysterious car nuisance that has swept Canada.

Mrs. May and her husband noticed little dots in the windshield resembling rain drops Friday night, but it wasn't raining. She reached around to feel the windshield—and felt a sharp stinging pain on her right thumb.

"It just felt as if I had got a rose thorn or a thistle in my hand," Mrs. May said.

Dr. D. C. Corey, medical officer of health for Lincoln county, said the mark was so small that he couldn't diagnose it as either a burn or wound.

Dr. Corey said there are about two dozen small gouges in the car windshield.

Charge Kremlin Directs Attack On Dien Bien Phu

TOKYO (AP)—A United Nations radio broadcast, beamed to the Communist Chinese mainland and monitored here, charged today that Russia is directing the Communist attack on Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China.

The broadcast by the Voice of the United Nations Command—the UNC propaganda agency—was in both Korean and Chinese.

It said its information came from a Communist newspaper published in Nanning, a Chinese province bordering Indo-China. The broadcast asserted the Feb. 11 issue of the paper said Chinese Communists and Russian ministries of posts and telecommunications had signed an agreement providing for tween Nanning and Moscow.

The paper said the circuit was needed because of industrial development of the area. But the Voice broadcast declared Nanning is a quiet farming centre in one of China's richest rice growing areas.

The broadcast asserted the new phone line was needed by the Chinese to give orders to co-ordinate activities with the Communist high command in the battle for Dien Bien Phu.

Canada Awaits Future Economic Policy of U.S.

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—W. J. Borrie of Montreal, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said today Canadians are waiting with a "good deal of anxiety for United States enactment of a future economic policy."

Mr. Borrie, in an address prepared for delivery to the 42nd annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S.A., said Canadians felt this way, not only because there are trading problems to be solved between the countries, but because "we fully realize that ours is a supporting role to that of the United States.

"By continuing to do all we can do but in co-operation with you, I believe you will find us a useful and helpful partner as we set out to lead the world into a system of convertible currencies and expanding multilateral trade.

"If we continue to work together in the spirit of friendship and co-operation that we know so well, I am confident that we have nothing to fear as to the health and prosperity of both our countries, either in 1954 or in the years that lie ahead."

Belleville Team Completes in Bowling Tourney

A team from Belleville, consisting of Lee Cyr, captain, Frank Mulvihill, Alex Stevenson, Bill Jackson and Jack Carr, took part in the 24th annual bowling invitation tournament among the Bell Telephone Co. teams at Montreal on Saturday. This was the second time a local team had competed in this annual tournament between the Bell Telephone Company teams for the L. B. McFarlane bowling trophy and the company championship.

The tournament was won by a team from Levis, Que., but the Belleville entry made a creditable showing and Frank Mulvihill, with 1,054, was well up among the high individual scorers.

First games for the cup were played on a two-rink basis in the years 1919-1934. Since that year the cup has been competed for on a five-rink basis, teams coming from Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Belleville, Smiths Falls, London and Levis, with Ottawa holding the cup prior to Saturday's tournament.

As hosts, the Montreal Bell Telephone Bowling Company had regulded tour to points of interest on Saturday morning for the visitors, following the afternoon bowling a dinner and entertainment were held in the evening, president, Mr. T. W. Eadie, and several other officials were in attendance.

Spawning Season For Pickerel Unusual One

The 1954 reproduction period for pickerel was an unusual one. A few fish appeared in the rivers on April 8th and though increasing in numbers up to April 20th were never numerous at any time. During the same period pickerel were observed spawning along all of the rocky and gravelly shores of the Bay of Quinte. For the most, last year fish were plentiful in the bay, beginning April 22th with spawning over by April 30th.

This spring freshet waters were delayed because of continued cold weather and had left the river before flood waters arrived. It is quite possible that higher temperature created more favorable conditions along the Bay shores, as the majority of fish failed to make the usual migration upstream.

According to conservation officers poachers were fairly numerous particularly on the Napanee and Moira Rivers, and extended periods or patrol were necessary to check infractions. In addition to habitual offenders, it was particularly disturbing for officers, to find a number of teenagers and younger boys poaching at night along the banks of the rivers, most of them equipped with home made nets and a flash light, also as disappointing was the fact that a number of parents failed to give any co-operation when the boys were taken home for questioning. Officers state as the conditions that the problem in such instances resulted from a lack of proper supervision or non acceptance of conservation laws, or possibly both. If children are given encouragement to ignore these laws, the problem of delinquency and conservation education is increased.

In addition to continuous patrols of spawning areas maintained by Department Conservation Officers during the two week period excellent co-operation was given by sportsmen and fish and game club members. Several Kingston business men, members of the local Rod and Gun club, gave department staff invaluable assistance along shores of Hay Bay and Napanee River. Similar voluntary efforts by Fish and Game Club members and others in the vicinity of Trenton assisted materially in keeping infractions to a minimum.

YMCA District Leaders Hold Successful 2-Day Conference

"Competitive sport can do wonderful things for you if you just keep your heads and realize opportunities," J. Wes McVicar, secretary for Physical Education, National Council of YM.C.A.'s of Canada, Toronto, told an assembly of leaders here over the week-end.

Mr. McVicar was guest speaker at the Saturday night banquet of Eastern Ontario YMCA representatives who held their second annual leaders' conference here on Saturday and Sunday. Nearly 80 from Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough and Cobourg were in attendance.

Competition, Mr. McVicar said, is like applying intense heat to steel. It brings out the true metal. Winning and showing one's best is as important as doing the best one can and trying to win.

"It is what happens inside you that counts."

He told a dramatic story of a team that lost when its leader was injured. The players visited him in hospital and dedicated a poem to him called "We Stood by the Side of the Road and Cheered as the Winners Went Past."

PROUD OF TROPHIES

Mr. McVicar quoted a speaker at Montreal who said the "Y" taught me to swim without drowning; to get hit and not get hurt; to strive without envy; to win without pride and to lose gracefully. These are things, he said, every young athlete should abide by.

"With these things in mind you can well be proud of your trophies for they make real contributions of you, and may you all be truly champions."

Mr. McVicar outlined the birth and growth of the game of basketball saying it was originated by a Canadian Dr. Naismith while attending the Y Springfield College, a school for physical directors from all parts of the world.

Dr. Naismith born in Almonte, Ont., once was headed for the ministry felt he could play a more effective role in the gymnasium than in the pulpit.

Basketball, Mr. McVicar said, is truly a Canadian sport both in basis and origin, that has spread all over the world. Physical directors at Springfield took it to their home cities and its popularity quickly spread. One of the first games played in Canada took place here at Albert College.

The game did not prove popular in a hockey-minded Canada but today more people attend basketball games in the United States than any other sport. One of the greatest teams ever produced in Canadian team that held a world's title from 1935 to 1936 was the Edmonton Grads, a girls' team. The rules of the game have been improved in more than thirty languages.

Mr. McVicar was introduced by N. A. Beach of Albert College, physical education committee Belleville YMCA. Appreciation was expressed by Randal Ketcheson, junior leader, Belleville.

BOUQUETS TO MOTHERS

Bill Cornell, president of the Intermediate Leaders' Corps, Belleville, chairman of meeting welcomed the leaders and guests. At the head table were Lloyd Sheaff, Y.M.C.A. general secretary; Don Mann, president Peterborough junior corps; Doug Roy, Kingston Intermediate Corps; Tom Krough, president Peterborough Intermediate Corps; Ted Wooding, chair registration and billeting committee; Jack Wolstenholme, board member Peterborough and chief judge of gymnastic and swimming, Ron McBride, president Belleville junior leaders' corps; Doug Anson, president Kingston junior leaders' corps; Mr. Beach and Di Diamantides, physical director Belleville YMCA.

Ron McBride voiced a vote of appreciation to the Leaders' Mothers' Club who served the banquet meal and formally presented each member with a beautiful rose.

Greetings from the Belleville board of directors were brought by Mr. Sheaff who spoke for Lorne McDougall and from the physical education committee through Mr. Beach.

The results or the afternoon gymnastic and swimming competitions were announced and prizes presented by Mr. Wolstenholme. These appear in another story.

DINNER SATURDAY

Following registration under the supervision of Ted Wooding 11 a.m., Saturday morning, the leaders attended a general assembly under the chairmanship of Stan Creegan, president senior leaders' corps, Belleville. Then followed an open discussion under Lloyd Sheaff and announcements by Di Diamantides. At 2:30 p.m., there was a conference picture after which the leaders divided into the gymnasium preparatory to the gymnastic and swimming competitions.

On Sunday morning the junior, intermediate and senior groups met in discussion under Messrs. Sheaff, Bryson Leslie and Gordon Tait. At 11 a.m., they attended divine service at Holloway Street United Church and 200 million pickerel eggs.

The closing banquet was held in the Y once more evening discussion groups' reports were heard also an address by Mr. Beach. A business meeting concluded the two-day conference at which venue of next year's conference was decided and recommendations and resolutions discussed and adopted.

The visiting leaders were billeted in the homes of the Belleville corps during their stay here.

An exceptionally heavy run of pickerel was reported in Hay Bay where the hatchery staff at Glenora has just completed spring spawn-taking operations. Texaco Dealers Hold Meeting In Oshawa

A meeting of Texaco dealers and selling personnel of McColl-Frontenac Oil Co., Ltd., of Oshawa and vicinity was held Friday at the Genosha Hotel. A. F. Poole announced that 200 attended.

Mr. Poole outlined McColl-Frontenac's sales promotion and advertising plans for 1954, and reviewed with the dealers the part they play in serving the motorist supplying him ever-increasing demand for petroleum products.

TO PRESENT WATCH.

A highlight of the meeting was the presentation of a gold watch to W. A. Race. Mr. Race has been a Texaco dealer for 20 years. In addition, three silver trays were presented to dealers completing fifteen years as Texaco dealers and other awards were presented to dealers completing five and 10 year periods as Texaco dealers.

This meeting was one of approximately 50 such gatherings being held throughout the country this spring for the purpose of keeping Texaco dealers informed on the best methods of service station operation. The meetings are part of a two-pronged continuous program offered to dealers by McColl-Frontenac Oil Co., Ltd.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS.

The gathering Friday, the audience saw five educational and entertaining color motion pictures especially produced for Texaco dealers from coast to coast in order to assist them in the operation of their businesses and the merchandising of products. The first picture was a musical film entitled "We Sell More in '54" featuring the famous "Fire-house Five Plus Two" band. The film outlined advertising and sales promotion plans for 1954 in a very unique manner with stirring music and lyrics.

"It's Still Mighty Cheap Insurance" was a short product film featuring McColl-Frontenac's new premium motor oil and contained many merchandising ideas designed to assist Texaco dealers in increasing their sales of this product.

"Take A Look, George" was a five-minute film on the subject of clean attractive rest rooms and emphasized to Texaco dealers the importance of catering to the motoring public this outstanding customer service.

"The First Team", one of the feature films, was a full-length Hollywood production with a top-notch cast. It is a sequel to last year's dealer meeting feature film on the subject of business management ideas designed to help Texaco dealers operate their stations on a sound business-like basis.

Co-billed with this was the movie "Yours-Exclusively" starring the entirely new Chief Gasoline, Super-Charged with Petrox, which incorporates an exclusive petroleum-derived compound that actually reduces wear.

INERTIA WORST PROBLEM

WINDSOR, (CP) — The greatest threat to the Christian church is not communism and unbelievers but the inertia of the average, easy-going Christian, Rt. Rev. G. N. Peterborough Y Tops Leaders' Gym Contest

Peterborough captured major honors in the gymnastic competition Saturday at the Y.M.C.A. at the second annual Eastern Ontario Y.M.C.A. Leaders Conference while Kingston came out on top of the swimming by virtue of first place in senior and junior competition.

Commenting on the competition, Mr. Wolstenholme told the leaders in the presentation of prizes at the evening banquet that "it was much improved over that held last year in Peterborough."

More took part, he said. This is a good sign, and after all, it is the leaders' duty to help the rest of the lads.

He paid tribute to the junior competitors. Their exhibition, he said, far exceeded the gymnasts in the way they performed the exercises.

Twenty-seven juniors, eight intermediates and nine seniors entered the competition, with teams from Belleville, Cobourg, Peterborough and Kingston taking part. Cups and pencils were given to the winners by the Y's Men's Club.

Bill Davis of Peterborough topped the group for senior gymnastics with 131 points out of a possible 180 while Belleville's Stan Creegan came second with a close 127. Bob Pulver from this city, Jim Lilly and Harold Henry of Kingston finished in that order with scores of 146, 144 and 125.

Youths Appeal Conviction On Murder Charge

TORONTO (CP) — An appeal by Jean Guy Hensire, 19, and Emile Bedard, 17, both of Montreal, against their conviction on a charge of murder in the beating death in Sudbury last summer of Frank Asselin, was heard today in Ontario Court of Appeal.

Asselin, a bushworker who once lived in St. Catharines, was found dead near a lonely sideroad four miles north of Sudbury Oct. 3. Doctors said he had been fatally beaten.

The youths are under sentence to be hanged May 18.

G. R. Kinsman, counsel for Hensire, argued today that the Crown did not prove at the trial that Hensire took part in any attack on Asselin or had any intention of killing him. He suggested the trial judge, Mr. Justice R. W. Mc-Leaven, would have been justified in telling the jury that manslaughter was a possible verdict.

Mr. Kinsman described the trial judge's charge to the jury as "grossly inadequate." He contended that the judge did not give sufficient attention to the defence claims about the circumstances surrounding Asselin's death and should have let the jury make its own decision regarding the part drunkenness played in the affair.

The hearing is continuing.

3,679 Africans Herded Behind Barbed Fences

NAIROBI (Reuters)—British police and troops with fixed bayonets Saturday herded 3,679 Nairobi Africans behind barbed wire fences for screening as suspected Mau Mau terrorists or sympathizers.

In a dawn-to-dusk sweep through the city's native quarter, the suburbs were rounded up and held for questioning.

They were held after failing to pass preliminary screening during the "Operation Anvil" roundup—biggest mass interrogation of the campaign against anti-white Mau Mau terrorists.

When the girl regained consciousness about 2 a.m., she found her clothes had been ripped off. Clad only in her slip, she made her way to her home and called police. TWO CONTRASTING ATTITUDES.

Two articles, one in U.S. News and World Report and the other an editorial in The Toronto Globe and Mail, make interesting reading. Both deal with the fact that labor unions, here and in the United States, are abandoning the cost of living as the basis for demands for wage increases. Instead they plan to base such demands on increased productivity.

Has there been an increase in productivity? Yes. The U.S. News says that since 1947 the output per man-hour has risen nearly 30 per cent in U.S. manufacturing industries. The Globe and Mail says: "During and since the war there has been an increase in industrial production of between 3 and 9 per cent per year in Canada and the United States."

Should not labor share in this increased production, through higher wages? The Globe and Mail answers in the negative, arguing that the increased production "has been the result of improvement in mill and factory machinery. There is no record of man-hour productivity has increased as a result of greater skill or more assiduous use of the mechanical facilities provided by shareholders' capital."

For this reason The Globe and Mail is annoyed with Mr. Gordon Cushing, national secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, for saying that labor must work up its wage demands on the basis of "national productivity and superior working skills, which used to be the yardstick for determining pay increases."

"National productivity" has not been the basis of wage increases," replies The Globe and Mail. "Labor was rewarded for its share in promoting better plant productivity. When the cost of a unit of production fell by reason of higher mechanical efficiency the wage rewards of workers were increased. Mr. Cushing's proposal is a demand for higher returns for labor for every reduction in cost, on occasions more efficient capital equipment. That means two cost increases. Not only is any return on new capital investment ruled out, but an extra wage cost is added to the bill. The proposal of Mr. Cushing would conceal the fact that this is an invitation to that-kind of economic crisis which eventually closes factories and puts families of workers on relief."

How should the rewards of increased productivity be distributed? The U.S. News states that "employers tend to favor price cuts, a break for consumers." This policy is following: (1) It is beneficial to the consumer. (2) It is beneficial to the employer because increased productivity by the use of machinery in every line of industry means less human endeavor. No machine has yet been devised which enables the teacher to instruct two classes instead of one. Taletypesetters can increase productivity in the composing room, but nobody has yet been able to devise a machine which will get editorials written in half the former time. If workers in industries where productivity cannot be increased by machines are to benefit from increases in national productivity, it must be through lower prices. Wage cost of workers will not be increased, but the purchasing power of these wages will be. This has happened in the past. It is how our standard of living has improved.

Is The Globe and Mail right in taking a slightly different attitude on the part of employers. It says that "United States management is countering with demands that the improvement in income must include capital expenditure be held as a reserve against lower prices."

Holding additional income as a reserve against lower prices and reducing prices are two very different things, the with two diametrically opposed effects. Reducing prices, by increasing the real income of those people on pensions and fixed salaries, would increase effective demand and hence would effectively prevent any real slump. Producing more goods without increasing wages for the workers manufacturing them, without immediately increasing purchasing power, would increase the profits of those using the machines which have increased production, and without reducing prices would mean that there would be more goods to be sold and no increase in purchasing power to purchase them. Inventories would pile up, factories would close down, workers would have their incomes reduced, demand would drop still further and the depression cycle would be underway. This is not the way either The Globe and Mail in its reply to Mr. Cushing, "is an invitation to that kind of economic crisis which eventually closes factories and puts families of workers on relief."

THE EXECUTIONIST'S EMILY POST.

With 'er 'ead tucked underneath 'er arm
She walks the bloody Tower;
Terribly bad taste. We always suspected it. And now our suspicions have been confirmed by no less an authority than Wilfrid M. Gaines, publisher of a guide to etiquette.

Mr. Gaines told a U.S. Senate sub-committee that the cover of-one of his classics was not in bad taste. You see the man with the axe, standing over the body of a woman and holding her severed head in his one hand, was careful to hold the head low, and no blood dripped therefrom.

"It would be bad taste if the head were held a little higher with the blood dripping out," said Mr. Gaines.

Tucking the 'ead underneath the arm is obviously a faux pas in the high society circles in which Mr. Gaines circulates.

ROADS.

Roads are footsteps multiplied.
From the paths they grew.
Time was the busy highways wide
Were traveled by the few.

But one by one the footsteps made
A line from place to place,
Then signs were raised and pavements laid
To serve man's swifter pace.

Thus, easily I travel on
From town to town today
Reading the sign posts, one by one,
Which tell the certain way.

Men of a hundred years or more
In shadow lines I see
Who made this journey long before,

When from my shoulders falls the load
And life on earth is o'er,
My soul shall fare that last long road
Of all who've gone before.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 24, 1906.

Daylight saving will commence here from midnight June 30th, to mid-night of Sept. 3rd.

Mrs. M. J. Clarke, Chatham Street, is visiting relatives in Montreal.

Misses Laura Dougherty, Dorothea Neyson, Gertrude Crisney and Grace Ablard spent the week-end in Toronto.

Mr. William M. Kennedy of Cleveland, Ohio, an old Belleville boy, is visiting relatives here.

Madoc high school was totally destroyed by fire yesterday and the loss is estimated at $75,000, partially covered by insurance. The fire was discovered about four o'clock in the morning by Mrs. T. E. Burnside, whose house is directly next to the school. The school was built in 1888 and has always been kept in good repair. The Board of Education is endeavoring to arrange temporary quarters for the 150 students.

The Hon. Nelson Parliament of Toronto was in town today.

Miss Dorothy Lumsden of Marmora is the guest of Miss Nora Armstrong in this city.

Mrs. David Morden, one of the best known residents of the Stirton district in Prince Edward County, became 100 years of age yesterday. She is one of the pioneers of Prince Edward County and has spent practically all her life there. At present she is spending some time in California and messages of congratulation and good wishes were sent to her from many friends in Picton and this vicinity.

30 YEARS AGO

APRIL 28, 1896.

The Men's Alpha Club in connection with the Tabernacle Methodist church, recently elected the following officers: past president, W. F. Ashley; president, E. B. Bell; vice president, J. Robinson; secretary, J. F. Peel; treasurer, T. A. Burtt; teacher, Rev. H. D. Kenny; assistant teachers, F. Lent, H. Hicks and W. F. Ashley; pianist, J. F. Peel.

The Ontario Baseball Association certificates have been received here and Messrs. Colling and Soanes are busy getting the signatures of the players on the dotted line. Up to the present time they have secured nineteen signatures and hope to increase this number so that there will be a large field to pick from. They have two first class batteries in the making, Gerow and Arnott, pitchers, and Stark and Latchford, catchers.

40 YEARS AGO

APRIL 26, 1916.

Members of the city council went to Toronto to inspect the sewerage system at Riverdale.

Mr. Tom A. McGinnis, O.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGinnis of this city, has resigned the position of assistant superintendent of construction with the Canada Cement Company and has accepted the office of general manager of the Mississippi Lumber Company of Pallipolsburg, Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mather and family, Olive Street, will leave this week for Calgary, Alberta, where they will take up residence.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 28, 1904.

Mr. E. O. Platt of Plainfield, a former Belleville high school student, received the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Queen's University, Kingston, recently.

Mr. H. McCrudden, an old Belleville boy, now tends to us from Manila, P.I., copies of the papers published in that faraway spot. Bob is certainly getting glimpses of many distant climes.

Mr. Harry Boldrick of Sterling was a visitor in town today.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The tenth anniversary of Normandy D-day will be celebrated in a great variety of ways by a great variety of men all over Britain, United States and Canada. None will be more moving, in its way, than the re-union of the Canadian officers in Toronto, as strange as any of the strange ones which took part in that epic operation. It is a unit that has never been on parade. It consists entirely of lieutenants and captains; though a goodly number of them were majors and colonels and better in order to serve in it. Brigadier Bill Millen, Gregg, V.C., M.C., M.P., is its colonel-in-chief, and proud of it.

This is the awkward name given to a secret operation that took place in Canada shortly after October, 1943. That month, the Canadian adjutant-general was informed, dealing with the British all the angles of the impending assault on the beaches of Normandy. The British army was desperately short of officers, especially infantry platoon commanders. Despite the fact that the Canadians were building at that very time a two corps army, the suggestion that Canada might help with an emergency supply of officers for the British units was immediately accepted.

A total of 673 Canadians responded to the call, 622 infantry officers and 51 Ordnance Corps officers, and were requested.

For an officer to go as a reinforcement to his own unit is experience enough to go to a strange Canadian unit tries a man's quality. But to head off into known-impending operations to join an unknown British unit took a special degree of volunteering. The appointment was to a district formation known as Canloan. Two of the 673 ever met one another. They served, mostly, in the battalions of the 49th Division, the Polar Bears, and the 50th Division, the Tyne Tees Division. Their reunion June 6 to 7 in Toronto will be the first national one; and Canloan survivors are hailed to write their secretary, Arthur Connor, 89 Oakcrest avenue, Toronto.

Wife's Work Is Hardest

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

According to the results of a survey, as reported by Dr. Lee Soltow of Dalhousie University, the most arduous work in modern society is done, not by the tired business man, not by the manual laborer, not by the man in the professional, but by the housewife. Appropriately enough, the "female species" is not merely "more deadly," but also more hard-working than the male.

Even as a pure matter of physical movement, according to the course of their daily chores probably walk as much as do men is a week. And while a man generally has only one job to fill his day, a woman's day is filled with matters as diverse as cleaning the basement and acting psychiatric counselor to a teenage daughter. And no matter how far the mechanization of the house may go, it can never go far enough to take the office of shoulders of society's hardest worker, the housewife.

'Bullfighters' of the Sea

Alan Villiers describes in London Calling the 500-year-old method by which thousands of tunny passing along the southern coast of Portugal are trapped in the Mediterranean are trapped in huge pots and killed in the sea, at the dramatic battle to land the catch.

There are many ways of catching tunny fish commercially; I mean; I am speaking of commercial fishing. Certainly one of the most effective ways is by means of the big tunny traps which are put down off the west of the southern coast of Portugal. Nobody knows a great deal about tunny fish. But one thing is certain, and that is that each year thousands and thousands of them pass along the southern coast of Portugal, bound inwards from the Mediterranean to spawn. They come from the south-east and are in a hurry; they start to show up about mid-May, and the 'run' is on until round June 20th, as the fish are inwards migration. They are coming out again up to the middle of August.

For at least 500 years the Portuguese have been setting down huge tunny traps in the sea off the rocky, cliff-bound south coast of the Algarve, near Faro and near Tavira. They are huge affairs, with an enormous barrier of nets, shaped like a funnel, leading to a little sea of the L 3,000 yards long, and the nets supported on floats and the whole rigged up on a lot of wires held in place by 600 heavy anchors. At the end of the trap there is a gate, and if the tunny swim in they will find that they actually place they turn and head in towards the gates.

The whole trap is rigged up in such a way that the tunny is encouraged to go towards the gate. Once he swims through the gate he is in the first of the pots. This is a huge corral, a heavy netted space about 400 yards long by sixty wide. If the fish in the first pot the tunny could have passed the trap at any place along its length, because the mesh is very big and the material is strong, but the tunny are enough to stop him, anyway. He could just swim through. But he does not know that.

The tunny is timorous when coming in to the trap. He shies from his path will deflect him then. A shadow is enough. So far as the fish at the barrier, and he always teches up in the corral. For days do not leave it closed to keep him there. They are encouraged beneath the water so that they always cast shadows across the entrance, and they will draw in naturally keep the tunny in.

The tunny comes in schools — anything between sixty and a thousand. Sometimes they swim seven to ten miles out in the sea, and all you see is row after row of big, yellow corks, with a line of sinister black boats grouped around them and men waiting. Men are there every day for six weeks. They are on the look-out for the first sign of a tunny coming. Ordinarily this net lies on the bottom. But when the tunny are in three great boats lie across the corral and the men carrying the lines attached to the outboard end of the bottom net haul steadily away with it, until they force the tunny to the surface.

Then the real fun and terror-tic business. Until that time the whole trap has been a quiet, peaceful, almost natural affair of corks bobbing endlessly upon the waves, and the tunny have been interested by the buoys. Nobody makes any noise for there is nothing to frighten the tunny, for the tunny is a fish that does not know his strength, and if he did he would not realize how he could wreck the trap in a moment or two. He is quite content in the corral! That is made of wire and heavy net. He is in a world of calm tranquil business. Until that time the whole trap has been a quiet, peaceful, almost natural affair of corks bobbing endlessly upon the waves, and the tunny have been interested by the buoys. Nobody makes any noise for there is nothing to frighten the tunny, for the tunny is a fish that does not know his strength, and if he did he would not realize how he could wreck the trap in a moment or two. He is quite content in the corral! That is made of wire and heavy net. He is in a world of calm tranquil business.

The first thing you see when the tunny are in the corral is a school of frightened flying fish, and then, very often a swordfish on the surface of the corral is suddenly broken and very violent. Then all starting wildly—the tunny! Then all at once there is a furious commotion, and the water and the tunny are all beating and thrashing. Sometimes the surface of the water is covered as if by a sudden squall, as a hurricane had struck it. Great fish, huge, fat and gloriously symmetrical, powerful and swift, are hurling themselves in panic. Still the bottom net is lifting beneath them, slowly, slowly, with the hideous shouts of the tunny-men as the sinister black boats surround the steadily lessening area of the corral.

Now they are all on the surface! The whips are out and the floats and the gaffs. The flying fish lie gasping by the side of the big net. Other men, who have been waiting in low-sided launches round the corral, get to work. Some have short, strong hooks of steel, attached by a loose loop to the end of very long, but not very long gaffs. They lean down over the swirling waters, watching for a tunny swimming close. As one passes they gaff it in the gills, spread it up over the side of the launch and into the bottom or the boat.

They could not lift the tunny. Those fish weigh anything up to 800 lb. A 100-pounder is a small one. But the men are experts at getting the beast in. It is just by the tail flicking the tunny's head, so that his own wildly beating tail sends him up over the side of the boat.

In they come, the last round-up! Shapely, big, blue bodies everywhere, wild, staring eyes, the water soon tinged blue and discolored with the tunny's blood. Everywhere, there is room a man crouches over the corral, and still the space narrows. But the tunny they beat and thrash in the boats, where they lie, heaped in a mass, a welter of thick, red blood, and the boat thrums with the pounding of their tails and strength. But then it is over. The launches, full of tunny, head for the beach, and skim away for the canneries at Vila Real.

Have We Lost Happiness Key?

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

People of the North American continent are enjoying the highest standard of living in the world, yet when it comes to the basis of living, getting the most out of life, they have a lot to learn from the so-called backward nations.

This is an observation, by no means original, but it is original, that was impressed upon several Times-Journal readers in a recent showing of the film concerning the early stages of the Royal Family to the Island of Fiji and Tonga. The islanders' demeanor, as portrayed in the film, was typical. Their environment, their beautiful countries with the abundance provided upon soft, sandy beaches, or is it perhaps nothing more than the fact that a kind fashioned and enviable approach to life is expressed there, that is namely to make the best of one's stay on earth?

There is a fleeting inclination to set out for his apparent paradise. To live a carefree life, to settle down to a life of simplicity and true happiness. How easy it would be.

Perhaps; perhaps not. At one time Robert Louis Stevenson, with the possibility of escaping the drudgery and familiarities of London, bought the daily press, a part of which at this time he was in the habit of reading, and weather, to make a pilgrimage to the South Seas, where he was convinced he would solve our problems.

If we have abandoned the road to the South Seas, it is because we are convinced that a solution to our problems is not to be found in a temporary solution, although there's no aspect, with the exception of the sun-bathing, that cannot be remedied here at home, but rather that we have failed to lead his own life. Whether this is accomplished is known only to the individual. Too many of us are concerned with protocol and tradition, and everyone is overjoyed if he does not repudiate religion and disinherited if he does.

But what does Professor So-and-So, the village idiot, know about religion? Precisely as much as anyone else who has done the same amount of thinking in that specific field, which is probably none at all.

Snort Soothes Savage Beast

(Hamilton Spectator)

A writer in a British Sunday newspaper says that if you breathe heavily down your nose into the nostrils of a savage beast the reaction will be surprising and friendly. Presumably the animal will snort back and come to be fondled. We have not yet specific instructions, but of course, that we intend to put them into practice the next time we are confronted with a mad bull, just as an example of high courage.

Every theory must be put to the test before it becomes practical use. There must have been one occasion when a savage beast, woman, incidentally—stood her ground when being charged by a savage beast, a savage horse and with cucumber coolness, breathed heavily down her nose at it.

We do not expect in the near future to be charged by these savage beasts, but if we should be, we shall use our breath to the full and distance ourselves as far as possible and leave the snorting to the bull or horse as the case may be.

CONSCIENCE MAKES PHILANTHROPISTS TOO.

One merchant who made a fortune selling kidney pills in the golden age of the nostrum business, before real knowledge of medicine had begun to make substantially profitable, built a big part of his fortune on the label, because of the power of kidney disease. Of course he had the pills to back up the treatment, and he had fabulous fees for it without a grumble. Everybody

Dr. Brady for it without a grumble. Everybody allied him no more than the same skill and treatment, perhaps by some physicians and specialists, avails the poorest patient with the same trouble.

This patient on two occasions became so annoyed about something that he tried to discharge his doctor by telling him his treatment was worthless—but each time the doctor said all right, use your own pills and good-bye. Each time when the man's nurse or daughter called the doctor, the doctor would say he hadn't time to bother—let the man take his own kidney pills. Presently the man took the hint, apologized personally, and got his doctor back.

Today one of the finest buildings of a university contains a monument to the kidney pill man. Probably his doctor laughed at him. At any rate the man became a philanthropist of impeccable character.

Another man made his first million selling sarsaparilla. He made a stone remedy — it consisted of a huge dose of tinted, flavored soda, and other very valuable oil, followed by a disguised Seidlitz powder. Many years afterward when the "gall stones" this wonderful remedy had produced in Penn Yan, before our red-faced friend knew anything worse than pulverulating fake testimonials etc. The "gallstones" were, of course, the lumps of soap, produced by the action of the alkali in the Seidlitz powder on the oil, in the doctor's alimentary tact. But I doubt whether any of the poor geeks who had so easily gotten rid of their imaginary "gallstones" took my explanation of the trick seriously.

The fake gallstone cure man dropped the business when the government began to frown on false claims and became a capitalist specializing in real estate. One of his most profitable practices was to buy buildings in the heart of the business section, tear them down, and lease the ground as a parking lot.

I don't know how much this respected crook's conscience troubled him nights, but he set aside the bulk of his money as an endowment or foundation, to be administered by a board of trustees, to give financial aid to young persons who had the desire to take a professional education.

In my own case, by force of circumstances I can't qualify as a philanthropist, and yet, I hope, I'm not a coward, after a bad night—last night was cruel—I try to console myself concerning my doing some one some little kindness. TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A NEW U.S. POSTAGE STAMP

One of the most beautiful postage stamps ever issued by the Government at Washington is its new 8-cent stamp, created primarily for foreign mail. It is unusual for its three colors (red, white and blue) and for the fact that for the first time the phrase "In God We Trust" appears on a U.S. postage stamp, heretofore used only on coins and on U.S. coins.

The United States is a religious nation, regardless of its many faults, and it wants the entire world to know "In God We Trust." There is significance to this stamp. When it is reached as a matter of letter may contain anything its writer pleases to place there. That message is expressed by the words on the free expression of its sender to the person to whom it is addressed. Except in rare cases in time of war, or for security reasons, the mail is privileged and sacred. Not even the United States government, to consider our own interests, stamp may exert. We may well guess that in every foreign land it will be noted and commented upon favorably by those now enslaved or whose thoughts must be kept to themselves. But when it is its silent manner, emphasizes the sacredness and pride in which all who have freedom, rejoice.

The American Postmaster General is to be commended for his sponsorship of this beautiful stamp, and all that I noticed, I watched and listened to the TV exercises upon the occasion of the unveiling of the stamp, was stirred by the many speeches, including that of President Eisenhower. It is to be hoped that no one will ever place this stamp upon a letter without realizing its significance.

For just so long as "In God We Trust" is found on our coins and continues as a fact in our lives, we are protected by assurances of unto freedom and liberty, the most precious possession that any nation can have. Never before has so important a postage stamp been issued.

ARRIVING AT THE TRUTH

When the Professor speaks about science, we should listen with attention. He is a physicist and tells about some new laboratory discovery. Science is the term he uses to catch every syllable of his pronouncement. But when he speaks of religion, let us ponder the fact that he is out of his field. He is not competent to say anything which does not respond to the tech nique of science, unless he can prove that he is just as unlearned in the field of religion as most of us are in the field of science.

Religion deals with the unseen world, and unseen realities, and truth can be arrived at only by the exercise of a faculty possessed by spiritual truth must be spiritually discerned.

Frequently we hear that some great scientist has made a pronouncement regarding religion. The headlines announce the astonishing fact that Professor So-and-So acknowledges the existence of God. And this is supposed to be something new. A religion and morality, and for the Almighty Himself. The great chemist or mathematician or psychologist has expressed an opinion in the field of religion, and everyone is overjoyed if he does not repudiate religion and disheartened if he does.

But what does Professor So-and-So, the village idiot, know about religion? Precisely as much as anyone else who has done the same amount of thinking in that specific field, which is probably none at all.

Prime Minister Refreshed After Bermuda Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent returned to Ottawa Saturday night after a 10-day Easter vacation in Bermuda.

The prime minister, tanned and cheerful, flew to Montreal from Bermuda and made the remainder of the trip home by train. He was accompanied by his son-in-law, Hugh O'Donnell, Montreal lawyer.

Asked about his golf game, Mr. St. Laurent smiled and said: "I play an old man's game."

The Bermuda holiday was the first rest the prime minister has had since he returned to Ottawa March 17 from his round-the-world tour. Mrs. St. Laurent, who refuses to travel by plane, did not accompany him.

St. Louis, Mo. Woman Crowned Mrs. America

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Wanda Jennings, 26, a tall, blue-eyed blonde from St. Louis, Mo., Saturday night was crowned Mrs. America 1954.

The judges, basing the award on appearance but mainly on demonstrated housekeeping prowess, singled out Mrs. Jennings from the other entrants from all the United States and Canada.

She wins $15,000 in prizes and a tour of Europe for herself and her husband, Madison Jennings, a chemist. Married nine years, they have an eight-year-old son.

Lush Days of Lots of Jobs, Overtime, Profits, Sales Over

BY SAM DAWSON

CHICAGO (AP)—There are two ways to look at business today:

1. The lush days of lots of jobs, overtime, profits, sales are in the past tense now.

2. Viewed against the backdrop of last year's dread of what might have happened, the actual dip in U.S. economy to date appears relatively slight.

The recession's bark seems worse than its bite. So, the feeling grows that "it isn't going to be as bad as we thought."

Most business and financial executives still seem to regard the slowdown as a benign adjustment —correcting the excesses of the boom, reducing producer inventories that were out of line with consumer facts.

There are others who say it's too early yet for such complacency. They say there's still time and chance for a malignant recession to grow.

RETAIL TRADE SPOTTY

Wait to see what happens to retail trade this month and next, they warn. For retail trade is the true end-product of most manufacturing and farming, no matter how many steps along the way.

And retail trade is spotty around the country.

Employment is also spotty. One example: In the early months of this year the jobless total grew, especially in the midwestern and eastern states where most of the durable goods manufacturers cluster. But the states of North and South Dakota and Montana report employment higher than a year ago. The reason is oil. The Williston basin which these states share is having a building and business boom based on petroleum.

Another example: For a time the auto, home appliance and farm machinery factories in the Middle West were shortening work weeks or laying off workers. At the same time west coast plants making warplanes and guided missiles were building the work rolls to a post-war record high.

TWO EXPERTS CONFIDENT

Jesse Jones, the 80-year-old Texan who as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. was tagged "the greatest money lender of all times," says:

"The business decline is moderate and isn't hurting us. It ought to be good for the economy to correct the evils of over-expanding and of building up such a top-heavy structure of debt."

Lewis Douglas, Tucson, Ariz., banker and rancher, and Mutual Life Insurance Co.—chieftain, who was U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, says:

"In the East they're always excited, everyone being carried away at once by some new wave of emotion. Out here you see things calmly and you see them whole. That's why we're confident."

No One Injured

CHICAGO (AP)—Forty-nine persons were injured early Sunday when brakes failed and a slow-rolling suburban train rammed into the rear of another commuter train which was pulling away from a downtown station platform. Attendants said none was in serious condition.

Some 400 passengers on both trains were shaken up.

OSTEOPATH HONORED

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Mary L. Heist, pioneer osteopath of Kitchener, was honored at the annual meeting of the Ontario Osteopathic Association here Saturday when she was presented with the certificate of merit recently established by the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery.

WAS MUSIC DIRECTOR

MONTREAL (CP) — Guillaume Dupuis of Montreal, 66, director of voice exercises and music courses for Quebec province, died Sunday.

Crash-Landed Small Plane In School Yard

ORILLIA (CP)—The engine of a small plane conked out over this town Sunday and its 20-year-old pilot skimmed it over a high school, ticked the roof of a big house and crash-landed in a public school yard.

John Swallow of Toronto jumped from his Piper Cub after it snapped off two outdoor basketball standards and flipped end over end for about 50 feet. The plane stopped a few yards from the school door. Swallow escaped with a bump on his forehead. The plane was badly damaged.

No one was injured but plenty of Orillia's 12,000 residents got a scare.

ENTITLED TO ONE BITE

TORONTO (CP) — Policemen who have to arrest women were told Friday they should bear in mind that "perhaps she is entitled to at least one bite." Magistrate C. A. Thorburn dismissed a charge of assault against Cecile McElhone, 32, who bit the hand of an arresting policeman. He fined her $10 or five days for disturbing the peace.

Valdmanis Retains Legal Counsel, Is Refused Bail

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A lawyer was retained Sunday to defend Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, onetime Latvian Newfoundland's economic development program who is accused of defrauding the province of $150,000.

The lawyer, Gordon F. Higgins, after interviewing Valdmanis in a jail cell here, said the 47-year-old Latvian was "extremely upset" and hadn't slept since Friday. Valdmanis was arrested Friday while in bed at his brother's home in St. Andrews, N.B.

Solicitors of the Lady David Foundation, which brought Valdmanis to Canada, asked the former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament to represent him at his trial.

Valdmanis appeared in court only 33 minutes after being brought here by plane Saturday from Saint John, N.B. His usual dapper self, he appeared unmoved as the magistrate refused bail and remanded him eight days.

CLAIMS FRAUD

The charge said that he defrauded the government of $150,000 between Jan. 26, 1950 and Oct. 25, 1951, at St. John's, Nfld. He was director-general of economic development from August 1950 to early 1953 at an annual salary of $25,000.

He then became probably the highest paid civil servant in Canada when he was appointed chairman of the Newfoundland and Labrador Corporation with a $5,000 yearly increase. Premier Smallwood asked for his resignation in February.

Prior to his arrival in court, it was indicated that Valdmanis was charged with extortion. Premier Smallwood said Friday that he was arrested on a charge "that he extorted very large sums of money from various firms with whom he dealt with on behalf of the government of Newfoundland."

The $150,000 was also $10,000 less than the earlier figure announced by Attorney-General Curtis, Mr. Curtis said at the time that additional charges would be laid.

Bail was refused on the grounds that investigations have not been completed and because Valdmanis is not a Newfoundland resident.

Weddings

BIRD—IRELAND

Easter lillies and daffodils with fern formed a beautiful setting in Trinity United Church, Brighton, on Saturday afternoon, April 10, at 3 o'clock, for the marriage of Gail K. Ireland, Reg.N., to Richard Martin Bird. Miss Ireland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Ireland and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bird, all of Brighton.

Rev. F. J. Hommersen, B.A., B.D., officiated at the double ring wedding ceremony. Traditional wedding music was played by Miss Frances Solomon, A.T.C.M. During the ceremony Miss Hazel Bird, sister of the groom, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I'll Walk Beside You," while the register was signed.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a gown of white Chantilly lace and net over taffeta, in redingote fashion, with matching veil and a headdress bordered with pearls. The bridal bouquet was a shower of red roses.

Mrs. Victor Bailey, of Belleville, attended her sister as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Taylor, of Brighton, and Miss Joan Myles, Reg.N., of Toronto. All three attendants were dressed alike in blue Chantilly lace and net with matching hats bordered with pearls. Their flowers were bon quets of yellow roses on lacelon fans.

Mr. Henry Bird was his brother's groomsman and the ushers were Mr. James Smith, of Toronto, and Mr. Victor Bailey, of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Ireland received the guests, assisted by the groom's mother, Mrs. Bird. Mrs. Ireland wore a dress of lace and crepe in mink shade, with accessories of beige and brown and a corsage of Lester Hibbard roses. Mrs. Bird wore a frock of navy crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of Lester Hibbard roses.

At the reception the toast to the bride was given by her uncle, Mr. Robert Young, of Toronto.

Eight gist friends of the bride served the ninety guests present from Toronto, Brantford, Belleville, Trenton, Gravenhurst, Wellington, Cobourg and other local points.

For travelling by motor to Detroit and Western Ontario points, the bride chose a tailored suit of dark blue worsted with accessories of navy and white, grey squirrel neckpiece and a yellow rose corsage. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Bird will reside in Belleville.

Baby-Feeding Undergoes 'Revolution'

Private enterprise and laboratory research have helped bring about a baby-feeding revolution in baby-feeding in fairly recent years. This "revolution" is the subject of an article in the current issue of "Health", the official organ of the Health League of Canada.

Robert Farber, M.D., F.R.C.P., discusses the value and modern techniques of putting infants on early solid food and diet, in the current "Memo to Mothers" section. The Memo is a regular feature of "Health", edited by Alan Brown, M.D., C.P.R.F., emeritus professor of paediatrics of the University of Toronto.

"Fifty years ago, according to Dr. Farber, "only the boldest physicians would have offered an infant solid foods before the tenth month." Only 25 years ago babies were first given cereal at the age of seven months. "This is a far cry", Dr. Farber says, "from some of the present day physicians who are advocating the use of meats for premature infants. It is agreed that solid foods must be started much before the end of the first year — usually at the end of the second or third month of life. Further delay usually leads to nutritional disturbances and especially anaemia due to specific lack of iron, absent in milk."

A boon to mothers has been the development, by private industry, of pre-cooked, enriched cereal preparations, which can be introduced by a gradual decrease in thickening of consistency, without upsetting the infant.

Vegetables are generally added to the diet nowadays starting at about the third month, and fruits in the fifth month. Again private enterprise has come to the aid of mothers. As Dr. Farber says: "They can be prepared by straining the fruits and vegetables at home. However, because of the variety produced by the manufacturer, the higher degree of smoothness, the standardization of the content and because of their economy and simplicity, the standard puree preparations are now widely used."

Frozen meats for braising, such as Swiss steaks, pot roasts and stews, may be started in the frozen state. Brown them first, add water, and cook slowly, allowing extra time for the cooking.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HANDS OFF THIS MARRIAGE, MOTHER!

Nothing is more natural, or more inevitable, that that a mother should suffer all sorts of qualms and fears when a son or daughter is about to take on the responsibilities of married life.

Naturally, too, of course, she worries even more when she sees, or thinks she sees, characteristics in the personality of the one her child is about to marry that she feels may make for unhappiness between them.

Here is a mother who wants to know if, on the eve of her daughter's wedding day, she should step in and try to warn the young man her daughter is to marry that unless he curbs certain tendencies she sees in him, he may wreck the marriage.

She writes:

"My daughter, 18, is to be married very soon to a young man with whom she has been going for some time.

"I always liked this young man and never discouraged the marriage, but now he is showing signs of being domineering and bossy and, if he doesn't always get his own way, he pouts and sulks sometimes all evening. Often, my daughter doesn't even know what he's pouting about, although she tries to get him to tell her, he won't. Then he gets over it and acts as though nothing had ever been wrong. He even points if we have a TV program on that he doesn't like. Otherwise, he's really sweet, except that he is so moody.

"Do you think he will get worse or better after the marriage, and should I talk to him about it or keep my mouth shut? My daughter loves him so much that she won't let me say a thing against him, but I just know their marriage won't last if he doesn't change.

"What do you think can be done about it?"

I would say that if anything can be done about this situation, it will be done by the young people themselves, as part of their adjustment to marriage. I doubt very much if it would do any good at all for this mother to try and undo her daughter's future husband see the error of his ways. The thing to do, I believe it might only make things worse, by starting the marriage off on his honeymoon with the knowledge that his mother-in-law disapproves of him and is practically certain he is going to make her daughter unhappy. Rather, I think her attitude should be—that she is sure he is going to do every-thing in his power to be a good husband to her daughter, and so make him feel that she expects the marriage to be a success.

If, as she says, the man always liked the young man, surely he must have many likeable qualities. Moreover, she says, he has always never discouraged the marriage, so it would hardly be fair for her to do an about-face a few days before the scheduled to take place.

I think she should keep her fears to herself, and leave it to the young people to work out their own problems, if there is going to be any. It may well be that, once the two are married, and busy with a life of their own, the matter will adjust itself, especially if the daughter is a sensible girl who will not go into the new home with pettiness on the part of her husband but, instead, will handle him calmly and diplomatically. Perhaps this mother should have more faith in her daughter's ability to do this.

At all costs, however, she should say nothing at this time that might alienate her daughter or give the young man the idea that she has no confidence in him. For, if she holds a loving and confident attitude, then, if the time ever does come when the daughter is unhappy with her husband she may turn to her mother for advice, which she would be unlikely to do if her mother had previously interfered.

It is always difficult for parents to keep hands off when they feel a son or daughter may be moving in to the wrong direction. But a young man or a young woman who is considered old enough for marriage should be considered old enough to make their own lives. Parental advice is usually unwelcome and unheeded; otherwise, it may do real harm by causing a rift.

HOW CAN THEY MAKE THEIR BOY FRIENDS STOP DRINKING?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I have the most wonderful boy friends They are both very nice-looking and very popular with everyone, but there is one thing wrong, and that is that they drink

Don't get me wrong They both have themselves very well whether they are drunk or not. But we girls like to go to dances and these boys you're not going out with them any more unless they stop drinking. Now, I'm sure you probably like them so much that you won't want to see them stop drinking but you want to know how you can make them stop, and they certainly won't do it if you tolerate it by continuing to go with them.

I'm not pretending either, that to take this course would make them stop. It all depends on how much they care about your friendship. So why not take a stand and stick to it? That way you'll find out just how much they do care. If they're the right sort of boys, they'll respect you for it, no matter how unlikely it may seem that they don't. And if they prefer the company they find in the bar rooms to yours, it's well to know that.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

BRUSH YOUR TEETH UNTIL THEY SHINE

It is taken for granted in these days of advanced dental science that a girl will display teeth that are even of formation, well-cared for, highly polished. Facial beauties not alone in a radiant complexion and sparkling eyes, but in the entire composition—in which smiling lips revealing snow-white teeth play an important part—nevertheless, even in these days of youth-and-beauty standards, teeth do not always receive the attention they should for their preservation and well being.

There is also the health element to be considered. The body and its internal organs are dependent upon proper mastication of food and, unless the teeth are sound, this first process of digestion does not function normally.

The tooth brush is the first weapon against decay which usually begins in the grooves and pits of the teeth, around the necks of the teeth close to the gums, and on the surfaces between the teeth. It is in these areas, so cleaning tells us, that brushing is not always thorough. A casual grooming along over the outer surfaces, the inner ones, the biting surfaces often leaving overlooked.

Be sure that your tooth brush is kept clean at all times—out of contact with all possible sources of uncleanliness, which means it should not lie on the wash bowl even for a short time, but placed bristles upward in a rack or glass. Using two brushes—one for night and one for morning—allows the bristles to dry thoroughly, thus making for greater cleansing efficiency.

A good dentifrice used with the brush will assist in loosening and washing away the food particles that gather on the teeth. If foreign substance clings between them use dental floss, being careful not to saw into the gums.

The health of the gums depends upon adequate circulation of the blood. Stimulation is achieved by using the teeth on coarse foods that must be chewed thoroughly. Raw vegetables are good for this purpose—carrot sticks, cabbage hearts, turnips; also bread crusts. Girls were once told that if they ate their bread crusts they would have curly hair. Now they must do that little thing for the sake of their teeth.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

MISS FAMILY GLARE AT HER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Isn't it proper for me to give an ash tray to a guest in our home when he or she lights a cigarette? When I do this the rest of the family glares at me. But the guest always "Thank you," and so I see nothing wrong about it. What do you?

It's indeed quite all right, - and certainly practical for you to place an ash tray for the guest lighting a cigarette, or move the ash tray to a more convenient position for his or her use. Let the family glare. . . you don't want your table or chair burned, or a vase or other decorative object used as a receptacle for ashes. (However, it does seem, from your question, that the ash trays you provide are on the skimpy side. . .and that you should have more placed at strategic points. She scratch it directly from the casserole, but says I should tell my readers that if they undertook it before doing so to lift off the excess fat that gathers around edges—because this bargain-price beef contains quite a bit of fat. Their family is small, so there was plenty left over to serve sliced cold—which she did. She wanted a sauce with it too, so I'll be rich white sauce and put some curry powder in it.

With that meal she served Cook

NEW CABBAGE CREAMED

Some of you have chopping bowls. If so chop a head of new cabbage—the size that costs 17¢ will be specific. If no chopping bowl, slice a cabbage as finely as you can with your sharpest knife, then chop it the other way to make it very fine—(but don't put it through the grinder). Cook this in boiling unsalted water to tender for 10 minutes, then drain thoroughly through sieve. Make 2 cups thick white sauce by melting 4 tablespoons butter, stirring in 6 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon each pepper and nutmeg, and 2 cups whole milk until thick. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and the well-drained cabbage. Don't overcook the cabbage—for if you do it will lose its bright green color.

MARION'S MEAT LOAF

Marion specified ground shank beef or round steak. To this she adds 1-2 lb. sausage meat which she buys in the form of large farmers' sausage and turns out of the casing herself. I like the fact that she adds 1-4 to 1-3 cup packaged ground wheat cereal to this instead of crumbs. Also 1-2 cup chili sauce, 1-3 cup tomato juice, 1 finely chopped onion, 1 egg, and salt and pepper. You have to use your judgment about the amounts. Marion used pepper, for Marion is a "little-bit-of-this-and-a-little-bit-of-that" cook. Mix well. Pack into buttered loaf pan, and pour over top 1-4 cup tomato juice. Bake about 60 min. Fahr. for 1 or 1 1-4 hours or if you want your oven low for something else (like a custard) bake at 275 deg. Fahr for 1 1-2 or 1-3 hours. Marion says that sausage meat needs long cooking, and recommends the slow, low heat treatment! She likes this because it slices so nicely and the seasoning from the sausage makes it nice for slicing for sandwiches in her home.

By Western Standards, Life For Russians Impoverished And Hard Says Correspondent

Editor's Note: Bill Boss is back in Canada after five months as Canadian Press correspondent in the Soviet Union. He lived in Moscow, made a 6,000-mile round trip to within 300 miles of the Chinese border. This story is the first of a series of notable uncensored reports on what he learned of life behind the Iron Curtain.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Your average Russian is a contented if not a happy man.

He thinks he lives in a free country—in the only society geared to give the working man a square deal.

He sees his country pulsating with life, drive and determination. Day by day he hears, and through this repetition believes that the Kremlin's aim is to give him a better standard of living.

He knows he and his wife and children are better off now than a few years ago.

IMPRESSES ORIENTALS

By Western standards, life for most Russians is impoverished and hard. But visitors from Oriental countries—China, Pakistan or Indo-China, for instance—would find present conditions impressive.

And Mischa Sherbokov, as we may call your average Russian, is in an intensely deep-freeze. He gets no information by which to compare his life with that of Westerners.

He sees a "new look" in his country and is proud of the accomplishments of his Communist regime.

Foreign observers in Moscow hostile to the Malenkov government predict it will collpose unless the present development program is fully successful.

I saw nothing in my stay in Moscow or my travels within the Soviet Union to indicate the people are dissatisfied.

AMBASSADOR'S VIEWS

John Watkins, Canada's new ambassador to Moscow, says amazing progress has been made in feeding, clothing and housing the Russian people since the Second World War.

The "New Look" is everywhere apparent.

The amount of new construction is astonishing, though much of it is shoddy. Mischa Sherbokov looks at huge new apartment blocks and new workers' cottages and thinks that each year brings him nearer to the time when he can move his family into better quarters.

Mischa sees more clothing in the stores and thinks he soon can have two suits instead of one. He sees more automobiles on the streets, more radios and television sets in the stores.

And each year the controlled price of food in the state shops is slightly lower.

Mischa reads in his newspapers and hears on the radio only what the Communist state wants him to know.

POLICY CHANGED

And for reasons clear only to the Kremlin, the policy line has changed emphasis. The state now is telling him that all is not well on the home front, a unique admission for the Communists.

But always the angle is that living conditions for the Russian people must be improved.

"We need more meat . . . we need more wheat and other cereals . . . we have done well in heavy industry but we must do better in production of the things that make life pleasant. . . ."

When did the change occur? These favorable to the Malenkov administration say it was planned under Stalin, months before the first announcements last September. Those opposed say it has been forced on the regime by the people, dissatisfied after years of waiting for a fuller life.

A reporter can't find out as he would in Ottawa, by picking up a telephone and talking to some competent official. The Soviets don't do business that way. The people accept official silence and seem to believe they can trust the regime, which already has done much, to do what is best in future. And government departments make it plain they think the answer to questions about state policy are none of a foreigner's business.

REPORTING RESTRICTED

My reports on how Russians live are based on personal observations—no "spying" but with some "window-peeping." In five months in Russia I could not get permission to visit a factory, a farm, any other kind of state enterprise except hospitals and schools or even one of the much publicized workers' apartment houses.

But anyone can see that, by Canadian standards, working hours are long and the pay relatively low. If Mischa and his wife both work, they earn enough to support their family in only the most modest circumstances.

But an Asiatic traveller told me: "These people are better fed, better clothed and better housed than ours."

Westerners are shocked but Asiatics and Orientals aren't, at the type of jobs Soviet women do. They pave streets, lay bricks, rivet girders, paint buildings and work at other jobs considered far too heavy for Canadian women. The striking thing is their apparent cheerfulness and sense of purpose.

WORK AROUND CLOCK

Work goes on around the clock. Great searchlights shine through the night on the scores of housing projects under way in Moscow, and on road and other schemes.

By 1960 Mischa hopes to have most of its 6,000,000 in modern dwellings. Rents are heavily subsidized and unbelievably low. Most of the few workers I could talk to paid 28 to 35 rubles a month. The official exchange rate is 25 cents to the ruble, but an accurate comparison is impossible. For a foreigner in Moscow the ruble probably is worth no more than five to seven cents; for Russians it is worth more than that.

If they could get a new apartment now, Mischa and his wife might find themselves in one room of a two-room apartment, sharing kitchen and bathroom with another couple. But from the number of beds you see, the usual number of occupants to a Moscow room seems to be three or four.

Moscow's new buildings are mostly of two types. One is an elaborate skyscraper with gingerbread towers and statuary, carpeted lobbies with television sets and easy chairs. The second is a substantial brick design of 10 or 12 storeys.

NEW—NOT MODERN

If similar buildings in which foreigners live are any sample, the new structures are new without being modern. Built-in cupboards are unknown; electric wiring is outside the walls; the plumbing and kitchen equipment are old-fashioned. Furniture is ornate and costly.

But they are a thousand per cent better than the rickety wooden shanties out of which the people are being moved.

Few Russians own cars, though Moscow streets have been laid out in the grand scale looking to the future. Traffic regulation is based on future conditions, too, with one-way streets and right-turn-only sections.

Most Muscovites go to work by subway, street car and bus systems which move 3,000,000 passengers daily. Taxis are fairly expensive—and as scarce in bad weather, in Moscow as in Toronto or Vancouver.

Shopping is a nightmare. There is no rationing, but that does not mean Mischa can buy anything he wants, or as much as he needs.

Sometimes he can't find what he wants. Other times the queues to buy are so long that he can't get near it. State stores limit the quantities of basic foods that any customer may buy.

TOUGH ON SHOPPER

Time is important, for shopping is a laborious process. Mischa lines up three times for each purchase: once to place his order, once to pay, and once to collect his goods. The jostling in department-store queues is nerve-wracking.

One of the first Russian phrases I mastered was: "Comrade, please remove your hands from my back."

Mischa seems to take the inconveniences of Russian living in his stride. The state makes sure he doesn't learn there is a better life in other countries.

And, after all, keeping up with the Joneses is little worry in the Soviet Union.

The Joneses, too, have almost nothing.

Three Generations

Canadians wouldn't think this clothing was stylish, but Soviet citizens think it's fine and warm. Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer just back from Moscow, snapped this happy, three-generation group sunning themselves against a garden fence. Russian faces and figures are well filled out, Boss says, but complexions are on the pale side. That could be because Russians naturally are fair-skinned; or it could be from a predominantly starchy diet. — (CP Photo.)

WHAT IS PETROX? Petrox is a new element, or additive, wholly derived from petroleum. Developed by Texaco engineers, Petrox is an exclusive Texaco product. It is a petrochemical completely different in composition from any other additive. It is the only such additive being used in any gasoline. The fact that it is made entirely from petroleum is important because it does not contain anything that can leave harmful engine deposits.

Furthermore, Petrox adds a brand new function: the ability to reduce engine wear. As a result, the consistent users of new Sky Chief gasoline are assured maximum power and longer engine life.

RUSSIA POWERFUL

AVOID WESTERNERS

A dark-skinned Pakistani, Communist or not, finds it easy to start a conversation with a Russian. Time after time in Moscow I watched Pakistanis and other Orientals in animated Russian groups. For Westerners generally, a conversation with an ordinary Russian is an event.

Waiters usually saw to it that Russians did not sit at my table. One evening I sat at a table set for four. The other three chairs promptly were removed. The hotel rooms I had outside Moscow invariably had no view.

In five months in Moscow, I saw or heard nothing to indicate that Joseph Stalin's death in March, 1953, has changed the goals of Russia's internal or external policy by one iota.

Internally the goal is the realization of the Communist state.

Externally it remains the encouragement of the "oppressed workers of the world" to work for the downfall of the capitalist system.

At home there is no sign of abatement in any aspect of the program—no suggestion of "why build now when tomorrow it may be destroyed."

HOME-FRONT EMPHASIS

The government talks ceaselessly of the "peace-loving" nature of the Soviet Union. There is a new emphasis in Russian domestic propaganda on home-front problems, although there is no simultaneous lessening of propaganda on the need for military preparations.

Diplomats in Moscow are unanimous in saying they do not anticipate hostilities between East and West in the immediate future.

There is no visible war hysteria—certainly less than there is in North America. The only military signs are the uniforms of officers and soldiers stationed in Moscow and other cities. The national anthem is not played at concerts or the theatre. No signs point the way to air raid shelters, if any exist.

There is no question in my mind that the majority of the people support their government, believe in it, and would fight bravely if they believed their country had been attacked. But it is obvious, when one manages to talk to Russians, that average Soviet citizens dislike and fear war as much as any people.

That does not mean the Malenkov government wants world "peace" in the Western sense.

Vladimir Lenin, founder of the Communist party, still is the "great teacher" of Russia 30 years after his death. In 1922, five years after the revolution, he told a United States reporter that Communist and capitalist-socialist systems of government could live side by side in peace.

REPEATED BY STALIN

Stalin, Lenin's star pupil in Russian eyes, repeated that statement. But their peace statements have never been incorporated into Soviet philosophy.

The teaching today is still that workers through the world must work for the collapse of the capitalist system.

But Lenin also wrote that wars and revolutions to extend and strengthen communism are wrong unless a country is ripe for the plucking. That is the key to Russian policy now.

The Kremlin, in the view of Western observers in Russia, acknowledges that present prosperity in most Western lands make this an unpropitious time to inflame passions in the masses. Exceptions to this generalization are Italy and France where instability of government and post-war discontent have paved the way for broad inroads by Russian-style communism.

But a tide of nationalism has surged through much of Asia since the Second World war began. Oriental peoples have discarded the yoke of foreign rulers and are experimenting in self-government.

For Russia, the west is the source of danger; the east and southeast are fields ripening for political and economic—if not military—activity.

LAUNCH OFFENSIVE

LONDON (AP) — Britain has launched a diplomatic offensive to win the support of five Asian nations for the proposed Southeast Asian alliance, British officials reported Friday night.

Sidelights on Russian Life

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

These are some sidelights on life in Russia culled from notebooks filled during my five months behind the Iron Curtain.

Neckties and shirts are shunned after the Russian revolution as symbols of the hated bourgeoisie. Hats gave place to caps. Table manners were scorned.

Now the signs of middle-class culture are coming back.

It is "uncultured" not to wear a necktie—but it takes time to break 30 years' inoculation against them.

It is "uncultured" to take off your jacket when dining out. It is "uncultured" to dance with a cigaret smoking in your partner's eyes. But a lot still do these things.

It is "uncultured" to wield your knife like a dagger in your fist, or your fork like a shovel. Peek around any hotel dining room.

MOST PEASANTS VULGAR

Russia is still a country of peasants. They are probably "politically conscious," as the saying goes, but most are still vulgar and unrefined.

Soviet newspapers are raising cain about the country's gilded youth. They say the kids kick up too many high-jinks, drink too much and behave in uncultured fashion.

A couple of students I once talked to said: "We're spoiled—they look after us too well."

Russian youth sows its wild oats earlier than Canadians, but they settle into their life's work earlier, too.

Sex doesn't draw as much criticism as drink in Moscow.

Bobby-soxers aren't recognizable by dress. But teen-agers give the same screaming applause to their heroes of stage and ballet.

FRUSTRATED JITTERBUGS

The Russians are a race of frustrated jitterbugs. Let a dance orchestra beat out something different from the dreary, conventional dance music, then watch the capers they cut. Russians seem to dance on springs, anyway. When they fumble toward a jive it's side-splitting. One of the most popular things the regime could do would be to loosen up on dance music.

Foreigners are told that tipping is old-fashioned in Russia. If that's so, porters and waiters haven't heard about it. As to taxi drivers you never tip them—they just never give you any change.

The foreigner's dissdvantage is that the ruble he pays costs him 25 cents but is worth less than that to a Russian. You don't cut much ice with a ruble in Moscow.

HOT WATER SCARE

Hotel rooms in provincial Russia have basins with cold water only and invariably no stopper. And shaving is a problem; the mirror is always on the other side of a wardrobe, set at an angle to the door to act as a screen. If you're travelling in the Soviet Union, don't empty the bath until you're out and dressed. The plug lets the water run on to the floor, which slopes toward a slump in the middle.

Tashkent Hotel boasts two hot-water bathrooms. The coal-stoked boilers stand beside the tub. You need an engineer's papers to operate them.

At Samarkand the Registan Hotel has one of the new flush toilets in central Asia, but no bath. Guests use a public bath down the street. For a ruble you can have whichever of 10 tubs in the communroom is free.

Deadly Fish-Killers

Sea lampreys which fasten to and suck the blood from lake trout have wiped out commercial fishing in Lake Huron and Lake Michigan and threaten to do the same in Lake Superior. Almost half the trout taken in Lake Superior last season were scarred by the parasitic lampreys which also attack whitefish, sturgeons, chub, pickerel, suckers, carp, perch and herring. The eel-like, mottled brown and yellow lampreys with ugly, staring eyes average about two feet in length. A fleshy fringe around their mouths forms a seal around the part of the trout's body to which they fasten and their saw-like teeth rasp a hole through which the blood is sucked. Sea Lampreys Almost Suck Life Out Commercial Trout Fishing Industry on Lakes

By HENRY BAKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—An evil-looking marauder from the lower Great Lakes has almost sucked the life out of the commercial trout fishing industry.

Sea lampreys which fasten to and suck the blood from lake trout, have wiped out commercial fishing in Lake Huron and Lake Michigan, and threaten to do the same in Lake Superior. Almost half the trout taken in Superior last season were scarred by the parasitic lampreys which also attack whitefish, sturgeon, chub, pickerel, suckers, carp, perch and herring.

The eel-like, mottled brown and yellow lampreys with ugly, staring eyes, average about two feet in length. Their neckless heads are equipped with circular, sucker mouths, about the size of 50-cent pieces. A fleshy fringe around their mouths forms a seal around the part of the trout's body to which they fasten and their saw-like teeth rasp a hole through which the blood is sucked.

STUBBORN ENEMY

They hang on for days until their prey is either dead from loss of blood or dies from infection of the wound.

The Ontario lands and forests department says the extent of their drop in the commercial catch in Lake Michigan to 500 pounds a year. For years it stood at 2,000,000 pounds. The fish brought 40 to 70 cents a pound.

The department said: "There is still a fair fishery in Georgian Bay where there are a few lampreys. But there are many lampreys in Lake Huron and Lake Michigan and they are presumed to have been the cause of the serious fisheries decline."

The federal and provincial governments have joined in a continuing battle against the spoilers.

Last year they set aside $281,000 for a joint fisheries research program for the Great Lakes. The Dominion government is contributing $165,000, the province, $116,000. Included in the federal funds is $150,000 to be used solely for lamprey control. The province is contributing personnel and equipment.

KEY UP COMMITTEE

A joint Great Lakes fisheries research committee has been set up which is composed of fisheries, conservation and research officials of both the federal and provincial governments.

Dr. Murray Spiers, University of Toronto, who will correlate the committee's findings, says the objectives of the program are control of the lampreys and other destructive fish and to find ways of utilizing less popular fish such as smelts, suckers and fresh water cod.

Dr. Spiers said the committee hopes to prevent the lampreys in Lake Superior from destroying commercial trout fishing by using electric weirs, dams and poison in the tributary streams where they spawn each spring and early summer. The lampreys spend the first four years of their five-year life span in the mud of stream bottoms.

Three electric weirs, a series of electrically-charged pipes strung across a stream, will be ready for use this spring in the Harmony, Stokely and Sable rivers which flow into Lake Superior. Twenty more are planned for installation this year between Sault Ste. Marie and the Montreal river and 10 more in the Port Arthur district.

Wildlife officials say weirs will not kill the fish but will prevent them from swimming upstream to spawn. The fish feel the current through the water some distance downstream from the weir and turn around and swim into the lake again.

IN SPAWNING PERIOD

Current will be turned on through the weirs from about the middle of May to the middle of June, the lampreys' spawning period.

The weirs won't interfere with the trout which spawn earlier in the spring and, in the fall. What good fish are prevented from spawning will be netted out of the streams and released further upstream above the weirs to spawn.

A dam is planned west of Sault Ste. Marie. This type of lamprey trap is considered one of the most effective methods of control though it is only feasible in streams where the water-level remains fairly constant.

Funnel-shaped nets across the fast-moving portions of streams will also be used to trap the lampreys. When they are caught they are dumped on the ground to die or used for fertilizer.

STOPS NEURITIC-NEURALGIC PAIN! ASPIRIN

SHOW 10,000 TULIPS

TORONTO (CP)—Ten thousand tulips will be on display at the first gardening festival which opens here today and runs for eight days. The tulips are a gift from the bulb growers of Holland. From the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, will come 18 lecturers, writers and professors to give talks.

ARROW HUNTERS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Bow-and-arrow hunters from the United States are expected here for the next moose-hunting season, says Harry Walters, chief game warden. This type of moose-hunting was made legal last year but too late for the big bow-and-arrow clubs of the United States, which had made prior arrangements.

Eleven Persons Die Violently In East Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eleven persons, including two children, died violently in eastern Canada during the week-end. One of the children was accidentally hanged; the other smothered in his crib.

Of the total list of fatalities, six were traffic mishaps.

A collision between a jeep and a bus at Bagotville took two lives and was the worst of a series of accidents that ran the death toll in Quebec to six. There were six violent deaths in Ontario. The Maritimes had none.

The Bagotville crash killed Elie Sergerie, 52, and Tancrede Sergerie, 44, cousins. Two others were injured but the bus passengers escaped unhurt.

At Maniwaki, Que., 44-year-old Alphonse Charbonneau of Grand Remous died in hospital early Sunday shortly after receiving a beating. Police said they were holding a man on a charge of drunk driving in connection with the death.

Other deaths:

Ontario:

John Ryan, 8, was hanged Sunday night while playing with a rope in a Toronto school yard. He was swinging from a rope attached to a sawdust extractor when it apparently got twisted around his neck and he fell.

Joshua Rupert, 49-year-old native of Newington, near Cornwall, was drowned in 10½ feet of water Saturday after his car went out of control and ran into a swamp. He is believed to have suffered a heart seizure as he got out of the car.

James Fortune, 18, was struck and killed by a car at Aurora, about 20 miles north of Toronto, as he walked with his brother along a highway. Ernest D. Fenn, 62, of London died in the wreckage of his car when it smashed into a hydro pole.

In the Ottawa suburb of Eastview a month-old baby, Richard Fitzsimmons, smothered in his crib early Saturday. Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons said she found the child lying on his stomach with his face buried in the covers.

Believes Russia Will Crack Up In Twenty Years

WINNIPEG (CP) — Hon. T. C. Davis, former Canadian ambassador to Germany, said Sunday he believes that Russia eventually will crack up internally.

He suggested in an interview that internal destruction of the Communist regime may come within 20 years.

Mr. Davis returned recently from his Bonn post and will succeed Hon. Thomas Mayhew this fall as Canadian ambassador to Japan. He now is en route to Vancouver to visit relatives and hitched a ride this far on the RCAF plane carrying Defence Minister Claxton on a tour of western Canada military establishments.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, APRIL 26, 1954

Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer, during a five-month reporting assignment in the Soviet Union, travelled 6,000 miles to study conditions outside Moscow, the show-place capital. This map shows his travels as far east and south as Tashkent, a principal city of Soviet Central Asia, only a few hundred miles from the Chinese border. — (CP Photo.)

Boss Has Logged Equivalent Of Ten Trips Around World

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Boss estimates that he has logged the equivalent of 10 trips around the world in his travels for The Canadian Press; but he has just as itchy a foot as when he joined CP 10 years ago.

For two weeks since he left Moscow by air with briefcase packed with notes, data and undeveloped film, he has been at work on his impressions of life behind the Iron Curtain.

If a man with a bristling red beard can keep in seclusion, that is where Boss has been. Now he plans a brief holiday and then will be on his way again, back to Korea and the Canadian troops who have been his main concern for more than three years.

The Russian assignment, culminated by a 6,000-mile tour of Soviet central Asia, was a highlight of a writing career that has taken Boss to many faraway places since he joined the CP staff as a war correspondent in Italy in 1944.

Korea, Thailand, Burma, Hong Kong, Macao, Formosa, Indo-China, Japan, Russia and most of the countries of western Europe have seen Boss at some time-or other in those 10 years. And once you've seen him, you're not likely to forget the 36-year-old Ottawa - born writer.

Boss is an internationalist and individualist. He has definite opinions and an independent way of working that frequently has got him into scrapes with authorities with whom he had to work to get his information.

The only red tape he accepts without a battle is security censorship, and he has had some mighty battles in his time. In Moscow, he bowed to political censorship, but only because he had no alternative.

Wherever Boss travels he is at home. He is a facile linguist and soon learns the language of the country he is visiting if he did not know it in advance.

SPEAKS RUSSIAN

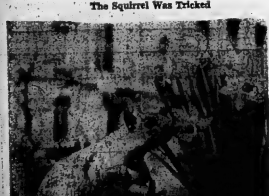
He started taking lessons in Russian in 1947 at Vancouver, because he thought the language might be useful if he ever got back to Berlin, in the Russian zone of Germany. He says he now can carry on a conversation without difficulty.

He is a writer who goes to the source for his news. In the field he lives as close to the troops as authorities will allow, spurning the comforts of press camps if there are closer facilities. At civilian assignments he has shared rice with Korean farmers and fished from dawn to dusk in the Adriatic with Italian trawler men from Ortona.

He is cultured, a capable pianist and conductor who has led symphony orchestras in Ottawa, Amsterdam and Rome.

But above all he is a reporter, with the reporter's urge to put on paper every fact he can divulge about his subject.

One of his battle stories from Korea won the 1951 national newspaper award for feature writing. Frank King, an Associated Press executive and veteran reporter, thought the low-profile, front-line reporting job Boss did in Korea was unique in the theatre and wrote two articles about him.



LARGE OUTPUT

From Moscow, despite censorship, his output was more than 25,000 words and his subjects ranged from the ballet to circus to a description of a chest operation by an eminent Russian surgeon.

Boss has been a writer since 1938 when he left the London Times as a reporter and, for a time, made his home returned to Canada after less than a year, obtained a bachelor of arts degree from Ottawa U., Ottawa, worked briefly for the Ottawa Citizen, then joined the army where he served with the 4th Armored Division in 1943 and later that year joined the PR unit in Italy. He received an honorable discharge in June, 1944, and became a CP war correspondent, reporting about the 1st Canadian Corps in Italy and then in western Europe until the war ended.

When the Korea fighting began, Boss went from Montreal

The Squirrel Was Tricked

This might be the only photo ever taken of a squirrel sniffing flowers, in this case jonquils growing in a Washington park. The squirrel was enticed into the photo by a method only brought to light when the photographer sent an itemized expense account to his newspaper. The expense account read: "Special assignment; stuffing peanuts into jonquils — peanuts, 25 cents. Total expenses: 25 cents. — Central Press Canadian.

Edmonton Eskies Make Deal With Kitchener

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos entered a two-year working agreement with Kitchener-Waterloo of the Ontario Rugby Football Union after the Dutchmen "took the initiative," president Sam Montgomery of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club said Saturday.

"They broached the matter and invited us to make a thorough study of their organization," Montgomery said, in commenting on a Kitchener announcement of the agreement.

"We found it to be much the same as our own. The Dutchmen are a community-sponsored team, run by business men. They appear to be a live-wire group, one it should be a pleasure to be associated with. We hope the agreement will be mutually beneficial."

Montgomery said the fact "there is no college football in the West and very little intermediate" was a factor in Edmonton's decision to take on an eastern Canada affiliate.

There had been recurring reports here for several years that Eskimos planned a hook-up with an eastern team. Prominently mentioned for a time were Verdun Bulldogs of the Quebec intermediate union.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It begins to look as though Floyd Patterson, the Olympic boxing champion, is doomed to spend his career fighting inside the 175-pound limit instead of wreaking havoc in the heavyweight ranks, as his more enthusiastic admirers predicted.

The lightning-fast Negro youth recently racked up his 12th straight victory and looked very impressive, but he couldn't press the scales down past the 170 pounds, both feet. He shows no signs of getting any heavier.

Some of the experts think he might develop into the greatest lightweight since Tommy Loughran, but that is something like being crowned the finest comet-finder since Hailey. There isn't much money in it. Only the heavyweights carry two cheque books.

If one may take the Boston Red Sox as fair examples, big league ball clubs are getting a little smarter after a slow start. The Sox, we see, have coated their outfield fences with foam rubber padding so that players, coming into violent contact with the barriers, will bounce instead of crumple.

It has ever been among the stranger facets of the baseball magnate mentality that he will permit a player worth maybe $200,000 on the market to risk ending his career by racing headlong into concrete walls.

At least two players, Jim Piersall of the Red Sox and Jim Rivers of the Chicago White Sox, were laid up for varying periods after they collided with fences in training games this spring. In time, surely, every wall in the major leagues will be upholstered.

Chances are that the TV set owners have had their last free seat at a heavyweight championship, or at least one held outdoors.

It's become a simple matter of economics. The promoting IBC expects theatre TV to add at least $450,000 to the take for the June 17 title bout here between Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles, which will be blacked out on home sets.

Promoters prefer the threatre deal because of the money to be made later on the fight movies. The film, they've discovered, is a dead duck after the public has seen the scrap on TV.

BURKART QUITS

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Elmer Burkart announced Sunday he has resigned as business manager of Richmond's new club in the International Baseball League.

Burkart said he was leaving "for the best interests of the team" because there had been "too many disagreements" between him and Harry Sibold, owner of the club. Burkart was the former general manager at Ottawa.

Canada, USA Should Swap Football Rules

MONTREAL (CP) — Douglas (Peahead) Walker, the man from the South who coaches Montreal Alouettes, feels there are a couple of things that would make Canadian football more pleasing to the fans. He also thinks the United States game could profit by adopting some rules from the Canadian code.

Walker was guest speaker Friday night at the Loyola College Alumni Association recognition dinner.

He said he would like to see the Canadian rules provide for protection for the pass receiver through unlimited blocking. He would also like to see unlimited blocking for the punt receiver as a means of eliminating "the suicide safety job" and thereby cutting down injuries.

Walker said he likes Canada's three point and feels it would help eliminate many of the tie games prevalent in the United States.

Winnipeg Wins Big Prize In Peewee Hockey

GODERICH (CP) — Winnipeg carried off the East-West challenge cup at the Young Canada Week Pee-Wee hockey tournament here Saturday night. The village of Mildmay lost out by a single goal to the city of Waterloo in the grand championship event.

Winnipeg Red and Whites edged Goderich Lions 2-1 in the second East-West game. The first Friday night was called a draw after 22 minutes of overtime failed to break a 6-6 tie and both teams were too tuckered out to go on.

Mildmay Little Monarchs, coming from a village of 840 persons, were defeated 3-2 by the Waterloo squad from a city of more than 12,000. Earlier Mildmay won the C-group championship and Waterloo the D-group.

Waterloo's grand championship was the second it has won in four years. Goderich took the crown the last two years.

RECORD ENTRY LIST

The East-West game was played between 13-year-olds but 12 years was the age limit in other games. The week-long tournament drew a record 47 entries this year.

Waterloo won the A title Saturday by defeating Owen Sound 4-3 in the morning and moved into the grand championship finals in the afternoon with a 6-5 win over Goderich, A-group champs. Mildmay beat Seaforth, B-group winners, 8-4 in the semi-finals.

Blair McLeod led Winnipeg with three goals and Terry Clark and Wayne Burnett got the other two. Larry Jeffrey scored two goals for Goderich in the last 15 minutes. Dave Leeson and Will Gallow put in singles.

Waterloo, in spite of having played three games Friday and two earlier ones Saturday, racked up a 5-0 lead against Mildmay by the third period on two goals by Jim Dahmer and a single by Howie Dietrich. Mangrum fired a 71 for 284, and Besselink a 68. The 68 was low score of the day and won a special $1,000 prize offered by the tournament chairman Wilbur Clark.

Giants' Brilliant Pitching Talk Of Major Loops; Blank Phils 3 In Row

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HE COULDN'T CATCH 'EM HERE.

The Miami newspapers passed up the senatorial investigation into the McCarthy-Army rumpus; "What's wrong with the Yankees" and other minor current events the other day. Instead, Battleville and Stirling took over the front pages with pictures and stories of the "big one that didn't get away".

If you see the pictures you will immediately recognize Bill Cook, Belleville ex-Junior hockey impresario and tobacco emporium magnate, wife Kate, cousin-in-law Irwin Minchin and Mrs. Minchin both of Toronto.

But the guy in the middle is the cause-de-resistance. It is a 19-pound sailfish, complete with mainsail; a couple of fancy jibs; a split-tail rudder and a bow that looks like the latest jet-fighter. It has a pair of eyes as big as sea-plates that hold a "why-did-you-have-to-do-this-to-me look. Standing on the rudder the big fellow towers seven feet nine inches straight north and takes a thirty-three inch girdle.

The reason the newsboys made such a fuss over the south Atlantic sardine is that it constitutes something of a record. It seems the sail-equipped baby that won the all-Miami championship last year weighed a mere 65 pounds, with the second-place fish tipping the scales at 54. The Cook-Minchim animated animation looks like it might be the 1954 winner.

While Kate Cook and cousin Madame Minchim looked on breathlessly, Mr. Minchim hooked the big fish. A few minutes later Master Cook was hitched into the tug-of-war as anchor man and 25 minutes after the opening gun fired, the big "sailer" lay on the deck of the chartered boat. Meanwhile the two-man crew did a cross between a buck-and-wing, a whistling dervish rumba, the highland fling and a Siwash war-dance.

It is said that as Kate Cook leaned over to stroke the blackish-blue and white beauty, it rolled on its side, closed the starboard eye, hummed through its piccolo-like proboscis, "You'll take me home with you, Kathleen".

True or not, that is what is going to happen. Marse Cook is having the big fish taxidermized and shipped to Belleville. Here it will occupy a place of honor over the mantel in the Cook's cottage menage at Peche Point, even if Bill has to build a 10-foot wall to do it.

Or he may berth it at the cottage jetty. He could spot twin outboards astride the big rudder, unsign the mainmast and enter it in the district pedigreed regatta. He could easily finish the race with a pike or two or a brace of pickerel dangling from the bowsprit.

In serious vein, the catch is, after all, something to be proud of. We are told that sailfish are gradually becoming a rarity in Atlantic waters off the Florida coast. They are not edible, and in the heavy weight class, anglers haul them in, photograph them and toss them back.

ATTENTION! CAGERS.

Here is good news for basketball players and whatnot of the city and district. We learn it from a well-informed source that Johnny Hayman, former Albert College ace cage coach and player, who, with Jack Bisset, basketball and football star of Peterborough and Queen's University will join the teaching staff of the new Collegiate District High School. Hayman will teach commerce with Bisset handling the physical director activities. More about the boys later.

HOCKEY.

Hockey coaches next season will concentrate on the importance of players staying on the ice and not taking enforced rests in the rinkside hoosegow. The Ontario Hockey Association at its week-end annual confab definitely ruled that "when a team is a player short. The association wanted to make it general but we understand Bucko McDonald, coach and boy out on the ice when a team was two men shy. Shorthanded squads now will have to battle the puck out of their zone when the pressure is on. From our observations, icing the puck rinklength usually absorbed from ten to twelve seconds of valuable time for the shorthanded team, and vice versa.

BASEBALL.

Something definite on the fate of the senior baseball club should emerge from a meeting of the Toronto viaduct League being held in Oshawa tonight. The Belleville club will be well represented as will Peterborough. The majority of the Toronto clubs in the league looked with favor on the eastern circuit idea at a meeting held in Toronto last Friday night. Tonight should tell the tale.

DOTS 'N' FLASHES.

Bobby Hull is home from the junior hockey wars and is stretching into a lanky young man. . . . Ted Kennedy, Jr., also appears in the pink. He may jump to junior "A" next year, but we think another season of junior "B" seasoning wouldn't hurt the promising youngster . . . Soccer and outboard regatta schedules will be published this week . . . We draw the attention of all young athletes to the address of Mr. Wes McVicar, secretary for physical education, National Council of the YMCA's of Canada, which appears in another column. In fact there is some excellent advice for athletes of all ages, especially in these days when tempers jare at a momentary notice and good loners are few and rare. . . . The temperance lecturer was expounding on the evils of liquor to a group of tough youngsters. He demonstrated his point by dropping a fish-worm in a glass of water, another in a glass of whiskey. The whiskey-soaked bait died instantly. The other swam around happily. "There, boys" quoth the lecturer. "You see what happens. Now what is the moral of this lesson?" A tough young buck from the back seats stood up. "You don't hafta be a college bloke to figger that out, guvner," he said. "The moral is, if you've got worms, drink whiskey" . . . The Belleville Softball District Association is holding an open meeting in the West Moira Fire Hall tomorrow night at 7.45. All team representatives and others interested are urged to attend . . . Eddie Schrieder accompanied by a 185-pound, 5.11 husky dropped in on Saturday. Gary appeared to be in the pink and will go into summer training in readiness for a big season with the Queen's U. senior football squad. He has recovered from the injuries of last fall and should be bigger and better than ever. Meanwhile Pop Eddie will again don the mask and pads for a heavy season with the West Toronto Senior Baseball League. Eddie said the Viaduct Loop teams are no better than Belleville or Peterborough squads, in fact he doubted if they are as good . . .

Maglie, Antonelli Grissom Steal Thunder from Chisox; 'Bums' Hold Lead; Yanks Slip

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The talk of baseball today is the three successive shutouts turned in by New York Giants' Marv Grissom, Sal Maglie and Johnny Antonelli over Philadelphia Phils Saturday and Sunday.

This brilliant back to back pitching has all but overshadowed the remarkable resurgence of Chicago White Sox who, in one week, leapfrogged from last to first place with seven victories in eight games.

Following up Grissom's 1-0 three-hit squeaker over Robin Roberts Saturday, Maglie and Antonelli limited the Phils to five and three hits respectively Sunday as the Giants swept the doubleheader 3-0 and 5-0.

The White Sox made it three in a row over Baltimore, coming from behind each time to capture both ends of a twin bill 3-2 and 4-3. The Chisox thereby boosted the Sox into a half-game lead over Detroit Tigers, who fell into a second-place tie as they lost a 10-9 overtime decision to the Senators. Washington broke loose with five runs in the eighth inning to overcome Boston's Red Sox 5-1.

YANKS DROP

New York's defending champion Yankees dropped into a fourth place tie with Philadelphia when the A's whipped them 4-2 after the Yankees had taken the first game 4-1. The eighth place Athletics have eight innings because of Pennsylvania's postponement.

Brooklyn retained its half-game advantage in the National League by defeating Pittsburgh 4-3 after the Pirates had shelled Don Newcombe off the mound in the first inning to overwhelm the Dodgers 8-3. Cincinnati and St. Louis Cardinals finally climbed into the .500 circle by edging Milwaukee Braves 7-6 in 12 innings.

Maglie outpitched Curt Simmons for his third straight victory. A double by Davey Williams and Don Mueller's single drove a scurrious duel in the seventh. Two-run homers by Monte Irvin and Hank Thompson helped Antonelli gain the nod over Murry Dickson in the nightcap.

Virgil Trucks spotted the Orioles two runs in the first inning, then blanked them with four hits the rest of the way to gain his second White Sox win. Trucks' mound duel with Baltimore's Bob Turley was a scorcher. Mickey Irvin and Hank Majeski drove in the first two runs with a single and Sherman Lollar won the game with a fourth inning home run. Ferris Fain's bases-loaded single climaxed a two-run rally in the ninth inning to give Chicago its second-game victory.

HOMER SNAPS TIE

Dave Philley, who had one hit in 27 times at bat, homered in the 10th with a run on base for Cleveland to snap an 8-8 tie. Outfielder Wally Westlake's two homers kept the Indians in the running.

Three ex-Red Sox players figured prominently in Washington's victory over Boston. Runs-scoring singles by Clyde Vollmer and Mickey Vernon highlighted the Nats five run eighth. Southpaw Chuck Stobbs held his former mates to seven hits.

Jim McDonald turned back the Athletics with pitching help from Johnny Sain and homers by Jerry Coleman, Phil Rizzuto and rookie Bill Skowron, but Don Bollweg and Bill Renna, ex-Red Sox Yanks to Philadelphia last winter, drove in the winning runs in the nightcap.

THREE-RUN HOMER

After Frank Thomas' three-run homer had fayoed Newcombe in the first inning, rookie Curt Roberts insured Pittsburgh's 4-3 game victory with a bases-loaded double in the seventh. Johnny Podres hurled a three-hitter to give the Dodgers a split.

Rookie Art Fowler became the first Cincinnati pitcher to start a complete game this season when he defeated the Cubs in the second game after Chicago had slugged Fred Hedley pitchers for 24 hits including home runs by Ralph Kiner and Randy Jackson in the opener.

Jim Pendleton's muff of Red Schoendienst's bases-loaded fly with two out in the 12th allowed Alex Grammas to score the winning run in the Cards victory over the Braves.

Teepees Easily Defeat Frontenacs In Eastern Canada Junior Opener

QUEBEC (CP) — The powerful St. Catharines TeePees easily defeated Quebec Frontenacs 14-2 Saturday night before 8,000 fans in the opener of the best-of-seven eastern Canada Memorial Cup hockey finals.

The scoring was distributed among six players, Henry Ciesla, Elmer Vasko, Hugh Barlow, Chester Warchol and Jack Armstrong scored for St. Catharines, Guy Rousseau netted the Quebec tally late in the first period.

Twenty - three penalties were called, 14 of them against the TeePees, including a 10-minute misconduct to TeePees' star Brian Cullen, St. Catharines coach Rudy Pilous protested bitterly against the penalty.

Netminder Marvin Edwards was the shining star for St. Catharines net, turning back all but one of the 26 shots fired at him. Jacques Marcotte of Quebec had 20 saves.

BEAT MARLBOROS

The TeePees entered the eastern Canada finals by disposing of Toronto Marlboros. The Frontenacs ousted Ottawa Eastview-St. Charles.

Ciesla and Vasko gave St. Catharines a 2-1 first-period lead. Barlow and Warchol made it 4-1 in the middle stanza, Warchol's goal a neat side effort. Armstrong completed the scoring early in the final session.

Ciesla's tally and Quebec's goal by Rousseau came while both teams were shorthanded. Armstrong counted with the Frontenacs down a man.

The second game of the series will be played here tonight.

Brian Cullen, Junior 'A' OHA Star, Will Be Prize for Some N.H.L. Team Next Season

By BILL SENYK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Brian Cullen, one of the greatest junior-professional prospects to show up in Junior hockey circles in years, may be the prize of one of hockey's biggest bidding races before another season.

At least two National Hockey League teams are after the 20-year-old centre who broke just about every junior scoring record this year. The situation is further complicated because it appears that he is the property of an American Hockey League club.

A native of Ottawa, the 170-pound Cullen led St. Catharines TeePees to a first-place finish in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series this season. He explained them to the OHA championship and into the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final.

GOOD TEAM LEADER

This is his last season in junior hockey. His take-charge attitude and team spirit also label him as a future big-leaguer.

Conn Smythe, managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, acknowledged recently that Cullen is a "great player" when he said Leafs would try to have the five-foot, 10-inch centre placed on their NHL list. "I think the thing that makes him great now is that he's a fighter and that he keeps himself in top physical condition," Smythe said.

Brian is a stickler for physical fitness. He usually practises longer than any of his club mates. He hasn't missed a game in three seasons.

WHERE NOW?

He will almost certainly end up in professional hockey next year but the question among the teeming fans is: With whom? There is talk he is destined for Toronto since TeePees operate within the 50-mile protected zone of the Leafs.

But Buffalo Bisons of the AHL, farm team of Montreal Canadiens, own Brian's contract and that's the gimmick. Canadiens are also reported interested in him.

NHL President Clarence Campbell says Cullen is the outright property of the Bisons. Leafs have an agreement with Buffalo under which they may buy any player developed by the TeePees for a purchase price of $15,000 but they can't exercise that option until two years after the player has left Junior hockey.

Fred Hunt, Bison general manager, says Cullen was on the Buffalo reserve list before Leafs and Bisons entered into their agreement.

BETTER EVERY YEAR

Brian, one of four brothers, has improved with every season. He started in 1951-52 with 30 goals and 31 assists. Last year he notched 41 goals and 33 assists.

This season he set league records for both the number of goals scored and total points. His 161 points is 22 better than the old mark set by Ken Laufman who scored 139 in 1951-52 while leading Guelph Biltmores to the Memorial Cup.

Cullen's 68 goals this year set another mark not likely to be matched soon. The previous record for Oshawa Generals in 1949-50.

Brian's three brothers—Barry, Bruce and Ray—are also hockey players. They couldn't help it living with Brian. Mrs. Joe Cullen, who moved her family from Ottawa to St. Catharines after Brian's second season with the TeePees, says hockey is Brian's whole life.

"He thinks about nothing but hockey," she said. "He doesn't allow his brothers to smoke or eat cream puffs during the season."

LINEMATES ALSO SHINE

Barry made a remarkable debut in the OHA Junior A circuit this season as a member of Brian's line. He scored 107 points on 62 goals and 45 assists to stand fifth in the scoring race, Hugh Barlow, the third member of the C-B-C line, had 48 goals and 73 assists for 121 points, second to Brian.

Chosen the 10th winner of the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy as the most valuable and most gentlemanly player in the league this season, the reserved Cullen reacted characteristically.

"I was really very happy to hear about it," he said. "This is great news. But actually I think most of the credit should go to Hughie and Barry. It's great playing with fellows like that. They're hard workers and make things much easier for me."

Brian isn't letting that talk about his future bother him now. His big aim at the moment is to lead TeePees to their first National Cup in the 11 years they have operated.

Ty Cobb, one of baseball's all-time greats, paced Philadelphia Athletics to a 9-6 victory over Boston in an American League game 27 years ago today. The "Georgia Peach" drove in two runs, scored two himself—one by stealing home — and ended the game with an unassisted double play. It was his third year in the majors, and he retired from active play the following season.

Leafs Divide With Richmond; Wings Top Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League's cash register appeared today to be the big winner in the acquisition of Richmond and Havana, although at the rate the Cubans are going they, too, could make some faces red.

Each team drew better than 10,000 spectators—a rarity in the loop except for the Canadian cities in the pre-war era — in splitting doubleheaders Sunday. The Cubans dropped the first game 9-3 to the defending pennant winners, Rochester Red Wings, but came back to take the second 3-2. Their record stands at 5-2.

Richmond defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 in the second game after dropping the first 5-4 in. Both Syracuse and Buffalo swept doubleheaders. The Chiefs won a pair from Ottawa Athletics 5-4 and 13-5 while the Bisons downed Montreal Royals 4-3 and 8-1.

ALL THEY NEEDED

The Red Wings scored six runs in the second inning of the first game with Havana and that was all they needed. But in the afterpiece, Saul Rogovin, the ex-Chicago White Sox hurler, handcuffed them. Juan Delis doubled and scored on Lou Garcia's single in the sixth inning for the winning run.

Archie Wilson hit two home runs and Jack Crimian stopped the Virginians cold in relief for the Toronto first-game victory. In the second game Hartley Haag, a veteran who was with Albany of the Eastern League last year, checked the Leafs on seven hits.

The Bisons took over first place with their victories over the Royals. Frank Carswell, Ron Norbury and Ken Johnson all hit home runs for the winners.

Bob Bowman hit a bases-loaded single to pull the first game out of the fire for Syracuse, but the Chiefs exacted to the nightcap triumph. Relief Duke Markell won the first and Jack Sanford the second, although he didn't go the distance.

Oshawa Blasts Gunners 6-1

SIMCOE (CP)—Oshawa Truckmen defeated Simcoe Gunners 6-1 on Saturday night to tie up their Ontario Hockey Association senior B series 1-1.

Truckmen took an early lead—3-0 at the end of the first period—and were never headed. At the end of the second the score was 4-1. Close checking by Oshawa kept the Gunners away from the visitors' net.

Jerry Goodwin scored the lone Simcoe goal. Oshawa scorers were Wally Kamanski, Jedd Willson, George Samolenko, Fred Etcher, Jack Thaler and Gerry Scott.

Senators Defeat Quebec Aces 6-3; Take 4-2 Lead

QUEBEC (CP)—Ottawa Senators take the ice against Quebec Aces tonight odds-on favorites to win the Quebec Hockey League finals after two week-end games that gave them a commanding 4-3 lead in the best-of-nine series.

The Senators will be playing at home flushed with a 6-3 victory at Quebec Sunday night. They missed a chance to wind up the series during the week-end by going down 3-2 Saturday night at Ottawa.

Dusty Blair was the chief marksman for Ottawa Sunday counting two of his team's six goals. Other Ottawa scorers were Phil Maloney, Leo Gravelle, Gerry Foley and Red Johnson.

The Senators dominated play throughout the first two periods, building up a 4-0 lead before Quebec came to life in the final session to outscore Ottawa 3-2. Larry Regan, Michel Labadie and Ray Powell counted for the Aces.

GOALIE STARRED

On Saturday substitute Quebec goalie Jean Marois was the star of the night, Marois playing his first playoff game for the Aces, turned aside 18 scoring attempts to shut out the Senators.

Quebec took the lead in the second frame when Ledger Tremblay picked up a rebound to crash the puck past Ottawa goalie Ray Frederick from seven feet out.

In the final period the Senators tried desperately to tie the game but with only 24 seconds remaining to play Larry Regan smashed home an insurance marker for the winners.

Icing the Puck Ruled Illegal By OHA at Annual Conclave

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Icing the puck, a favorite gimmick by penalty-short teams in scattering opposing players away from the net, has been ruled illegal in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Delegates to the OHA's annual meeting Saturday approved the new penalty presented by the executive committee.

The committee had originally asked that the rule apply when fifteen men were also two men short. However, W. K. (Bucko) McDonald of Sundridge successfully argued that a team with two men in the penalty box was not strong enough unless it was able to ice the puck away from its own zone.

The convention decided to bring all of metropolitan Toronto, as defined in the Ontario legislature's Bill 80, into the OHA. The move will mean fringe area clubs, such as Markham, Alliston and Beeton, to return to the association. Newmarket was also allowed in the association.

NEEDS TO ENTER

Stan Smith, manager of the Newmarket Spitfires, said unless these fringe area clubs join the metropolitan area's senior B competition, the organization would be unable to carry on.

The convention approved an executive committee amendment which would allow the imposing of a $10 fine on any player who left the players' or penalty benches to enter a fight on the ice and the suspension of the coach for the next three scheduled games for allowing the player to take part.

The convention also turned down a recommendation calling for a match penalty on any player who engaged in fisticuffs.

In support the executive committee's proposal, Father Edward Flanagan, representing Toronto St. Michael's of the OHA Junior A series, said it was an "excellent measure."

"In my books hockey is a game of skill and courage. Fighting has no place in hockey."

Dr. C. Graham of Elmira said he would support the recommendation if it ruled only that the man start eligible for the next received the penalty.

"If a man doesn't come back at the fighter I can't see why he should be penalized."

NEEDS STIFF PENALTY

Frank Buckland of Peterborough, OHA first vice-president, said a stiff penalty would act as a deterrent to any future fighting.

A match penalty with an automatic suspension will be given any player leaving the players' or penalty benches to enter into altercation among the spectators.

A team failing to appear within 15 minutes of the scheduled starting time of a game will be liable to a fine set by the executive committee.

The number of eligible imports on a junior C club was reduced from three to two and on a junior D team from two to one with no waiver players.

Delegates opposed a request by the Orillia senior B hockey club that towns compelled to play senior B hockey by reason of population, be allowed a greater number of imports than cities which compete in senior B competition.

J. C. McDonald, in presenting the request, said such a move would make all clubs equal in strength and provide better competition.

OFFICERS CHANGE

Jack Devine of Belleville said if any changes were to be made it should be the population classifications.

"It's just a case where the rich get richer and the poor get poorer. I think we're getting away from the game. . . It's a straight case of financial venture."

George S. Dudley of Midland, in presenting his treasurer's report, said the OHA was "suffering from success." He said the construction of large numbers of artificial rinks has resulted in the formation of many new leagues and longer schedules.

The OHA ended the 1953 financial year with a balance of $23,654 in the bank and $32,000 in government bonds, compared with $24,033 cash and $17,000 in bonds in 1952.

Lloyd Pollock of Windsor was elected to the executive committee, defeating Dr. A. E. Smith of Collingwood. Re-elected were Ken McMillan of Georgetown, Herb Parker of Stratford and Ab Hulse of Aurora.

Bill Hewitt, executive, headed by M. L. (Tory) Gregg of Wingham, as honorary president, was returned by acclamation.

Western Bowlers Win Three Titles

WINDSOR (CP)—Western Canada bowlers walked off with three of the four championships Saturday in the annual five-pin bowling championship held here.

Dave Bisset of Vancouver won the men's singles championship, Mary Currie of Calgary the ladies' singles and Calgary All-Stars the ladies' team competition. Hamilton Ottawa Furniture won the men's team championship for the lone eastern title.

Pegs, Penticton Battle To Third Draw

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Grand Warwick was the toast of the town here this week-end, but the Penticton Vs playing-coach will have his work cut out for him tonight in the seventh game of the western Canada Allan Cup finals.

Warwick, one-time New York Rangers, saved his team from elimination Saturday night by firing a goal with 2 seconds left in overtime that tied Winnipeg Maroons 4-4.

It was the third game of the best-of-seven series to end in a 4-4 stalemate. Maroons hold a 2-1 edge in the games that have gone to a decision.

Penticton will need a clear-cut victory tonight if V's are to stay in the running. Another tie game will put Winnipeg into the Allan Cup finals against Sudbury Wolves.

In Saturday's game Maroons' ace Odie Lowe forced the overtime period with a goal at 14:32 of the third that knotted the score at 3-3.

Tom Rokey shot Maroons into the lead again halfway point in the 10-minute overtime session and that looked the winner until Warwick came through.

Deal Players In Intercounty

GALT (CP)—Galt Terriers and Guelph-Waterloo Royals Saturday completed a deal involving five Intercounty Senior League players.

Flaying-manager Mike Pontarelli of Galt, who made the swap with Intercounty manager Ernie Goman of the Royals, said Terriers will obtain catcher Art O'Connor and southpaw pitcher Matt Cumienski from the Royals in exchange for pitcher John Walter, a lefthander, Earl Hannel, a righthander, and first baseman Gerry Cline.

The acquisition of O'Connor gives Terriers two top receivers. The other is Jim Schindler, who played in Galt three years ago before joining the Lubbock Club of the West Texas League.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — No matter how hard they try, they can't seem to kill off 3D.

The "deaphies" caused Hollywood's first big splurge on new screen dimensions. But then the studios concentrated more on screen size, rather than the third dimension. Movie - goers complained that the glasses were bothersome.

But 3D is still in business. Having had good luck with "Hondo," Warners put out the current "Phantom of the Rue Morgue" in 3D. It will do the same with the big - budget Alfred Hitchcock thriller, "Dial M for Murder."

And Leonard Goldstein's panoramic company will issue "Gorilla at Large" in the stereo version.

You can't count out 3D," says Goldstein. "It may do poorly in some town but sensationally in another. Exhibitors who don't want to bother with the glasses can just run the picture in 2D."

Goldstein runs today's liveliest independent film company. Having turned out a dozen films for 20th Century-Fox release, he now is dickering with a number of major distributors for future films.

He is in a good position, since the theatre men are howling about the film shortage.

He is also doing something about the talent shortage. "Somebody had better start building some new stars soon," he warns, "or the present ones will be too old."

I wonder if aspiring actresses are discouraged by this week's spectacle. A foreign girl was brought to Hollywood amid much hoopla and signed to a seven-year contract, for no claim to fame. She stripped to the waist and posed for pictures with Robert Mitchum.

It must make girls wonder if all those dramatic, singing and dancing lessons they pay for are worth the money.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frank Sinatra, the Oscar winner, is playing his most dramatic role to date, but he says he won't give up singing.

Portraying a would-be presidential assassin in a thriller called "Suddenly," he plays a war hero who has learned to kill by wiping out 27 Germans in battle. He is hired by unknown parties to kill the unidentified United States president for half a million.

That sounds like a heavy hunk of acting for a guy who used to sit on a bandstand all night. But Sinatra is approaching it with the same confidence that earned him an Academy Award for his role of Maggio in "From Here to Eternity."

"I don't aim to give up singing," he says. "From Here to Eternity' was the greatest thing in the world for me because it opened up a whole new field. I never would have been offered this role if it hadn't been for 'Eternity.'

"But I hope to do a musical with Gene Kelly."

HIS WISEST INVESTMENT

His salary for "Eternity" came to around $10,000 — 1-10th or less of his usual salary for a film — but it was the wisest investment he ever made. Now he has more work than he can handle.

Oh, yes, about his wife, Ava Gardner. Frankly, He does say that she'll be back in Hollywood soon. After that, it's anyone's guess.

Little Benny's Note Book

Mrs. Hews called me up this afternoon and asked her if she thought she could get pop to go to their house with her and play bridge after dinner, and ma said she would do her best but she wasn't sure, and after dinner pop was finishing his coffee and starting his cigar, and ma said, My, William, here it is Friday, and we haven't been out of the house since Monday.

Oh, I wouldn't say that, pop said. I went out and played golf and I'm sure you've been darting out yourself in your graceful way. And then we both come home to roost, like the birds. It's quite poetic when you think of it, he said, and ma said, It mite be poetic if we were birds for sail and sakes. I was talking to Maud Hews off the fone. She's always trying to get up a session of bridge. She's certainly crazy about the game, ma said.

There's no accounting for taists, pop said. Some people like to walk in the rain, and I knew a chap that put ketchup on his apple sauce, he said, and ma said, Now William, if you don't want to go out tonight, just say so and make a long story short.

Who said anything about not wanting to go out? pop said. A number of fact I didn't think a dash of nite air would do me good. You cant beet the nite vitamins in moderation. And while we're out, it mite not be a bad idea to stop in for a spot of bidge with the Hewses, he said, and ma said, Now William, if you do I'll actually, you can be very agreerating That will be wonderful, she said.

And she quick telefoned to Mrs. Hews to expect them and made pop finish his cigar on the way there.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

Dry your tears, little one. You need not feel so bad when you are told there were more tricks than you took in a deal you played. The masters of the world are often in the same fix.

North became declarer at game in hearts in this deal:

NORTH
	♠A 8 6 4
	♥K J 9 7 5
	♦A 7 4
	♣9
WEST	EAST
♠J 9 7 5 2	♠3

♦K 10 9 3	♦J 8 2 2
♣10 3	♣K J 7 5 4
SOUTH
	♠K Q 10
	♥A 10 3 2
	♦Q 5
	♣Q 8 6

Not one of the masters in the 26 table Summer national took 12 tricks. And yet, 12 tricks are possible. The amazing thing is that not one of those bridgists saw it in time.

East club king gets the first trick. If the club ace is then led, north ruffs; cashes two trumps, ruffs a third club; cashes the diamond ace, two south spades, the club queen, and another trump. Three cards left.

East may fear a ruff of the club ace setting up south queen. So, considering timing, he may start his second lead with a switch to a small diamond. This calls for a bold play by declarer.

South plays the eightspot, west's cover with the nine is taken by north's ace. To prepare for an extra needed entry to south, the bold play is leading a north trump and finessing south's ten.

A club return is ruffed by north. North's trump return picks up east's queen with south's ace. Another club is ruffed by north. A spade to the queen enters south and north ruffs the last south club (queen).

South is entered with a spade to the king. On a trump lead from south is stuffed a north diamond. And now each hand is down to only three cards with south in the lead.

South now has a spade, a trump and the diamond queen. North has ace with small spade and a small diamond. West has spade jack with nine and the diamond king. Right here south leads his last trump.

West is squeezed. If he throw a spade, dummy gets two spades. If west gives up the diamond king, south's diamond q ueen and north's spade ace have the last two tricks. You see, it can be done.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Good news in the making for you who are alert, watching outside and indirect influence as well as the obvious ones. Carefully scrutinize plans, actions of others. Protect family.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You assume a positive attitude, disregarding others' opinions, you will find yourself in difficulty and gain discredit. Be diplomatic; don't insist on last word; keep friends.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Plenty of possibilities both in business and personal matters. In all tasks and problems, whether personal or business, be concerned, of course, but do not magnify obstacles.

Three Thousand School Children Back at Desks

Close to three thousand Belleville school children of public school age trekked back to classrooms this morning after the Easter holiday period.

And thus for the next two months—until the summer holidays—the little dears will be out of their collective mothers' hair.

But the kiddies don't seem to mind going back to classes and most are eager to be back in school. In fact they seem to miss their classmates and studies as was indicated by the holiday activities of a group of West Hill second grade pupils.

What did they do during the holiday period? Why they took a Sunman's holiday and played at school for the entire holiday period.

TO FEED ESKIMOS

OTTAWA (CP)—An RCAF Dakota left Ottawa Sunday to drop food to a group of 50 or 60 Eskimos on Belcher Island in Hudson Bay. The plane refuelled at Xapatania Inlet before heading some 420 miles the natives have run short of food.

Conciliation Refused While Pact in Force

TORONTO (CP)—The labor relations board has refused to grant conciliation to employees of a Windsor tavern, saying that union and management should live at peace while a collective agreement is in force.

The contract, signed by members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union (AFL-TLC) and Bowson's Tavern, is valid until June 8, 1954. The board handed down its decision this week-end.

The union and the company were unable to reach wage agreements last year and the union applied for conciliation. The board refused, saying that if conciliation were granted, it could lead the union to a strike or management to a lockout, while their contract was still in force.

Duke of Somerset, Noted Soldier, Dies

LONDON (AP) — The Duke of Somerset, 71, head of one of England's oldest families, died today.

The duke, a professional soldier, served in the Boer war and commanded a battalion of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers in the First World War.

He, was a leading member of the "Magic Circle," a group of British conjurers.

His title, created in 1547, goes to the duke's only surviving son, Lord Seymour, 43.

Farmers Hoping For Continuation Of Fine Weather

District farmers are hoping for a continuation of the fine weather of the past several days and say that if rain holds off hundreds of acres of grain will be sown within the next week or ten days.

With the exception of extremely high and well drained land very little spring's work has yet been done due to frequent rain preventing fields from drying up.

However during the past few days even fields in low lying areas have been drying rapidly as surface water has either run off or has been absorbed in the land.

Grass is beginning to shoot up and as result of recent warm weather development of tree buds has been especially notable.

Guy P. Gannett Dies in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Guy P. Gannett, 72, who operated a group of newspapers and radio stations in Maine, died in Doctors' Hospital here Saturday night of a heart ailment.

He was taken to the hospital two days ago when he suffered an attack while attending sessions of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The Guy Gannett Publishing Co., of which he was president and principal owner, puts out the Portland Press Herald (morning), Evening Express and Sunday Telegram; the Daily Kennebec Journal (morning) at Augusta, and the Waterville Morning Sentinel.

He was no relation to Frank E. Gannett, publisher of a group of papers in New York State and elsewhere.

RELIEF PAYMENTS?

TORONTO (CP) — Leaders of Toronto's 70,000 AFL-TLC trade unionists, concerned about the jobless problem, suggested Saturday there should be a return to depression-style relief payments. Delegates at a special meeting also demanded a start of large-scale public works.

Playing Motor Tag Expensive For Two Drivers

Playing motor tag along city streets and around gasoline stations can be a dangerous as well as expensive sport it was learned over the week-end by two young local motorists.

Provincial Constable G. McNutt was waiting for the green light at the intersection of Coleman and Bridge streets, when two autos raced across the river bridge at a fast rate of speed, then cut through a garage parking lot and across a service station back onto Bridge street. A door flew open on one car and the other nearly crashed into a garage showroom window.

The constable arrested both men and took them to the city police station. John Holcroft, R.R. 3, Belleville, and George Kent, 43 Holloway street, pleaded guilty to careless driving charges and paid fines out of court.

BREWERY HEAD DIES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert W. Fidler, 78, president of Coast Breweries Ltd., of Vancouver and chairman of the Portland Pacific Coast baseball club, died Sunday.

Pearson Says Geneva Parley 'Most Difficult'

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson, leader of the Canadian delegation to the Geneva Far Eastern conference opening today, said Sunday night that the meeting is "one of the most difficult and complicated" of post-war years.

But, he added, "given good will, it may be possible that something constructive will arise from it."

Pearson made the statement to a reporter shortly after his arrival in Geneva by train from Paris where he attended a NATO council meeting Friday.

Canada's interest in the Geneva conference involves attempts to bring permanent peace to divided Korea where Canadian troops fought in the war and now are stationed along the cease-fire line.

WON'T SIT ON INDO-CHINA

The Canadian delegation will not sit in on the part of the conference dealing with Indo-China.

Pearson dined with Australian Affairs Minister Richard Casey, a colleague at the United Nations Sunday night and planned to confer with the Canadian delegation later as well as with other Commonwealth delegations.

Photographers and reporters crowded around the Canadian minister as he alighted at Geneva's central station.

"Geneva is an old home to me," he said, shaking hands on the platform with George Magazin, chief Canadian diplomatic representative in Switzerland.

Pearson's last visit to Geneva was in 1946 in connection with a United Nations relief conference. He also spent "month after month" at Geneva in a series of pre-war peace conferences.

INDO-CHINA ARMISTICE PLAN RUMORED

Military observers in Moscow say the Red Army has changed its battle doctrine since 1945 and that its tactics now are closer to those used by armed forces in the West. Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer who spent five months in the Soviet Union, says the forces seem to be gaining strength politically. At least 80 serving army and navy officers were elected to the Supreme Soviet last March. This composite picture shows traditional May Day ceremonies in Moscow's Red Square, with military units lined up for review. — (CP from AP.)

Red Army Uses Years Since 1945 to Bring Battle Doctrine Up to Date Says Writer

Editor's Note: Bill Boss was a Canadian Press war correspondent in Italy on western Europe during the last World War. For three years he was CP correspondent with the Canadian forces in Korea. Now, just back from five months in Moscow, he writes in this story—one of a series—of recent changes in the Red Army.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Red army has used the years since 1945 to bring its battle doctrine up to date.

During the Second World War, it was profligate in its waste of manpower. Massed Russian infantry, advancing under heavy artillery fire, overwhelmed German armored formations in bloody no-holes similar to the "human wave" battles of Korea and Indo-China.

Soviet General Andrei Gromyko once boasted at a United Nations session to Canada's Gen. A. G. McNaughton: "More Russian blood flowed in the defeat of Germany than water flows in the St. Lawrence river."

SIMILAR TO WEST

Now competent observers in Moscow say:

"There is no reason to think that Russian battle tactics differ much from ours."

Only mechanization and armor in vast quantities could have made the change in Red Army tactics possible.

Soviet exercises in Germany and Austria afford clues to current Russian doctrine and it is on these that Allied information is based. If the observers are a true indication, the Red Army also has reorganized its supply services and streamlined the administrative pipeline which, during the war, stretched precariously east and west of the advancing Soviet war machine to a dangerous length.

But Western military attaches in Moscow must rely on glimpses of the war machine in their shadowed travels, and tidbits of information gleaned from official Russian publications. They say the real intelligence work on Russian armed strength is done not in the U.S.S.R. but by experts at home and in border countries outside the Iron Curtain.

Moscow embassies were rocked recently when the Red Army invited a British observer to...visit an army college in Leningrad. His colleagues in the diplomatic corps have been living like fakirs, just waiting for invitations. The post-

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Forecasts — Cold Tuesday winds with cloudy skies and mild-40 temperatures continue most of Ontario today. A line just south of the Great Lakes separates this cool air from the mild tropical air to the south where mid-60 temperatures were common Monday afternoon. Lifting of the moist air over the cool arctic air caused showers and thunderstorms in southern regions and some wet snow north of Georgian Bay Monday. Present indications are that the warm air will only advance into the most southerly parts of the province leaving the rest of Ontario in cool air.

Trout Jumps Foot in Air To Trap Angler

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—An enthusiastic fisherman out to beat the rush stretched his line a foot over the lake and waited until the 8 a.m. opening of trout season to drop it in.

It wasn't his fault, he protested, that a trout leaped up and snared the bait 10 minutes before the official opening time last Saturday morning.

Quite one of the "facts" the state conservation department uncovered in its survey of West Virginia fish and fishermen on the opening of trout season. The story was backed by testimony from four witnesses.

man hasn't knocked.

Numerical strength of the Russian forces is a close Soviet secret. In Moscow you see comparatively little of the services. There are many officers—including visiting Czechs and Poles—but no more than you would expect in a city of 6,000,000, capital of a country of 210,000,000 where not only the service headquarters but their staff and command colleges are located.

Occasionally a detachment of soldiers marches through the streets, headed by a military band, men carrying red traffic flags; but industrial and military demonstrations seem to have passed with the receding Stalin era.

CASTLE VICTIM OF TAXES

GLASGOW (Reuter)—An unoccupied 162-year-old castle on a hillside overlooking Loch Lomond was blown up today because its owner found taxes and upkeep too high. It had 40 rooms and a 350-foot high tower and was a well-known landmark.

Sultans and Sheiks Gather at Aden To Pledge Their Loyalty to Queen

ADEN (CP) — Colorfully turbaned Arabs, sultans and sheiks from across the peninsula pledged their loyalty today before the Queen.

Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived at this Indian ocean seaport colony early today aboard the royal liner Gothic on the homeward stretch of their world circling tour which began last November. The Queen, dressed in a lemon-yellow silk gown, held an umbrella as protection from the sun as she and the duke rode in an open car to a reviewing stand placed in front of a statue of Queen Victoria.

A camel corps and gaily uniformed Aden Bedouin troopers marched past to pay their respects.

They remain ever loyal to Your Majesty and very sensible to the great honor we have received by Your Majesty's presence among us today," ran the address of

Monsoon Starts In Indo-China, May Help French

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI (AP)—The long-awaited big seasonal monsoon rains hit Dien Bien Phu and all of north Indo-China today as French and Communist Vietminh artillery kept up their violent duels across the battered ramparts of the besieged fortress.

In its usual brief morning communique, the French high command described the situation at Dien Bien Phu as "unchanged" and said there had been no important land fighting in the last 24 hours.

Since the rebel artillery attack stepped up Sunday, the French have believed that a third all-out Vietminh infantry assault to overwhelm shrunken fortress defences might come any time.

Many observers expect the monsoons to hamper or halt Vietminh operations and seriously slow transport of the rebels' war supplies from China. The French hope this will force their enemy to taper off his efforts to overrun Dien Bien Phu's battered and outnumbered defenders.

ALSO HAMPERS FRENCH

But the advent of the big rains, accompanied by violent lightning and thunderstorms, also retards the French, slowing their tanks and armored vehicles.

The heavy clouds and sheets of rain today forced French planes to taper off their heavy attacks on the rebel legions tightly circling the northwest battlefield, and lines of trucks and coolies bringing food and munitions. Monday United States-supplied Corsair fighter-bombers had swelled the French-piloted air fleet to 75 for the first time for a record day of attacks on the Vietminh.

Despite the weather, French transport planes kept up their drops of men, war material and food into the beleaguered fortress.

The Vietminh's heavy artillery craft guns again and again threw up curtains of fire at the low flying transports, and one U.S. civilian pilot, first U.S. casualty of the war, was wounded.

Mundt Bans McCarthy's Plan To Call 'Mystery' Witnesses

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Karl Mundt said today that any surprise "mystery" witnesses will be barred from testifying in the senatorial inquiry into the controversy between Senator McCarthy and United States Army officials.

Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens was recalled for further cross-examination in this fourth day of nationally televised hearings on charges by Stevens and others that Wisconsin Republican senator and his aides sought special military favors for G. David Schine, a former staff member.

Mundt, South Dakota Republican who is presiding, said in advance, Mundt, Republican senator from South Dakota, said in an interview:

"There will be no surprise witnesses from either side."

EXAMINING EVIDENCE FIRST

He added that if McCarthy comes forward with any startling new evidence, the sub-committee's first duty would be to examine it first.

Monday's session broke up after an angry exchange between McCarthy and Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas, senior Democrat on the Republican-controlled committee which McCarthy normally heads. He has stepped off the chairman's seat for now.

This came when McClellan said Stevens had been subjected to smears by subordinates and give Schine an army commission to keep him and grant McCarthy and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, "what they were ashamed to request" and "you had authority, but never would issue such a commission on your own."

McCarthy broke in to say he thought McClellan had implied that McCarthy "could be bought off." Any such implication, he declared, was "completely improper and unfair."

There is no evidence that this chairman (McCarthy) ever could be bought for himself at any hearing and never will be bought off in any way."

SUSPEND HEARINGS

Stevens, in a full day in the witness chair Monday:

1. Acknowledged he once suggested that McCarthy suspend hearings he alleged anti-semitism in Fort Monmouth, N.J., let the army and senate probe charges that Schine, if he was not satisfied. Stevens said he did not contemplate that the McCarthy inquiry would be halted.

2. Denounced as an "unequivocal lie" statements by McCarthy and Cohn that he once suggested they shift their attention to the navy or the air force.

3. Said McCarthy never threatened him if favors for Schine were not forthcoming. Cohn did once ever voice threats to him personally, the secretary said.

Murder Charge Laid Against Windsor Youth

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Joseph Adams, 20, today was charged with murder in connection with the death Monday of his month-old daughter, Deborah Ann. He was remanded to May 5.

Police said Adams went to Sandwich East township police headquarters Monday morning and reported the child's death. They said Adams returned to the apartment with them. Adams' wife, who is 18, was not at home.

Police said the father told them he was holding the child, which slipped from his hands and struck.

An autopsy was performed, but results have not been disclosed officially.

The couple moved into the apartment on Good Friday and the baby was born March 13.

Korea Opposes UN Withdrawal When Reds Leave

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (CP)—South Korea's foreign minister said today that it would be "against logic and reason" to insist that United Nations forces withdraw from Korea at the same time as Chinese Communist troops pull out.

The foreign minister, Pyung Yung Tai, got the conference off on its quest for a Korean peace settlement when he became the first to rise after the signing of the truce at Panmunjon. He said such an arrangement would be a bonus for dropping his criminal weapon and condition Korea's future on disarmed simultaneously.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov presided, after a morning of diplomatic activity.

ALLIED SESSIONS CONFER

There was also a morning meeting of the 15 countries represented in the United Nations forces which fought in Korea. They were represented by John Holmes of the department of external affairs and Hector Fleming, minister to Norway.

CREDIT RISES

OTTAWA (CP)—The amount of money Canadian consumers owed for the things they bought on time rose by $59,000,000 to a new high of $1,356,000,000 in the final quarter of 1953, the Bank of Canada said Monday.

MP SUGGESTS QUEBEC SIGN TAX AGREEMENT

House Resumes Budget Debate After Recess

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal backbencher from Quebec has suggested that the Quebec government give up its new 15-per-cent personal income tax in favor of a tax agreement with the federal government.

Bona Arsenault, Bonaventure, said Monday in the Commons that agreement might be reached on that basis, with Quebec retaining its right to levy corporation taxes and succession duties.

A federal tax agreement with Quebec, the only province without one, would allow the province to levy fully its own country's economic growth, he said as the House resumed the budget debate after an 11-day Easter recess.

Leon Balcer (PC—Trois-Rivieres) said the government should allow a full deduction of the Quebec income tax from federal payments instead of the five-per-cent deduction allowed by federal tax laws. That proposal was rejected by the government in Finance Minister Abbott's budget speech April 6.

A related proposal was put forward by Opposition Leader Drew who asked that the whole federal-provincial conference on constitutional amendments be resumed and allowed to discuss all federal-provincial problems, including fiscal ones.

His motion was made as the Commons considered a government motion to bring to the estimates of several departments. It was ruled out of order and Mr. Drew withdrew it.

CRITICIZED GOVERNMENT

Speaker Ross Macdonald said the motion paralleled a Progressive Conservative non-confidence motion on discussion in the budget debate. The latter motion criticized the government for "failure" to reach agreement with the provinces on a clearly defined realignment of taxing powers.

Mr. Drew said every province had asked for a conference on taxation and constitutional issues. As he did before the Easter recess, he urged Prime Minister St. Laurent to summon such a conference. The provinces had asked for it.

The opposition leader did not mention Quebec by name, but said that every province which has not signed a tax agreement has the right to levy income and corporation taxes and succession duties. A province which does so should get the same co-operation as in earlier days when provinces which signed provinces were collected for them by the federal government.

Under the present tax agreements, provinces have "rented" to the federal government their right to collect personal and corporation income taxes and succession duties. In return they receive annual federal payments. Ontario, the last to sign, offered three years ago to rent back its right to collect succession duties.

APOLOGIZES TO JOE

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune says Maj.-Gen. Arthur H. Wilson (ret.) has apologized to Pte. G. David Schine and Senator McCarthy for offering $100 to get non-commissioned officer in the United States who would "scuff" Schine. The Herald Tribune says Wilson wrote letters to Schine and McCarthy calling his offer "ill-tempered." Schine is the centre of the current dispute between the army and the Wisconsin Republican senator.

Officer Known as 'Gambler's Foe' Again Heading Anti-Gambling Squad

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Telegram says today that Staff Inspector W. J. Tomlinson, known as the "gambler's foe," has returned to the head of the morality branch of the Ontario provincial police in a shakeup which may signal an all-out drive against gambling throughout the province.

The newspaper, in a front-page story, says that Sgt. Clifford von Gallon, acting chief of the branch for 10 months, has been transferred to liquor control investigation duty, acting chief of the branch for 10 months, has been transferred to liquor control investigation duty, a job he had held once before. Von Gallon, chief of the branch for 10 months, has been transferred to liquor control investigation duty, a job he had held once before.

Inspector Tomlinson, who formerly headed the anti-gambling detail, was in charge of the OPP training school here since September, 1952.

The Telegram says it learned that the new anti-gambling drive is aimed particularly at the "syndicate" which is said to control gambling in at least five Ontario centres—Cooksville, near Toronto, St. Catharines, Welland, Niagara Falls and Fort Erie.

It says that repeated efforts by members of the anti-gambling branch over the last six months has failed to secure sufficient evidence to justify charges.

Report Britain Backs French Move Brings Denial

Churchill Tells Commons No Commitments Made

GENEVA (CP) — Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov conferred today with State Secretary Dulles of the United States and France's Foreign Minister Bidault amid conflicting reports of a British-backed French plan for an Indo - China cease-fire.

Eddy Gilmore of The Associated Press quoted a highly-informed source that Britain had agreed to back up France in calling for a halt to the Indo-China fighting, but shortly afterwards Reuters news agency quoted high British sources that the report was "ridiculous."

Gilmore's informant said Prime Minister Churchill had telephoned Foreign Secretary Eden from London at least twice Monday night in reaching the decision, but the British source told Reuters that Eden and Churchill had not been in conversation at all.

Molotov called on Bidault this morning at the French minister's request, it was not known whether Bidault broached French hopes for a halt in the fighting. They were said to have talked about what countries will take part in the discussions on Indo-China at the Far East conference which opened here Monday. Korea is down for first discussions at the conference.

CHURCHILL CONFERS

A London report meanwhile said Churchill conferred there today with Rene Mayagli, the French ambassador, on the Indo - China crisis, and there were reports of an Anglo-American decision ruling out big-scale intervention in the war.

The United States has held to the belief that the final character of the war would make any ceasefire hard to enforce.

An American source said Molotov saw Dulles chiefly to discuss President Eisenhower's "atoms-for-peace" proposal but other matters might have been discussed.

The Soviet foreign minister's movements highlighted a morning of intense diplomatic activity before this afternoon's second session of the Far East conference.

Bidault also conferred with Bidault this morning and later gave a luncheon for him and Dulles.

AGAIN WEDNESDAY

After talking with Bidault for 40 minutes, Molotov went into the discussions, saying he had important matters to discuss. The Russian is promised to resume his talks with Bidault Wednesday.

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today Britain will make no commitments on military action in Indo-China in advance of the results of the Geneva conference.

"We have not entered into any new military or political commitments," Churchill told the cheering House.

The announcement was made in reply to a request by Clement Attlee, Labor Opposition leader, for a statement on the meeting of foreign ministers in Paris.

Asking members not to say anything that would render more difficult the momentous discussions and vital contacts" in progress at Geneva, the prime minister said:

"The episode of the siege of the French fortress of Dien Bien Phu, in the fate of which now hangs in the balance, creates violent tension in many minds at a time when calm judgment is most needed.

"The issue of the climax of this assault with the opening of the Geneva conference is not without significance.

"But it must not be allowed to prejudice the arrest of world proportion which should inspire the conference and be a guide to those who are wielding its progress."

Three Hamilton Men Arrested

Constables Price Leslie and Don Pascoli, patrolling in a cruiser, came across the three men pushing an automobile. They said they found a safe in the back of the car.

Mau Mau Threat Led to Changes In Queen's Visit

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — A Mau Mau death threat, it was revealed today, led to recently announced changes in plans for the visit of Queen Elizabeth to Uganda.

The threat, according to a reliable source, was contained in a letter to Mau Mau leader Dedan Kimathi. It said the Queen would be shot if she came to the colony.

The source said the letter was received by Governor Sir Andrew Cohen. It was decided to delete Entebbe from the proposed motorcade drives from the Queen's program.

Fence in Parkwood Heights Splits Council in Debate

A slender stake and rail fence erected to keep an owner's small child off a busy street was under fire in city council Monday night as the objection of an adjoining owner was voiced to council here.

The crux of the whole matter is that the fence, erected by John K. Govier, 38 Bearn Blvd., encroaches on city property. The fence is being added to direct that the fence be removed.

Mr. Govier neglected to secure permission to build the fence on city property and a recommendation from the public works committee to grant him the necessary permission was before council last night. The recommendation was referred back to the public works committee for further consideration.

Richard D. Arnott, local solicitor, addressed council on behalf of J. D. Robertson in the latter's absence, both of whom own properties adjoining that of Mr. Govier. Mr. Arnott said the fence "stuck out like a black eye" and his clients were objecting on the ground that it depreciated the value of their property.

He said his clients were asking council not to grant permission for any fence or fences to be built on city property.

"I am not in accord with this recommendation," said Mayor J. Both. "Four weeks ago this council turned down a recommendation for the city to take action on behalf of a bling owner whose property was flooded like a frog pond, but now it wants to help a man in Parkwood Heights."

EXTENDS EIGHT FEET.

Replying to a question from Alderman Tice, Alderman Smith noted the fence in question extended eight feet on city property. He said there were other instances of fences built on city property, "if we start giving permission we will have 40 per cent of the land in Parkwood Heights down to council," he said.

Alderman Thomas said the encroachment of the fence was not the question. He said the matter was a personal grudge between Mr. Govier and Mr. Robertson who, he said, was doing all he could to make life miserable for Mr. Govier.

"It is merely a matter of petty bickering between neighbors and the city should not get involved in it," he said.

Alderman Clarke referred to a fence at the corner of Foster and Queen, which the city had directed be taken down and built on city property.

Alderman Tice took the same view but all cases should be decided on their own merits, he said.

"If the fence was built without permission then it should come down."

Alderman Smith said his understanding was that the fence was a temporary one and council could order it down at any time.

"I think the encroachment is out of order," pointed out Alderman Safe. "I am not opposed to a fence, but has already been built."

Alderman Duffy said there was another angle to consider, even if that if the city denied the use of property inside the fence then the corporation immediately became liable for its maintenance. "It is to the city's advantage to allow use of such land," he said.

QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE

Mayor Both said he objected to the fence on the ground of principle, noting again that council had refused to step in on behalf of a bling man. "If these two parties agree to the fence being if not, it should come down," he said.

"It is up to the city to protect those who do not want the fence," interposed Alderman Clarke. "Those objecting have no recourse other than this council and we must protect their rights."

Here council returned back to the recommendation granting permission to build the fence and a later recommendation tabled by Mayor Both directing Mr. Govier to remove the fence which was referred to the public works committee.

Sale of 38 Lots To Sidney Spiegel Is Approved

Sale of 32 city-owned lots in the "swamp" area of Parkwood Heights to Sidney Spiegel was approved by city council Monday evening.

The offer to purchase the lots was made some months ago by Mr. Spiegel and Mr. Arthur Black but the sale was not finalized owing to a misunderstanding as to the local improvement charges to be paid. Mr. Spiegel requested permission to withdraw and at last night's council meeting the request was granted when the sale of the lots was amended to allow the sale to Mr. Spiegel.

In moving that the sale be completed Alderman Countryman pointed out the city had a moral obligation to Mr. Spiegel. "The misunderstanding regarding local improvement charges was the result of an oversight on the part of the city solicitor," he said.

Under the amendment agreement of sale, Mr. Spiegel will pay local improvement charges on the lots from January 7th of this year.

MAYOR OPPOSED

Mayor Both said he was opposed to completion of the sale to Mr. Spiegel noting that he had brought up the matter of a covenant at the time of the original sale and then asked for more time to consider the deal. Neither he nor Mr. Hamilton.

"I feel now that it is a new deal. The lots should have been picked up then," he said.

Alderman Tice, as chairman of the Property and the lots had been sold without a covenant owing to the fact that the property was swampy and was unsuitable for building until it was properly drained.

Sale of the lots between March 13 lots in the area are being sold with an eighteen months' covenant, he said. The area is to be serviced with storm sewers.

AMENDMENT LOST

Mayor Both moved an amendment to the motion calling for deferring on the lots to be returned to Mr. Spiegel and Black and for the lots to be again put up for sale.

The amendment was defeated with Alderman Tice and Smith and Mayor Both approving, opposing were: Aldermen Bradford, Countryman, Duffy, Hyde, Keegan, Moxam, Reid, Safe, Temple, Thomas and Tice.

The original motion to sell the lots to Mr. Spiegel was then carried with all council members except Mayor Both approving.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were mixed in moderate forenoon stock market trading today.

Papers continued higher, but at a slower rate, to lead the industrials for the third consecutive session. Utilities were also stronger. A few scattered issues were up in liquors, constructions, steels, and foods, but those categories were too lightly traded to establish clear patterns. No individual features appeared.

Western oils moved slowly with-in a penny range in that group's quietest trading of several weeks.

Base metals were a little higher. Juniors and Manitouwadge issues added. Seniors, although moderately active, mostly showed only penny changes. Volume was not as high in the juniors as in Monday's session. Golds were lower in all categories but losses were small. Uraniums traded actively but penny losses and gains were in balance.

Trucks Idling As Drivers Eat Cause Complaints

The city finance and executive committee will be asked to figure out some plan whereby transports passing through the city will cause less disturbance for residents when drivers stop for a midnight coffee and snack.

Two written complaints from residents in the Foster Ave. and Dundas Street area were read to council last night. Both complained of the noise of transport motors left running while drivers stopped in at a restaurant for a midnight snack.

The noise of the motors disturbed residents and electrical interference disrupted television reception, it was stated.

"There is justification for these complaints," commented Alderman Duffy. "There must be some way in which the drivers could be asked to co-operate."

Alderman Hyde said he had received many similar complaints from the same district. The problem was how drivers could be persuaded to turn off their motors, he said.

Discussion indicated that an anti-noise by-law would be difficult to enforce.

Alderman Smith said the Ontario Transport Association had been contacted and all transport companies had received a letter with respect to noise of transports passing through populated centres. He said that drivers did not intentionally disturb people but it was just unfortunate that trucks did make a noise. The fact that Belleville was in a valley made it more noticeable.

REPORT THIS WEEK

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal conciliation board dealing with the contract dispute involving 150,000 railway employees in Ontario is expected to report late this week, probably Thursday.

Kenneth E. Box, Mrs. J. E. Buchan Given High Posts

Kenneth E. Box, administrator of the Belleville General Hospital, was elected vice-president of Hospital Regional Council No. 8, and Mrs. J. E. Buchan, representing the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, was elected to the council's board of directors at a meeting of the council held in the Students' Union building, Queen's University, Kingston, last Friday.

W. E. Cooke, Brockville, was elected president of the council to succeed Fraser Armstrong, administrator of the Kingston General Hospital.

Other officers elected were: Secretary, Sister Mary of the Assumption, Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston; executive directors, Sister Mary Gwendolyn, R.N., Mary-le-the-Lake Hospital, Kingston; Miss A. Arnold, Picton; Mr. A. Daschael, Kingston; Mr. J. E. Buchan, of Belleville.

The council, representing eight hospitals in eastern Ontario, fought ways and means of reducing individual operating costs by the institution of a program of central purchasing and central storage.

Mr. Box was appointed to do research on the feasibility of instituting a program of central purchasing for the eight hospitals. W. E. Cooke of Brockville, was appointed to explore the possibility of establishing a central microfilming unit. This unit would microfilm X-ray plates and records for all participating hospitals, reducing costly storage areas in each hospital.

The council also discussed the creation of a central storage area for hospital equipment.

All proposals were placed on the agenda of the general meeting of the council scheduled for September at Queen's University.

Hospitals represented on the council include Trenton Memorial, Prince Edward County Hospital, Picton; Belleville General Hospital, Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston; Kingston General Hospital, Brockville General Hospital and two hospitals in Cornwall.

Food and Meat Merchants Want By-Law Enforced

Food and meat merchants in the city want council to enforce their early closing by-law.

This was indicated Monday night, when a petition from certain grocery and meat markets was read asking enforcement of the by-law. The matter was referred to the police commission with instructions to take action.

Alderman Thomas questioned whether there were now sufficient processors in the city who wanted the by-law enforced. "Every day we see more and more grocery men staying open on Wednesday afternoon," he said. "That means they apparently don't approve of the by-law."

Clerk Comptroller H. D. Bateman noted 75 per cent of the grocerymen would be needed to change the by-law. He said the by-law called for early closing five nights of the week, closing on Wednesday afternoon and late closing Saturday night.

SHOULD INSTRUCT POLICE.

"Any by-law must be enforced," declared Alderman Duffy. "And we should instruct the police to enforce laws. We are not in a popularity contest here and if the majority of merchants want the by-law, then obey it. I am opposed to anyone thinking they are privileged."

He suggested that the Chamber of Commerce be asked to canvass the grocery men to see if they wanted the by-law.

"If the Chamber of Commerce or City council that represents the people?" asked Mayor Bolt.

"It is strictly for the merchants to decide," replied Alderman Duffy. "If they want it then we enforce it, but to date council has been remiss in its duty."

Alderman Thomas wondered whether the by-law could be enforced. "It has been tried without success," he said.

The general opinion was that some steps should be taken and the matter was referred to the police committee for action.

Merchants Ask Sign Tax By-Law Be Rescinded

Approximately 50 Belleville merchants and business men are asking that the city by-law covering the annual tax on over-hanging signs be rescinded.

The petition bearing the names of city business-men wanting the by-law rescinded was presented to city council Monday night by George DeVuyst, Bridge street restaurant owner, who claimed that business places were too heavily taxed by the corporation.

He said that city merchants are paying approximately 50 per cent of taxes collected. In his own instance Mr. DeVuyst said he was forced to pay a restaurant tax, business tax, tobacco tax and also the sign tax.

"And now," he went on, "they place parking metering in front of your door."

Mr. DeVuyst said merchants were prepared to be fair with the city and to prevent any upsetting of this year's budget asked that the sign by-law be extended to be effective next December 31st.

The whole matter was laid over to allow the finance committee to investigate and make a recommendation to council. Alderman Wilbur Countryman, chairman of the finance committee, said the sign tax netted the city about $600 per year.

Mr. DeVuyst claimed the city provided no service whatever for the sign tax collected with most merchants carrying their own liability insurance against injury or damage to property should the sign fall.

Council Asked To Help Retain 6 Repair Depot

Belleville city council has been asked to lend its weight in an effort to retain No. 6 Repair Depot at its present location outside Trenton.

Last night a communication from Trenton town council was read to Belleville councillors requesting that this city join with Trenton in an effort to keep the station at its present location. Loss of the station to Downsview, north of Toronto, would mean much economically to both Belleville and Trenton, it was noted.

Council expressed its desire to have No. 6 R.D. remain where it was and turned the matter over to Mayor Bolt to take what action he deemed necessary.

A TRAVELLING FAMILY

The British Royal family must undoubtedly rank at the top of any list of world travellers of the post-war era. Royal yachts, ocean liners and pilots on inter-continental air services could be expected to challenge them, but their professional status rules them out automatically.

Newspaper readers are familiar with the comings and goings of the royal persons, but it is doubtful if many are aware of the extent of their journeyings in all parts of the globe in the past half dozen years. With the sailing of Prince Charles and Princess Anne for a rendezvous with their parents in Tobruk, the Royal family's travel log is complete.

The Queen and the Duke, of course, top the other members of the Royal Family in mileage travelled in the past few years. While still Prince Philip, the Duke spent approximately two years with the Royal Navy, much of the time at sea with the Mediterranean Fleet. Princess Elizabeth, as she was then, despite the confining duties of her office, nevertheless found time to visit him for a holiday at Malta. Then came the tour of Canada. Hardly were they home when the Australian tour was proposed. The Princess and the Prince were in Central Africa in February of 1952 when King George died and they were compelled to cancel a tour which had started with high hopes. In the light of the present round-the-world tour, made trips by the Royal couple to Scotland and to places in the British Isles seem rather insignificant in the number of miles travelled, but the accumulated travelling time and the distances traversed is impressive.

Princess Margaret, whose trips to the style centres of Paris and to Italy were duly recorded in the press, only last autumn journeyed to Africa with her mother on official open the Rhodes Centenary celebrations. She was also her sister's representative on a trip to Belgium, and again, with her mother, was a guest of British Overseas Airways Corporation on a lengthy Comet flight over Europe and Africa at a time when the Comet was being introduced to jet passenger service.

The travelling schedule of travelling shows no signs of easing off, but short as announcements of future engagements show that the Duke, the Queen Mother, and the Duchess of Kent will be busy during the year is out.

The Duke, who will officially open the British Empire and Games in Vancouver in July, is scheduled for a tour of Canada's Arctic as well. The Queen Mother is scheduled to visit the Eisenhowers in Washington in November and will spend a day in Ottawa on her return journey. The Duchess of Kent, and possibly her daughter, will travel to Windsor, Ontario, for the tercentenary celebrations of the border city this summer.

All this travelling is a far cry from the days of the first Elizabeth who boasted of never having been out of England. In those days intrepid British seamen were roaming the world's oceans in impressive numbers while the monarch stayed home. Today, if anything, the position is reversed, with the monarch and her immediate family travelling about the world for distances and with a frequency that would have astonished even Francis Drake.

FREE ENTERPRISE!

Cobourg as an ice-dealer—Henry McIvor.

Port Hope also has a firm which sells ice.

The Port Hope firm asked the Cobourg Council for permission to sell ice in Cobourg.

The Cobourg Council asked Mr. McIvor for his opinion. Mr. McIvor was opposed to such competition. Without a dissenting vote, Council passed a motion refusing permission.

Now there is an enthusiastic group of supporters of free enterprise!

Only person who seemed to have any doubts about the wisdom of this action was Town Clerk J. B. Ewart.

"It should be pointed out first that if they have a storage plant here we can't stop them from dealing here," he told Council.

It should also be pointed out "second" that if the firm has no storage plant it is still extremely doubtful whether the Council can prohibit it from doing business in the town.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star, in its report on the Council proceedings, does not make it plain on just what act the Council based its fears. If, by chance, it was the Transient Traders' Act this is a statute which is open to a wide variety of interpretations—but it is extremely doubtful whether any court would rule that one of the permissible interpretations was the right to refuse a licence to any firm willing to pay the fee.

The courts, generally speaking, appear to retain a belief that competition is the life of trade.

CANADA—LEADER IN RAILWAY TRANSPORTATION

Belleville is, in a very real sense, a railway town.

Residents here may therefore find particularly interesting an observation in the Monthly Letter published by the Royal Bank of Canada.

"Canada," says the Bank, "uses more railway transportation per person than any other country in the world, and Canada's unit cost of transportation is the lowest of all the hard currency countries."

THE SINGLE ROSE

A rose from a woman's bouquet fell as she stepped from her car,
But not caring, she hurried away, For what's one when many there are?

On her arm there were twenty or more
So she left with no sign of regret,
That rose with the fragrance it bore
Was a thing not worth stopping to get.

But another who passed down the way
Discovered the scorned rose and smiled,
It would gladden at least for a day
The life of her sick little child.

What a fortunate chance for that rose
To be dropped at the rich woman's door,
Now a greater delight it bestows
Than will ever the twenty or more.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

"I'm setting so I almost hate spring on the campus."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

APRIL 27, 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Reid(well known and highly esteem- ed residents of Rawdon town- ship, observe the 45th anniver- sary of their wedding on April 22nd. A family gathering was held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Harry (Hilda) Grills near Campbellford at which close to 35 children and grand- children were present.

At the meeting of the Men's Club in connection with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evening those pre- sent were entertained by lic- tured of a debate, the subject of which was "Resolved that it would be to the advantage of the City of Belleville to adopt the city manager form of gov- ernment." Mr. Archibald Carm- eron upheld the affirmative side and Mr. Ray Storey took the negative side. Both speakers were well prepared and handi- led their side of the question in an excellent manner, in fact they did so well that the judges re- frained from handing down a decision. Then Mr. Carmeron, the president of the club, presided and Mr. Charles Cameron led the community singing.

There was a heavy snow fall here today and the temperature [illegible] out one [illegible] yard.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 27, 1904.

Belleville was some lumber town years ago and thousands of logs came down the river to the gap here where they were sorted by river drivers of which there were many employed at the gap and also along the river for several miles to the limit logs moving. Here is an item from our file copy of this date in 1904: "The advance guard of the first drive of 150,000 logs belonging to the Gilmour Com- pany will arrive at the gap here in a few days."

Mrs. Harry H. Ponton and- two daughters of Cressy, are visiting friends. Col. W. N. Pon- ton at Sidney Cottage.

Miss Catherine Ivey and Miss Helen Hurley, Queen Street, are visiting friends in Toronto.

Mrs. W. M. Whyte, formerly of Belleville, has arrived here from Los Angeles, California. She intends to sell her property on Coleman Street.

T. Sloan, foreman of the road- bulls but stay at the scene. Even in the slightest accident it is im- portant not to leave. A grass- hopper is safer as far as your car is concerned, may cause the other driver to lose control. This has happened. If you are not on the scene of an accident and the police may have arrived. or if there seems to be competent help, don't stop but drive past slowly.

2. Warn traffic. Go at least 100 feet back and put on your flasher if you're close to but not on the pavement; wave a flashlight at night, a hand- kerchief by day.

3. Keep hands off victims, un- less you have had training in first aid. Hundreds of accident vic- tims die each year because well- meaning but from handling by would-be rescuers who are not trained in first aid. Exceptions to this rule must be made when the victim is in danger of burning or pinned in wreckage which at any moment may catch fire. Also, no one or light a match near a smash-up. There's often spilled gasoline.

4. Notify police as soon as pos- sible, giving the exact location of the accident. Identifying the ex- act site on a city street is easy on a country road you may have to give the name of a nearby fill- ing station, store, or a mailbox, or some natural feature such as an unusual tree or rock.

The article emphasizes that those who have never been in an accident have no idea how im- portant such rules can be. "If you study the rules carefully, and think of all the trouble that lies behind them, you may never need to use them."

Redhead In the Rain

(Windsor Star)

One of life's little tragedies is reported from Elyria, Ohio. No- tified that a woman was missing in the rain, blood streaming down hear face, police hurried there to find a girl with red hair dye that caused all the commotion.

Silence has drawn a merciful curtain across all that happen- ed thereafter. But the lady's embarrassment can be imagined, and also her anger at the singer who ever sold her a dye that wasn't fast.

Necessarily there will be some idle conjecture about her motive in dyeing the color of her hair. Was its natural hue mousey and unglamorous? Had she read advertisements, "You Haven't Lived Unless You've Been a Red- head?"

The answers are elusive. But at least she has given a redhead, and it was the awfulest exper- ience of her life. Maybe she'll be wiser, though there's a good enough to come in out of the rain.

Grounds For Divorce?

(Minneapolis Tribune)

Our policy of keeping on the qui vive for noteworthy tidings has paid off with the word that a certain famous hand leader will take a weekly bath in cof- fee.

This raises a number of mod- erately interesting questions: e.g. does she take her baths black or with cream and sugar, does she regulate the temperature with spots of hot and cold water or dilute the brew with tap water?

But there is, after all, nothing really significant about young women bathing in unorthodox liquids. Popular (Cecil B. De- Mille version) lolled about in sudsy milk; several late beauties (notably Anna Held and, in memory serves, Marie Antoinette) centered their beauty on the in- juice of the cow; there are re- corded instances of bubble bath cologne, Vichy water and cham- pagne.

So the mere fact that a young woman chooses to spend Saturday night in a tub of coffee seems less than startling. The question that intrigues us is: Why? And the answer we get, loud and clear, is Publicity! Publicity for the bath- er; publicity for the bath.

Which prompts us to offer a suggestion to the dairy industry: Pay a few young queens to ave- that their beauty depends on a weekly milk bath. That would not do much for the butter and cheese surplus but it might pro- vide a new outlet for fluid milk.

Ancient Sport Is Revived

(SPECIAL DISPATCH FROM AP)

Pyramid sliding, like so many other cultural contributions of an- cient Egypt, is a lost art. After 4,000 years, it is inevitable that youth- ful Egyptians, playing hooky from school, should devote a number of afternoons to whizzing down the sides of the forbidden tombs, even while their elders were busy loot- ing the rich burial chambers be- low.

But time, which has worn away the smooth outer shell of the pyra- mids, and perhaps weathered the sides of the vatives as well, has brought a cessation to the ancient sport.

Now slong comes a man to re- capture the glories of the great days. He is a harmless guide who, while showing King Saud of Saudi Arabia around the Pyra- mid of Cheops at Gizeh, must have mentioned the ancient pastime. The king, a sporting man, offered to pay one thousand pounds to see him do it. And the guide was duly obliged, coursing down 546 feet in six minutes.

How this compares with the time established back in the days of the Pharaohs, when accurate records were surely kept, is not known. How he managed to accomplish the feat at all is also something of a mystery, since it is all one can do to walk down the bumpy sides of the pyramids nowadays, let alone slide down.

This is a matter that might well be discussed seriously, preferably with the Sphinx.

How to Avoid Multiple Crash

(Readers Digest).

With increasingly more cars on the road, the "multiple crash" is the kind of accident in which the average motorist is more and more likely to become involved. So warns an article in the May Read- ers Digest.

The multiple crash, or "acci- dent-on-accident", may begin as fender scraping, end up with wreckage and dead strewn over the pavement. Two cars collide on a stretch of road which is ob- scured by a hill, curve, other cars or trees, the following driv- er's view. Another car slams into the wreck, and perhaps another after that — until someone with presence of mind warns oncoming traffic.

Every day and night these streets and country roads multiple crashes are occurring. So increas- ingly frequent is this type of ac- cident that Reader's Digest offers several rules for preventing or ordinary accidents becoming a multiple one. "These rules," says C. W. Gilchrist, managing direc- tor of the Canadian Good Roads Association, "should be learned by everyone who drives or con- templates driving."

If an accident involving your car, or when coming on the scene of another accident, you find you are a competent aid arrives, do the following:

1. Stop, pull off the road if pos- sible but stay at the scene. Even

Plowing Not Boring

(Timmins Daily Press)

Plowing is not the monotonous and boring occupation the city dweller usually believes. According to A. G. Street in "Farmer's Glory," it is the most charming disgust that work can be.

Mr. Street says: "The plow is a perfect implement. The coulter cuts the side of the furrow slice, the share cuts the underside, and the turnfurrow, or mold-board, inverts the whole. Therefore, if you are a competent plowman you are per- forming a perfect operation, and since when has perfection been monotonous?

"When once you have acquired the knack of it, it goes with the effortless urge of a sailing boat. The plow, which looks so clumsy and uncouth, changes its char- acter. In conjunction with your team of horses, it becomes a glor- ious galleon which you steer proud- ly over the broken field like some master of old. It is no longer an ugly, awkward, inanimate thing, but has taken on a living interest which responds to your lightest touch.

"As you become intimate with it you find that you have ceased to be the master and have become implement. You and the plow have become one, a common intelligence with one idea in one only, to plow—on and on and on. Your mind and body are functioning, but in a thing in which it has no con- scious part, noting with a detached interest the fine, even furrow, which falls away on your right in an unbroken line.

"A fieldmouse, disturbed by the point of the share, goes scrambling with its young ones, which are hur- riedly alive beneath it. You are sorry for them, but you are drunk with the urge of the plow and do not stop. Then, when the work seems be absurd, You are no longer a man, you're a machine. You're not even a physician, but I would suggest in all sincerity that three furrows plowed would cure almost any man of a nervous breakdown. For plowing is a mental tonic of the highest order. The plowman is a master of the situation. Nothing can stop him. Little by little he changes the surface of the earth. The plow may be slow, but it is so very sure."

World's Most Pampered Dogs

(Natural History Magazine)

The world's most pampered pooch- es are the Wafwal Indians, a primitive tribe living in the Kaimur Hills of Bihar province in Guiana.

These happy hounds scarcely set paw on the ground during the course of a normal day. Most of the time they are lolling on plat- forms around the inside walls of the huts of their masters in their own individual hammocks.

Twice or thrice a day they are taken down to the river and bath- ed so that they won't suffer from the heat. Once a week they are cut- ried, shivering and sneezing, back to their perches, where they are combed to remove the burrow- ing fleas that can cripple a man or beast. Their diet is carefully con- trolled, which may be very heavy, are al- ways carried, often for miles. Even when they are young these dogs give warning of the approach of hostile tribes or strangers. The dogs, though they may be gentle as lambs to their masters, bark at every unknown brutes alive to some- one they don't know.

When a Wafwal puppy is born, it is washed in an infusion of roots to make it strong. When another dies in a week, it may be suckled by an Indian woman. Adult dogs have received all the end of its life, it is an adored pet.

Girl Under 35

(Brantford Expositor)

Any woman under 35 is a girl, at least in the books of the De- partment of Labor, which in dec- ision refers to "working girls of 14 to 35" but to "women" in higher age groups.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

YELLOW SPECKS

You recall as a child, do you not, picking up a pebble and see- ing little specks of yellow in it, which you thought were gold? You were disappointed when you found they were not. Or perhaps some body palmed off on you a piece of glass or quartz for which you found was plated or perhaps only burnished brass.

All through life we have our dis- appointing experiences. But the world is not all to seek for a whole lifetime after genuine values. Most of the time we find is worthless. The derelict of Gold How who lies on the sidewalk in the rain can cer- tainly never suspected in—the- sinning that life would treat him so shabbily. He was wanted to be popular and was willing to pay any price to get popularity and who later found himself alone and un- loved—he could never have be- lieved in the days of his wild in- decision and evening would be like this.

The parents who try to arrange their children's marriages, rot on the basis of love and romance but on the basis of money and social position, think they are making a brilliant alliance, but when the end comes they wonder how they could have been so foolish.

The world is full of children pick- ing up pebbles. It is only very rare for some of them to learn that the yellow specks are not gold.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

As readers know or should know, I graduated from high school when Canadaigua was a village, when it was a distinc- tion to have been born, stu- tered directly upon the four years course of teaching, becoming a Doctor of Med- icine at the age of 21, interned for 30 months, obtained a license to practise an branch of medicine and/or sur- gery I chose, in the State of New York. Avowedly my education was neglected and I have a natural to sound off as I do in the face of all the college graduates in the profession today.

It is only fair that you pour bile on me who are necessarily ex- posed to the medical care all these college graduates give at pres- ent in mind how ignorant I am, when I say things here like this: In my opinion aspirin (acetyl- salicylic acid) is the least dan- gerous analgesic (pain killer) and distiller) any one can take —not to call it safest, for of course it is never safe.

I'm no stoic, but I'd endure any ordinary ache, pain or other dis- tress rather than take a tablet with a dose of aspirin if I could not die or sit quietly for an hour or two.

Aside from its pain-killing ef- fect aspirin has no remedial or curative value, at any rate none that any authority has demon- strated scientifically.

Being ignorant I get a lot of peculiar satisfaction in the know- ledge that the national multi- trition is largely to blame for continued use of pain killing remedies. If this strikes you as a flight of fancy, I'm sorry, but no matter how many years you loafed in college I think I know at least as much, probably a good deal more, than you do about nu- trition and I laugh when I hear that stereotyped boast about the scale of living being higher in America than anywhere else. It is higher, all right, in cost, but nutritional deficiency (malnutri- tion) is more prevalent in Amer- ica today than in any European country with the possible excep- tion of France.

The advice in this column some- time in May will be about the in- fluence of nutrition on character. Character is what a person is.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THAT HIDDEN YOU

It is not strange that we know so little about our friends, for there is so much that we do not know about ourselves. I have read, or been told, that the physical body renews itself every seven years. That could well happen. Then how about the mind, the heart, and the soul? Isn't it possible that these also are renewed?

How changed those friends of long ago seem to us when sudden- ly we happen to see again. That is why you is forever changing, so that it's no wonder we look upon strangers from their physical ap- pearance is vivid and familiar. To no one do we reveal our deepest self, our heart. We confide at times, but only in small portions. That hidden You still remains largely undiscovered throughout life.

If that hidden you could be sud- denly flooded with light, what a shock of astonishment would immediately be blotted out! Quar- rels and misjudgments, bitterness and hatreds, and great unhappiness could be avoided. We would find out get the right view of one's hid- den you at the right moment and would be ever regrets and apologies as an aftermath.

W. H. Hudson, the noted natura- list, was a man whom many loved and admired. But there was some- thing hidden that he never reveal- ed. His own brother once said that he knew he knew her less than him. In Hudson's books alone does he reveal that hidden self, as is true of many another who has put himself into his book, but never in full and totally revealed.

We often learn more about a per- son after he is dead than we knew when he was alive. That is the tragic fact. We have more reason why we should try to be kindly, tol- erant, and charitable toward every- one. We are always privileged with our friends. We can search for the good in them, remembering that the gold-in this earth is hidden and has to be mined before it can have value.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The cancer scare regarding smoking has no doubt inspired some people to give up the habit. But there is hardly a group of men who had not somebody among us giving up smoking, long before the recent alarm. Like dieting, non- smoking has its frequent ups and downs. The latest of these in my circle is my brother, who would hardly attempt to deceive his own kin.

"It is perfectly astonishing, the effect," he says, having been two years without a smoke, "after two years' smoking." I had heard how quitting cigarettes cured bad colds, bad breath, and how wonderful food tasted again. I had also heard how it gave your wife a shock, so that you could run upstairs with- out puffing. But what nobody told me was what an astonishing effect it has on the passage of time.

"It makes a day seem twice as long. Where formerly you could find time to get through all of your morning's work, you glance at your watch, expecting it to be eleven o'clock. And it is only five to ten. I can hardly believe that the taking out, lighting and smoking of cigarettes, could have consumed entire quarter hours, or half hours of a morning. But the fact is, I have more time on my hands to- day than I could use, for after- noon is even slower than the morn- ing."

Suspecting that he was finding the day longer only because he was deprived of a smoke, I asked him if he suffered any craving.

"No, the hard part is that it is to refrain from lighting one out of force of habit. Somebody comes along and offers a cigarette casu- ally, and you watch yourself just in the nick of time to keep your hand extended. But I don't think I will ever go back to the habit, for the reason that I don't feel tired at the end of my day anymore. There is no doubt in my mind that a two- month add that's the real reason why so many of that fuzzy, drow- sy feeling that has to be fought off like a quilt. I wake up feeling as good as I felt going to bed. Relax- ed!

"I thought smoking relaxed us," I remarked.

"We're all different," he said, "I speak only for myself. I'm through."

And he glanced, with surprise, at his wrist watch.

It was earlier than he thought.

Cara, Greg Butler to Play Two-Piano Recital

Two talented young stars, a brilliant musical future predicted for them, will appear in a two-piano recital in the Collegiate auditorium tomorrow night.

They are Cara and Gregory Butler, 15 and 13 years of age, respectively, the children of Mr. E. Ormonde Butler, Q.C., and Mrs. Butler of this city.

Showing signs of exceptional promise the young pianists attracted widespread attention while studying in Toronto under Mona Bates, well known international teacher of music.

Letta Dempsey, Globe and Mail columnist, wrote, after hearing the talented children. "We're sending a cluster of maple leaves to the Belleville Rotary Club which has engaged Cara and Greg Butler to play a piano concert in aid of crippled children.

BRILLIANT FUTURES

"Last year the club sponsored the Volkoff Ballet. Now with 15-year-old Cara and 13-year-old Greg, brilliant young sister and brother pianist children of a Belleville lawyer, rapidly coming to the fore as Canadian finds, they will sponsor talent. We heard the team in a brilliant performance the other day. It is pleasant for them to realize that recognition can come early from the home lot."

Showing an early tendency towards things musical, Cara and Greg began to study piano with Miss Leona Riggs, well known teacher of this city. They progressed favorably under her tutelage until she retired from teaching in 1949. Then they studied for a year and a half under the gifted William Connor, also of this city.

In Stepmber, 1951, Miss Mona Bates, eminent Canadian musician, heard the children in audition and accepted them as her pupils.

When Cara was twelve years of age she competed for the Ontario Department of Education scholarship as the piano entry for Belleville Collegiate Institute. She won.

WON SEVERAL AWARDS

In 1952 Cara and Greg entered the Kiwanis Festival of Music in Toronto and won seven awards in the one classes in which they were entered. Although the children have played frequently throughout the city at various fraternal and service club functions as well as on the radio, this is their first two-piano recital in Belleville.

The Rotary Club, sponsors of the concert, is bringing down two special Steinway pianos from Toronto for the recital.

The concert starts at 8.15 tomorrow night. Tickets can be obtained from any Rotarian and Tulk's tobacco store, 28 Victoria Ave.—G.H.C.

Result of the election was as follows: President, William R. Nicholas; vice-president, Walter S. Wiggins; secretary treasurer, Bernard Kerr; ward chairman, Ward 1, Hector MacArthur, deputy chairman, P. H. MacMillan; Ward 2, chairman, Leo Doherty, deputy, Lionel Jones; ward 3, chairman, Forrest R. Dennis, deputy, William Shaw, Jr.; ward 4, chairman, Fred Bausch deputy, Eldon Carlaw.

Mr. Sweet reported on the activities of the past year and said that much progress had been made. Mr. Wiggins congratulated Mr. Sweet on his election as president of the county association, and thanked him for his fine work as president of the Campbellford association last year when he was in office. Mr. Wiggins also expressed confidence that Mr. Wm. Nicholas would do a good job as president for this year.

Appeal to Assist Paraplegic Made To Rotarians

An appeal to assist Harold Bloom of Maynooth, a paraplegic, to obtain gainful employment suitable to his abilities was heard by Rotarians at their weekly luncheon meeting held Monday noon.

Jim Bartlett, rehabilitation official of the Canadian Paraplegic Association, made the request at the conclusion of an address in which he outlined the history of the Paraplegic Association and the work that association is doing.

"Paraplegia" the speaker explained, "is a paralysis of the lower limbs and trunk due to damage to the spinal cord."

He stated that prior to World War II paraplegics usually died. Medical and surgical advances during the war years saved the lives of many paraplegic veterans.

"These young, vigorous men needed assistance," said Mr. Bartlett, "and in 1945 the Canadian Paraplegic Association was formed to represent these handicapped men in dealings with the Department of Veterans Affairs. When the veterans had been taken care of, the Association took over operation of Lyndhurst Lodge, a former veterans' hospital, which was converted into a centre for the physical, not the vocational, rehabilitation of paraplegics."

Mr. Bartlett, using case histories as examples, proved that paraplegics are able to earn their own living on merit in jobs that are suited to their limited physical abilities.

SEEKS GAINFUL WORK.

He concluded his address by stating that Harold Bloom, who permanently lost the use of both legs as result of an auto accident last fall, was seeking gainful work in Belleville. He asked Rotarians to explore job opportunities in the city for Mr. Bloom who has completed three years of his five years' apprenticeship as a motor mechanic.

"He can do any type of bench work," said Mr. Bartlett. "He needs a job, is capable of working, and will do the work," he said in stating that Mr. Bloom and the Paraplegic Association are interested in placing him only in work in which he can earn his salary on a merit basis.

The speaker was introduced by Ernie Gurnett and the thanks of Rotary were expressed by Freeman Burrows.

Art Francis presented birthday roses to Ernie Gurnett and Lee Grills.

Harry Moorman led the singsong accompanied on the piano by Stan Goodwin.

Commonwealth Ministers Hold Meeting

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Canadian, Australian and New Zealand external affairs ministers conferred for an hour here today on the Korean problem. They approved Korean problems at the Far East conference.

It was understood that the ministers—L. B. Pearson of Canada, Richard Casey of Australia and T. Clifton Webb of New Zealand —are disturbed by progress in South Korea making "further extreme demands" during the talks here.

School Traffic Signs Donated

Thirty "cops" have been added to the Belleville Police Department but their names won't appear on the city payroll.

They are smiling "policemen" in the role of colorful safety signs which warn traffic to "slow down" because, school kiddies cross the street at each particular "patrol" point.

School and traffic authorities in several cities of the United States and Canada state the signs are a valuable assist in school safety activity.

These "dumb cops" were supplied to the city by the Coca Cola Company Ltd. Manager Aubry Coe says it is expected the total number will reach fifty.

Police Chief Walter Probert said "these 'policemen' are a fine aid in traffic control where children cross the streets, We in Belleville had not had any serious accidents at school crossings, and the signs should reduce the hazard to an absolute minimum. They are welcome."

The signs are placed at a distance from the crossing, so that drivers have plenty of time to slow down before reaching the "danger zone."

The signs which cost in the neighborhood of fifty dollars each are strongly constructed of two sheets of metal fastened on a pipe frame and bolted together along their edges. The front of the figure bears the warning sign, while an advertisement for the company's product is displayed on the back.

Each unit is mounted on a cast iron base, bringing the weight up to 214½ pounds.

The gift to the signs is another indication of the well-known interest taken in community welfare by the Coca Cola Company.

Alderman Thinks Too Many Trees Being Cut Down

Th indiscriminate cutting of large shade trees fs ruining the beauty of the city, according to Alderman H. G. Clarke.

At city council last night Alderman Clarke wanted to know who decided what trees to come down. "Belleville residents were proud of the appearance of Bridge street at one time, and now the trees are nearly all stripped, he commented.

Alderman Smith replied that only defective trees were being cut, and then only on recommendation of the city parks superintendent, the public works and city engineers.

"All the trees cut are not defective," returned Alderman Clarke, "Some were cut that didn't have a rotten limb on them."

Alderman Dunn asked if trees were being replaced where the position was suitable. He was informed this was the case with 250 trees having been ordered for this year.

To this Alderman Clarke declared that young trees should be kept trimmed. "If they are not we will be in the same mess as before," he said.

Alderman Keegan agreed that trees should be replaced where needed. Tourists often comment on the beauty of Belleville trees, he said.

Lack of Work Said Reason City Employees Laid Off

Lack of work in the city public works department is given as the principal reason for the recent lay-off of 10 men in this department, members of city council were told last night.

Two weeks ago at council, Alderman Temple wanted to know how many men had been laid off from the public works and for what reason they had been laid off.

At Monday's council meeting Clerk-Comptroller H. D. Bateman read the report from city hall which indicated ten men had been laid off. Four of these men had been classed as temporary help. Others were said to be no longer capable of heavy work and still others had been let go because jobs had been discontinued.

The report indicated that for top efficiency of the public works department certain key men must be kept on full time. Additional help would be necessary for summer work. It was noted the public works now had 37 full time employees.

HYDE RAISES POINT

In view of the report indicating lack of work as being the main reason for lay-offs, Alderman Gerald Hyde wanted to know the reason for a report which he had received from the public works following a request for repair of sewer laterals.

"I was told at public works that so many men had been laid off that they did not know when the work could be done," Alderman Hyde said.

He wanted to know if the report indicated the unanimous opinion of public works officials or whether the policy was the idea of one man.

"With $50,000 worth of supervision in the public works department, I feel they should be capable of doing the job," Mayor Both returned. "We have left the matter up to the chairman of the department, the comptroller and the city engineers. I can understand, however, that there might be an emergency."

Alderman Temple said he was primarily interested in whether the new policy was one for this year only or whether it was intended for future.

Alderman Duffy said that if the public works department had been over-staffed and there was no work he felt sorry for the employees to be laid out. "However, if it was a case of wasting the taxpayers' money then the workers should not be there."

LACK TRAINED MEN

Alderman Moxam said no sewer men had been laid off. This was corroborated by Clerk-Comptroller Bateman who said sewer lateral men must be especially trained. "We just have not the trained staff to keep up with the request for laterals," he said.

"Will the men laid off be given preference when extra help is taken on or are they off permanently?" asked Alderman Keegan.

"That will be entirely up to supervision," replied Alderman Smith.

"Let's lay our cards on the table. If these men are too old let's say so," returned Alderman Keegan.

Mr. Bateman noted that some of the men were unfit for heavy work; the jobs of others had been discontinued but if workers were needed these men would be taken back on if they were capable.

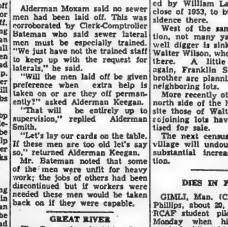
New Homes Now Completed

MARMORA — Residential expansion at East Marmora continues to make good progress. As reported recently, Mr. John Rumble has been levelling off some of his property on the south side of Highway No. 7, just east of the new service station erected by William Lavender at the corner in 1953, to build a new residence there.

West of the same service station, not many yards away, the well digger is sinking a well for Walter Wilson, who plans to build there. A little further west again, Franklin Smith and his brother are planning to build on neighboring lots.

More recently, other lots on the north side of the highway, opposite the home of Walter Wilson, and rejoining lots have been advertised for sale.



The last census of Marmora village will undoubtedly show a substantial increase in population.

Parents, Relatives of British War Brides Ready to Sail

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—More than 30 parents and relatives of British war brides are ready to sail for Canada May 21, continuing what has become an annual post-war custom. Eighteen will go to the United States.

The travellers, whose trip has been arranged under auspices of the United States and Canadian War Brides' Parents Association in Britain, will be visiting relatives, children and grandchildren for the first time. The group passages combine economy and friendship.

"It's much easier for those who dislike long journeys," said association secretary Mrs. E. Russell. "A friendly company with the same interests can lessen the boredom and worry that some might feel."

USEFUL ASSOCIATION

Mrs. Russell is making her first trip to her married daughter in Pennsylvania. "I intend to visit Canadian branches of the association, too," she said in an interview.

The association, maintained by private contributions, exists to keep war brides in touch with home. For instance, a British mother who has not heard from her daughter for some time can start investigating through the association.

If the daughter has run into trouble of any kind, the British branch and Canadian branch nearest her address would combine to help her.

Some 500 members of the association converged in London for the annual get-together held before the Atlantic departure. The association was founded in 1950 and is presided over by Lord Tweedsmuir, son of a former governor-general of Canada.

HELP EACH OTHER

The combined trips across the Atlantic serve two main purposes. A large number of tourists can travel in groups and members can help each other. For instance, Mrs. L. Sherwood, bound for Toronto, is blind. Mrs. W. Le Phillips, whose destination is Brockton, Ont., will take her from London to Montreal. Travellers supply their own funds.

Those Ontario-bound are, aside from the two mentioned: Mrs. M. Cunningham, Mrs. M. Sinclair; Miss D. Nye, Mr. and Mrs. Higton, Toronto; Mrs. G. Kates, Mrs. M.E. Hammond, Kingsmere, P.Q.; Mrs. Anselm, Woodstock; Mrs. H. A. Bolton, Alma; Mrs. R. E. Brook, Mrs. I. D. Hardy, Camp Petawawa; Mrs. P. H. Rose, Sudbury; Mrs. H. D. Chesterman, Welland; Mrs. A. E. Glover-Robinson, London; Mrs. E. M. Lacey, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Haines, Tupperville; Mrs. M. G. Berrycloth, Sault Ste. Marie.

Quebec: Mrs. A. Adams, Miss D. M. Read, Verdun; Mrs. H. Scanlon, Mrs. J. Earnshaw, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Southgate, Montreal; Mrs. M. Martin, Ste. Therese de Blainville; Mr. and Mrs. F. Turner, Quebec City.

Mrs. L. P. Pearce is going to Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Sampson, Calgary; Mrs. M. A. Edwards to Birch Hills, Sask., and Mrs. E. Herrington to Vancouver.

Young Couple Honored By Friends, Relatives

About 50 friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cassidy on Tuesday evening, where a surprise party was held in honor of their son, Allen and his bride, formerly Marlene Allore, who were married recently.

The early part of the evening was spent playing progressive euchre. The ladies' first prize being won by Mrs. Roy Cassidy, Men's, by Bert Cassidy; lone hand by Charles Kingston, with the consolation prize going to Harold Kingston.

The bride and bridegroom were given a short address by Mr. Bert Cassidy, and then asked to open their many beautiful gifts for which they both expressed their thanks.

Refreshments were served by the ladies.

Guests were present from Trenton, Belleville, Wallbridge, Wellington, Foxboro, Napanee and Sydenham.

ACCEPTING FORMAL WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have just received an invitation to an evening wedding, in church as seven-thirty, and to the reception following at a hotel. What form of reply should I use in accepting this invitation?

P. P.

This invitation you received is, I judge, the customary formal invitation(in the third person)? If so, you word reply formally (in the third person). Write your acceptance on the first page of your very best letter-paper (or the white, double-sheet paper). Space the lines carefully. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer
accept with pleasure
the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Lane
for Saturday, the eighth of May at eight o'clock

Today the above simple form is the usual form for the acceptance to a wedding reception. ..It is not necessary to reply to the invitation to the church wedding, only to the invitation to the reception.

If you wish, you may use the longer form, repeating most of the wording of the invitation:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer
accept with pleasure
the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Lane to the wedding reception of their daughter Katherine and
Mr. Peter Clark
on Saturday, the eighth of May at eight o'clock

HOW TO INTRODUCE A STEPFATHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last week my mother, who was a widow, remarried. I am the oldest married daughter, I have two married sisters, and one brother. We would all like to know how to introduce our newly-acquired stepfather. In the introductions should we mention that he is our "stepfather"? And should we mention his name? Would you please give us some examples of correct introductions? Incidentally, we all extremely fond of our new stepfather, when we've known and admired for a long time—and we're glad that Mother married him!

Martha G

Yes, for the information of the person to whom you are introducing your stepfather, you should mention the relationship, ..."my stepfather." And also for information, since his name differs from yours, add his name when you are making the introduction. For example, for a formal introduction: "Mrs. Allen, may I present (or 'introduce') my stepfather, Mr. Forbes." Or, informally and more customarily: "Mrs. Henderson, this is my stepfather, Mr. Forbes." Also correct: "Miss Leigh, my stepfather, Mr. Forbes."

And you will make these introductions of your mother's new husband gracious and "welcoming" by your grace in saying the word "stepfather" and in pronouncing his name. That's the charm of a good introduction!

SHE SHOULD SIGN "AUNT DOROTHY"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've always lived in the same city where my two nieces live, and so had little occasion to write to them. They are in their late-teens, and I am in my late-thirties. Now they are away, and when I write to them they call me "Aunt Dorothy" or "Aunt Dorothy"? (They also call me "Aunt Dorothy.") — D.K.

You should sign your letters "Aunt Dorothy." If you sign "Dorothy," your nieces may conclude that now this is the name you wish them to use.

SENDING MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter and I are planning the lists of relatives and friends, of both families, to whom invitations and announcements are to be sent. Should announcements be sent to those who are sent invitations, but who, for some reason, particularly because of distance, are not able to attend?

Mother

No, Marriage announcements are not sent to those who received invitations to the wedding. ..whether or not they are able to attend.

CORRECT SITTING POSTURE

Unless you are a pretty sitter you are not going to be numbered among the beauty elect. Many girls stand with grace and walk in a charming manner, but seem unaware of correct posture when sitting.

It is surprising how many unlovely attitudes can be assumed, considering that pleasing appearance is of such importance today. Girls are face-minded, what with lip-tinting, eyebrow arching and all the rest of their glamorizing efforts. They will half starve themselves to death to maintain a svelte shape. Yet they will sink into a chair and repose in a manner that makes them look awkward and ungainly.

Observe the teen-ager who sits a while, rumpled in the early spring foliage, birds were singing among the pale, green leaflets and flowers bloomed in profusion in the various parks. Men, women and children, their brightly colored garments attuned to the season, strolled along by the sunshine on their way to worship in the church of their own choosing.

For my church, for this day I selected the National Presbyterian of which the President and Mrs. Eisenhower are members. I not only wanted to see this beautiful historic edifice, but, quite naturally, of course, I hoped, also, that these two famous people would be in attendance. I was not disappointed.

Realizing that all churches would be crowded on the Sunday before Easter, either with or without the President being present, I took a taxi to the National Presbyterian, arriving at ten-fifteen, three-quarters of an hour before the morning service was to start. And I was not a bit too early to assure myself of a seat.

..MANY SPECTATORS.

"The Stars and Stripes floating softly in the breeze in front of the church; policemen, including a captain and a lieutenant, swarming all over; spectators crowding for places of advantage on the nearby curbs, and the people falling up for admittance manifested beyond doubt that the President would attend church.

Stepping out of the cab I noticed in front of one entrance a sign which read "For Members Only." I made my way to the adjacent door, joining the crowd of people going in there, and, apparently, passing with satisfaction the gimlet-eyed scrutiny of the blue-coated ushers who stood at intervals in front of the church.

At approximately eleven an usher, wearing a black coat, gray striped pants and a boutonniere of white gardenia boutonniere, smiled his way down a few steps and permitted the first group of spectator-worshippers to ascend into the sacred, precious walls towering above us.

Eventually it was my turn to enter into the narthex of the church. Passing from usher to usher I was shown down a side aisle about half way and given a seat well to the front of the center aisle. Later, this proved to be almost a ring-side seat when the President and his Lady came to church.

The pews filled up quickly, and the late-comers were led through a rear door into a community room where, I understand, loud speakers were set up so the service could be heard even though the proceedings could not be observed.

I heard an usher whisper, "Here they come." A moment later the tall, handsome President, wearing a dark suit, followed Mrs. Eisenhower and the usher to the presidential pew. A secret service man, his football shoulders swelling under his light gray suit, brought up the rear and seated himself directly behind the President.

DRESSED IN BLUE.

Mrs. Eisenhower, dainty, gracious and much more beautiful than the newspaper pictures lead one to believe, was most becomingly attired in her favorite navy blue with a matching hat having a floral brim. And wouldn't you know it? Behind me whispered a feminine voice, "Uh! another new dress!"

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower occupy No. 41, which is on the left side of the centre aisle, quite near and facing the pulpit. Former President Benjamin Harrison sat in pew 43, directly in front of the Eisenhowers. During their terms of office, Presidents Jackson, Polk, Pierce, Cleveland and Buchanan occupied pew No. 33, as, also, did Vice-President Garret Hobart. Former President Ulysses S. Grant worshipped in this church, as did several secretaries of state and two justices of the Supreme Court.

Memorials to Presbyterian church members of National Presbyterian are displayed in the walls and windows. The Communion table and the Lectern are composed of wood from the Cedars of Lebanon and olive wood from Palestine. Erected in front of the church is a monument in honor of the Reverend John Witherspoon, first moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, and the only clergyman to sign the Declaration of Independence.

The Reverend Edward L. R. Elson, present minister at this fashionable church, aided by one of his Associate ministers, conducted the service. His address was most thoughtful and inspiring. Also, I enjoyed the singing by the choir and the congregation. Their voices were so well-trained and co-ordinated. It was really beautiful.

At twelve sharp, just one hour exactly, worship ended. A note in the church bulletin read, "In the service at which the President of the United States is a worshipper, the congregation will stand following the benediction, Choral Amen, the Chimes, until the President has left the church, and the minister returns to the Chancel."

We stood, waiting quietly, as Dr. Elson escorted Mrs. Eisenhower to the door. The President, an usher beside him, followed, and two secret service men trailed along. Previously I had not noticed the second officer apparently, he had been seated in the church, near the Presidential pew, before Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower entered the church. Two black automobiles carried the party back to the White House.

Quickly the church was vacated. People dispersed to join in other activities. It was Palm Sunday in Washington.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LIVING APART IS A HAZARDOUS WAY TO BEGIN A MARRIAGE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 29, have been a divorcee since 1952, and I'm now expecting to be married again in about a month. The fellow I am going to marry is 35, and he is kind, generous, loving, patient and very devoted—really the kind of person I have wanted for a long time. He lives forty miles away from where I do, but he makes the trip to see me twice a week. His only fault is that he is very jealous.

The only problem is that he wants me to work after marriage and help save for things we both like to have, even if this means that I would have to live apart from him. Do you think this is a good idea, or would it be better for us to live together and do without things we want? T.B.

Dear T.N.:

I can only see the point of two people getting married and then immediately separating to live apart from each other. After all, don't people get married for the sake of being together?

Are there no jobs at all that you could get in the town where this man is living? Surely you could find something to do there that would enable you to bring in some money.

If not, however, and you must make a choice between working to earn money for extras or living with your husband, I think you'd certainly advise you to do the latter. To go into marriage planning to live apart thereafter strikes me as a very poor way to begin married life.

By all means, start right in making a home for your husband, even if it means doing without a few things until you have saved up the money for them out of what he earns. You've had one marital failure, and I should think you would want to give the second try everything you have to make it a success. For you and your husband to live separate lives—especially when you say he is very jealous—would be to open the door to all sorts of complications that might well lead to a second disaster.

A TEEN-AGER WANTS TO RUSH INTO MARRIAGE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 16, and have been going with a boy of 18 for 18 months.

He says that he loves me dearly and I think he does. I certainly love him. What worries me is that he says he wants to marry me but won't say when, and any time I say anything about getting married he says, "Maybe some day."

How can I be sure that he is sincere? — E.C.D.

Dear E.C.D.:

Don't you think you're rushing things a little—or trying to, at any rate?

To my way of thinking, a girl of 16 ought to have other things on her mind than immediate marriage, and that goes for a lot of 18 year old boys, too. He sounds more sensible than you do, though.

My advice to you would be that you stop pressing this chap to set a date for getting married, that you put your attention on the normal activities of teen-agers and be content to let the future take care of itself. If this boy is really serious about wanting to marry you, and you, and your own feeling has any real substance to it, you can afford to be patient until a suitable engagement ring is forthcoming. But you surely must realize yourself that teen-age enthusiasm, particularly in the realm of boy-girl romances, are apt to come and go, and as time goes on, you yourself may find that some other boy will come along in whom you become much more interested.

Be a sensible girl and enjoy yourself as a teen-ager now. If you don't there will certainly come a day when you'll wish you had.

An Extra Readers' Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

When I use a day that is not Friday or Saturday to answer your letters I always feel like apologizing. Silly isn't it, for you want your letters answered and, if you are anything like me, love reading about other folks' problems (as if we all didn't have enough of our own!)

So here goes—another effort to get caught up with my correspondence with you.

QUESTION:

I have worked in a bake shop for 4 1-2 years and liked it very much. At this bake shop all ingredients were weighed. Due to the illness of my mother I had to stay home for several months. Now, I am to do small amounts of baking in a restaurant, and as the lady is leaving she will give out no recipes. There are no scales. I will have to measure. . . . could you please send me recipes on pies that would not be too expensive, also filling for butter tarts. . . . Perhaps I can help you some time.—Mrs. G. D.

ANSWER:

BUTTER TARTS

(Quadruple Recipe.)

This recipe has been multiplied four times. The number of tarts it will fill depends on the size of your tart tins. It should yield four dozen medium tarts. Cream together 1 cup butter (or margarine) and 4 cups white sugar until light and creamy. Add 8 well-beaten eggs, 4 cups washed and dried currants or seedless raisins (chopped) and 1-2 cup lemon juice or 2 teaspoons vanilla. Use to fill unbaked tart shells.

NOTE:

If desired 4 cups chopped blanched almonds may be used instead of currants or raisins, but you would have to charge more for them.

PUMPKIN PIE

(Fillings for 8 9-inch pies.)

Thirteen cups mashed or canned strained pumpkin, 16 cups milk, 24 eggs—yolks and whites separated, 5 cups brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, 1 tablespoon each salt and ginger. Mix pumpkin with milk and well-beaten yolks. Mix together the sugar, spices and salt and add them. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour mixture into raw-pastry-lined 9-inch pie plates. Bake in hot oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. and bake 30 minutes longer.

You doubtless know that you can buy ready-sweetened pie apples in 105-oz. tins. They are quite inexpensive when compared to raw apples at this time of year. At the time you have added the sugar this amount will be made to fill 5 8-inch pies.

QUESTION:

You have helped so many and I too have benefited ,that I wondered if you could give me a recipe for a cake that is called a "brownies" but is maple flavored instead of,-chocolate. . . . here's wishing you lots of strength for the coming wedding—it's lots of work but so much fun.—M. V. D.

ANSWER.

Thank you—I certainly need everybody's good wishes.

MAPLE SQUARES

One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder,1-3 cup butter or margarine, 2 cups brown sugar, well-packed, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon maple flavoring (or vanilla), 1 cup chopped nuts. Sift the sifted flour with the baking powder. Melt the butter in heavy frying-pan, add the sugar and bring just to boil stirring. Cool to lukewarm. Drop in eggs, one at a time, mixing quickly and well. Add flavoring, then flour mixture and nuts. Spread in buttered pan 11x7x1 1-2 inches. Bake in 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 to 35 minutes. Cool in pan, but cut while still a little warm.

Daily Dusting

Years of medical research sponsored by the Ontario Mining Association may have found the answer to silicosis, the disease which attacks the lungs of miners exposed to silica dust. Curiously enough, the treatment consists of breathing very fine aluminum dust directly into the lungs; the aluminum renders the silica particles harmless. The treatment has been adopted in gold and other mining areas in Canada and throughout the world.

Aluminum, long used in hospital kitchens, today serves the medical profession in many ways —from aluminum foil for covering serious burns, to-aluminum acetate for medical dressings, to aluminum blenders for the preparation of sterile biological products. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd.'(Alcan)

MADOC

Jr. Farmers Hear Interesting Topic, 'Keeping in Step'

MADOC—"Education is a life time process," declared Mr. G. L. Warlow, head of the publicity department of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, when he spoke at the annual banquet of the Madoc Junior Farmers, held Wednesday in the assembly room of Trinity United Church, Madoc.

Taking as his topic, "Keeping In Step", Mr. Warlow mentioned many of the services provided by the Agricultural College and designed especially to help Junior Farmers, but stated that courses in agriculture could not prepare one way—young people must keep themselves in step with the modern trends in farming.

FARM LEADERS NEEDED

Mr. Warlow pointed out the urgent need for farm leaders, and urged young people to respond to their obligations and opportunities to themselves and their communities.

The speaker mentioned some of the world's successful men who had little formal education but became specialists in their particular field of endeavor. He urged young people who could not attend college, to educate themselves by reading and observing the methods of others.

Mr. Warlow concluded his address by saying, "the more fully developed you are, the greater your value to your community."

Mr. Arnold Empey, the president of the Madoc Junior Farmers and the chairman of the evening, welcomed the guests. In his remarks, he illustrated the value Junior Farmer work has been, by mentioning the prominent offices former members of the club now occupy in various organizations in the township.

The head table guests were introduced by Miss Roberta Sager, the president of the Madoc Junior Institute.

Mr. Fred Mitchell, of Thurlow, the warden of Hastings county, brought greetings from the county.

The reeve of Madoc township, Mr. Earl Sager spoke briefly. He commented on the successful work which had been carried on and pledged the Madoc Club the township continued support in the future.

TOASTS PROPOSED

Following the toast to the Queen, a toast was proposed to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture by Mr. Don McKinnes which was replied to by Mr. Earl Whiteman of Shannonville, the president of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture.

Mrs. John Horsepool, of Potash Lake, president of the North Hastings District Women's Institutes, replied to the toast to the Women's Institute which was proposed by Miss Betty Ketcheson of Madoc.

Mr. William Aylsworth, baritone soloist, appeared twice on the program. He was accompanied by Mrs. G. Fraser.

Following the distribution of door prizes, which were donated by four of the business men of Madoc, a most successful evening was brought to a close.

RED ARMY USES

Foreign observers remarked last Nov. 7 on the greatly reduced flypast by the Red air force and the shortness of the military parade. Yet the question most frequently asked by foreigners in the U.S.S.R. is: "Where are the men?"

MANY WOMEN WORKERS

Women outnumber men on any sort of job the foreigner sees—building roadwork and the like, as well as in offices. It probably is the same in heavy industry, the factories and farms.

As far as civilian defence and air-raid precautions are concerned, there is no obvious set-up. There are no signs pointing to the nearest shelter; no instructions about what to do in an emergency. The Moscow subway is 300 feet underground and forms a natural shelter; but everyone says it would take more than an overnight instruction from Pravda or Moscow radio to tell the people how to use it.

My 6,000-mile trip from Moscow to Tashkent, near the Chinese border, was by commercial plane and train. All I saw of military activity was at two service airports.

One was at Kirovbad in Azerbaijan alongside the railway line from Baku to Tbilisi. It is used by twin-jet medium bombers and is just an expanse of dirt. The jets look like tanks cruising on a desert, whipping up great dust clouds as they land. In contrast, the Baku airstrip in the famous oilfield's forest of derricks is a well-equipped concrete slab grooming with MiGs, their engines hooded by canvas shrouds.

HARDLY RELIABLE

Obviously, Allied "intelligence" compiled from such travellers' tidbits would not yield many hard facts on Soviet strength.

One tip that Russia's armed services may be having more to say about Soviet affairs may be this:

Politically, the forces are gathering strength. No fewer than 80 serving army and navy officers were sent to the new Supreme Soviet in elections last March 14. When the Communist party published an "open letter" in connection with the elections, Marshals Vasilevsky and Zhukov, army officers and deputy ministers of defence, were listed for the first time among top leaders of the country. Defence Minister Bulganin, although a marshal, is not a military man but he too, is in the Russian hierarchy.

But foreign observers haven't decided whether the party controls the services through Bulganin, who is a party man; or whether the services use Bulganin to influence party policy in their behalf.

MAY DAY SLOGANS ISSUED

TOKYO (AP)—The Chinese Communist party Sunday issued 65 May Day slogans to the world, including one calling for a ban on atomic and hydrogen weapons. The long list was broadcast by Peiping radio.

Yellow Rocket Obnoxious Weed

Yellow Rocket or Winter Cress is becoming too well known to a large number of Ontario farmers, the Crop Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture reports, but adds that a comparatively brief acquaintance is usually sufficient to enable the farmer to distinguish Yellow Rocket from Common Mustard.

Actually there are two points of similarity—the yellow color of the flower and the fact that both plants produce large quantities of seed.

By way of description, a brief comparison is all that is necessary.

Yellow Rocket is perennial; Mustard is annual.

Yellow Rocket flowers in May, Mustard in June.

Yellow Rocket leaves are dark green, smooth, shiny, oval and lobed; Mustard leaves are larger, oblong, dull color, stems hairy.

Much of the spread of Yellow Rocket is due to its presence as an impurity in clover seeds. Under the Seeds Act it is classed as a secondary noxious, and the tolerance for this class of seeds is ten per ounce in No. 1 seed. If you are one of those careful farmers who always look at the certificate of the seed you buy, you may find a few seeds of Yellow Rocket enumerated under the name of Winter Cress.

Control of Yellow Rocket lies in recognizing and pulling the few plants which may occur in first year meadows or newly sown pastures. This should not be a very big job since Yellow Rocket only becomes a real problem if permitted to go to seed for a few years. Unfortunately, it ripens seed too early to be controlled by cutting hay, in pastures can be clipped early enough to stop it seeding.

Yellow Rocket is susceptible to 2,4-D at rates of 6-8 ozs. of acid per acre. This fact is not very helpful since it usually shows up in meadows and pastures, and that amount of 2,4-D would cause serious damage to clovers unprotected by any cover crop. However, the 2,4-D method is highly successful if the plant has escaped to ditches, roadsides or other non-crop areas.

The Dog and the Bone

A DOG was crossing a plank bridge over a stream with a piece of meat in his mouth, when he happened to see his own reflection in the water. He thought it was another dog with a piece of meat twice as big; so he let go his own, and flew at the other dog to get the larger piece. But, of course, all that happened was that he got neither: for one was only a shadow, and the other was carried away by the current.

Canada Will Hold Position In Atomic Age

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada will hold her position in the atomic age as a leading producer of uranium, Mines Minister Prudham said Monday.

Both in uranium sources and in scientific research for peaceful applications of atomic energy Canada is in the forefront, Mr. Prudham said in a speech prepared for delivery at the convention of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

He noted that the crown-owned Eldorado company's Beaverlodge mine in northern Saskatchewan became Canada's second producing uranium mine last April and said that a third probably will start production by the fall of next year.

Measures, he said, to speed exploratory activities in other parts of Saskatchewan, in Ontario and in Quebec are revealing potential new sources of supply. . . .

SEES NO DANGER

"Even making due allowance for the fact that few uranium discoveries prove to be commercial mines, it does appear that Canada is in no danger of losing its forefront position."

Mr. Prudham said the development of the peaceful atomic power plants will depend largely on the ability of the metallurgist to develop new alloys that can be used in atomic piles.

"In effect, he is the man who will set the pace toward power development by atomic energy."

Canadian Ambassador to U.S. Preaching Gospel of Goodwill

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Arnold Heeney, the Canadian ambassador, is preaching the gospel of Canadian goodwill in the United States as well as keeping pace with the swift and sometimes surprising changes in American foreign policy.

Just recently the 52-year-old Montreal-born diplomat completed a three-week tour of the Pacific Northwest, his first venture from this hustling capital.

He plans another trip next fall, this time to the Midwest, preaching goodwill and attempting to clear away a mass of American ignorance about the Canadian domain.

Mr. Heeney holds one of the toughest assignments in the diplomatic corps. The U.S. state department is a massive and complex animal. And to prod its inhards is no easy job.

Yet in the 20 short months he has held his appointment, Mr. Heeney has been able to work up a close and harmonious relationship not only with State Secretary John Foster Dulles, but with his deputies and experts.

There are guests now and then and small irritations about Canada-American trade problems, but the one-time Rhodes scholar and "our relations with the U.S. are excellent — they couldn't be better."

Consult Frequently

"The U.S. consults fully and frequently with us on all things which affect us directly and indirectly. Probably no two other countries co-operate as closely as we do."

Not only does Mr. Heeney have to keep on his toes constantly in connection with American relations, but he also must guide Canada's consulates stretched across the U.S.

There are offices now in New York, Boston, Detroit, Chicago, New Orleans, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Perhaps the next one may be established in Texas.

The duties of the ambassador range from telling people where the bass bite best in Canada to instructing them on how to set up a new business here.

But Mr. Heeney finds one of his major purposes is travelling Americans more about Canada. In his first speaking tour of Denver, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles, he found Americans who knew a lot about Canadian economics but a lot less about other phases of Canadian life.

MISCONCEPTIONS

By clearing away misconceptions the ambassador believes Americans will better understand the their northern friends.

The embassy is on dignified Massachusetts avenue. The ambassador's residence on select Rock Creek drive is conservatively luxurious, but not lavish.

One of the busiest Canada embassy officials makes frequent trips to Ottawa to explain to Mr. Heeney the schedule of U.S. decisions which do not touch on Canadian affairs.

If there is anything that catches his interest, such as something the U.S. might do about the Middle East, he consults with his American friends and says Mr. Heeney "gets quick and clear understanding of American views."

That's the kind of spirit in which Canada and the U.S. operate and Mr. Heeney hopes to keep it that way.

Boner Made by Stalin Set Agriculture Back 25 Years

The state of Russian farming is worrying the Malenkov government. Just how from the inside is the Soviet Union, Bill Boss of The Canadian Press reports in this undated story what is being done in an attempt to give the peasants an enthusiasm for communism.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Russian government is trying to patch up a boner by Joseph Stalin that set Soviet agriculture back at least 25 years.

The boner was collective farming.

Although two-thirds of Russia's 210,000,000 citizens are peasants and country dwellers, the union has less cattle than it had under the czars, and doesn't produce enough wheat and other grains to fill its market baskets.

REVERSED POLICY

Stalin in 1930 reversed a Communist policy inaugurated by Vladimir Ilyich Lenin within 48 hours of the 1917 revolution. Lenin earned peasant support for the revolution by decreeing the distribution of the land among them.

Stalin decided that policy had got the "workers state" off on the wrong foot. Farming methods could not be modernized on small holdings, he said, so he parcelled up the small tracts into larger bundles, ordered the peasants to all work the huge farms collectively — and taxed them beyond endurance.

He forgot that during those 13 years the peasants had acquired a taste for ownership.

Today, almost 40 years after Lenin's 1917 decree, the Kremlin is going back to giving the peasants a greater personal interest in his work.

TO CONVERT LAND

It has ordered a five-fold increase in the price he gets for his compulsory meat deliveries; tax reductions; and help in buying a few head of livestock.

But the doctrinaire approach remains both towards existing farms and what was once just ordered under cultivation.

During the next two years about 32,500,000 acres—more than 50,000 square miles—of virgin land will be converted into farms by a massed mechanized assault. The new land will be worked by Stalinist methods.

To carry through this gigantic project the Soviet Union has become the first country in history to take workers out of industry and send them back to the farm.

While ordering fantastic increases in the production of tractors, trucks, and agricultural equipment, it has ordered the plants making them to release thousands of workers. They will work the machinery to clear the land, later drive and service farm equipment and teach farmers proper maintenance methods.

BEHIND THE MOVE

What caused the drive?

Some Western observers say: "The peasantry has broken the back of the revolution."

That is probably an exaggeration. But Communist party secretary Nikita S. Krushchev's recent speeches show the peasant has been paying an exorbitant share of the revolution's cost.

Krushchev announced a five-fold increase in the live-weight price peasants are paid for their meat. He said the peasant's new price would be one ruble 50 kopeks a kilogram (2.2 pounds) compared with 30 kopeks before.

But dressed meat sells in the state stores for 15 rubles a kilo. 20 times more than the old peasant rate. And the peasant knows that whether it is his meat, on the free market, is worth up to 25 rubles—83 times what he was paid.

Free Enterprise in Russia

There is some free enterprise in Communist Russia. Here a housewife buys mushrooms in the central market in Baku, Soviet Central Asia, where collective farms and peasants may sell some produce. Prices are higher than in state-operated stores, but housewives with more than the average amount of money don't mind because shopping is much faster and less crowded. — (CP Photo.)

Collective Farm

Two-thirds of Russia's 210,000,000 people are peasants and other country dwellers, but Russia does not produce as much food as she needs. Observers say the peasants have no enthusiasm about the Communist farm policy. Trying to overcome food shortages, the government has decreed that more than 50,000 square miles of virgin land must be brought into cultivation. These tractors are levelling new cotton fields on a collective farm. — (CP Photo.)

The view of most Western diplomats is that a combination of low prices, high taxes, compulsory delivery quotas set long before the size of any crop is known, and a bureaucratic approach to farm administration has killed the peasant's enthusiasm for the new Soviet order.

COLLECTIVES FAILED

Here is proof the collective farms have not provided the answer to Soviet Russia's food requirements:

According to Russian government sources, the small plots worked by peasants provided one-half of the meat, poultry, butter, cheese and milk consumed in the Soviet Union last year. The rest came from the collective farms, with their superior farms, equipment and other resources.

The meat shortage is so great that foreign trade negotiators told me Russia tries to provide for imports of meat in every trade agreement.

"If the peasants could sell directly on the free market, they'd probably work like hell," said one Western diplomat. "But they don't see the point when they're getting gypped. They concentrate on their garden plots instead of the fields."

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, said a month ago that less winter fodder was stored last autumn than in 1952. But during the winter of 1952-53, more than 2,500,000 cows died of starvation and exposure.

MILK COWS FEWER

Krushchev said last September there were 23,000,000 milk cows in the USSR—fewer than in the time of the czars. He said two-thirds were owned by peasants, 8,500,000 by collective and state farms.

To increase the peasant's incentive, the government has reduced taxes, promised to help him buy his own cow, and allowed him to keep more pigs and chickens.

Cereals have required even more drastic action.

In a recent 6,000-mile tour of the Soviet Union, my train passed countless farms where plows, harrows and wagons were being drawn by horses and bullock teams. I saw few tractors, although these print in quantity. The USSR has even electric tractors operated from transformer stations near the main power lines.

Later I learned that in farm traction the USSR today is where it was 20 years ago. During the 1930s the peasants slaughtered between 15,000,000 and 17,000,000 horses. These have only recently been replaced by tractors.

While taking experienced workers out of the factories to drive and service tractors and open new land, the state has ordered a step-up in farm machinery production.

In my trip I saw village railway sidings bristling with new equipment—tractors, plows, cotton pickers, threshers.

BOOST OUTPUT

The original production plan for tractors in 1954 and 1955 was 300,000. Now an additional 300,000 tractors have been programmed, plus 200,000 small cultivator-tractors and 62,000 extra farm trucks have been ordered.

The 50,000 square miles of new farm land is mostly in the republic of Kazakhstan. One hundred thousand technical workers have been drafted from industry, and 100,000 other young Communists from schools and factories are going to the farms as "volunteers." All will draw their much higher industrial pay while on the job. Their wives may go to Kazakhstan only if they too are tractor-drivers or mechanics.

Western experts say the government is using semi-chair political methods to solve its agricultural problems. One said:

"It's as if they said: 'We'll keep on throwing in technicians by the thousand until we have it licked — if it takes 50 years.'"

EXPERIMENTING

It's probably a combination of the two—trying to win the peasant's co-operation and trying to use industrial techniques in agriculture.

One long-time resident of Moscow told me:

"The peasantry was not one of Marx's preoccupations and there's nothing in the Communist textbooks to help the planners. Right now I think they are experimenting. They'll follow whatever path seems to yield the best results. They may find it expedient to undo the whole program of collectivization, or revamp it to give the peasants more real personal interest and yet fit into the text-book ideas of peasant property.

"We won't know what's going to happen for at least two years."

Eight Children Made Homeless, Father Burned

NAVAN, Ont. (CP)—Eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clement spent Monday night at the homes of neighbors. Their parents are in hospital, their father critically burned and their mother recovering from the birth of her 20th child.

Melvin Clement, at 18 the eldest child, found himself temporarily responsible for the welfare of the other children Monday when his father was burned in a fire that levelled their frame home in this district 13 miles east of Ottawa. His father's condition was reported today by hospital authorities in Ottawa as still "very critical."

Melvin's mother gave birth to her 14th child Saturday. "Unless this sets her back," Melvin told a reporter, she should be out of hospital Thursday.

He spent the night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stevenson. Mrs. Stevenson said she and Melvin planned today to try to see either Mr. or Mrs. Clement for advice on what to do now, if their condition permits visitors.

Other children slept in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hays, two miles from the Stevenson house.

The family lost all their belongings in the fire except the night clothing they were wearing.

Drunk Driving Conviction Will Be Expensive

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on highway safety has under consideration a system whereby a person convicted of drunk driving has his car seized and fined and have his licence suspended for a year.

W. Ar. Nickle (PC — Kingston), chairman of the committee, told the first meeting Monday that persons convicted of drunk driving should be removed from the road. "The seven days in jail doesn't seem to do them much good," he added.

Mr. Nickle said it is difficult to get a conviction of drunk driving.

"The law has been whittled a bit and it is easier to convict a man of driving while impaired."

Penalty for this charge now is a fine and cancellation of licence for three months. He said he would recommend that such drivers be put off the road for six months.

The chairman also said he favors changing the law so that a driver entering a through highway does so at his own risk. He also suggested that there should be no right of way at corners after midnight when the green and red lights are turned off and only amber lights are left flashing.

John Yaremko (PC—Bellwoods) said applicants for driving licences should be forced to take a physical examination. He also thought that those who have been in accidents should be re-examined.

W. G. Beech (PC—York South) said the committee might also consider some restrictions on drivers who "dawdle along the highways at 30 and 35 miles an hour."

During its session the committee plans to hear briefs from citizens and organizations interested in highway safety. Members said it will probably visit other provinces and several parts of the United States which have conducted safety campaigns.

Criticize Abbott For His Comment On Textile Firms

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ontario Progressive Conservative Monday accused Finance Minister Abbott of implying that if textile companies are not able to continue to operate they "would have to go by the boards."

Wallace Nesbitt, Oxford, said in the Commons that a great deal of the dislocation in the textile, machine tool and related industries has been caused by present government policies.

He said the implication of Mr. Abbott's statement during a radio press conference has caused a great deal of concern in Canada.

"The government should state how far it plans to go in allowing Canadian industries to be put out of operation by competition from foreign countries. It should also say if Canada was to continue to have a textile industry and to what extent.

He urged amendments to the Excise Tax Act and the Customs Act as a means to assist the textile industry to survive.

SHOULD DO MORE

John A. Charlton (PC—Brant-Haldimand) said the government should do something more for the textile industry than it has in the past. The industry was necessary in wartime and should be kept alive during peace.

Textile plants employed more than 100,000 persons a few years ago. Now there were fewer than 80,000 employees and many worked three days a week or less.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to call it quits. Today it's the signal to put up sick—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can take fifty with many interesting and active years ahead—active that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired out" feeling due to kidney functional disorders. Thousands have proved that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more enjoyment out of life. If you're over fifty, try Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's.

Quebec Frontenacs Turn Back Powerful Teepees 5-2 In Brawling Battle

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WELCOME, STRANGER!

"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet," said a poet, but anglers of the country apparently disagree with the bard's statement.

Some time ago biologists of the Department of Lands and Forests crossed the speckled trout with the lake variety and came up with a hybrid which somebody promptly dubbed "splake."

To those anglers, and there were plenty of them, the name was almost an insult to a fighting fish. It sounded, when pronounced, like a hillbilly expectoration. It was like calling a Cadillac a "Model 34". So they did something about it.

They sent in protests with the result "Forest and Stream" magazine, aided and abetted by Major Perc Ketcheson, well-known columnist of the Carling Conservation Club, decided to sponsor a "name-suggesting" contest. Over 9,000 anglers from all parts of the country took part.

Recently the name "splake" died an ignominious and well-deserved death and the "Wendigo" was born. Two anglers sent in the new name and were awarded handsome plaque prizes.

So now the "Wendigo" proudly takes its place among the rainbow, speckled, lake, Kamloops, and other fighting fish of that category.

And it is to be presumed that "Splake Lake" in the Nipissing district, re-named because of the fish, will henceforth be known as "Wendigo" Lake." Or will it?

The first experiments on the Wendigo were planted in Banff, Alberta, under the Federal Wildlife Service. In 1950 the hybrids in their third year showed signs of having reached maturity and were observed preparing for the spawning period.

Norman Shaddock, 600 Medical Arts Building, Calgary, a former resident of this city, wrote that the hybrid was first planted in a small lake in the Banff National Park only a few miles from the Lake Louise.

On July 1, 1952, he says, this lake was opened for fishing and the first "Wendigo" caught. Hundreds of tourists and local fishermen converged on the lake and all got their limit of five fish in very short order.

It seems they can be taken on almost any kind of lure from dry flies to spoons and also with live bait. They hit very hard and are excellent fighters, says Shaddock. He suggests local Fish and Game Association work quickly to have some of these fighters planted. "They will never regret it."

In Ontario thousands of fingerlings were planted in the Sudbury and Algoma districts in August and September of 1953.

Should you be fishing in these districts and land a beautiful colored fighter, which you cannot identify you should take it to the nearest district forester's office. If it has a dark olive green back with bluish silver sides and a white belly, and white-edged paired and anal fins with the remainder of these fins pale orange in color and the dorsal fin dark and heavily spotted, brother, you've got yourself a Wendigo.

The body is elongated as in the lake trout while the tail is truncate like brook or speckled trout. Measurements show the Wendigo has a slight leaning toward the characteristics of the lake trout female parent.

Meanwhile biologists of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department are watching anxiously to learn whether the hybrid will favor the cold deep waters sought by the "lakers" and if the speckled-lake combination will combine the laker's size with the speckle's combat qualities.

According to Mr. Shaddock's experience, the last question already has been partly answered.

And while on the subject, members of the Belleville Fish and Game Association are reminded that Major "Ketch" Ketcheson will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting at the YMCA on Wednesday night. "Ketch" is showing some mighty fine fishing films and may touch on the story of the Wendigo in his address. Better be there, fellas.

Incidentally, the word "Wendigo" is the name of a legendary Indian ghost.

Wacky Goings-On Mark This As Screwy Baseball Season

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Blame it on the weather, the H-bomb or what you like, this is shaping up as one screwball baseball season.

New York Giants win three straight shutouts, Cleveland benches a .419-hitting first-baseman, New York Yankees trail a sour .220 while Chicago Cubs slug at .326. Rookies ride in the .400-plus stratosphere.

Now comes the showdown with the first intersectional tests.

Chicago White Sox come east in first place in the American League after having won seven of their last eight and ready to take advantage of the Yankees' spotty spring form.

Paul Richards, who has clearly tended all along that "the Yanks can be beaten" lists a former Yankee, Dan Topson, to open in Yankee Stadium today. With Nellie Fox and Johnny Groth among the top 10 hitters and Ferris Fain tops in runs batted in, the Sox look like formidable challengers.

The Yanks haven't been able to hit any kind of pitching, left or right. Although every manager saves up the southpaws for New York, the Yanks were shut out Saturday by a rookie righthander, Bob Trice, in Philadelphia.

Detroit, a real surprise in the first two weeks, opens tonight in Philadelphia where the "new look" A's appear tougher than usual. Bill Tuttle, the Tigers' new centerfielder, is off to a fine start with a .400-plus, but it's too early to buy him as a "phenom."

The East will work with interest Cleveland's switch of Al Rosen to first to make room for rookie Rudy Regalado at third—a move which sent heavy-hitting Bill Glynn to the bench. The Indians open in Boston today against the Red Sox, who have been hurt badly by the injury to Mel Parnell, following Ted Williams' broken collar bone.

BUY ZUVERINK

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers Monday purchased George Zuverink, 27-year-old righthand pitcher, from Cincinnati of the National League. The price was not disclosed. Zuverink was brought up this season from Indianapolis of the American Association where he won 13 and lost eight last year.

Donnybrook Marks 1st Heat When Fronts Grab 3-0 Lead; Cops, Coaches, Crowd Mix It

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — The eastern Canada Memorial Cup final between St. Catharines TeePees and Quebec Frontenacs switches to St. Catharines, Ont., Thursday night with promises of another slambang hockey game.

A fired-up Quebec club Monday night turned back the heavily-built TeePees 5-2 in an action-packed encounter highlighted by a pier-six-type brawl in the opening period. Quebec's win squared the best-of-seven series at one game apiece.

The players were the same, but Phil Watson's Frontenacs didn't look like the club which lost the first game on Saturday night, 3-1. Some 6,424 fans saw Quebec outclass the TeePees, grabbing a 3-0 lead in the first period which took one hour and 10 minutes to play.

Mike Hatchford, Stan Parker, Gilles Thibault, Michael Bouchard, and Guy Rousseau scored for Quebec. Chester Warchol and Hugh Barlow fired the TeePees' goals in the second period. The Frontenacs scored once in each of the last two periods.

EIGHTEEN PENALTIES

None of the 18 penalties distributed by referees Stan Pratt and Ching McDonald, both of Ottawa, figured in the scoring.

The brawl started halfway through the first period when Quebec's Bob Mantha and Warchol tangled near the penalty bench. Other players left their seats and officials had a tough time separating them.

Police then lent a hand and this got St. Catharines coach Rudy Pilous excited. He lunged to the aid of his players, getting in a few solid punches before he was pulled away. Pratt and McDonald finally stopped the battle. No action is expected to be taken.

The fracas resulted in a minor, major and two-minute misconduct to Mantha and a major to Warchol. Majors also went to Henry Casula and Wilford Roberts of the TeePees and Quebec's Armand Turcotte. Ian Cushenan of St. Catharines got a misconduct.

COPS GRAB FLATTEN

Another incident involving police and Pilous occurred later in the period. Police suddenly grabbed TeePees' Paul Flatten as Truax standing in an alley-way and ushered him out of the rink. Truax, although in street clothes, was eligible for the game and Pilous requested to permit his players to resume the game until Truax was returned.

When asked about the brawl, Pilous said: "I don't like the way one of his boys was being handled by a police officer. He went to the aid of his player and other police officers showed him.

Pilous had high praise for his club. If they do as well as they did Monday night, they have a good chance of defeating the Ontario junior champs and entering the Memorial Cup finals against the West, he said.

Line-Up:

St. Catharines: Goal: Edwards; defence: Cushenan, Vasko, Higgins, Maxwell; forwards: Barry Cullen, Ciesla, Kovali, Barlow, Roberts, Brian Cullen, McLean, Warchol, Armstrong, Hoeksma.; subgoalie, Truax.

Quebec: Goal: Marcotte; defence: Mantha, Amadio, Langlois, Priestley, Chevalier; forwards: Cyr, Parker, Flatten, Ratchford, Rousseau, Thibault, Turcotte, Pelletier; sub-goalie, Desrosiers.

Referees: Ching McDonald and Stan Pratt, both of Ottawa.

Summary

First Period: Goals, Parker, Ratchford (Rousseau, Bouchard) 6:50; Quebec, Parker (Cherubini) 8:04; Quebec, Thibeault (Cyr, Amadio) 8:58. Once again it was the starry Warwick brothers who came through for V's when the chips were down. Bill Warwick and Dick Warwick blasted two goals within 52 seconds of each other half-way through the third period for the winning margin.

Jack McDonald added the insurance tally for the V's at the 15:38 mark.

Giants, White Sox Baffling Pre-Season Expert 'Pickers'

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Those experts who picked either Chicago White Sox or New York Giants, or both, to win the pennant in their respective leagues suddenly are in position to point with pride as the first important intersectional tests open today.

The Giants, invading the West, are riding high on the wings of three successive shutout victories over the Phillies, having almost overnight vaulted from the league cellar into hot contending position and demonstrated that their pitching is back at its 1951 level. It was good enough that year to win a flag.

The club was riding the clouds when it pulled out for Milwaukee Monday night. The most important test will come when the veteran Larry Jansen tries his luck, probably in the second game against the Braves. Jansen looked fine in exhibitions out West, but has been handicapped by groin trouble lately.

The White Sox seem to look exactly like the ball club that their manager, Paul Richards, said they would be. His first-baseman, Ferris Fain, appears to have recovered his batting eye after an inexplicable lapse into mediocrity last season. Fain is knocking in runs again, and Grady Hatton, obtained recently from Cincinnati, seems to be the nearest thing to an adequate third-baseman the Sox have had lately.

An important piece of news at this stage concerns Mickey Mantle and the future of the Yankee "phenom" to hit, especially when "the swing lefty." The Kid goes west packing a batting average of .167. He had not made a hit in his last 10 tries against righthand pitching and had struck out seven times in that stretch.

MAY MOBILIZE COUNTRY

Mickey's right knee still is heavily taped and he cannot bear down upon it when striding into a pitch. It will surprise no one if Country Slaughter gives Mickey a rest against righthanders very soon. Cleveland Indians are struggling this early, and one senses that the Indians' great pitching staff really is beginning to show some wear. It can only be called a desperation move when manager Al Lopez so soon begins to give up on his assorted first-basemen and shifts Al Rosen, his all-star third-baseman, to that position.

Brooklyn is on top but the National League kings are said not to be complacent as they head into the West, where hitters are hitters, especially in Cincinnati and Chicago. Don Newcombe has had his arm pinned back twice in a row, even by Pittsburgh Pirates, and Roy Campenella is hitting a salty .383.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The fabled 4-minute mile, a mirage that has lured the world's greatest runners for 30 years but has remained, tantalizingly, just beyond their grasp, may finally become a reality at the British Empire and Commonwealth Games in Vancouver this year, July 30 to August 7.

For the figure-filberts, the perfect four-minute mile should be run in laps like this:

First lap: 58.5; Second Lap: 59.5 (1.58 at the half).

Third lap: 61.0; Fourth lap 61.0 (2.02.0 at the half).

Add it up four minutes flat.

History's greatest mile was run by Gunder Hagg of Sweden back in 1945. He ripped it off in four minutes, one and three-tenths seconds. In 1944 Arne Anderson, another Swede, reeled off the mile in 4.01.6, the second fastest ever run.

Hagg's record still stands. But today, a whole new group of middle-distance runners is bidding for a new record at the classic mile distance and beyond that, the native Australia, and Wes Santee of the United States made breaking and heart breaking efforts to match, and perhaps to reach a few strides beyond Gunder's record, and to hit the 4 minute mile.

Last June Bannister clicked off the 1760 yards in 4.02 flat, and Australia's brilliant Landy matched that time in December. A year earlier Landy was clocked at 4.04.7. Santee's best mark to date is 4.02.3, but experts feel he is capable of doing much better, especially if he can get competition from men like Bannister and Landy.

Santee is not, of course, eligible for the Empire Games, but Bannister and Landy will both be there, possibly along with Australia's young Ian Dixon, possibly along with Australia's young Ian Dixon, possibly along with Ron Delaney of Ireland and Hall of Fame. They are Nurmy Halberg of New Zealand, and England's young Derek Ibbotson, clerk, Gordon Pirie, though the latter is by no means a certain entry.

But put Bannister, Landy, Halberg, and, perhaps, Pirie, too, on the starter's mark at Vancouver on Saturday, August 7, and on the starter's pistol shot, the mile may be elusive no longer.

Of course, when the big Vancouver show ends, American pronouncers will be doing their best to encourage post-Games track meets, and if the four-minute mile hasn't realized in Vancouver, it may be shortly afterwards. The men are available. The time is ripe.

Slade Zephyrs Dark Hurricane In Ten Rounds

NEW YORK (AP) — The hurricane season is on the wane in the heavyweight ranks with Hurricane Tommy Jackson, who climbed from prelim boy to No. 3 co-tender on three sensational fights, back in the park, defeated at the hands of clever Jimmy Slade.

Spoiler Slade exploited Jackson's weakness for a well-planned retreat with flashing counter-fire while winning a unanimous 10-round decision Monday night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

All Jackson wanted to talk about in the dressing room was "I want him again. I won't fight nobody else. I want him back. I ain't gonna let him get started next time."

Jackson's management, however has other plans. He is signed for a May 28 date at Madison Square Garden with Charley Norkus.

It was Jackson's second defeat in his 29-bout career. He seemed to the top by knocking out Rex Layne in his first main event, whipping Clarence Henry and then dropping Dan Buccerosi—all since the first of the year. Despite the strength of those scraps he was an 18-to-5 favorite Monday night, and many among the crowd of 3,500 paying $10,000 went down with him.

There were no knockdowns, although Jackson slipped to the floor three times and Slade fell through the ropes once.

Quebec Aces Stave Off Ottawa Threat

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Senators came within a goal of the Quebec Hockey League championship Monday night, but Quebec Aces held them off and finally won 4-3 to sweep the best-of-seven league final series 4-3 in overtime.

Ottawa, leading the series 3-2 in games, fought from behind three times to tie the score, the last time with only 10 second of regulation time remaining. One goal in the sudden-death overtime period, brought on by Gordie Hudson's ninth-hour tally, would have sent the Senators west to face the winners of the Western Hockey League finals.

But Buddy Boone, the Aces' buff of fire all through this series, came through first. He grabbed a pass from defenceman Butch Hoak in the Quebec blueline, stick-handled in close and beat goalie Ray Frederick at 6:48 of the overtime period.

Boone's goal, his second of the night, sent the teams to Quebec for the eighth game tonight. The ninth, if necessary to decide who takes on the winner of the WHL final now in progress between Calgary Stampeders and Vancouver Canucks for the new Duke of Edinburgh Trophy, will be played back here Wednesday night.

Hoaks gave Quebec the lead early in the first period. Jackie Glesebrecht tied things up.

Boone scored his first goal at 13:16 of the second period. Bill Johnson brought Ottawa abreast of the desperate Aces again in the third period.

The see-saw battle lurched in Quebec's favor again five minutes later when Tremblay sank a long, high-slip shot.

Hudson then sent the game into overtime.

Champs Named For Fight Finals

HAMILTON (CP)—Southwestern Ontario declared its annual boxing champions for the Canadian finals in eight bouts here Monday night. The winners advanced to the Canadian finals to be held at Toronto May 13-15.

Bob Richardson of St. Catharines won the heavyweight division by a technical knockout over Jack Cunningham of Sarnia in the second round.

Bill Meese Brook of Kitchener took the light heavyweight section when he knocked out Dave Vansickle of Sarnia with a hard right in the second round.

Other results:

Horst Bohn, Kitchener, won split decision over Don Ross, London.

Eddie Beattie, Hamilton, scored a technical knockout over Ron Shanks, Sarnia.

Don Robinson, Brantford, scored a technical knockout over Ray Lavoiette, Sarnia.

Jim Hurley, Brantford, won by default over Red Tschaid, Sarnia.

Bill Demchuk, St. Catharines, scored a technical knockout over Caspar Baay, Sarnia.

Tony Hendrie, London, scored a technical knockout over George Morreau, Port Colborne.

Eight Horses Start Today In Derby Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Six three-year-old colts got their last chance today to prove their worthiness for the 80th running of the Kentucky Derby.

The mile and one-quarter of the $100,000-added Derby will be run at Churchill Downs Saturday.

Eight horses actually were named for today's $10,000-added trial, but two of them—Andy Crevello's well-liked Determine and its stablemate, Allied—will be at the starting gate Saturday, regardless.

The trial, won by three previous Derby winners, will go on a long way toward deciding whether a record field will battle over the downs for North America's most coveted turf honor. The record number of starters was 20 in 1928. If as many as 25 should answer the call, this year's will be the richest Derby. The total value of the 1951 race, the previous richest, was $186,100.

The little gray determine, winner of six straight stake races on the west coast, figures to be outclass the field in today's trial but he'll scare off all except his running mate and possibly Hasty Road from Allie Reuben's Hasty House Farm of Toledo, Ohio.

Hamilton Tigers May Adopt 'Pups'

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger - Cats may adopt another child to add talons and talents to its football family.

Jake Gaudaur, TC president, said Monday:

"We will probably have an intermediate affiliation this year."

He added that the Grey Cup champions have been dickering with Hamilton Panthers—"And are doing so at present but nothing has been finalized."

Today the names of two players signed by the Tiger-Cats and the 1954 Big Four schedule, will be released.

One of the players is Canadian, the other a U.S. import.

Calgary Stampeders and Ottawa Rough Riders have also shown interest in sponsoring the Panthers.

Last year the club lost money and had no backing to absorb the financial flailing.

American League Names Seasons All-Star Team

NEW YORK (CP)—George Sullivan, Hershey Bears' centre, and defencemen Frank Mathers of Pittsburgh Hornets were unanimous choices for the American Hockey League all-star team announced today.

The team was chosen by the hockey writers in the league's six cities—Buffalo, Cleveland, Hershey Pittsburgh, Providence and Syracuse.

Others chosen were playing coach Frank Eddolls of Buffalo at left wing, Gaye Stewart at right wing and Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh as goalie.

Mathers was the only repeater from the 1952-53 team. He has been chosen three years in a row.

Powerful Wings Smash Out Win Over Cubans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Red Wings are wasting no time in showing the newer members of the International League why they won the league pennant race and batting championship last year.

The Wings smashed out 14 hits off six pitchers Monday night in a 9-4 victory over the Havana Sugar Kings at Havana that brought the Wings' won-lost record to 5-0 for the season. That's only good for third place in the percentages right now, but in games won and lost Rochester is even with Buffalo (4-1) and actually had a game better off than second-place Syracuse (3-1).

All of the league's other clubs were rained out Monday.

Shabby Bandits Flee With $10,000

DISRAELI, Que. (CP) — Two shabbily-dressed, armed bandits Monday held up a branch of the Banque Provinciale du Canada in this Wolfe county town and fled with more than $10,000.

They made their escape in a car after locking two women employees, who were alone in the bank at the time, in a vault enclosing safety-deposit boxes.

Police said they then looted the cash drawers of bills ranging from $1 to $20 for a total of $10,805 and made off in a battered, early-model car.

The women broke out of the vault using a screw-driver and no-tified police.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Howard Duff, one of radio's great private eyes, disdains the art of crime detection as practised on TV.

Duff was the original Sam Spade on radio and his show will be long remembered by whodunit fanciers. The show catapulted Duff into film fame. Later he gave it up because of billing, money and other difficulties.

"That was three years ago, and people are still asking me about the show," said Duff between scenes of "Nevada Gold." "Strangers come up to me and say how much they liked it; they ask why I don't get back on the air with it.

"The show must have been good to evoke all that interest. The good thing about it was that it had flavor, and that's something I don't find in the TV private-eye series. Sam had the ability to kid himself. The show could go from very light to very heavy. Yet in the end Sam could always laugh the whole thing off."

KILL WHEN CORNERED

"But the private eyes I have seen on TV are deadly serious. They go about their work with an air of infallibility. And the may-hem! Bodies all over the place.

"That was something I was against on Spade. They would have me killing off people right and left. I kept telling the producer, Bill Spier, that Spade couldn't do that. He could only kill when he was cornered and there was no other way out."

Duff observed that "Dragnet" has thrown a damper on the private eye shows on TV. The reality of the Thursday night Jack Friday series makes the jazzed-up crime shows seem phony. It was "10 times easier" to portray a detective on radio, where the element of imagination was left to the listener.

REJECTS TV SHOWS

Being a star slumming in the dames-and-detection school, Duff has naturally been offered a bevy of TV crime shows to choose from. He has chosen not to run. None of the offerings seemed to him to have the flavor of old Sam Spade.

Now he's up for another series. He did a TV film called "Ming Lama," a whimsical melodrama about a charter airplane pilot who takes dangerous assignments. Screen Gems, which produced the film, is angling a series called "Johnny Nightshawk."

"It's more an adventure series than a detective opus," explained Duff. "Johnny is a former ace who flew P-38s at night during the war. He has one name, Johnny Night-hawk. He gets together with his wartime mechanic played by Dave Willock, and they buy an an DC-3 for charter."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The most masterly bridge players of the present would be bowand rsters against the next gen-eration of experts. Why? As a class they are either ignorant or disdainful of true fundamentals.

Get the most expert players in one match of the same hands and what do you discover? Few of them handle their normal hide in like ways. It is as if they all talked a different language.

You can see plenty of this in the records. Take the master pairs at the Summer nationals. In the match were the highest rated in the world, 144 masters, 72 pairs, 36 tables playing the same hands. Almost a third-of-run spread is deal 26 you see here:

NORTH
♠A J 52
♦A X 2
♣Q 7 43

WEST
♠K 10 7 4
♥K 8 6
♦9 5 4
♣J 9

EAST
♥A 10 5 4
♦10 7 6 3
♣A 8 5

SOUTH
♠Q 9 8
♥Q J 7
♦J 3
♣K 10 6 2

Look what happened to it. Four tables made a valiant try at a contract of three no-trump and only one made it. Two tables tried two no-trump, one of which made it! Are these the models of bridge?

Of 14 tables ending in one no-trump, half declare in south and half in north. Three went down, three made exactly one, three made two, four made three, and one made four. Consistent? No!

Of six who were in two spades, one went down. Two in one spade made an extra trick. These two sound more like a patooks pair that is scared trickless in their first tournament.

There were five who stepped into and stopped at two clubs. Of these, one made only two. He must have fallen asleep. One in three clubs just made it and must be pulled his hair-ends.

All these peerless pulterers had glib alibis for what they do. But one east was in two hearts doubled and went down 1100. I suppose that sounded he would like to offer.

Regardless of result, one thing is evident. Masters of today lack ability or intent to apply the same elements. They could only well use a lesson in ABCs the kind used in Horse Sense.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop and ma were getting dressed in a quick hurry on account of being late for wherever they were going, and I thought, Oh boy, I hope they're in too much of a rush to remember to tell me to go to bed at 8 o'clock.

And I went up in my room to be out of site and help them forget, and I heard them start to go out, and ma called up, Benny.

Me thinking, Heck, and I called down, Mam? and ma said. Dont forget to open your window and get plenty of air in when you go to bed.

Not saying what time, and they went out, and I thought, G, hurraw, now I can stay up as late as I feel like, because nobody didn't say I couldn't, oh boy this is the life.

And I termed on my Junior Midget radio and got on my bed on my stummick and started to read my new jyberry book, thinking, Maybe I'll stay up till eleven o'clock, maybe I'll even stay up till after 12 and it will be tomorrow morning alreddy, oh boy, this is grate.

And I kept on reeding and listening to the radio, and pritty soon I started to yawn big yawns, and I thought, Gosh, it must be getting late alreddy.

And I went down and looked at the living room clock and it was only half past 8, and I thought, Oh well, as soon as I get these yawns out of my sistem I'll be all rite, and I tried to get them out, but the more I yawned the more I felt like still yawning, and I thought, This is a heck of a note, I think as well be in bed as suffering like this.

And I went to bed at 5 minutes to 9 in diskust.

Proving too much freedom is libel to spoil your ambition.

AT THE CAPITOL—Cleo Moore and Hugo Haas (above) star with John Agar in Columbia Pictures' "Bait" at the Capitol Theatre. Haas has also written the original screen story in which Miss Moore plays the title role. And on the same program a new great sister feature in "Drive A Crooked Road" with Dianne Foster. Both bills are first Belleville showings.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dianne Foster, lovely film star co-stars with Mickey Rooney in "Drive A Crooked Road" and now showing at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program, Cleo Moore, the luscious blonde who made headlines in "Hollywood Story" with Hugo Haas and John Agar, the very first run bills on our new flash curved screen.

AT THE BELLE.

NEW REED THRILLER. "THE MAN BETWEEN" TO PLAY HERE TODAY.

"The Man Between", opening today at the Belle Theatre, is Carol Reed's first thriller since the famous "The Third Man."

Like that picture, it has drama of intrigue and foreign-agent activities in a city divided in allegiance between Russia and the American and British allies, "The Man Between" was filmed, in great part, on actual location. This time, however, the locale is not Vienna, but Berlin.

Carol Reed (or Sir Carol) to give him his rightful title since he was knighted last year) produced and directed "The Man Between". James Mason, Clair Bloom and Hildegarde Neff are co-starred.

Clair Bloom, who burst on the world as a full-fledged movie star with her performance as the ballerina in Chaplin's "Limelight", makes her second screen appearance in "The Man Between", as an English girl whose innocent holiday visit to Berlin turns into a sinister nightmare.

The entire cast and crew of "The Man Between", showing today at the Belle Theatre, spent a seven week period shooting the picture in Berlin. For most of that time, the unit was on a twenty-four hour call and several times actually worked around the clock.

CRITICS AGREE ON PICTURE.

The Toronto critics speak of "The Man Between", in the following glowing terms: "This is movie-making at it's best! This is a picture we can't say anything bad about"—says Ken Johnson, Telegram.

"Reed's film is a treat from start to finish—it shows once again the Reed talent for turning out tense, completely believable thrillers"—says Alec Harris, Globe and Mail.

"A top-grade thriller! Carol Reed knows how to create suspense"—says Jack Karr, Toronto Star.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Promising indications, with all planets in auspicious positions. Start off with a prayer and don't shun any duty—no matter how hard nor how small. You can gain much, advance if you try.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Splendid indications for you and your interests. Mechanical, industrial work equally honored with teaching, study, research, chemistry, medicine and purely artistic matters.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Be at your best now—not only mentally alert but genial and gracious in manner, thoughtful at home and at business. A fine day for farm work, gardening.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Moon and other planetary aspects urge and encourage you to better your situation now. Do a top job whatever your work. But don't be extravagant.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Have you been striving for advancement? Perhaps a raise in salary? This should be an opportune time for you who have earned such benefits. Try today to better quality and output of efforts.

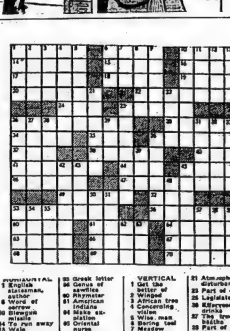
August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Exciting, inspiring Mercury aspects for employers, employees, teacher, student, and newly encouraging for the religious and those aiding children, the ill and lonely.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Whatever your activities, if honorable and purposeful, you should profit by them if, of course, you do your best and don't waste valuable time, money or energy.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You, too, are among the favored this friendly day. There is but one outstanding admonition: avoid extremes, recklessness. You can gain through fine friends, superiors, your own cleverness.

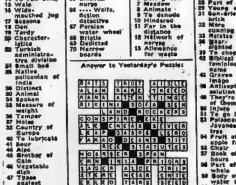
November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — A warm, benefic feeling should prevail. Initiative, stimulus and happiness are in the air—yours for the taking. Without straining your capacity to perform efficiently you can do well.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Benefic influences still linger from yesterday's generous aspects and you can achieve in anything to which you set your mind and hand. On favorable days double effort to counteract effects of restrictive ones.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—A good day to promote unique ideas and display your cleverness. Reach out into fields different from your usual routine during free time.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Similar to Aquarius now. Much to be gained by smart plans, management. And you can do it. Favored: strictly confidential affairs, public service interests.



YOU BORN TODAY are bright and snappy, intellectually. You may be considered domineering, dictatorial at times, but you do not mean to be. Innately you are generous, wish to be helpful, are kind and love your family dearly. When living true to your God-given characteristics and adjusted along proper lines, you are honorable, high-principled and brainy. Charitable patience and a more even tempo in all activities to achieve happier results all around. Birthdate: James Monroe, 5th U. S. president.

Outspoken CCF Member Takes Crack at Govt.

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold E. Winch, outspoken CCF member for Vancouver East, said Monday the present session has created "the most despicable, disreputable employer in the Dominion of Canada."

"You (the government) are pulling the dirtiest, lowest stunt ever pulled by any employer in Canada," Mr. Winch said in the Commons.

He said the post office, in giving employees in some centres a five-day, 40-hour week April 1, "the most despicable, disreputable employer in the Dominion of Canada."

"You (the government) are pulling the dirtiest, lowest stunt ever pulled by any employer in Canada," Mr. Winch said in the Commons.

He said the post office, in giving employees in some centres a five-day, 40-hour week April 1, "the most despicable, disreputable employer in the Dominion of Canada."

The post office was holding men for months on years as casual employees, earning 97 cents an hour, "in order to cut the throats of those who should have wages."

"You're bringing about the worst conditions ever known in Canada between employers and employees," he said, pointing at government benches.

MacLean Booked For Murder After Release

WELLAND (CP) — Bruce MacLean was booked Monday on a murder count in the drowning of his 20-year-old wife four hours after he was released on bail on a charge of obtaining money by false pretences.

The 23-year-old native of Welland was charged over knowledge intended a claim that MacLean boasted to a girl friend that he drowned his wife in a "perfect crime." He was remanded in custody to April 30 by judge W. D. Black of St. Catharines.

The victim, Elizabeth Doreen MacLean, died in the Welland river last Aug. 29 while canoeing with her husband.

Sylvia Davies, 20, of Port Colborne, who has been engaged to MacLean after the death of his wife, testified at the preliminary hearing of the fraud case Friday that MacLean threatened her.

SAYS UPSET CANOE

She said he told her that he upset the canoe and swam around until his wife, a non-swimmer, had drowned. The death was termed accidental at the time.

MacLean was later released on $800 bail on a charge of obtaining $1,400 by fraud from Miss Davies. She said that MacLean told her the money to pay off a loan on a house after they were married, because that he spent the money on a car, entertainment and clothing for himself and his three-year-old son.

The girl added at the hearing that MacLean threatened to get rid of her if she persisted in bringing charges against him.

Color Line Drawn In Immigration

TORONTO (CP)—Eamon Park, assistant director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said Monday Canada's immigration set "draws a line between various types of British subjects and draws that line on the basis of the color of a man's skin."

He told a meeting of the Toronto Labor Council (CIO-CLC) that "Canada accepts a ready-made draftsman from the British West Indies, has been ordered deported from Canada because his ancestors five generations back, were Asiatic."

Mr. Park said Singh might have been excluded anyway because persons from the British West Indies are classed differently than other Asiatics.

"But by classing him as an Asiatic it was easier to get rid of him—as an Asiatic he had no argument."

Dulles Sorry Lighthouse Keeper Moved

GENEVA (CP) — Now it's the United States complaining about—of all things—lack of "consultation" by Canada.

John Foster Dulles, U.S. state secretary, raised the matter in a conversation with External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson in Toronto Speaking with mock gravity, Dulles said in effect:

Now look here Mike. You're always reproaching me with failing to consult Canada about something. So what do you do? You move the lighthouse keeper from Duck island, and you don't even let me know.

Duck island is in the St. Lawrence river. The lighthouse keeper, a cold friend of the Dulles family, was transferred recently by the Canadian department of transport.

Pearson smilingly said he'd see what he can do to have the lighthouse keeper transferred back.

The transport department at Ottawa understands the lighthouse keeper as Wesley Earl Thomas. He recently was transferred to Point Albino, described as "a more desirable location" in the Port Colborne area. Duck island is in the Brockville district.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)— For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—from the "bad" cases to the standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anaesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institute. Now sold locally, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H. The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. Ask name for it at any Drug Department—at all drug stores. And remember — if not entirely satisfied your money will be refunded promptly. Preparation H.

Three Rescued From Mine Shaft In New Brunswick

BATHURST, N.B. (CP) — Three miners were rescued from injury Monday from a 900-foot shaft at nearby Key Anne Mines, Ltd., as an unknown origin destroyed the new mill and swept through the elevator housing.

Only small office and compressor buildings, carpenter shop and shower rooms remained of the $750,000 base metals project that had been built up over the last two years in ore fields 20 miles north of here.

The underground workings escaped damage.

The fire started above as ore bin and fanned through the rest of the mill by a strong breeze during the workmen's lunch hour. As soon as it was noticed a cage was lowered and brought to the surface the three men who had stayed below.

Heyman was to open officially May 22 for production of lead and zinc concentrates. The mill will be rebuilt.

Six Soviet Artists Cancel Quebec Visit

WINNIPEG (CP) — A spokesman for six Soviet concert artists touring Canada said Monday night the group has cancelled appearances planned for Quebec "because of what Duplessis might do."

John Boyd of Toronto, Canadian manager of the tour and interpreter for the artists, said in an interview:

Rita Hayworth Regains Custody Of Daughters

NEW YORK (AP)—Rita Hayworth, aided by two ex-husbands in winning back custody of her two little girls, has settled down in a New York hotel suite with the children and her current husband.

The movie star is "a loving and devoted mother," declared a judge Monday in announcing dismissal of charges that the children had been neglected. He was quoting one former husband, actor Orson Welles.

The girls, Yasmin, 4, and Rebecca, 9, had been left in the care of the governess, Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, while Rita went to Florida for a two-week vacation with her current husband, crooner Dick Haymes.

Prince Aly Khan, father of Yasmin, sent his lawyer into the conference to help his former wife fight the neglect charges. The prince stayed behind at Rita's White Plains home, playing with his little daughter and afterwards reported: "I had a wonderful time. I spent the whole day on my knees on the floor." He has been seeking custody of the child.

Protest Removal Of Woman As School Principal

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Members of the ratepayers' council, boards of trade and teachers here have objected to the removal of a woman principal from here job in favor of a man. Board of education is on the man's side.

Mrs. Melissa Pietz, principal of Vimy public school for 14 years, has been told by board members she will be replaced as principal after June 31 and will be paid as a grade teacher.

Several councillors objected to the board's decision and a petition of protest signed by 376 parents and taxpayers was sent to the board.

Dr. E. C. Butcher, board chairman, said:

"The board feels that with the school doubled in size we should have a man as principal . . . I think the school board is perfectly within its rights to set a policy."

Hospital Supt. Resigns After Board Criticism

TORONTO (CP)—Harry G. Garwood, former president of the British Columbia Hospital Administrators' Association, has resigned as superintendent of the new $1,700,000 northwestern General hospital in suburban York township.

He submitted his resignation after a board meeting criticized him over a newspaper story in which he announced the hospital would set up a "really tough" medical audit system by means of which inefficient doctors would be weeded out.

Members of the Ontario Hospital Association objected to the story.

In his home in Niagara Falls, Ont., Mr. Garwood said today:

"The newspaper article was only one thing that caused trouble. But I haven't been able to establish a proper relationship with the board. I'm a little impatient, I guess. The board members have no experience and I have."

He said most Ontario hospitals have no proper medical audits.

"Too many have no control of the doctors at all."

'Squawk Box" Little Help Against Starlings

HAMILTON (CP) — The U. S. civic aeronautics administration may have found the "squawk box" technique useful in scaring starlings away from airplane hangars —but controller Sam Baggs, chairman of the city's anti-starling and pigeon committee, isn't impressed.

"The birds were back in a few hours after we tried it," said the controller. "Shooting is about the only way, and we're going to keep on doing it."

Washington, D. C. officials reported recordings of startled starlings scared others of the type away, but that pigeons, an even greater pest, just sidled up to the loudspeakers for a closer look. And pigeons won't squawk for recording machines.

Russian Workers' Homes

When Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer, was in Samarkand, Soviet Central Asia, he visited a truck-driver's home, probably the first visit by a Canadian reporter to an ordinary Russian's dwelling. Boss reports the driver, by Canadian standards, lives in poverty. The mud-and-plaster hut was off a muddy lane exactly like this. The openings in the walls lead into small courtyards with one-room shacks on three sides. — (CP Photo.)

Soviet Authorities Will Not Allow West Reporters To Inspect Workers' Homes

Editor's Note: Reporters in Russia do not ask for rents to get inside the homes of ordinary Soviet citizens, but the state has not given permission. Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer just home from Moscow, reports in this story—one of a series—on a chance visit by a worker's hut in Samarkand.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Truck driver Vakhyt Arfunov met his real name) lives in a mud-and-plaster hut, with a dirt floor, in Samarkand, a market town in Soviet central Asia.

The one room he shares with his wife costs a quarter of his income. It has no electricity, no running water, only a sheet-metal stove for cooking and heating in Samarkand's below-zero winters.

By Canadian standards, he lives in poverty. But he is proud that his home is like most others that he knows.

And in my travels I saw thousands of houses that looked no better from outside.

BARRED FROM HOMES

Soviet authorities will not allow Western reporters to see workers' accommodation—not even in the vast housing developments in Moscow and Kiev, as I saw.

I visited Arfunov's shack by chance. I was walking past at an out-door tea shop, drinking thin green Oriental tea at a carpeted picnic table under some trees.

He learned I was a Canadian reporter.

"What do you know about how the Soviet people work and live?" he asked.

I told him I hadn't been allowed to see much.

"Would you like to see my home, then? See how the Soviet worker lives?"

IN ASIATIC QUARTER

We walked down a lane, past compound walls broken only by doorways, to Arfunov's home, which occupied only by Uzbeks, Asiatics who are native to the area, and that European workers rarely would live in new "Socialist" quarters elsewhere. But we pushed open a slatted doorway and

Vietminh Expect Monsoon To Flood Out French Force

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI (AP) — Vietminh rebels confined their assaults on the battered Indo-China fortress of Dien Bien Phu to artillery barrages again today amid mounting indications that they may hold off further frontal assaults in hopes of starving out the weary French Union defenders.

Pelting rains of the spring monsoon have turned the narrowing mile-square stronghold into seas of red mud, bogging down movement of all mechanized arms. But the defenders continue to hold out against the artillery of the Communist-led attackers.

The feeling that the rebels might decide to sit out the siege was strengthened today by a Vietminh radio broadcast declaring that the monsoon will flood the French Union troops and force the hands of the overwhelming numbers of rebels surrounding them.

The broadcast quoted Communist Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap as saying in an order of the day:

EXPECT VICTORY

"When the French are obliged to leave their trenches and dugouts, because they will be flooded that is when victory will be ours."

The fortress defenders under Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries also face the threat of slow strangulation by the ever-tightening grip of the Vietminh unless the French find some way to relieve the pressure, such as a thrust by outside columns hitting the surrounding besiegers from the rear.

But the French appear only to reinforce the defenders by parachute drop. Despite the rains, the French reported more men and supplies had been landed today into the tiny drop target.

Although there were violent artillery duels between the opposing big guns, the French high command said there was no important infantry fighting.

Would Deny Eisenhower Right To Send Troops to Indo-China

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Frederic Coudert, a New York Republican, today advanced a theory that he said would limit Eisenhower authority to send United States troops to Indo-China without prior approval from Congress.

Coudert told reporters he had discussed the move with a number of colleagues, but "I haven't found anyone who is against it."

"But, naturally, a big fight there will vote if the pressure is put on them," he added. "On a secret roll-call I think it will go."

His move would apply also to the dispatch of troops to any other country unless it had a mutual defence pact with the United States.

Vice - President Richard Nixon has said that in the unlikely event of France withdrawing her forces from the fight against the Communist-led rebels in Indo-China, the U.S. might be obliged to send troops. Republican leaders in Congress have voiced doubt that such Eisenhower would make such a forces.

move without consulting Congress.

Coudert's plan to tie the president's hands with respect to foreign use of U.S. military personnel was drafted as an amendment to the Mutual Security Agency appropriation bill. His proposal is in the form of a joint resolution on use of funds the bill provides for the army, the navy, the air force and the military assistance for the fiscal year starting July 1.

It says none of the money can be used to finance the sending of troops into Indo-China, Thailand or U.S. territories or possessions except with the consent of Congress or in case of invasion, war or an enemy attack on a foreign country which the U.S. is obligated to assist by treaty.

There is no mutual defence treaty between the U.S. and Indo-China.

Washington concern over the military situation in Indo-China was voiced today by an Air Force lawmaker spokesman's disclosure that the U.S. Air Force is studying proposals for increased airlift aid to the French and native

Three Charges At New Hamburg Are Dismissed

KITCHENER (CP)—Three more charges arising out of New Hamburg's communist party March 26 were dismissed in court here Tuesday. Judgment in a fourth will be given next week.

Dismissed were charges against Walter Geiger of New Hamburg of obstructing chief constable George Thomas and of assaulting police chief. Carl Steiner, also of New Hamburg, was freed of a charge of assaulting the chief.

Judgment was reserved in another charge against Geiger, one of illegal possession of liquor. His lawyer J. Kennett Sims of Kitchener, entered a not guilty plea.

At first, the case was delayed when Geiger through his solicitor said not want to enter any evidence from "feelings in the town." But when magistrate J. R. McIntyre said the feelings of New Hamburg citizens had nothing to do with the case, it proceeded.

Australians To Leave Russia Thursday Night

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Australian charge d'affaires in Moscow, Brian Hill, announced today that the Soviet government has guaranteed his staff in Moscow full facilities" to leave for home Thursday night.

The Australian diplomatic party of 19 originally was to leave by train for Helsinki last Sunday following the Soviet break with Australia over the asylum granted by Vladimir Petrov, a Russian diplomat in Australia.

But the Soviet government withheld exit visas for the rail ticket.

Hill was called to the foreign ministry this morning and told the visit there in six days. The ministry informed him, he said, that "full facilities" and assistance would be provided to enable the Australians to catch Thursday night's train to Helsinki.

U.S. Committee To Vote Thursday On Seaway Issue

By JAMES C. MUNN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives rules committee today decided to vote Thursday on whether to send St. Lawrence seaway legislation to the House floor with a rule.

Chairman Leo Allen (Rep. Ill.) said reporters he believes the bill will be approved by the committee.

The measure, authorizing the U. S. to join Canada in building the 27 - foot-deep Atlantic-to-the-Lakes deep waterway, was approved by the Senate in January.

Queen Defies Mau Mau Threat, Flying to Uganda for 3-Day Visit

ENTEBBE, Uganda (CP) — Queen Elizabeth defied a Mau Mau death threat and flew to Uganda today for a three-day stop on her Commonwealth tour.

She and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived in this East African capital from Aden this morning despite a letter to Governor Sir Andrew Cohen that the secret anti-white terrorists in neighboring Kenya would assassinate the monarch if she came to this protectorate.

But the letter from the Mau Mau leader, Dedan Kimathi, caused the government to cut a visit to Kampala from her program and to cancel plans for a 72-mile road journey through the bush to open a new dam at Jinja. The Queen will fly to Jinja.

Uganda police said some Mau Mau crossed the border from Kenya recently and still have not been traced.

The government also was on the lookout for any hostile demonstrations by sympathizers of Kenya's King Motesa II of Buganda, one of the protectorate's four provinces. The colonial office ousted the last November and sent him off to London after he demanded that a date be set for giving his territory independence.

Negro leaders in colorful robes rubbed shoulders with British administrators in gleaming white as they awaited the Queen's plane. The turbaned Sultan of Zanzibar also came to Entebbe to welcome the Queen.

Africans sitting before their thatched mud huts waved as the royal couple drove the two miles to Government House. African police lined the route. Others prepared for, a special watch over the residence during the two nights she will spend here.

Casey Has Hunch 'Some Success' Coming at Geneva

By ADRIAN BALL

GENEVA (Reuters) — Richard Casey, Australian external affairs minister, said today he has the "instinct" that the Indo-China conference here "is going to have some success."

In an exclusive interview, he declared: "I believe the great powers on both sides show signs of a real willingness to lessen the areas of conflict in the East."

Declaring that "quiet private discussions" here promise some success, he disclosed that he has had "an unusually long series of informal meeting" with Andrei Vishinsky, Russian foreign minister.

This meeting was the first contact between the Australian and Soviet delegations since Russia broke off diplomatic relations with Australia last week over the Petrov affair.

The two ministers discussed matters related to the return of diplomatic staffs to Canberra and Moscow as well as general conference topics, Casey said.

Pleads Guilty To 14 Charges False Pretences

TORONTO (CP) — James P. Carleton, 39, Tuesday pleaded guilty to 14 charges of false pretences and one charge of fraudulently obtaining automobiles. He was arrested just 12 days after his release from serving a two-year sentence in Kingston penitentiary.

Charges against Mrs. Betty Babcock, 23, of Kingston, jointly charged with Carleton on 12 of the false pretences counts, and with fraud, were dropped following Carleton's plea of guilty.

Carleton was remanded for sentence until May 4. Police said he and Mrs. Babcock checked into a Toronto hotel in April and ran up bills totalling $102 before they were discovered to be without funds.

Balcombe Loses Appeal Against Death Sentence

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Balcombe, 24-year-old second lieutenant who was convicted of murdering Pte. Leonard W.G. Hall, lost his appeal Tuesday against the death sentence.

The Ontario Court of Appeal turned down the appeal and said Balcombe, a native of London, Ont., must die on the gallows as scheduled for May 7. Hall was killed at Camp Petawawa, Ont., Dec. 16.

The woman's stabbed body was found in a shallow ditch seven miles north of Iroquois, Ont.

Defence counsel J. J. Kelly said he will appeal the case before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Kelly argued that evidence given at the Cornwall trial last November should not be admitted as reasonable doubt" that the murder was premeditated.

SAYS MISDIRECTION

He also said the trial judge misdirected the jury, since literature found on the man was "prejudicial to a fair trial."

W. B. Common, special prosecutor for the Attorney-General's department speaking for the Crown, said Mr. Justice W.G. Hall inspected the body testified that rigor mortis had not set in when the girl was thrown into the ditch. The coroner said that since rigor mortis had begun to set in, the body must have been left there within 45 minutes of death.

Mr. Common said it was "physically impossible" for Balcombe to have killed the girl in Quebec and to have driven her 65 miles to the ditch near Iroquois inside of 45 minutes.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup handed down the appeal court's dismissal of the appeal, saying that the jury was entitled to say the crime had not been committed in Quebec and that there was nothing to support the contention that magistrate had shared in the case "influenced" the court.

HOUSE DEFEATS NON-CONFIDENCE MOTION OF PCs

Commons Nearing End Of Budget Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has defeated a six-point Progressive Conservative non-confidence motion and now nears the end of the budget debate.

The House Tuesday night voted 121 to 40 against the motion, which was opposed by the Liberal and CCF parties. Progressive Conservatives were supported by Social Credit members and three Quebec Independents, Raoul Poulin, Beauce; Paul Dagenais, Chicoutimi and Gerard Girard, Lapointe.

Much of the discussion in the debate has centred on the government's proposal to reimburse allowing Quebec's new 15-per-cent income tax to be fully deductible from federal tax payments. Federal law permits a five-per-cent reduction.

One main point in the Progressive Conservative motion said the government has "failed" to agree with the provinces on a reallocation of taxing powers to enable provinces and municipalities to carry their responsibilities.

It also said the government has ignored the unemployment problem and "failed" to reduce excessive taxation, particularly on expenditures, improve government efficiency and regain markets for primary products.

An earlier CCF motion of want of confidence in the government, which was defeated, criticized the government for declaring a sales tax relief to low-income groups and not increasing income taxes on corporations and wealthier individuals.

SPENDING FORECAST

The reductions in Finance Minister Abbott's budget April 6, totalling $40,000,000 in a full year, were criticized mainly by saying they left a long list of articles and eliminations of the 10-per-cent sales tax on a few others. He forecast spending of $5,440,000,000 in the 1954-55 fiscal year and a budget surplus of $4,000,000

Most of the budget debate revolved around Mr. Abbott's announcement that Quebec regularly will be unable to deduct all of the new provincial income tax from the federal income tax.

Roch Pinard, parliamentary assistant to Secretary of State Lester Pearson, said the dispute is a contest between Quebec's Union Nationale government and the Quebec unity. The people of Quebec would be the ones to pay the consequences for not informing the federal government of his intention to impose the tax.

Quebec should not refuse to negotiate with the federal government lest it isolate itself from the source of taxes in the other nine provinces had negotiated and reached agreements under which they collected certain tax fields, including income tax, for the federal government in return for annual payments.

U.S. WHEAT NOT NEEDED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pakistan announced Tuesday that it does not need the remaining wheat given by the United States to avert a down payment to buy wheat before delivery of 90,000 tons still awaiting shipment. The U.S. last year, at President Eisenhower's recommendation, made available 700,000 tons of U.S. wheat and offered an additional 300,000 tons reserve to be sent if necessary.

Stevens Says McCarthy's Aides Wanted Schine's Training Waived

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens testified today that Senator Joseph McCarthy's aides wanted basic army training waived for another drafted colleague, Pte. G. David Schine, and Schine assigned to New York.

"They wanted it couldn't be done that," Stevens said.

Under questioning, Stevens was in the witness chair before the Senate investigations sub - committee as Democrats launched a row between the Republican senator from Wisconsin and high army officials.

His statement was in response to questions from Senator Henry Jackson (Dem.-Wash.) who took up again the series of "true or false" queries he began putting to Stevens Tuesday.

Responding to them, Stevens labelled as "false" the central charges made against him by McCarthy and the Senator's aides.

Stevens had told reporters his aim is to establish "a clear cut case" for court martial if the charges are continued flat contradictions in the hearings.

At the outset of today's hearings, McCarthy complained that Stevens had "conducted a trial" in ordering generals to attend the hearings as witnesses and committee is "holding up the work of the army."

Senator Karl Mundt (Rep.-S.D.), presiding over the hearings, said he had "no intention" of acting on the subject when McCarthy's time for cross examination came up.

Stevens was scheduled to the stand today with instructions from Mundt to "particularize" his charges that McCarthy and two aides, Roy Cohn and Francis P. Carr, "illegally forces from the army for Schine and "threatened" the army in case Schine didn't get them.

Molotov Proposes Vietminh Leaders Debate Indo-China

Bidault Wants Wounded Men Evacuated First

GENEVA (CP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov proposed today that the leaders of the Communist-led Vietminh be invited to Geneva to participate in the debate on Indo-China.

Foreign Minister Bidault of France was prepared to have agreed in principle to the Soviet proposal, but argued that before the composition of the Indo-China conference is agreed on, some arrangement should be made for evacuation of French wounded from the battle-hard forces at Dien Bien Phu.

Molotov then proposed that the representatives of the Communist Vietminh and of Viet Nam, allied to France, meet immediately, in Geneva if necessary, to discuss evacuation of wounded from the beleaguered stronghold in northwest Indo-China. Bidault undertook to consider the Soviet proposal.

The Soviet move, made by Molotov in a private talk with Bidault, came amid mounting military developments in Geneva and abroad bearing on the Asian parley:

1. PEACE PLAN OPPOSED

1. Secretary of State Dulles of the United States opposed North Korea's proposal for new elections, saying it was a scheme to bring the Communist puppets of the existing (Seoul) government and to replace it by a Communist puppet regime. The Soviet plan for general elections under United Nations supervision.

2. In Seoul, a spokesman for President Syngman Rhee's government, termed the North Korean plan, advanced Tuesday by Foreign Minister Nam Il, a trap and "completely unacceptable."

3. In Paris, a joint declaration designed to establish the independence of Viet Nam immediately was signed by French Premier Joseph Laniel and Viet Namese Premier Premier Nguyen Tinh Vinh. Viet Nam is one of the three associated states of French Indo-China.

4. The British Labor party announced that it would introduce a resolution in London opposing "any steps which involve Britain in military action in support of imperialist policies in Indo-China."

5. The Associated Press, quoting diplomatic informants in London, said the British cabinet is facing its Western allies publicly to pledge help quickly to France in resisting Communist aggression in Indo-China. However, as outlined, there would be no direct intervention to Red China, Britain and France have opposed an ultimatum.

6. The AP also quoted a reliable source in Paris as saying the United States, Britain and France have agreed there will be no cease-fire in Indo-China without safeguard to ensure that the military situation remains frozen during negotiations for a political settlement.

CHANNEL SWIMMER LANDED

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP)—Shirley May France, 22, who set a high school girl twice failed to swim the English channel, settled down quietly to be a housewife. The pretty blonde who made vain attempts to cross the channel in 1951 and 1952 was married Tuesday to Douglas Smith, 24, also of Fall River, and Shirley May said "I don't want to do any more swimming."

'Liberation Force' Planned by Reds In South Asia

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — The official Chinese Nationalist Ta Tao news agency said today that Red China is prepared to counter any Western anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia with an "liberation force" of more than 50 divisions.

Ta Tao said its information came from a highly-placed but anonymous Communist official who attended Peiping conferences at which the counter-measures were planned.

The conferences apparently were held after U. S. State Secretary Dulles proposed a 10-power alliance to halt the spread of communism through southeast Asia.

Nehru Circulates His Peace Plan At Asian Parley

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — India's Prime Minister Nehru seized the initiative today as the South Asian premiers began a three-day conference here, and presented his plan for a cease-fire in the Indo-China conflict.

Nehru circulated among the premiers of Pakistan, Burma, Indonesia and Ceylon copies of the five-point resolution for peace in Indo-China which he presented to the United Nations four days ago.

Nehru's plan calls for the big powers now meeting at Geneva to: Arrange a cease-fire in Indo-China; initiate direct peace negotiations before the end of the conference; arrange an intervention pact by the United States, Britain, Russia and Red China; refrain from further stepping up of the war; and bring about United Nations conciliation.

Sources close to Nehru said he is anxious to push consideration of the Indo-China question ahead of other matters. These sources said he also has ready a resolution on atomic war.

In a recent speech to his parliament, Nehru called on both East and West to hold off further H-bomb tests.

Russian Workers' Homes

When Bill Ross, Canadian Press staff writer, was in Samarkand, Soviet Central Asia, he visited a truck-driver's home . . . probably the first visit by a Canadian reporter to an ordinary Russian's dwelling. Ross reports the driver, by Canadian standards, lives in poverty. The mud-and-plaster hut was off a muddy lane exactly like this. The openings in the walls lead into small courtyards with one-room shacks on three sides. — (CP Photo)

Soviet Authorities Will Not Allow West Reporters To Inspect Workers' Homes

Editor's Note: Reporters in Russia have tried for years to get inside the homes of ordinary Soviet citizens, but the state has not given permission. Bill Ross, Canadian Press staff writer just home from Moscow, reports in this story—one of a series—on a chance visit to a worker's hut in Samarkand.

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Truck driver Vasiliyi Artamov (not his real name) lives in a mud-and-plaster hut, with a dirt floor, in Samarkand, a market town in Soviet central Asia.

The one room he shares with his wife costs a quarter of his income. It has no electricity, no running water, only a sheet-metal stove for cooking and heating in Samarkand's below-zero winters.

By Canadian standards, he lives in poverty. But he told me that his home is like most others that he knows.

And in my travels I saw thousands of houses that looked no better from outside.

BARRED FROM HOMES

Soviet authorities will not allow Western reporters to see normal accommodation—not even in the vast housing developments in Moscow and every town I saw.

I visited Artamov's shack by chance. I was in the courtyard of an out-door tea shop, drinking thin green Oriental tea at a carpeted picnic table under some trees.

He learned I was a Canadian reporter.

"What do you know about how the Soviet people work and live?" he asked.

I told him I hadn't been allowed to see much.

"Would you like to see my home, then? See how a Soviet worker lives?"

IN ASIATIC QUARTER

We walked down a lane, past compound walls broken only by doorways. Most of the houses were occupied only by Uzbeks, Asiatics who are native to the area, and that Russian Russian visitors would live in new "Socialist" quarters elsewhere in the city. You open a slatted doorway and

Vietminh Expect Monsoon To Flood Out French Force

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI (AP) — Vietminh rebels confined their assaults on the battered Indo-China fortress of Dien Bien Phu to artillery barrages again today amid mounting indications that they may hold off further frontal assaults in hopes of starving out the new French Union defenders.

Pelting rains of the spring monsoon have turned the narrowing mile-square stronghold into seas of red mud, slowing down movement of all mechanized arms. But the defenders appear to hold out against the artillery of the Communist-led attackers.

The feeling that the rebels might decide to sit out the siege was strengthened by a Vietminh radio broadcast declaring that the monsoon will flood the French Union troops out into the hands of the overwhelming numbers of rebel surrounding them.

The broadcast quoted Communist Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap as saying in an order of the day:

EXPECT VICTORY

"Even the French are obliged to leave their trenches and dugouts, because they will be flooded that is when victory will be ours."

The fortress defenders under Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries also face the threat of slow strangulation by the ever-tightening grip of the Vietminh unless the French find some way to relieve the pressure such as a thrust by outside columns hitting the surrounding besiegers from the rear.

But the French continue only to reinforce the defenders by parachute drop. Despite the rains, the French reported more men and supplies were parachuted today into the tiny drop target.

Although there were violent artillery duels between the opposing big guns, the French high command said there was no improvement in the situation.

Would Deny Eisenhower Right To Send Troops to Indo-China

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Frederic Coudert, a New York Republican, today advanced a proposal to deny President Eisenhower authority to send United States troops to Indo-China without prior approval from Congress.

Coudert told reporters he had discussed the move with a number of colleagues, "and I haven't found anyone who is against it."

"But nobody has talked how they will vote if the pressure is put on them," he added, "so it's a secret ballot as I know it could be."

His move would apply also to the deployment of United States troops country unless it had a mutual defence pact with the United States.

Vice - President Richard Nixon stated that in the event the spread of France withdrawing her forces from the fight against the Communist-led rebels in Indo-China, the U.S. might be obliged to send troops. Republican leaders in Congress have voiced doubt that Eisenhower would make such a move without consulting Congress.

Coudert's plan to tie the president's hands with respect to foreign use of U.S. military personnel was drafted as an amendment to the $400,000,000 mutual security appropriation bill. His proposal is in the form of a limitation on the use of funds the bill provides for the army, the navy, the air force and the marine corps for the fiscal year starting July 1.

He says none of the money can be used to finance the sending of any armed force of the United States, its territories or possessions except with the consent of Congress, or in defense of the U.S. or an enemy attack on a foreign country whose defense the U.S. is obligated to assist by treaty.

There is no mutual defence treaty between the U.S. and Indo-China.

Washington concern over the military situation in Indo-China was reflected here in a statement by a department spokesman's disclosure that the U.S. Air Force is studying the request for Canadian aid to the French and native forces.

Casey Has Hunch 'Some Success' Coming at Geneva

By ADRIAN BALL

GENEVA (Reuters) — Richard Casey, Australian external affairs minister, said today he has the "instinct" that there will be some conference here "is going to have some success."

In an exclusive interview, he declared: "I believe the great powers on both sides show signs of the realization of the necessity for an area of conflict in the East."

Declaring that "the present diplomacies" here promise some success, Casey denied any link between his "am amicable and friendly informal meeting" with Andrei Gromyko, Soviet deputy premier minister.

This meeting was the first contact between the Australian and Soviet delegations since Russia took off diplomatic relations with Australia last week over the Petrov affair.

The two ministers discussed matters related to the return of diplomats in Canberra and Moscow as well as general conference topics, Casey said.

Balcombe Loses Appeal Against Death Sentence

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Balcombe, 24-year-old second lieutenant who was convicted of murdering a young army CWAC, lost his appeal Tuesday against the death sentence.

The Ontario Court of Appeal turned down the appeal and sent Balcombe, a native of London, Ont., must die on the gallows as scheduled Friday. He was convicted of murder in the slaying of Doris Jean Mitchell, 21, of Moncton, Que., Oct. 16.

The woman's stabbed body was found in a roadside ditch seven miles north of Iroquois, Ont., headquarters of the CWAC. Kelly said he will appeal the case before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Kelly argued that evidence given at the Cornwall trial last November was given by "accomplices" and "unreliable" and that the jury should not have convicted Balcombe.

SAYS MISDIRECTION

He also said the trial judge misdirected the jury, since literature found in Balcombe's car was "inconclusive" and "irrelevant."

Mr. E. Bayly, special prosecutor for the Attorney-General's department speaking for the Crown, said the manner in which the body testified that rigor mortis had not set in when the girl was thrown into the ditch. The coroner said the time since mortis takes 45 minutes to set in, the body must have been left there within 45 minutes of the find.

Mr. Common said it was "physically impossible" for Balcombe to have killed the girl in Quebec and to have driven her 65 miles to the ditch where she was found in 45 minutes.

Chief Justice J. W. Pickup handed down the "appeal court's dismissal of the appeal, saying that there was no evidence that the crime had not been committed in Ontario. He said there was also nothing to support the contention that "misdirection" about the case "influenced" the court.

HOUSE DEFEATS NON-CONFIDENCE MOTION OF PCs

Commons Nearing End Of Budget Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has defeated a six-point Progressive Conservative non-confidence motion and now nears the end of the budget debate.

The House Thursday night voted 121 to 40 against the motion, which was opposed by the Liberal and CCF parties. Progressive Conservatives were supported by Social Credit members and three Quebec Independents, Raoul Poulin, Beauce; Joel Caguon, Chicoutimi and Fernand Girard, Lapointe.

Much of the discussion in the debate has centred on the government's and municipalities' taxing powers. Quebec's new 15-per-cent income tax to be fully deductible from federal tax payments. Federal law permits a five-per-cent reduction. One main point in the Progressive Conservative motion said the government has "failed" to agree with the provinces on a reallocation of taxing powers to enable provinces and municipalities to carry their responsibilities.

It also said the government has ignored the unemployment problem and "failed" to reduce excessive taxes, control excessive expenditures, improve government efficiency and regain markets for primary products.

An earlier CCF motion of want of confidence in the government, which was defeated, criticized the government for giving inadequate tax relief to low-income groups and no corporation or sales taxation on individuals.

SPENDING FORECAST

The reductions in Finance Minister Abbott's budget April 6, totalling $40,000,000 in a full year, were confined largely to a small group and a long list of articles and eliminations of the 10-per-cent sales tax on a few others. He forecast spending of $5,000,000 in the 1954-55 fiscal year and a nominal surplus of $4,000,000

Most of the budget debate revolved around Mr. Abbott's announcement that Quebec residents will be unable to deduct all of the new provincial income tax from the federal income levy.

Roch Pinard, parliamentary assistant to Secretary of State Lester Pearson, said the dispute is a controversial one. Quebec's Union Nationale governments and Canadian unity. The people of Quebec would be "deeply hurt" if the government, for not informing the federal government of his intention to impose the tax.

Quebec should not refuse to negotiate with the federal government lest it isolate itself from the other provinces. Four provinces have negotiated and reached agreements under which they leased certain tax fields, including income tax, to the federal government in return for annual payments.

U.S. WHEAT NOT NEEDED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pakistan announced Tuesday that it does not need the remaining wheat given by the United States to avert famine and would accept only half the delivery of 90,000 tons still awaiting shipment. The U.S. last year, before Pakistan's request, recommended, made available 700,000 tons of wheat from current stocks and additional 300,000 tons reserve to be sent if necessary.

Molotov Proposes Vietminh Leaders Debate Indo-China

Bidault Wants Wounded Men Evacuated First

GENEVA (CP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov proposed today that the leaders of the Communist Vietminh be invited to Geneva to participate in the debate on Indo-China.

Foreign Minister Bidault of France was reported to have agreed in principle to the Soviet proposal, but argued that before the composition of the Indo-China conference is agreed on, some arrangement should be made for evacuation of French wounded from the besieged fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Molotov then proposed that the representatives of the Communist Vietminh and of Viet Nam, allied to France, meet immediately, in Geneva if necessary, to discuss evacuation of wounded from the beleaguered stronghold in northwest Indo-China. Bidault undertook to consider the Soviet proposal.

The Soviet move, made by Molotov in a private talk with Bidault, came amid hints in other developments in Geneva and abroad bearing on the Asian parley:

ELECTIONS PLAN OPPOSED

1. Secretary of State Dulles of the United States opposed North Korea's proposal for nationwide elections, saying it was a scheme to bring the Communist dictatorship of the existing (Seoul) government and to replace it by a Communist puppet regime. He called the proposed elections under United Nations supervision.

2. Seoul, a spokesman for President Syngman Rhee's government, termed the North Korean plan, advanced Tuesday by Foreign Minister Nam Il, a trap and "completely unacceptable."

3. In Paris, a bold declaration designed to establish the independence of the Vietnamese people was signed by French Premier Joseph Laniel and Viet Namese Premier Prince Buu Loc Tuesday. Vinh. Viet Nam is one of the three associated states of French Indo-China.

4. The British Labor party executive passed a resolution in London opposing "any steps which would involve Britain in direct action in support of imperialist policies in Indo-China."

5. The Associated Press, quoting diplomatic informants in London, said the United States is stirring its Western allies publicly to seek help quickly in the task of resisting Communist aggression in Indo-China. However, as outlined, there would be no direct ultimatum to Red China, Britain and France are opposed to an ultimatum.

6. The AP also quoted a reliable source for the effect that the United States, Britain and France have agreed there is no hope for cease-fire in Indo-China without reparations from Red China. Preliminary situation regains frozen during negotiations for a political settlement.

Stevens Says McCarthy's Aides Wanted Schine's Training Waived

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens testified today that Senator Joseph McCarthy's aides wanted basic army training waived for a friend drafted colleague, Pte. G. David Schine, and Schine assigned to New York, "to be treated as a corporal on that," Stevens said.

Under questioning, Stevens was in the witness chair before the Senate investigations subcommittee at televised hearings on the row between the Republican senator from Wisconsin and high army officials.

His statement was in response to questions from Senator Henry Jackson (Dem.-Wash.) who took up again the series of "true or false" queries he began putting to Stevens Tuesday.

Responding to them, Stevens replied "false" to the central charges made against him by McCarthy and the Senator's aides.

Jackson had told reporters his aim is to establish "a clear cut case" for perjury charges if there are continued flat contradictions in the hearings.

At the outset of today's hearing, McCarthy complained that defence department officials were ordering generals to attend the hearings as a device to keep committee is "holding up the work of the army."

Senator Karl Mundt (Rep.-S.D.), presiding over the hearings, said McCarthy could question Stevens on the subject when McCarthy's time for cross examination came up.

Stevens was recalled to the stand today with instructions from Mundt to "particularize" his charges that McCarthy and two aides, Roy Cohn and Francis P. Carr, sought favors from the army for Schine and "threatened" the army in case Schine didn't get them.

'Liberation Force' Planned by Reds In South Asia

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — The official Chinese Nationalist Ta Tao news agency said today that Red China is prepared to counter any Western anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia with a "liberation force" of more than 50 divisions.

Ta Tao said its information came from a highly-placed but anonymous Communist official who attended Peiping conferences at which the counter-measures were planned.

The conferences apparently were held after U. S. State Secretary Dulles proposed a 10-power alliance to halt the spread of Communism through southeast Asia.

Nehru Circulates His Peace Plan At Asian Parley

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — India's Prime Minister Nehru seized the initiative today as five Southeast Asian premiers began a three-day conference here, and presented his plan for a solution of the Indo-China conflict.

Nehru circulated among the premiers of Pakistan, Burma, Indonesia and Ceylon copies of a five-point resolution for peace in Indo-China which he presented to the conference delegates Tuesday night.

Nehru's plan calls for the big associated states meeting at Geneva to: Arrange a cease-fire in Indo-China; initiate direct peace negotiations between the French and the Communist-led Vietminh; arrange a non-interference pact by the United States, Britain, Russia and Red China; refrain from further stepping up of the war and bring about United Nations conciliation.

Sources close to Nehru said he is anxious to push consideration of the Indo-China crisis ahead of other matters. These sources said he also has ready a resolution on that vexatious issue.

In a recent speech to his parliament, Nehru called on both East and West to hold off further H-bomb tests.

Worker Suffers Severe Burns In Gasoline Fire

TRENTON (Special)—Earl Gregory, 18, R.R. 3 Trenton, proprietor of the Sidney Auto Wreckers suffered severe burns in a gasoline fire on his premises yesterday. He was cutting the bolts from underneath the radiator of a car with an acetylene torch, when a can of what he figured was water burst into flames.

With his clothing burning he ran and shut the acetylene supply tanks off and then pushed them outside. By that time his helper Ken Bowers arrived on the scene and both of the young men pushed a burning car outside the building into the open.

By the time Trenton firemen and workmen at the garage with extinguishers part of the building had caught fire and car wrecking equipment was burning severely. It was only a matter of seconds however before firemen had the situation under control.

Young Gregory was rushed by car to the Dr. Bowe's office. He was given first aid and taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital. It was found that he received painful burns to his right hand and right leg.

The hospital today reported Mr. Gregory's condition as satisfactory.

A member of the regular fire fighting staff said both of the young men showed a lot of presence of mind in the way they acted when they saw the pall of gasoline exploded.

40 Gallons Rum Taken from Car On Railway

—Ye, Ho, Ho, and a Bottle of Rum.

And so went the old song, claimed to have been a favorite of one time pirates operating in the West Indies.

That same song could very well have been sung with fervor in the Belleville area over the past week-end when modern "pirates" made off with 40 gallons of rum from a railway car in the Belleville yards.

The carload of rum put up in 40 gallon drums was consigned to the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company at Corbyville but it was 40 gallons short on arrival.

Railway police found that "pirates" had bored through the floor of the railway car and tapping one of the kegs of rum, had drained its contents, which were apparently caught in containers beneath the car.

Kiwanis Observes U.S.-Canada Good Will Week

Observance of U.S.-Canada Good Will Week and a complete report on the Kiwanis World Travel and Adventure series for the season just completed featured the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club held in Kiwanis Centre.

Past president, Everett Fairman, read a brief outline of the development of Kiwanis International's observance of U.S.-Canada Good Will Week which commemorated the signing of the Rush-Bagot convention in 1818 which proved to be the cornerstone of Canada - U.S. relations across an undefended border.

Mr. Fairman reminded Kiwanians that the Rush-Bagot convention, signed on April 28th, 1818, was an agreement between Britain and the United States to limit armed naval forces on the Great Lakes. From this agreement has developed 137 years of continuous good will and a spirit of understanding across the longest unguarded frontier in the world.

Mr. Fairman stated that Kiwanis International first observed U.S.-Canada Good Will in 1932, officially designated such an observance in 1936. In 1936 U.S. Canada Good Will Week now takes a place as an event on the Kiwanis calendar during the week St. April 28th.

I. L. Moore read letters from President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, determining the excellent work of Kiwanis in promoting friendship understanding and good will with their annual observance of this most significant event in the histories of both countries.

Staff Veterans, chairman of the World Travel and Adventure series committee reported that the project had been an outstanding entertainment and financial success. He gave a summary of the receipts and costs and presented president, Lawrence Kells, with the balance of the account.

He also announced that the series would be continued next year.

Hugh Murray, chairman of the sales committee, then outlined the subscription campaign. which would be presented in May.

Everett Fairman reminded Kiwanians of their forthcoming ladies' night on May 4th and Jim Allen spoke of an inter club meeting to be held at Trenton, Wednesday, April 28th.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials were featured in firm but quiet forenoon stock market trading today.

Papers, utilities, refining oils and financial institutions led the industrial strength. Liquors were a little off. Brazilian, up 87½ cents on a cash dividend declaration, and Consumers Gas, up 75 cents to a $22 new high on announcement of Ottawa's pipe-line approval, were the features. Dominion Bridge added 37½ cents.

All gold groups were firm with small gains. Senlors, with gains up to Addison's 13½ cents, assumed leadership from the lightly-traded boiding companies.

Junior base metals were pennies stronger while senlors, although quietly traded, held firm. Manitoba wedge issues were off slightly in light trading. Uranium added modestly on favorable drilling reports to lead uraniums. Bathurst base metals were steady in quiet trading, with fractional gains and losses in balance.

Western showed no trend in light, mixed, narrow-range trading.

Steel Industry Will Improve Says Official

NEW YORK (AP)—Benjamin F. Fairless, board chairman of United States Steel Corp., expects that general business conditions—and the steel industry is wedded to them—"will continue to improve to some extent" in the next 90 days.

Fairless, who says he is still "bullish" and "an optimist" made his prediction after U.S. Steel Tuesday reported on an unexpectedly good first quarter, in view of slow business throughout the American steel industry in general.

His firm, the industry's greatest, reported that it operated at 80.2 per cent of its newly-enlarged rated capacity during the first three months of 1954. Fairless forecast industry operations of between 70 and 75 per cent in the second quarter.

This wasn't in the same class with the 102.5-per-cent operating rate during the booming three-month period of 1953, a record-breaking year. But the industry as a whole has been going at a dwindling operating rate, down now to 68.5 per cent.

U.S. Steel reported a net income of $44,830,376, or $1.48 a share, for the first quarter, compared with $49,375,958, or $1.63 a share, for the like period in 1953.

H.T. Patterson To Speak Here

H. T. PATTERSON.

Mr. H. T. Patterson, general manager of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival, who will address the Women's Canadian Club Friday evening in Bridge Street United Church Sunday School rooms, has been instrumental in making a Festival dream come true.

Mr. Patterson was born and educated in Stratford, later graduating from the University of Toronto. During World War II he served with the Canadian army overseas. After his return to Toronto, he became associate editor of the MacLean-Hunter publication, "Civic Administration," and received his present position in 1953.

Mr. Patterson will touch on the past history of the Festival; of the battle for funds which resulted in the Rothschild Foundation making a contribution of $40,000, contingent upon the Festival receiving twice that amount from other sources prior to June, 1954, as well as other features of the Festival's inside story, and of plans for the 2nd annual Festival in June of this year.

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslav diplomats have left Belgrade for Tirana, Albania, to reopen a legation in the Albanian capital. It was closed after Yugoslavia broke with the Cominform in 1948. Yugoslavia's decision to reopen its legation in Soviet-dominated Albania followed Russia's resumption of normal relations with Belgrade last June.

40,000 Taxpayers in Seven County Areas Due for Refunds

There will be 40,000 happy taxpayers in the seven county area served by the Belleville district office of the Income Tax department this year, according to figures released by the office this morning.

The office serves 80,000 taxpayers. Of the 80,000 there are 40,000 due for refunds this year for a variety of reasons, all of which are good for the individual's finances.

The glee and the gloom, however, are about equally distributed as the April 30th deadline for filing returns nears. So far the office has handled 35,000 of 1953 returns. Of these some 32,000 refunds have been mailed out.

There are still 23,000 returns to be filed in the counties of Hastings, Peterborough, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Durham, Haliburton and Victoria. The Belleville office assumed jurisdiction for the tax returns of Durham, Haliburton and Victoria about 18 months ago, when those counties were pried loose from the Toronto territory.

Peterborough residents are being served through a temporary office in that city, that will be open until the April 30th deadline.

SUBJECT TO PENALTY.

Income tax officials, in a spirit of friendly co-operation point out that returns filed after the April 30th deadline are subject to a penalty. The department also charges an interest rate of six per cent on all balances owing after April 30th. Returns mailed to the office bearing an April postmark will be accepted without penalty.

There are a variety of reasons for the heavy number of refunds. According to H. A. Parker, director of income tax for the Belleville district, more and more people the paying 100 per cent of their tax on weekly, bi-weekly and monthly wages. Consequently deductions for medical expenses, charitable donations, increased number of dependents and interrupted employment, combined with reduced tax rates for the latter half of 1953 and increased exemption rates for certain classes of dependents all add up to a discount.

MEDICAL EXPENSES REDUCED

As usual, a certain proportion of the population marries and starts raising exemptions only this year every little bundle of joy is a $750 dependent instead of the $600 dependent of former years. Dependents are with families longer too, as parents can now claim exemption for children over 21 years of age if they are attending university.

The floor on medical expenses was reduced from four to three per cent.

The big factors in the number of refunds, however, are the reduced income tax rate for the last half of 1953 and persons paying 100 per cent of their tax on a pay-as-you-go basis who were temporarily unemployed or who had interrupted employment last year.

Mr. Parker has stated that the Belleville office has a new mechanical process for getting out refunds that has made it possible to do the job faster than ever. In fact, despite the work involved in handling returns from three additional counties the Belleville office has not increased its staff. At present there are 85 persons working tirelessly to compute tax returns and mail out refunds.

Mr. Parker pointed out too, that the Taxation Division's extensive advertising campaign urging people to file their returns early seems to have paid off and that only a few people will fail to get their returns in on time.

COMPLETED IN FEW MINUTES

Good advice to those who have not yet completed their returns was forthcoming from the tax office. The T1 Short form, a simple little document for use of individuals whose income is from salary or wages and whose investment income is less than $2,400, even tells the amount of tax payable. It can be completed in a few minutes. For beginners or for those who tend to get nosebleeds in the rare air of high finance, the department provides, free of charge, a tax guide that will keep any taxpayer's feet planted firmly on the straight and narrow.

Taxpayers will also save themselves time and trouble if they make sure their returns are complete and accurate.

Completeness and accuracy include the attachment of salary or wage T4 slips, medical and donation receipts for which claim is being made, and a full accounting of the 12 months of wage earning in 1953.

If a T4 form, for instance, covers only nine months of 1953, the taxpayer should indicate, in the appropriate space, what happened during the three months not accounted for. Such a complete accounting hastens completion of each individual's income tax return.

And for you late starters there is always the prospect that you might be one of the lucky 8,000 who still have a refund coming.

Three Holy Name Societies Plan For May 30 Rally

On Sunday evening a joint meeting of the Holy Name Societies of the three parishes was held at St. Michael's Academy. The spiritual director, Rev. Dean Garvin, opened the meeting with prayer and president Ernest Cook of St. Michael's Holy Name Society expressed his appreciation for the fine turn out and welcomed the members from Holy Rosary and Saint Joseph's parishes. The minutes from the last meeting were read and accepted. A short discussion was held regarding the cleaning up of the old cemetery, and it was decided to work on it during the summer.

The primary reason for holding the joint meeting of the three parishes was to fo..n committees for the rally to be held Sunday, May 30, and the following members will head the committees: Regional Chairman, Rev. Dean Garvin; Regional Committee, Rev. Father J. J. Buckley and Rev. Father P. Murphy; Rally Committee, Chairman, Ernest Cook; Marshal, Maurice Callaghan; Guard of Honor, Bob Kitchen; programs, Ed. Keough; reviewing stand, Harry Carr-Brain; bands, Allan Meagher; parking, Jack Chapelle; candles, music and ushers, George Whalen, Herb Brown and Harry O'Neill; lighting, Ed. Buckley.

President Ernest Cook presented Rev. Dean Garvin with a cheque from the Holy Name Society for the Building Fund. It was decided to hold another meeting on Sunday, May 23, to make final plans for the rally. The meeting was then brought to a close by president Ernest Cook.

LET'S HAVE IMMIGRANTS FROM U.S.

Quiet but steady pressure by various ethnic groups to include a greater proportion of persons of their own nationalities in Canada's immigration quotas is evidenced by letters in the press from those groups urging the Department of Citizenship and Immigration to consider their particular pleas.

The latest such request is come to our attention concerns an increase in the quota on Greek immigration. Traditional friendship, a cultural background, a salutary record of citizenship of Greeks in Canada who immigrated in times past, as well as the dire necessity of easing overpopulation in a country desperately waging an internal struggle with Communism, were all advanced as reasons for serious consideration of assistance to Greece by providing an outlet for her emigrants.

There is much to commend such requests. The arguments in favor of revision are sound. However, these same arguments have been advanced by almost all other groups seeking similar concessions and in most cases their arguments are equally sound. Italian and German groups, as well as those from England, Ireland and Scotland, are all urging Canada to accept a greater number of their nationals.

The Department of Citizenship and Immigration is currently accepting about 160,000 immigrants per year under a quota system that to date appears to be operating efficiently.

Unfortunately, the basis of most of the claims presented by these various groups is directly related to a climate of distress at home that makes emigration to any country, not necessarily Canada, one of the few almost absolute solutions to internal strife. Such unfavorable conditions are traditionally prime movers in the mass migration of populations.

These conditions prevail today in a great many countries in Europe that provided the immigrants who peopled America. But unlike conditions even 50 years ago, America—Canada and the United States — no longer is a vast, uncharted wilderness into which thousands of people can be poured for the founding of new empires.

The frontiers of opportunity that were present a half-century ago in land no longer exist. Opportunity today tends to lie more and more in highly-populated urban centres, where industry concentrates because of a need for workers and because of greater economy in distributing to mass markets. Canada, with great tracts of untilled land still available, the trend is not to the land but to the cities. And our cities for the most part are overcrowded.

Most immigrants, because of currency restrictions in their home lands, arrive in Canada with limited resources faced with the necessity of finding work; a necessity that sends them into growing cities and makes for further crowding. It is true, too, that immigrants are not usually persons with good financial resources. Their chief asset is ambition to increase their holdings from a level that is almost intolerable in their homelands.

There is, however, one source of immigration which Canada could profitably tap, and that is the United States. Americans speak the same language, enjoy the same magazines and papers, see the same movies, and have approximately the same standards and economic backgrounds. Americans are ambitious, hard-working, ingenious people with the capacity to conceive, undertake and complete projects of opportunity south of the border. Individual assets there is a traditional friendship between the two countries that is the envy of the world.

To all appearances, Americans would make the best possible immigrants to Canada. Such a mass movement is hindered by the most relaxed red tape in the world. But such a movement is not taking place. Obviously Americans do not find Canada as attractive as Canada finds them as great an opportunity as exists in their own country. On the other hand hundreds of thousands of Canadians in past years have emigrated to the United States. This migration continues year by year with a whopping percentage of Canada's professional men answering the call of opportunity south of the border.

It would seem prudent for the Department of Citizenship and Immigration to plug this leakage of good Canadians to the United States, as well as to plan a program of luring Americans to Canada, before seriously heeding pleas for alterations in the quota of immigrants from Europe.

THE SEED OF STRIFE

"A baby's personality is shaped from the start by the attitudes of his parents," writes Dr. Benjamin Spock in the May issue of Ladies Home Journal.

That statement is particularly frightening when we realize how many of today's youth, in Europe, in China and in Korea, have lacked that "true love of parents for their child" which, Dr. Spock says, "is as vital as calories in making them grow."

It is not only for food that war orphans have been starved. Time may heal their bodies. But will it ever heal their minds, which must be filled with fear and hate?

What will be tomorrow's harvest from this terrible seed?

A WORD FOR GRANDMA

Mother knows that pie and cake
Make our little stomachs ache,
And we often hear her say:
"That is quite enough today!
More will surely make you ill.
Run away now and be still."
But at grandma's we can take
All we want of chocolate cake.

Mother knows we mustn't eat
Much of anything too sweet,
And like watchful spy is on
Just how careful we can be.

When there's candy, she will say:
"One or two's enough today."
But at grandma's we can eat
Loads of anything that's sweet.

Mother knows that children must
Drink their milk and eat their crust.
And she tells us right along
We need spinach to be strong.
So, she makes us eat a lot
Of the stuff we'd rather not;
But at grandma's that's not so.
It may be she doesn't know.

Ice Cream Cone's Story

(By DICKSON TERRY in the St. Louis Post-Despatch)

When the fiftieth anniversary of the St. Louis World's Fair rolls around next May, it will be with at least the fiftieth anniversary of a number of things that came out of the fair, not the least of which is that great American institution, the ice cream cone.

Its creation was completely accidental. Someone bought a waffle at a penny waffle-stand, twirled it into a cornucopia and filled it with ice cream. It was both convenient and delicious.

Look what's happened since. Every year the American people alone consume roughly two and a half billion cones which, if laid end to end, would reach a mighty long way. The cone contributes its share toward the consumption, in this country of more than 62 billion gallons of ice cream a year.

Not only that, but the cone has spread over most of the world. Japan set fire to it with the ice cream cone years ago. The French are mad about it, and cones, while not Latin American creatures, where the weather is too warm for such delicacy, have long had their own factories. There is also evidence that it comes over big in Africa. Among the many things that Russia has borrowed from America in the last year or so is ice cream cone machinery.

St. Louis was not the only birthplace of the cone, but it was here that the idea got its first growing pains and emerged the giant it is today. St. Louis is still one of the largest production centres of ice cream cones in the world and one of the few places where they still make the old fashioned cake cone, which is a modern and mechanical version of the original waffle cone.

By 1903 St. Louis was supplying virtually all the demand. There were dozens of cone manufacturers, all using the hand-baking method. But cone-making soon spread to the East, where it became time took the play away from St. Louis.

There are now two main types of cone. They are the old-fashioned rolled cone, direct descendant of the waffle and the cake which is baked in a mold. The rolled cone is still baked on waffle irons and rolled, except that it is all done by machinery now.

There is no mystery about the ingredients of a cone. Secret lies in the proportions. The batter is made of flour, sugar (fidder than wheat flour is best), sugar corn starch or tapioca, shortening, cocoa-fat, milk and eggs and honey. The batter is made up in 500-pound batches.

Communism International

(Montreal Gazette)

It is only coincidence, But it is interesting, that the full text of the money of Igor Gouzenko before a U.S. committee of investigation should have been released on the same day as the spy ring announcement from Canberra. For the testimony by Gouzenko emphasizes that there is no such thing as purely Communist activity. Wherever the spies or agitators may be found, they are acting under directions from one place. Their work, in the full-blown sense, is international.

It is this fact that puts the Russian spy in Canberra in the same niche as the Russian official escaped in Canada. The important thing is that these two Russian officials were operating in the same area at the opposite sides of the earth.

Communism is never a local affair. It is the international conspiracy. Ottawa and Canberra may be in touch on the Russian activities are identical. They are only parts of the whole. Into this plan everything has to fit. It might just as well have been a case of Ottawa and Moscow as Ottawa and Gouzenko at work in Canberra.

Objects to Planes Flying Over City

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

As I write to you this afternoon, planes are flying very low overhead, and I have just been wondering how soon one of these monsters will fall in our property and will crash to earth.

Why is it that they cannot be stopped—these irresponsible people who are responsible for this danger to our lives? Why wait until Belleville becomes another Moose Jaw or one of the other numerous communities so terrorized?

Surely, you would be doing a great public service, if, through your paper, you could arouse public opinion and interest with a view to putting a stop to this hazard, at least so far as Belleville is concerned, before it is too late.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The time to go shopping for food is in the morning, but not before supper. On an empty stomach. Every housewife knows this. But big - shot advertising agency men apparently don't. Your grocer, you will find, plans the programs advertising food comes on each evening after dinner. And the article of food presented, with the aid of top ranking artists and writers, photographers, camera tra, brilliant stagecraft, and cunning editing designed to make you to make the food appear as exciting as possible, is offered to you, the housewife, sitting there in your home stuffed to the gills. The result is food, at that precise hour of the day, is repulsive.

We can speculate on just how the program was sold to the client. The first thing a client and an advertising agency do is to list the best possible audience. Certain nights of the week, when children are in bed, cause it is figured out most people are at home, rather than at shows, concerts, social gatherings. And what hour is the best? Probably right after dinner, when the family moves into the living room and relaxes comfortably.

The show is then built up, and a format designed to the liking of the client. In all probability, the rehearsal is held around 10 o'clock in the morning. Both the client and the agency men are hungry. Added to their exasperation with the program is a curious zest, inspired by the commercials, that is not present in carefully rehearsed. Those tasty articles of food are displayed by persuasive, careful people. The seductive mouth-watering young announcers, it would appear, sometimes like a whale of a program. Every body shakes hands, the deal is on, and the client hurries home to watch it on TV. It is going to cost, perhaps, a couple of thousands of dollars for the half hour.

But the rest of the story, the mysterious of the rehearsal is not quite so apparent during the show. The housewives in the ways shop for food on an empty stomach. And the rule for TV and radio clients and agency men is to see rehearsals of a food show at her a large meal.

To the best of my recollection I served many long dreary years in practice before myself got enough cash in hand to marry. It certainly seemed like years. And now it seems no more than a few months since Micky, the lovely girl I married came to work for me and...

Dr. Brady

In the county where we lived there was one doctor who, people said, went on periodic benders. I found this hard to believe, for in several consultations the man was invariably courteous, kind and professionally competent.

People who assured me that it was true nevertheless expressed their confidence in the doctor's ability. Some of them would say: "I'd rather have Jupiter" (as we may call him here) "drunk than any other doctor sober."

At first this shocked me. Did people really mean it?

I heard stories of still another doctor who had practised in the community before my time. This one, too, they said, had been a heavy drinker. Indeed he was drunk most of the time. One day he undertook a difficult surgical operation and . . . well, the patient died of hemorrhage. But, they assured me, for all his drinking the doctor was one of the best . . .

That story depressed me, at a time when life seemed cold and dreary. Maybe I had been trying to take it too practise. Maybe I had chosen the wrong profession.

I thought about it a great deal. Had nothing much else to do. I never did employ any spare time to advertise, as a good friend in business advised. He would drop into the office to invite me to dinner or something, and, noticing how neat everything was, he would suggest that I unroll a bandage or two and put a little redness on the eye or some instruments about the office for the next caller to see. That's the way they did at the store when business was not brisk. There was nothing for it up the street—and around the block and back to the office.

But I finally thought my way out of the depression. I did have a few patients of the professional class—a lawyer, a clergyman, half a dozen teachers and an editor—and my wife, at any time, thought most of my patients were labourers, clerks, mechanics, and business men.

It suddenly occurred to me one day that all the people who would rather have Hank Jupiter drunk than any other doctor sober had another doctor when Jupiter was sober — me. And that's the secret. I used to say that these people themselves were too fond of drink for their own good, and, after all, their opinion was not the general consensus, for at least one other doctor in the county had a better practice than Jupiter and a lot of good people wouldn't employ Dr. Henry Jupiter drunk or sober.

Sometimes a great deal depends on the judgment of a doctor, and there can be no question that a touch of alcohol sufficient to have any appreciable effect impairs judgment. So it is reassuring to know that your doctor is a teetotaler.

Mrs. Malaprop Has Admirers

(Atlantic Monthly)

The predominant fault of the bad English encountered today is not greed nor, for all its malapert use, the blithe irresponsibility of the taught. The language is no longer degraded by the deliberate attempt to be hoarded and protected as far as possible.

Take as examples: - The hotel clerk giving me a good room feels bound to mention the well known person whom "we last hospitalized in that room". Not to lag behind in the race, a waiter in the room "slip your feet into these easy slippers and breathe a sigh of real comfort."

The New Yorker spotted a movie ad which read: "Adultery" was used to mean "adulthood". From an English periodical I learn that some new houses "affront the opposite side of the street."

If Mrs. Malaprop is going to become the patron saint of Engwedging and stretching her intention" from meaning the same thing as "contentment" or the praise of a poem from being called a woodcutter?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHY READ BOOKS?

I often think how different my life would have been if I had early been guided to a love of books. The more books you read the fewer there are of people who die! A book is a friend for life.

There are two volumes in my library which I have read over the most interesting and remarkable of all the books in the world-wide library. The happy custodian I refer to the two volumes by Holbrook Jackson which I recently received. The book in its first edition is now a collector's item. It was published in London in 1930. No other book has in it so much about books and lovers of books as this one. It is itself. You soon learn why people read and love books when you read your literary appetite therein. The author is gone, but his life still shines and always will. His memorial is called "The Anatomy of Bibliomania."

In these books you learn about what the great of the earth have read and loved to read. And it tells when they read most, and where, and for what reason. There are thousands of quotations and references. You can open the books at any place and you sit down to literary entertainment. What book lovers liked most to eat, or when to sleep or to read, is what gave them the most pleasure. Being a time for all things, Jackson quotes Ecclesiastes Smith, who once said that "it is just as well to be born a bibliophile as to be born to feel at home on this teeming earth."

Jackson takes you into the bosoms of the great, tells of their habits and pleasures, and introduces you to them under the most exacting of circumstances. Only a real bibliomaniacy about books and their lovers that challenges all other forms of democracy. Book lovers are a unique breed! Going back to ancient times and into the present, Jackson tells about book lovers who "tasted" their words as they read and ate and can't describe Niagara or the Grand Canyon, so lyrical was he about it. Jackson calls his book "The Anatomy of Bibliomania" I, and every reader, am a part of the book!

Romantic Models

(Times Of London)

Whether, in the studios of fashion-photographers, there is anything corresponding to a stage door or a casting-director's office is a certain that models, since they stop-at-nothing managers, are more likely than chorus-girls to need the sort of shoes out of which to cherish a page boy to drink. In what for lack of a better word must be called real life they are rarely given to flirtation and assurance.

The old type of model, though a romantic figure in slightly slatternly way, sometimes had to sit for hours in the same position, and the same draught, before even a single likeness of her had been completed; and after that—even when the likeness was the most lustre—the genius who executed it was liable to go unrecognised for years, perhaps for ever. Even if with Blood Orange" or "Girl with Blood Orange" or what-ever the picture was called had an instantaneous success d'estime, the publishers (as easy) the Guards Club was neglible; and although champagne was occasionally drunk in the circles frequented by the model, it was generally drunk out of a tooth-glass.

The modern model is on a much better wicket. She is her shoes long virile under a north flight, clad in a cage-green cardigan or a three-cornered hat, or nothing at all; not for her the endless compilation of a suspicion spy, or her left fingering, or the wall-paper. She has, it is true, to dress up in costumes, many of them to a man, at any rate) fairly ridiculous; and she is required to adopt the camera postures and expressions which, if she adopted them in public, would lead people to assume that she was not quite right in the head. But these are exigencies of the service which, with normal fortitude, she endures, and which they do-not go unrewarded.

Men are apt to contemplate most of the resultant photographs with pessimistic interest than the physical attractions which they deserve.

They can see that she is an exceptionally pretty girl. But why does she look as if some that extraordinary stance, leaning over to one side as though to compliment the lady on her knot glde and resting one finger of her disengaged hand the other hip, some reason claps a small Polynesian fetish) lightly upon her temple? Her eyes are not, apparently, focused at an unusually oblique angle. She looks, not for too fine a point upon it, as if she were slightly barmy.

But very now and then she has to show off country clothes, and when she does there is something tells the Svengali for whom she works that a different approach is needed. The fey and the provocative, the faintly bizarre or the frankly incredulate would be equally out of place on the Rome Farm or at the covert side; and we are given the lovely creature stooping over a calf (what on earth is she going to do to it?), protesting eager to an enormous hunter, wielding a trowel in the manner of one who has learned from a Labrador. She is still immensely soigne, still perfectly poised, still wholly herself.

But somehow, in these vignettes of the great outdoors, she seems more interesting character. because she has become fallible. She does not greatly matter which way up you hold a Polynesian fetish, but there are right ways and wrong ways of handling a trout-rod or feeding sugar to a horse; and the average man, noting how often she very nearly uses the right technique, concludes that perhaps more is required of models than the capacity to look simultaneously ruggish and remote.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE FATHER'S BUSINESS

"I must be about my Father's business."

This was the first recorded utterance of Jesus. The last recorded utterance was, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." Attending to the Father's business led to the cross.

It is well for us to ponder that statement of Jesus. Many times in our business always involves the cross some way or other. There are the business in the amount of sacrifice required of those who take their stand for Christ. Christ, but in such situations the cross at least casts its shadow over the person that has such a stand, and over his pathway. We must look out for lives to find them. We must be crucified with Christ if we would be raised with Him into newness of life.

The Father's business for you and for me means something more than believing a creed and attending church with regularity. It means carrying the spirit of Christ into everything we do. It means living a flame of love in the home, it means fighting for righteousness against a host of evil forces which have their hoodlums and sluggers in the community. It means pondering the Word of God and singing long enough every day to let a little of its wisdom sink into our minds and souls.

"I must be about my Father's business." Into the hotel and the sun-rounding buildings totally disappear, it was an A-bomb the best stronger had in his overnight bag.

Two Canadian Brokerage Firms Are Indicted

DETROIT (AP)—Two Canadian brokerage firms and 14 of their salesmen were indicted Tuesday by a U.S. grand jury on charges of defrauding American investors of $300,000.

Four indictments embracing 42 counts were returned against T.M. Parker, Inc., and Laurentian Securities, Inc., both of Montreal.

The companies and salesmen are charged with fraud in the sale of shares in six petroleum and uranium companies to investors in 40 states and the District of Columbia.

One indictment, with 18 counts, charges violations of the Federal Securities Act; another, with 17 counts, violations of mail fraud statutes; a third, with one count, conspiracy to violate the Securities Act, and a fourth, with six counts, operating without broker-dealer licences.

Joseph A. Moynihan, assistant U.S. attorney, said the firms and salesmen had sold stock to 275 persons between March and August of last year. He said the stock was sold at from 80 cents to $1.50 a share when it could have been bought for 10 cents a share or less.

CAN BE EXTRADITED

U. S. attorney Fred W. Kaess said that, under a treaty with Canada, the defendants can be extradited.

Kaess and Moynihan said stock sale solicitations were made by telephone.

Kaess said that "in some instances no delivery of stock paid for was made and in other cases substitution of stock was made without the purchasers' consent."

Maximum penalties are: five years imprisonment on each count of the first; five years on each count of the second; two years on the one count of the third, and five years on each count of the fourth.

LYONS — JUBY

Tall standards of pink and white snapdragons interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely background in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Foxboro, Ont., on Saturday, April 10, at 2.00 p.m. for the marriage of Grace Irene Juby, Foxboro, Ontario, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Juby, to Everett John J. Lyons, son of Mrs. Mary Lyons, Bath. The Reverend W. M. V. Walker, of Stirling, officiated.

The wedding music was provided by the organist, Mr. Reginald Skinner, who also accompanied the soloist, Mr. J. McMurray, who sang before the ceremony "Because" and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Elmo Juby, the bride was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of ivory satin with lace insertions, with a Sweetheart neckline and long, tight-fitting sleeves ending in tiny points over the hands. A seed pearl encrusted coronet held her finger-tip veil of nylon net and lace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses tied with white satin ribbons. A single strand of pearls completed her ensemble.

Christ Church Evening B.W.A. Afternoon Tea a Spring Idyll

Lovely as a pastoral poem was the spring tea sponsored yesterday afternoon by the Evening Branch of Christ Church Women's Auxiliary, held in the parish hall under the convenership of Mrs. Alfred Cooper and co-convener, Mrs. S. Ferguson, although silver was leaden and gusts of rain added fleetness to already hurrying feet, yet they did not deter the many guests who came, and were welcomed by the gracious receptionists, Mrs. J. H. Creegan, wife of the Rector, and Mrs. Reverett Smith, wife of the assistant Rector, whose were handclasps and engaging smiles more than regalia for any unpleasantness en route.

CHARMING TEA ROOM

The tea room was most charming with its soft grey walls, dark green drapes, highlighted by the yellow curtains across the stage which acted as a delightful background for the long tea table directly in front and beneath. The snowwhite damask cloth was centred by an exquisitely arranged assortment of spring flowers, yellow jonquils, orchid tinted spurr stocks, pink, mauve and white giant sweetpeas, mauve, white and yellow iris, rose colored tulips and pink carnations, all of which were intermingled with leaves of rhododendron, white gypsophelia, and feathery sprays of asparagus fern. Flanking this fragrant centrepiece were crystal tri-branched candelabra with yellow and pastel green candles, and at either end the gleaming silver services. A further spring accent was added by the white baskets of pussy willows, and the pots of golden chrysanthemums which lined the stage in front of the crimson curtains.

The little quartet tables were attractively arranged in rows throughout the assembly room, each with snowy cloth centred by a little green leadlike holder containing one tall golden jonquil and a single spray of downy pussywillows, and the little serviettes, in yellow, green and rose completed the springtime motif throughout.

POURING TEA

Mrs. J. Hibbard acted as tea hostess, while those presided at the silver services were Mrs. C. Colling and Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. Hickey, Mrs. C. Lennox and Mrs. F. Welch. Those who served included, Mrs. J. Cooke, Mrs. H. Stevens, Mrs. G. Bass, Mrs. R. Blaker, Mrs. L. Watson and Mrs. I. Reid. Those who replenished the tables, Mrs. W. Edwards, Mrs. F. O'Connor, Mrs. L. Mason, Mrs. C. Reid and Mrs. J. McDonald, and those in the Kitchen, Mrs. H. Ingram, Mrs. C. Hayes, Mrs. W. T. MacLaughlin, Mrs. B. Smith and Mrs. W. Lancaster.

The ladies who set the tables of merchandise, each one most attractive, the homecooking table was a thing of beauty with its centre of rose-colored tulips and sprays of British Columbia huckleberry. Here, under the supervision of Mrs. G. Griffiths, Mrs. C. Moncrow, Mrs. L. Domosly, Mrs. H. Eaton, Mrs. F. Dalnard and Mrs. H. Ingram, Mrs. C. Hayes, Mrs. W. T. MacLaughlin, Mrs. B. Smith and Mrs. W. Lancaster.

The president expressed thanks to Mrs. W. Marmer and Mrs. Argue, who were in charge of the dinner given by the Guild to the Sunday School teachers and staff, and to Mrs. Barlow, who looked after the flowers for the church on Easter Sunday and who distributed them afterwards to the aged and shut-ins of the congregation.

Letters of thanks were read from several who received flowers, from the Sunday School teachers, and from Girl Guide Company No. 7 for the use of the Sunday School hall.

The opening and closing hymns were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Melville. Refreshments were served by members of the friendship group of which Mrs. G. Durno is leader.

DESCRIBES TRIP

The speaker for the evening, Mrs. J. G. Hornsby, was introduced by Mrs. H. Yorke. Mrs. Hornsby gave a most interesting description of a unique and flattering trip by bus to New Orleans. Mrs. Hornsby presented a graphic picture that took her listeners from a cold, wet Canadian night to a delightful country and finally to semi-tropical flowers, beautiful gardens and ante-bellum homes rich in tradition.

From Belleville to Detroit was the first lap of the journey, and from there to Memphis, Mrs. Hornsby and her two travelling companions got their first glimpse of the Mississippi River at Vicksburg. This was a winding, muddy river. In Memphis they encountered the first segregation of colored and white people.

On an excursion with the garden club they saw lovely gardens with magnificent azaleas, camellias, wisteria, and dogwood which were everywhere. In the ante-bellum homes cypress wood was mainly used because of its resistance to moisture and termites. In these homes the dining room was the centre of the house because of the lavish entertaining. The drapes were rich brocades, and crystal and cut glass were much in evidence, and in some homes the doorknobs were solid silver.

New Orleans is an interesting city, hot and humid, with a colorful atmosphere, especially in the French quarter. The people there were gracious and friendly with soft southern manners. Dinner at Antoines, one of the famous tourist attractions proved a delightful entertainment for travellers.

Washington was an impressive city, well planned by men of vision, with majestic buildings and statues. Mrs. Hornsby described the cherry blossom festival, and the cherry trees around the tidal basin.

On behalf of the Guild, Mrs. G. Shaw thanked the speaker for her most interesting account of her trip.

PINK AND WHITE THEME

Pink and white was the theme of the dainty tea table, centred with a pink and white bride's cake flanked by pink and white tapers in crystal candelabra. Pink and white sweetpeas and snapdragons were arranged in crystal vases on the mantel and on the piano. Pink and white mints and nuts were in crystal dishes on the tea table.

Mrs. Douglas Goodfellow, of Canniffton, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs Clifford Cooke, of Plainfield, and Donald Goodfellow, of Canniffton, acted as ushers.

For travelling to Watertown and around Lake Ontario, the bride chose a navy suit with white hat and gloves, navy purse and shoes and corsage of red carnations and roses. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons are residing on their farm, 5th concession of Thurlow.

Women's Guild Of St. Andrew's Hears Address

At the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Guild on Tuesday night the president, Mrs. C. G. Ryan, was in charge with the minutes being read by the secretary, Mrs. T. Angus. The devotional part of the program was read by Mrs. W. M. Barlow. In spite of the adverse weather conditions there was a good attendance with all groups represented.

The president expressed thanks to Mrs. W. Marmer and Mrs. Argue, who were in charge of the dinner given by the Guild to the Sunday School teachers and staff, and to Mrs. Barlow, who looked after the flowers for the church on Easter Sunday and who distributed them afterwards to the aged and shut-ins of the congregation.

Mrs. W.H. Gilleland Gives Fine Talk on 'Women Under the Law'

A representative gathering of women met Tuesday evening in Queen Alexandra School under the auspices of the Women's Study Group to hear Mrs. W. D. Gilleland, assistant secretary of the Canadian Committee on the Status of Women, speak on the topic, "Women Under the Law".

Mrs. A. D. Archibald, president of the Women's Study Guild, acted as chairman and Mrs. George Wishart introduced the guest speaker, noting that she is a native of Hastings County, having been born in Actinolite.

Mrs. Gilleland is at present the only woman member of the Canadian Penal Association. She is a past president of the University Women's Club of Ottawa, and now edits the "Chronicle", the national year book of University Women's Clubs of Canada.

WOMEN "PERSONS".

In opening her address, Mrs. Gilleland paid tribute to Emily Murphy who succeeded in having women declared persons and to whom a plaque has been erected in the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

Proceeding to deal in some detail with laws relating to women, especially in regard to the Succession Duties Act, Mrs. Gilleland stated that it has been admitted by those in authority that this law is out-of-date and that Finance Minister Douglas Abbott has announced that he is prepared to overhaul the act. This big item of news has come about by the persistent requests of Women's organizations.

CURRENT EXPENSES.

On the death of her husband a wife can get for current expenses from a joint account only $500, or one-half of the account, whichever is the smaller, until the estate is settled.

If it is an incorporated business a wife can be put on the payroll. Where does the Farmer's wife come in? No matter how hard a wife works to help build up her husband's business or his farm, she is not regarded as a marriage partner in the eyes of the law.

Mrs. Gilleland noted that in more recent legislation women's capacities have been recognized, as in Family Allowance cheques and the Veterans' Land Act, where wives are investigated.

SUCCESSION DUTIES.

Smart lawyers fail their clients "There are ways of getting around the succession duties, if they should wives be expected to know these ways." Regarding succession duties the following requests have been submitted in 1953 to the Prime Minister of Canada: That instead of exempting estates up to $50,000 this amount be made a final exemption deductible from the value of the estate before calculation of duties; that only one-half the value of any gift from a husband to his wife, property or otherwise be subject to gift tax; that one half of a deceased husband's estate be conceded, for tax purposes, as earned by his widow and be not, therefore, subject to succession duty when it passes to her upon his death.

The purpose is to have women recognized as partners.

The present rates of the U.S.A. half an estate is conceded for all purposes as belonging to a wife.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

At the conclusion of her animated and provocative address Mrs. Gilleland answered many questions from the audience.

Miss Grace Elson tendered the speaker a vote of thanks on behalf of the Women's Study Guild and their guests.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MRS. STEPSON RESENTS HER HUSBAND WON'T HELP

A letter appearing in this column a week or so ago had to do with a woman signing herself Mrs. B.E., who had been married twice, and whose second husband had children by the two children she had by her first husband.

In my reply to her, I asked if she had ever made any real effort to have these children take an affectionate attitude toward their stepfather, and I suggested that if she had not, it might be very effective in changing his own attitude if she would encourage them to treat him lovingly and thoughtfully.

Now, in comment of this letter, comes one which presents the other side of the picture. In this case, it is the second husband who had a child by a previous marriage, and the child who resents his stepmother.

I read your answer to Mrs. B.E. in your column in regard to her second marriage," the stepmother writes, "and I am writing this in the hope that it might help her marriage or others similar.

"I am a stepmother, and have reason to know how the love and respect of stepchildren plays a big part in the happiness of such a marriage. If Mrs. B.E. has made the mistake of not teaching her children to love and respect her husband, I hope she will do so before it is too late.

"I married a man who had a 13-year-old son. Before the marriage, the son and I were great pals. We attended the movies together, went fishing and were the best of friends. I thought we would continue this relationship after my marriage, and it did continue until the son visited his mother a couple of months later.

"Then after this first visit to his mother following his father's marriage to me, the boy became sullen and resentful. Never again was he thoughtful and considerate to me, as he had been in the past. Every word he spoke at home was addressed to his father, not to me. He began to monopolize his father, and was jealous of the slightest attention his father paid me. His attitude toward me wasn't his father, either, because his mother had left his father for another man before I ever met him.

"When I tried to talk about this to my husband, he accused me of being cruel to his son, even of hating him. He made no effort to change his son's attitude. Although I have never neglected my duty, I am a very unhappy wife. I have cared for his son, sent him to school and never mistreated him, but it has all been purely out of a sense of duty."

As happens so tragically often, it seems quite obvious that this boy's attitude was instilled in him by his divorced mother. Incalculable harm of this kind is done to second marriages every day, by divorced men and women who try to get back at their former mates by poisoning the minds of the children either against them, or against the persons they have married after the divorce.

If the parent who has the children makes no attempt to offset this vicious propaganda through carefully worded talks with the children, a second marriage can indeed be ruined, as seems to have happened in the case described in this letter. Here the father has gone even further than merely neglecting his duty toward his second wife, for instead of recognizing the fact that the son's attitude is undoubtedly the work of his ex-wife, he accuses his second wife of hating the boy. No wonder this wife is so unhappy, it's a wonder she has been able to put up with the situation as long as she has.

She asks no advice, so I assume she has worked out her own formula for enduring this needless burden which a man of kindness and insight would never have placed upon her. All she wants to do now, apparently, is to give vent to her opinion of the second wife of her husband in any marriage where there are children of a previous union to be reared. Let's hope that her letter may have its effect on some reader who may be harming his own second marriage by just such an attitude.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

THE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CAKE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

The celebrate a Golden Wedding Anniversary, there is to be a family dinner and reception.

(1) Who are Invitations sent?

(2) How long before the celebration date are the invitations sent?

(3) Would you suggest where I can get ideas as to how to decorate the Anniversary Cake?

(4) Who cuts this cake?

M.

(1) If, as I judge from your question, the dinner is for the members of the family, and the reception for other guests, the invitations to the reception may be sent to as many relatives and friends of the couple as can be conveniently accommodated. Relatives, friends, neighbors . . . everyone loves to be invited to such a wonderful occasion as a Golden Wedding celebration! Sometimes the members of the church to which the couple belong are invited. Sometimes invitations are given to the members of an organization or organizations to which the couple belong. The number of invitations depends entirely on the size of the space accommodation, and of course on the wish of the couple or of whoever is given the reception.

(2) The invitations should be sent about three weeks or two weeks before the date. . .the longer time is preferable, so that guests invited may surely have notification time to save the date.

(3) Many cookbooks have these suggestions about decorating. If you don't own just the one you buy now, consult your nearest library (or a friend or neighbor who is skilled in cake decorating). Many of the new, very handsome Anniversary Cakes today are of only one layer, a large square cake covered with white icing, and decorated with silver. . . or with white anniversary. . . the dramatic 50, say, usually in gold-color icing.

(4) Most thrilling and significant moment:the "bride" and "groom" cut the first slice of the cake (the "groom" holding his right hand over the "bride's" right hand), and this slice they share with each other, as reserved promise of always-sharing. The procedure following this should be most definitely planned beforehand. The bride may, if she wishes, continue to cut the rest of the cake, the groom serving it. Or a caterer or assistant may take over the cutting and serving. Or, as is very often the pleasant custom, a relative or intimate friend of the family may cut and serve the rest of the cake.

WEDDING PRESENTS . . AFTER AN ELOPEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Ken and I eloped three months ago, and were married in a near-by state. Now we would like to send the news to all our relatives and friends, and my parents are willing to send formal, engraved announcements. If they do, would it be necessary for those receiving the announcements to send us wedding presents? Nancy P.

Not at all necessary for those receiving these formal announcements to send wedding presents. . . and you'd be foolish to expect very many presents. Some of your relatives, and some of your husband's relatives, and perhaps a few intimate friends will probably send presents. . . naturally you won't receive the number you would have received if wedding invitations had been issued. It's one of the penalties of eloping!

When you want to open a tin of canned meat, when both ends of the tin are cut, push the meat from one end, and it can be sliced easily!

Special-Purpose Menu

By Mary Moore

If you walk up to your butcher and say "Have you a forequarter of lamb today?" and he says "Yes" and you say "I'd like one, please, but would you remove the bone before you wrap it up and include the bone in my parcel"—if you do this he'll think "Here's a gal that knows exactly what she wants."

For I'm going to tell you what to do with a boned forequarter of lamb . . . for I get hungry for it. My favorite meat is broiled lamb chops—thick juicy ones—but most of the time my hunger has to be satisfied with meat that does not belong in its luxury class.

I worked on a delicious lamb dish that I seldom try, and seldom if every hear of anyone else cooking.

This was our menu for dinner last night when we had a guest from Winnipeg.

Tomato Orange Juice

Stuffed Breast of Lamb
Lamb Gravy Mint Jelly
Green Beans
Creamy Mashed Turnips
Celery Hearts

Cinnamon Poached Apples
Pouring Cream
Date-Oatmeal Cookies
Coffee

STUFFED BREAST
or
SHOULDER OF LAMB.

The amount of stuffing given is sufficient for the shoulder or the whole forequarter or just the breast meat. Spread out the boned meat, sprinkle inside with salt and pepper and cover with celery stalks. Gently cook in ½ cup of salted water 2 cups finely chopped celery for 5 minutes. Drain. Add to celery 1 cup soft breadcrumbs, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning or sage. Mix well. Roll up meat and tie tightly. Put on rack in the roasting pan, sprinkle surface with flour, salt and pepper and put in oven (at 425 deg. Fahr. for moderately hot) for 30 minutes. Add 1 cup hot water, reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. and roast 2½ hours, uncovered. To make Lamb Gravy, Boil the raw lamb bones in cold water to cover, with 1 small sliced onion, 4 peppercorns, for 2 hours, covered. Strain, then skim off any excess fat. Into 4 tablespoons lamb fat sipped off roasting meat stir 4½ tablespoons flour. Stir this to let it brown a little, then stir in 2 cups of the bone stock, until thick. Season this to taste with salt and pepper. Pete likes me to add a few capers and a little vinegar from caper bottle to this gravy. I like it too.

CREAMY MASHED TURNIPS.

Scrape turnips. To bring out the flavor or turnip I boil 1 or 2 potatoes with it. But I had some leftover mashed potatoes. So I boiled the turnip until tender, drained it, mashed it, then added 1 cup cold mashed potatoes, some extra butter and cream and salt and pepper and mashed it to heat through over low heat, for about 5 minutes. It was terrific.

CINNAMON POACHED APPLES.

Pare and core 4 choice apples. Boil together 2/3 cup sugar, 2/3 cup water, 2-inch stick of cinnamon bark, a few whole cloves, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 teaspoon grated rind. Add the apples and cook gently until tender, basting often. Let cool in pink syrup, then chill. Serve some of the slightly jellied syrup over each apple and pass pouring cream.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE CARE OF THE NECK

When a woman's neck is as creased as an autumn leaf, consult with her youth seems far in the past. Skimpy hair can be permanented, arranged in a chic manner. The imperfect complexion can be brightened with make-up. But the neck that has "gone to seed" is difficult to conceal. So don't let it happen to you!

The care of the neck should have its own and special place in the beauty routine. Exercises will keep the underlying fibers so firm that the outer tissues do not lose tone. Ordinarily this pillar that holds up the feminine head receives no cosmetic care whatsoever. It is never invited to the feast of creams and lotions that preserves the complexion. So what? It rebels and soon shows its age.

If you suspect that your neck does not look as lovely as it might, give it ten minutes of your time during that before-bed-time beauty session. Use heavy massage cream. Apply it on a clean surface, using upward motions, front, sides, back and way down so that no sallow line remains to disturb the beauty of the evening gown or low V cut. Try not to stretch the skin.

With the head turned to the right, sweep creamed fingers up and downward, heavier pressure as the fingers work up toward the jaw line.

With all fingers meeting under the chin, move outward to the ear-lobes. This is a favorite movement of facial operators. Let the fingers be parted so some move along above the jaw bones, others below.

Corrective exercises, while the cream remains on, are helpful. Tilt the head, fingers at the nape line, press inward, move the head back and to side with a strong muscle pull.

Keep Gardens Canadian

Contemporary building design has undergone a rapid change in recent years, states R. W. Oliver, Division Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont. Because the average Canadian does his own gardening the design of our gardens has not kept pace with that of our homes.

Many of the modern ideas in home and garden design have come from California where climate and living habits—the most important influences in architecture and garden design—are quite different to our own. Rather than adopt these ideas because they are fashionable and "modern", we should sift the good ones and adapt them to our conditions.

Contemporary Californian gardens are designed to "rid us of the discipline of traditional form" to quote a recognized text. The main aim seems to be the use of structural building materials, rather than plant materials, to extend the lines of the house into the garden and thus reduce the labor of gardening. Opaque glass screens were therefore used to provide privacy and wind shelter rather than hedges or Shrubbery borders. In California garden shaded areas where one can sit at ease must be provided for all seasons of the year, and so two or more sets of shade trees are needed to take care of different angles of sunlight; consequently space tends to be cut up by lines of clipped trees. Plants are used only as ornaments to provide colorful displays in herbiniores, flower boxes, or formal beds.

In Canada, few of us sit or even walk in our gardens for at least six months of the year and we are not interested in winter shade. We prefer open spaces so that we can enjoy our gardens from inside even on summer days. We can get ample 3 dimensions into our garden pictures by the contrast between conifers and deciduous plants or conifers standing out against the snow rather than by cutting spaces with confined lollipop-shaped beds of plants. Further we like actually working with plants and watching them develop through the summer season. It is a welcome contrast to winter.

We must, of course, adopt the form of our plantings to the new proportions of our houses. Ground covers are admirable beneath low broad windows. Clipped and boxbordered hedges lend emphasis where needed and provide pattern in three dimensions which match the lines of the houses. We can forget the "rectangular acres" and "symmetry of pact" garden plans because we have done away with them in planning our homes.

But we still must arrange our gardens to meet the special needs of our family rather than the demands of the latest fad. Canadians will always prefer to watch plants grow rather than admire plywood fences; children need open spaces to play rather than curved hedges to trip over. By all means use an outdoor kitchen with a paved area for chairs and tables but Canada has plenty of attractive stone readily available and more suitable to our tastes when backed by well arranged hedges or conifer groups than colored concrete backed by plywood.

Let us develop a style of garden design that satisfies our needs in a modern setting rather than trying to follow fashions set under different conditions.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ann Taylor (Mother of 5)

One of the nicest things about babies is that it really doesn't cost a lot to amuse them. A couple of gaily-colored balloons, tied to crib or playpen, will keep a wee one quietly entranced with colorful movement. The spinning beauty of a pinwheel, attached to the foot of baby's carriage, is fascinating. Spools, strung on a shoe string, make a happy clacking toy. And sets of plastic measuring spoons can really be a joy.

Gobs galore . . . that's usually the score at baby's mealtime when you serve Gerber's Strained Foods. For they have the special, smooth texture that fools good on baby's tongue. (Little ones frown on coarse food, you know.) Add to this appealing true flavors that appetizing true colors, and you have the makings of mighty fine baby fare. Gerber's Strained Foods are processed for high retention of the wholesome food value baby needs.

* * *

Good "hoarding" plan. Don't toss out wide-mouth, screw-top jars. They're wonderful for cotton, safety pins, etc. Swell for sterilizing nipples, too—just punch holes in top and pop into sterilizer upside down.

Mess "specials" for baby. Gerber's now offer 4 Strained Meats and 3 Junior Meats for your growing tot. These protein-rich meats are made from selected cuts . . . easy as milk to digest. Another wonderful newcomer for baby . . . Gerber's Strained Egg Yolks. Ready to serve "as is" or added to milk or formula.

Baby Spoon offer! This heavy silver plated Baby Spoon in famous Winthrop design (regular value $1.25) is yours for only 25c plus one box top from any of the five famous Gerber Baby Cereals. Just send to: Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box 17, Toronto 18, Canada.

Invents Page Turner

A device which permits polio patients in an iron lung to turn pages of newspapers and magazines by a movement of the head has been made by Donn Sims of Calgary (right). He said he will send the page-turner to Kaleel Oksanen of Port Arthur, Ont., who has been in an iron lung for the last 16 years. Sims read the request made for a page turner for Oksanen and built the machine. He demonstrates it at Calgary General Hospital. The machine has two small motors. — (CP Photo.)

SOVIET

stepped into a courtyard. On the left was an open toilet, bricked to waist height on two sides, the walls of the courtyard forming the other walls. Planks diagonally across one corner gave rough cover.

Through another slatted door we entered a smaller enclosure with three rectangular rooms and a shed furnished by hollow square around it.

Artumov and his wife live in one room, their landlady in another, a school teacher with his wife and teacher wife and two children in the third.

In state tenements, workers pay nominal rents. A master-cook I met earns 1,000 rubles a month and pays only 28 for two rooms and kitchen and bath shared with the family in the next two-room flat.

But Artumov said he earns between 400 and 500 rubles a month. His wife earns the same amount as a factory hand. His rent is 100 rubles.

DIRT-FLOORED ROOM

For this he and his wife get their dirt-floored 15-by-11-foot room, unheated and without electricity. Lighting is by kerosene lamp.

"Two years ago the landlady said she was going to have the house wired so we bought a radio for 767 rubles. Then she said we didn't need electricity, so we have a radio we can't use. Later we bought the atmosphere cover here for 333 rubles so that we could have some music."

The iron single-width bedstead is at one end of the room on two pieces of lumber to keep it level and dry. There are two pails of water on a table, carried from a street well 300 yards away for drinking and washing. Artumov and his wife bathe once a week in a neighborhood public bath, one ruble a time.

The coal stove is of sheet metal, like the stoves Canadian soldiers make for heating bunkers. Artumov made it himself and complains the room is unbearable hot in 85-degree summer weather when his wife prepares meals.

On the walls are a map of the world and one of Soviet Russia. Artumov can point to Toronto and Montreal, and knows Ottawa is the capital of Canada.

WAITING FOR FLAT

His clothes are kept in a calico-covered alcove behind the bed—one suit, a jacket, an overcoat, a pair of shoes, a pair of boots. His wife has a couple of dresses, a coat and one pair of shoes, plus lighter garments kept in a patchwork-covered chest, with table linen, bedding and curtains she has made for the flat they hope to get some day.

I asked why he was not in a government apartment.

"They build them but we never get one," he said. "We've been waiting for years. That's the regime. They never keep their word."

He said none of the 72 drivers of the transport enterprise he works for has a state dwelling. Some had children in similar one-roomed quarters.

Artumov said he voted in the March 14 election because "it is our duty." He voted for the government, too. That also is a duty.

He said he never has any money. "How can you save when it costs more than 100 rubles for a shirt!"

He said he and his wife live mostly on potatoes, dried peas, lentils and bread. There is a bit of sugar in the cupboard, occasionally a bit of meat or fish, but never butter or margarine.

KREMLIN SECRET

I do not know how many of Russia's millions live in circumstances like Artumov's. That is a Kremlin secret. But there are obviously multitudes.

In contrast are the state housing projects everywhere. The Moscow skyline is pierced by a myriad of cranes like lop-sided TV signs of round-the-clock construction. Travellers say Leningrad, Kiev and Stalingrad afford similar views.

Moscow hopes to rehouse most of its inhabitants by 1960. Its ancient one-and two-storey shanties are torn down as soon as their occupants are moved.

Rostov, severely damaged during the war, and Tashkent, capital of the central Asiatic republic of Uzbekistan, have less spectacular programs. The city architect at Tashkent told me his plan is scheduled for completion by 1965.

On collective farms I saw from trains, tiny streets of almost Canadian-type cottages beginning to replace the old mud-and-plaster homes.

Russian Tea Shop

At this outdoor tea shop in Samarkand, Soviet Central Asia, Bill Boss of The Canadian Press got into conversation with a Russian truck-driver. Within a few minutes, Boss was visiting the Russian's primitive home . . . perhaps the first such visit by a Canadian reporter to a worker's dwelling. Boss wrote his story after he returned to Canada. The Moscow censor would have banned it.—(CP Photo.)

MARMORA — St. Paul's Ladies' Guild held an opportunity sale and bake sale in the parish hall on Saturday afternoon; the event netting about $44.

Mrs. A. J. Madgett, of Simcoe, and Mrs. and Mrs. Morgan Seitz, of Whitby, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Madgett.

Mrs. J. Grier, of Kemptville, is visiting Canon and Mrs. J. R. Brownlie at the rectory.

Mrs. T. E. Potts spent Easter week in Toronto, where she is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. T. Pritchard and Mr. Pritchard.

Cassidy's Furniture is moving to the vacant store which was previously operated by Wm. Sweet and Sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay McCarey, Cairine and Robert, of Minden, spent the week-end with Mr. Robert Phillips and other relatives here.

Household effects of the late Wm. Walt were auctioned on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Dorothy Phillips spent last week in Cobourg with her brother, Glenn, and Mrs. Phillips.

Harry Johnston demolished his old store on Main St., Forsyth Street, not requiring it, with the larger building housing Johnston and Killian Motors on Matthew Street.

Canada's Vacation Spots Primping for Big Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's vacation spots are primping up in expectation of a record influx of tourists this year.

Reports from across the land in a Canadian Press survey forecast a bigger year than 1953.

In Ottawa, D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian government said there are "very strong possibilities" that the number of tourists will ease last year's records.

Ontario and Quebec, within a few hundred miles of the bulk of the United States' population, will probably get the largest share of visitors from below the border but Mr. Dolan reported an increase in tourist travel was expected in the Maritimes and Western Canada.

Up to April 20 the travel bureau in Ottawa received 186,193 Indian increase of nearly 15 per cent over last year.

The bureau of statistics estimated that in 1953 Canada had 28,000,000 foreign visitors mostly tourists and 23,300,000 of them came from the U. S. They spent more than $300,000,000.

PROVINCES AGREE

Provincial travelbureaux think the federal government's figures too modest, but all agree the tourist business should be booming this summer, barring any serious change in conditions.

C. D. Crowe, Ontario deputy minister of travel and publicity, predicted his province should have a good season. Last year an estimated 19,000,000 tourists spent $225,000,000.

Their chief interest, he said, is just travelling around, sightseeing and visiting historical sites such as Fort Henry, at Kingston, which attracted 150,000 persons last year.

In Quebec, a substantial increase was forecast by the Montreal tourist and convention bureau, which co-ordinates the work of tourist organizations in the province. The bureau estimated 4,600,000 U. S. tourists visited Quebec last year and spent more than $200,000,000, and said the province attracted more Canadian visitors than any other province.

QUEBEC'S ATTRACTIONS

"The fact that the American visitor finds a completely foreign country with quaint traditions and a new language is Quebec's greatest attraction," said a spokesman.

Each region plans local schemes to attract visitors. Examples are the Sherbrooke fair, the Quebec exhibition and Montreal's mountain theatre and outdoor concerts.

In Canada, development of national parks and the Rocky Mountain area has brought a big increase in visitors in recent years.

The Manitoba travel bureau, with a big increase in the number of inquiries, reported that it expects a jump in tourist traffic.

Alberta's travel bureau forecast a 10-per-cent increase over last year's 1,405,316 tourists who spent about $34,695,000.

A record - breaking tourist season is expected by British Columbia, where the British Empire Games in Vancouver will draw additional thousands of visitors.

FREIGHT FOR MARITIMES

The picture is much the same in the Maritimes, where the New Brunswick travel bureau reported more tourist inquiries than ever before.

The N. B. bureau reported that 300,000 or more tourists last year spent some $15,000,000, and said: "There is reason to believe 1954 will top last year's record high for numbers of tourists."

Chief tourist attractions in the east is the Fundy national park, in New Brunswick, the Evangeline country, the scenic Atlantic and the rugged grandeur of Cape Breton in Nova Scotia; and the broad, beaches of Prince Edward Island.

Newfoundland, more isolated than the other provinces, relies on its outdoor sports to attract visitors. Most tourists are hunters and fishermen who fly in and camp by the many fishing rivers. Salmon is their main target.

There are few roads in Newfoundland and sightseeing travellers are confined mainly to Avalon peninsula in the southeast corner of the province.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1954

Toronto to Oshawa Dual Road Will Be Used for Increased Patrols to Insure Safety

TORONTO (CP)—The first section taken by the Ontario legislature's committee on highway safety will be a test to determine if increased police patrols will reduce accidents. The test will be made on the dual Highway 401 between Toronto and Oshawa.

W. E. Ronghead, deputy commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, agreed to the plan. He told the committee that his force, although understaffed, already spends 80 per cent of its time on traffic duty.

John Yaremko, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Bellwoods, suggested the test. During the first two weeks normal patrols will be used. The force will be doubled during the second two weeks and tripled during the third two weeks.

NEED KNOWLEDGE OF CARS

John Root (PC—Wallington), told the committee that persons should know more about the mechanical operations of their cars before they are granted driving licences.

"Many people have no idea of the power of their cars and they are a menace on the highways," Mr. Root said. "They should be compelled to pass a written examination just the same as an operator of a steam boiler."

Committee chairman W. M. Nickle (PC — Kingston) said the amount of damages in requiring a police report at an accident should be raised from $100 to $250.

"Officers are running hither and yon to see people where the damage is $100 or more," Mr. Nickle said. "It is a waste of time to take a man off his beat for that amount."

DOCTORS DON'T KNOW

Even a psychiatrist couldn't tell what gets into motorists to cause accidents, deputy commissioner Boughen said.

"With a first class car there is no reason why there should be so many deaths," he said. "I don't think there is any one answer to why accidents occur or how they might be prevented. There are a great many and one of the greatest is undoubtedly the human element."

The mystery, he said, is how ordinarily courteous people, when they get into automobiles, insist on the right of way and other things.

After hearing Eric Silk, special counsel on the highways traffic act in the attorney-general's department, and shortages of the Unsatisfied Judgments Act and other legal aspects, the committee adjourned till May 6 when Highways Minister Nourse and his deputy provincial officials will be questioned.

Policy-Makers Cannot Reduce Budget Deficits

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Eisenhower administration is faced with anguished cries that a subcession of budgetary deficits will lead the country to ruin. But try as policy-makers will to erase them, the deficits continue.

The excess of government spending over tax receipts has been estimated at $3,900,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30 next, but officials say the actual red-ink balance may rise to $4,500,000,000.

The rise will depend largely on American farmers. Under government price-support programs, they have borrowed about $980,000,000 on last year's wheat. The government-guaranteed bank loans become due May 1, and farmers can either pay the loans and get back their wheat or let the government pay and take the wheat.

The budgetary experts feel most farmers will take the latter course, causing another run on the federal treasury and a pile-up of more wheat. They see no relief in sight.

"We're concerned with this deficit all right," said one authority, "but we don't think we are on the brink of disaster as some have suggested."

Most outspoken critic has been former president Herbert Hoover who warned that the U.S. may be courting economic disaster unless it curbs spending and balances the budget.

ENTERS FAMILY CRYPT

TORONTO (CP) — Sixteen-year-old Terrence O'Brien appeared in police court Tuesday charged with "interfering with a dead body."

The youth was arrested along with two juveniles April 19 after discovery that a family crypt in Mount Pleasant cemetery had been entered Easter week-end.

Magistrate T. S. Kinnore remanded O'Brien to May 14 on $500 bail.

The two juveniles have already appeared in juvenile court.

Iron Ore-Body May Be Mined To Aid Economy

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — An iron ore-body that lay dormant through the glittering days of Cobalt silver and the ensuing spectacular gold discoveries of northern Ontario may now bolster the economy of a region dependent upon mining for its existence.

An agreement permitting the development of a large body of magnetic taconite ore held by Gulf Oil Exploration, six miles south of here, was confirmed Tuesday by Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation of Pittsburgh.

Grade of the deposit is not yet known but reserves are estimated at 150,000,000 tons of crude open pit ore.

The discovery of the ore-body was first made in Boston township in 1903 but was pushed aside by the later silver and gold discoveries as prospectors scoured the area for precious minerals.

Taconite is of low grade iron-ore and is of the type mined in the Mesabi iron range of Minnesota, an Ontario mines department official said.

The agreement between the two companies will permit two years exploration by Jones and Laughlin and the taking of the ore if results are encouraging. Exploration activity is expected to begin this year.

Two Married Couples Killed, Hit by Train

MARATHON, Ont. (CP) — Two married couples, who turned back from a holiday trip to pick up something they had forgotten, were killed Tuesday when their car was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train at a level crossing.

The smash occurred at a private level crossing at Port Coldwell, 15 miles from here and 180 miles east of Port Arthur on the main line of the CPR.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Nicoll, both about 40, of Coldwell, where Mr. Nicoll was a fish merchant; and Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Whitely, both about 35, of Marathon, formerly of Port Arthur.

Seven children were orphaned as a result of the crash. The Whitelys leave four children and the Nicolls, three.

GOING TO LAKEHEAD

The two couples, on a trip to the Lakehead, were reported to have returned to Marathon to pick up some forgotten article and were crossing the CPR tracks for the second time when struck by CPR freight No. 70.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicoll and Mrs. Whitely were thrown from the car in the crash. Mr. Whitely was found hanging part way out of the wrecked vehicle and died a short time later.

Ontario provincial police constable Ford Richardson of the Schreiber detachment is investigating the accident. Dr. D.J.M. McCausland of Terrace Bay, district coroner, also arrived at the scene to investigate.

The bodies were taken to a funeral home at Schreiber.

Mr. Whitely was manager of Jesaiman Brothers here and sold the 1954 car to Mr. Nicoll a few weeks ago.

TOUGH GRASS

MELBOURNE (CP) — Pampas grass, the tall-growing sustenance for millions of beef cattle on the treeless plains of South America, is to be introduced to Australian properties from Zealand. Since it was first grown in New Zealand it has become popular with both cattle and sheep owners.

Committed for Trial

SARNIA (CP) — Earl Clifford Saunders, 37-year-old father of three children, Tuesday was committed for trial on a charge of murder in the March 29 shotgun slaying of William Sands, 63, a Dawn township cattle drover.

Twenty-four witnesses were heard by magistrate J. C. Dunlap and a statement made by Saunders to police was admitted as evidence. Saunders is expected to come to trial in September. He did not testify.

Members of Touring Russian Concert Party Watch Tongues In Interviews in Canada

By DAVE STOCKLAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Outside the Iron Curtain the dancing Russian bear moves light of foot.

There is no parroting of hammer-and-sickle slogans by the six Soviet concert artists now on a Canadian road show. Nothing is said that could help create ill feeling here — or get them into trouble at home.

Leonid Kogan, a virtuoso with a state-owned violin, was asked if Russian and Canadian audiences behaved differently. He answered "I don't like comparisons."

His fellow artists, two ballet dancers, a pianist, a soprano and a tenor, feel the same way, or say they do.

Everything about Canada is "charasho"—very nice. Then they add that everything back in Russia is just as "charasho."

COOL POLITENESS

The general Canadian response has been a hot box office and cool politeness. The clothes the Russians wear, shoddy is the most common description, have come in for more criticism than the people wearing them.

But the welcome hasn't been over-warmed. The stars of the Soviet concert stage had to settle with a high school auditorium in Fort William because the sponsoring Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society had difficulty raising a hall.

The strongest words were prompted by a statement by the one Canadian on the tour. Manager John Boyd of Toronto said the Russians wouldn't perform in Quebec because the owners of halls there are afraid of what Premier Duplessis would do if the Soviet artists appeared in them.

Asked to comment, the Quebec premier said: "It's dirty Communist propaganda as usual."

The entertainers arrived in Canada April 15 and will return in mid-May. Everywhere they have appeared there have been capacity audiences; Toronto, Vancouver, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

CANADIANS INTERESTING

The Russians, at least, don't believe curiosity is the big drawing card. Said Kogan: "I find Canadians interesting and clever regardless of political interests. They attend our concerts because they are interested in music."

Curiosity would be a good explanation of the capacity crowds. Seldom have the Reds sent their concert performers to the Western Hemisphere. For a post-war precedent you have to go back to 1946, when baritone Ivan Patorzhensky and soprano Zoya Haidai played a limited Canadian engagement.

Besides Kogan the program offers ballerina Sophia Golovina, soprano Elizabeta Chavdai, ballet soloist Leonid Zhdanov, tenor Arturs Frinbergs and pianist Pavel Serebryakov.

All interviews are carried on through an interpreter, from the tour's non-artistic side, which includes Ivan Gorokhov from the Russian embassy in Ottawa, a professor who looks after such things as program adjustments and a staff writer for the Moscow fortnightly "News."

The violinist boasted to reporters that the Soviet Union financed every part of his violin training—"they even bought me the violin I am playing on now—a 1720 Stradivarius."

The group's final show will be a special performance in Ottawa May 2 for diplomats and attaches.

Pension Cheques May Be Going To Dead Persons

OTTAWA (CP) — The finance department may be mailing civil service pension cheques to dead persons.

Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Tuesday this possibility came to light following distributes of a questionnaire among retired government employees.

Mr. Abbott said the questionnaire sought to obtain information on whether cheques are being sent out in the name of people who are not alive.

. . . Some envelopes containing the questionnaire are coming back marked 'address unknown' whereas the envelopes containing the pension cheques are not being returned.

Mr. Abbott did not elaborate, but finance department officials said the mystery is being investigated. They said that cheques are being cashed. Officials declined to say how many cases now are being investigated.

Country Shopper

Shopping in smaller cities and towns of the Soviet Union is easier than in Moscow, because distribution is better organized. This Russian woman lives in Baku, Soviet Centre] Asia. She is pricing carrots at an outdoor market where farmers may sell what produce they have left over after meeting the state quotas. Goods in such markets cost more than in the state stores, but often the variety is better and there are no line-ups of customers waiting to be served. —(CP Photo.)

Shopping, Moscow Style

All the department stores in the Soviet Union are run by the Communist state. This winter a fancy new store was opened in Red Square, Moscow. The china and pottery department is shown above. But this is a propaganda picture, taken before the store opened. Canadian Press staff writer who visited the Soviet Union, says it's an ordeal everywhere. He says shopping crowds are tremendous; they push and jostle; and someone is always pushing on your back. — (CP Photo.)

Russian Housewives Queue Many Times for Everything They Buy Says Boss in Story

Editor's Note: The Soviet Union should take lessons from North America in merchandising methods, Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer who spent five months in Russia, says in this last—one of a series—that Russian housewives queue three times, and sometimes four, for everything they buy.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Moscow censors wouldn't let me write: "Whenever you shop it's an agony."

They let you say there is no rationing in Russia. They wouldn't let me say that you can't buy everything you want, or as much as you want.

From a story on shopping they cut these paragraphs:

"The shopping crowds in Moscow are tremendous. They push and jostle. Someone is always pushing on your back. They argue among themselves and with the clerks.

COURTESY UNKNOWN

"Nowhere in the stores is there civility or courtesy. People are too determined to get what they want, while it lasts, to bother about niceties.

"The 'equility' complex makes Russians aggressively abrupt in dealing with their customers. The customers seem to expect such treatment, and accept it without complaint.

"It's possible to queue a long while for an article, then find it is sold out. Then you try another store.

"The time involved in doing a family's daily buying is enormous."

It is in merchandising that the Communist system's deficiencies stagger a foreigner.

In terms of design, time has stood still in the Soviet Union. The best guide in current eye-appeal would be a Canadian mail-order catalogue of the 1920w.

MANY BOTTLENECKS

A Western diplomat, who has studied Soviet distribution methods says, "Russia is clogged with bottlenecks."

"You can't excuse the queues here. A prime reason is because communications are bad, hence distribution is faulty."

Every food store posts a price list of main commodities available and the quantity each customer may buy. The list usually has 12 items, has run occasionally to 20.

Thus your Muscovite may be limited to two loaves of bread, a couple of pounds of semolina, barley or rice; a pint of milk, five eggs, two small boxes of matches, a pound or less of butter or margarine, four pounds of meat or sausage, four pounds of fish.

HOURS OF STRUGGLE

There is nothing except time to stop you coming back the same day; but time is most important.

Sometimes you queue for half an hour to get into a shop that has scarce goods. In every Moscow shop I saw, you queue three times for each commodity; once to place an order; once to pay the cashier; finally to collect your food or other purchase.

I regularly had to budget 30-to-45 minutes to buy half a dozen of paper. I could never get the same quality twice.

A woman wanting to buy meat, butter, bread and cigarets would have to queue 11 times and spend about two hours.

To buy 12 rolls of camera film I had to go through the process four times—because each purchase is limited to three.

EVERYTHING COSTLY

Shopping is therefore a family project, especially since in most households both parents work.

On the basis of one average wage-earner's income, everything —including food — is expensive. With few, if any, there's money enough. Children's clothes are subsidized by the state. When they're old enough for university, clever children get state stipends, which also help increase the family income.

A senior chambermaid on say, a floor at the Hotel Metropole, for instance, earns 800 rubles a month. Her son, a chemistry student, has a monthly stipend of 70 rubles. Clothes for adults are almost prohibitively priced. Most Russian men have only one suit and one pair of shoes. At upwards of 500 rubles, a suit costs almost three weeks' pay by the ordinary Russian, and he spends two to three weeks' pay on a single pair of shoes.

WAIT AND HOPE

Most Soviet people are buying only essentials, waiting for the promised "better and newer" goods to appear in the stores.

A piano-tuner I got to know repeatedly deferred an invitation to a concert "until I buy a new suit." He said he has the money but sees no point in buying when something better might be in the offing. Signs urge the people to invest in government bonds, to buy insurance, to save in government banks.

But while the U.S.S.R. says it is "classless" society, it has a large and growing group of better-than-average income which anywhere else would be known as the "middle class."

It's there—even if not yet named—created by the Soviet system. In revolutionary days the same social bracket was called the "bourgeoisie" and hated. Today's new bourgeoisie seems to have public respect and admiration.

PRIVILEGED CLASS

These people earn from three to 15 times the average worker's 70 rubles monthly, and live correspondingly better: more spacious and elaborate quarters, better food and clothes, a more select circle of friends, often a car and chauffeur assigned by the state because of their jobs.

Speak to less fortunate Russians about them and you are told:

"They haven't more rights than I have. They contribute more to the regime and so are better rewarded. But in time we will all live better."

There is no resentment; rather a belief that "we'll all eat sherbet some day."

An article in the Soviet constitution safeguards each citizen's right to "own personal property." There is a subtle difference between "personal," and "private" property. Hence an individual may own the home, but the state retains title to the land on which the home is built. An individual may own the furniture in his home but not the means of producing it.

The constitution also guarantees the right to bequeath one's personal possessions to the inheritors of one's choice.

These are not new clauses in the constitution but they become more important as goods become available and the Russian people can acquire valuable belongings.

RELIEF PROMISED
For Arthritic and Rheumatic Pain
New relief without pills by grenselpo, odourless, stainless cream.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. Science has now developed a cream that acts in a new way to bring relief from arthritis, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains. Sold under the brand name of "InfraRUB", this new odourless and greaseless cream relieves those pains without the need of pills and other internal medicines.

InfraRUB does not merely set up a surface irritation but penetrates deep down into sore muscles and joints. This permits fresh, oxygen-rich blood to flow freely through affected areas and actually helps drive away the pain-causing congestion and pressure.

Another feature of InfraRUB that appeals to so many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a comforting, soothing sensation. InfraRUB leaves no oily film or pungent objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to get on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

Written medical reports on the success of this new help for patients suffering from rheumatic and arthritic pains and general muscular aches and pains have been prepared, based on hundreds of cases in British and French hospitals. InfraRUB users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Now for the first time, InfraRUB can be obtained without a prescription from your local drug store for only $1.25. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give hours and hours of comforting relief from arthritic, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains or your money will be refunded in full.

Push-Button Age of War Deemed Closer

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP)—New approaches to strategy and weapons are receiving the increasing attention of Canada's defence planners.

One of the chief reasons for Defence Minister Claxton's western tour this week is to talk over these approaches with senior commanders.

According to present defence thinking in Canada, the age of push-button warfare is closer than most people believe. To Canada's defence chiefs, the age of conventional weapons is almost at an end. The next conventional weapons will probably be the last of their type.

For instance, the RCAF plans successors to the F86E Sabre jets and the long-range CF-100 all-weather jet interceptor. They both probably will be supersonic aircraft and the last in which air crews will play an important part.

The successor to the CF-105 already equipped with guided missiles will be the CF-105, now on the drawing board. The successor to the Sabre probably will be a development of some other country within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

END OF FIELD GUN

In the same fashion, the conventional field gun is believed at about the end of its development. That is, in view of the existence of nuclear weapons, it would not be worth the expenditure of time, skill and money to make modest improvements in conventional weapons.

Defence policy now is being geared to the "long pull" rather than to the sudden spurt taken in 1950. Defence planners count on Russia not starting a war in the immediate future.

Their spending for aircraft has been mapped out until 1961. There is unlikely to be any change in the total number of squadrons. Last year, aircraft cost $430,000,000, around one-quarter of the defence budget. This year the cost will be about $470,000,000, next year about $600,000,000 and level out after that to about $450,000,000 annually.

The atomic bomb was not considered powerful enough to act as a deterrent to war. But the hydrogen bomb is. Therefore, the main aim of continental defence is to protect the United States strategic bombers force which would carry the bomb against Russia if the U.S.S.R. attacked.

Diesel Engines' Fumes May Cause Lung Cancer

BRISTOL, England (Reuters)—A radiologist suggests that fumes from Diesel engines in vehicles are responsible for the steady increase in lung cancer.

This increase followed closely the curve of the change-over from gasoline engines to diesel engines in public transport, Dr. B. Handley Howell of the Weston-Super-Mare Hospital told Reuterians.

He called for action in combatting diesel oil fumes which, he said, are far more dangerous than gasoline fumes.

STATE VISIT

STOCKHOLM (CP)—King Gustaf Adolf and Queen Louise are expected to use the cruiser Tre Kronor (Three Crowns), flagship of the Swedish Navy, for their state visit to London June 28-July 1. Among the London entertainments for the royal visit is expected to be a gala performance at the Covent Garden opera house.

AGENCY EDITOR RETIRES

LONDON (Reuters) — Henry Martin, editor-in-chief of the Press Association—Britain's biggest domestic news agency—is retiring June 15 from the position after 38 years of service, the association's board of directors announced last night.

Centenary

CENTENARY 2 T's M.C.

CENTENARY—Mrs. Colin Bain and Elaine were hostesses for the April 19th meeting of the Centenary 2 T's Mission Circle. President, Mrs. Orval May, was in charge of the meeting, with an attendance of nine. Secretary Elaine Bain gave her report, and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ralph Loney, read a thank-you letter from Miss Catherine McKeen of WMS headquarters in Toronto, who said that the photo of the Centenary girls would appear in the May Missionary Monthly; also congratulatory letter from the Centenary WMS.

The next meeting will be held May 17, and will be in charge of Mrs. Keith Sills group, and the supply work is to be turned in at that time. Mrs. May, delegate to the Presbyterial meeting in Napanee, March 24, gave her report, and was thanked by Mrs. William Slavin.

The meeting was turned over to group leader Mrs. Ralph Loney, who followed the worship service in the Missionary Monthly. The Scripture reading Matthew 25: 1-10, 16-20 was given by Mrs. Lloyd Pearson.

A discussion concerning the sending of relief parcels to Korea followed, with Mrs. Loney, Mrs. Pearson, Elaine Bain and Mrs. May taking part, after which a poem entitled, "A Child is Crying," was read by Mrs. Loney.

The hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Loney and her group served bountiful refreshments.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Bain and Elaine for their splendid hospitality was extended by Mrs. Loney on behalf of those present.

FAREWELL PARTY.

A farewell party, owing to the present school being torn down in the near future, was held in the school on Friday evening last, under the sponsorship of the trustees, with a good attendance.

Progressive euchre was played, with the prizes going to the following: ladies' high, Mrs. Lawrence Slingerland; men's high, Elwin Hart; ladies' consolation, Mrs. Orval May; men's consolation, Bernard May.

Dancing was enjoyed with music being supplied by the orchestra from Alken's community, composed of Joan Jeffrey at the piano; Ken Jones, guitar, and Fred Moon and Burton Hubble, taking turns at the violin, with the latter being the "caller off."

Refreshments were served by the trustees and their wives.

A vote of thanks was extended to the orchestra by William Slavin; and to the trustees by Elwin Hart, bringing to a successful conclusion a thoroughly enjoyable evening for all.

71 FLEE EACH MONTH

TORONTO (CP) — An average of 71 wives a month are deserted by their husbands in Toronto, civic welfare committee commissioner H. S. Robert said today. Desertions averaged 53 in 1953, and 58 in 1952.

Where'd they all go? Even without free-handed little girls like this, more families ran out of Kellogg's Corn Flakes this morning than any other cereal. This is happening all the time. It's because Kellogg's Corn Flakes just naturally taste better to more people than any other cereal. Always have. Still do. No wonder so many women pick up a spare package of Kellogg's Corn Flakes every time they buy any other kind of cereal.

In the world's most competitive market...

FORD is America's best seller!

National U.S. new-car registration figures* for the latest six-month period available show Ford out front by thousands!

SOURCE: R. L. Polk and Company. Registrations for period September through February.*

During the six-month period ending with February—the last half-year in which United States national registration figures are available—Ford outsold its nearest competitor by thousands.

The main reason why Ford is so definitely the buyer's choice is simply that:

Ford is, without doubt, the "Worth-More" car—America's best buy on a dollar-for-dollar basis!

In Canada, too, the swing is to Ford—and to Meteor, Mercury, Monarch and Lincoln. Check them for yourself, feature for feature, bumper to bumper, and you'll quickly see why!

Take engines—all Ford of Canada products are powered with V-8 engines—the most modern, efficient and responsive engines of any cars in their respective fields—products of the experience gained in building more engines of their type than all other manufacturers combined. Ford of Canada V-8 engines have an absolutely unmatched record of owner approval—a record based on billions of driving-miles over the past twenty-one years. Their traditional performance is unrivalled for smoothness, flexibility and safety.

Take comfort—Here, again, the most discriminating buyers find the steadiness, the sure-footed, road-hugging stability to satisfy their every requirement. Excellence of design and quality of construction are responsible for a degree of riding comfort and driving ease never before approached.

Beauty, too, is a vital factor in the overwhelming popularity of Ford of Canada cars. Every model is a style leader, in beauty of line and detail, inside and out.

Take driving ease—Every Ford, Meteor, Mercury, Monarch and Lincoln offers you all the newest power assists that make driving completely relaxed and effortless. Power assists are standard on certain models and optional at extra cost on all other models.

Ford of Canada's Automatic Drives are the finest in their fields. Power Window Lifts offer push-button control of all four side windows. Power Steering gives you "extra muscles" all the time but permits you to retain the natural steering feel on the straight-away. Four-way Power Seat goes up or down, as well as forward or back, at the touch of separate controls. And swift, sure Power Brakes permit quick, straight-line stops at the merest touch of the toe on the brake pedal.

Think of tomorrow—Buyers, with an eye to future value, are wise to consider what their cars will be worth when the time comes to trade them in.

Try before you buy—The incomparable performance of Ford, Meteor, Mercury, Monarch and Lincoln can be appreciated fully only through personal experience. Your dealer extends an invitation to you to prove them on the road. There's no obligation to buy, so call your dealer and arrange a demonstration for yourself and your family.

... AND IN CANADA'S MOST COMPETITIVE MARKETS FORD V-8 OUTSELLS ALL OTHERS!

Number of cars delivered to the public from January 1st, 1954 to April 15th, 1954, as shown by the latest available registration reports:

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BASKETBALL!

A definite announcement regarding the future of the Belleville Basketball Association's senior entry into the Toronto Viaduct League is expected some time today.

Representatives of the club, also those of Peterborough, attended the league meeting held in Oshawa Monday night but no decisions were made on the part of either club.

It seems financial arrangements threw in a road-block with the Toronto clubs holding out for some kind of lettuce reparation for travelling.

However the Belleville and Peterborough representatives asked for a recess to think over and discuss the situation with their club executives and sponsors and we are told they will hand down their final decision some time today.

The other clubs in the league, which will be called the Viaduct-Ontario Baseball League, are Oshawa Transporters, Oakville Oaks, Dependable Caterers and Hookings Burners.

The Viaduct League seems to be the last link for baseball for both Peterborough and Belleville, and it is hoped some satisfactory arrangements can be made. And it is to be hoped the Toronto entries are in a somewhat different mould to those of other years when the city crews sent down skeleton clubs with a "We can lick the hicks from the sticks" attitude. They usually went home with the tradional tail between their legs.

COULD BE!

Mebbe those observers who saw the western Ontario senior "B" teams in action during the season were not so far out when they said the Eastern Ontario group was the strongest in the province. The way the Oshawa Truckmen are winning up in Hillsmere against the Gunners of that town would seem to substantiate the statement. The Truckmen took their second straight victory last night by a 6-2 score and now lead the series 2-1. They dropped the first battle after leading 7-2 in the third heat and the Gunners slung home six goals in a row to take the pastime.

MATTER OF OPINION!

At least three guys we know peruse this pillar.

After yesterday's column hit the streets, porches and vestibules with its piece regarding the re-naming of the hybrid fish from "splake" to "Wendigo", three of the scarcely fraternity tinkled us voicing their disagreement.

And we concur in some of their arguments.

"I am not disputing the fact that the four eminent judges who selected the name 'Wendigo' from 9,000 others, are not wildlife and outdoor life experts," said one prominent brother. "But I heartily disagree with the selection they made. And," he added hastily, "it is not a case of sour grapes because I knew nothing of the name-selecting contest until I read about it in your column."

Another suggested the appointment of judges did not adhere to the "book of rules" in re-naming the fish. "They call the Kamloops trout by that name because of its habitat, the rainbow speckled and brown trout because of their color characteristics and other fish have sensible reasons. But whoinell ever heard of a fisherman or anybody, for that matter, hooking a ghost. Personally, apart from being a strange name, and the majority of fishermen don't know what it means, I think it is not much of an improvement over "splake." At least that monicker had something to do with the ancestry of the fish."

Splake, Wendigo, call it what you will. It is still a cross between a speckle and a lake; and those babies look good in any sizzling skillet. In the old days the boys called the humble tomato a "love-apple." We have eaten them fried, baked, broiled, canned and out of the garden, but we failed to notice any amorous effects. The only emotional reaction we experienced was the urge to heave one of the over-ripe kind into the mugs of people we thought were enemies.

STARS OF THE FUTURE!

Digressing from sport for the moment, we had a brief interview via telephone last night with those two talented youngsters, Cara and Greg Butler, attractive children of E. Ormonde Butler, Q.C., and Mrs. Butler, of this city.

Cara and Greg, for whom experts predict a brilliant future in the realm of music, play their first two-piano recital tonight before a Belleville audience. The charming youngsters were brimming with enthusiasm over their appearance in the collegiate auditorium this evening, and gave no indication of stage-fright or nervousness.

Cara and Greg will receive no financial remuneration from the recital. Every penny realized will go to the Crippled Children's Fund of the Rotary Club. We know of no better tribute to these brilliant youngsters than a capacity "house". They deserve it. And who knows, there might come a day when you can say "I knew them when . . ." Tickets can be obtained at the door.

Half-Dozen Four-Base Clouts Feature 8-7 Win Over Bucs; Sox Edge Yanks in Thriller

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The gals in the laundry are losing their home-run business to the fans in the sun deck at Cincinnati's Crosley Field.

For years one of the National League's favorite homer targets has been the laundry just beyond the left-field fence in Cincinnati. But last season the Redleg management eyed the muscles of left-handed-hitting Ted Kluszewski and Co. and moved in the right-field fence about 25 feet.

Now most of the Redlegs' long ball trade is going into the right field seats which used to be the bleachers. This season it's the sun deck.

THICK AND FAST

Tuesday night the home runs fell thick and fast. An even half-dozen cleared the air. Four left-handed sluggers as the homer-happy Redlegs blasted their way into first place in the National League with an 8-7 verdict over Pittsburgh. One homer run went to the laundry.

Ten of the 15 runs were direct results of the circuit clouts. Kluszewski slammed one in the first with one aboard and Jim Greengrass followed right behind him with another. In the third, Kluszewski hit another.

Cincinnati are a half game ahead of Brooklyn Dodgers, who bowed in St. Louis 7-3. Milwaukee squeezed by New York Giants 5-4 and Philadelphia was rained out at Chicago in the other National League scheduled contest.

Chicago White Sox won their fourth straight, a 4-3 thriller over New York Yankees, in the only American League action. Bad weather forced postponements of other contests.

ROE IS VICTIM

Preacher Roe, a long-time Cardinal jinx, was the victim at St. Louis. Two walks, a double by Ray Jablonski and a single by rookie Tom Alston gave the Cards two runs in the fourth.

A bases-loaded single by Del Crandall—good for two runs in the fourth—and a two-out single by Johnny Logan in the eighth drove in the Milwaukee runs, the first against Giant pitching in 22 innings.

The Yankees fell below the .500 mark in losing to righthander Don Johnson, a refugee from the minors who once belonged to the Yanks. The White Sox beat Whitey Ford for the first time in his brief major league career. Ford had beaten the Sox seven times.

The Quakers also obtained the first option of purchase on defencemen Lou Fontinato and Jim Ross, centre Aggie Kukulowicz and wingers Jackie McLeod and Don Murphy if they miss in their bid for a berth in the NHL with Rangers.

All 11 players were with the Quakers during the 1953-54 season.

Slade Removal of Hurricane Threat Gives Rocky, Ezzy Chance to Relax

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be possible now for the nation's boxing fans to settle back and start working up a fever over the heavyweight championship fight between Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles on June 17 without having to worry about whether their latest heart throb, Hurricane Jackson, is being done out of his rights.

Jimmy Slade attended to that when he was dropped in the television hero fall of holes here the other night. Jackson had looked unbeatable as he let Slade depose of such name heavyweights as Clarence Henry, Rex Layne and Dan Becerred in startling succession. The 23-year-old semi-novice from Long Island had been acclaimed almost overnight the No. 3 fighting man.

We heard the proposition several times bandied about this month whether the Marciano forces had rushed to sign for the Charles bout before Jackson could massacre another hot contender and place the champion in the position of dodging him this summer. In the light of events, it only goes to show how silly people can get.

PROMOTER WITH A HUNCH

The story now goes that the promoter at Eastern Parkway, Teddy Brenner, who had "made" The Hurricane with his nationally televised shows, had a strong hunch that Slade, though only a blown-up light - heavyweight, could employ his unorthodox style to make the "phenom" look like a monkey.

Jackson's managers, it seems, had notified Brenner that they were quitting him to go big time and fight Charley Norkus for the International Boxing Club in the Garden May 28 in view of the larger opportunity, they suggested that Brenner tear up a contract they had signed, before their tiger stopped Buccerosi, for a subsequent meeting with Slade.

As Brenner had dropped a bundle on the Buccerosi bout through having guaranteed Buccerosi $10,000, the promoter said no. He wanted a run for his money back, and he knew Jackson would be his ball. Also, he had his aforementioned hunch, even though "I admit that I thought he was dead wrong, 18 to 5."

So The Hurricane went through with what seemed only a necessary chore. His handicap perhaps at times, as though he suspected his smaller formentor of using four glares. At any rate, it made for a highly entertaining evening, and both Marciano and Charles can relax for a while.

Tiger Cats Sign High School Quarterback Star

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League announced the signing Tuesday of Tommy Grant, a 19-year-old quarterback from senior high school.

Grant, whose 125 pounds are spread over a six-foot, one-inch frame, can't make up his mind between football and baseball.

Havana's Cuban Sugar Kings have moved into a commanding position of third place in the International League by beating Rochester Red Wings three times in a five-game series.

Havana trounced the Red Wings 6-2 Tuesday night with a nine-hit attack off Rochester pitching ace Richmond Virginians, and the Toronto Maple Leafs divided a doubleheader. Toronto won the opener 5-3 and Richmond the second game 4-1.

Catcher Fermin Guerra drove in four runs as the new Cuban entries took over third spot from the defending league champions.

Wimpy Nardella pitched the Virginians to the sighting victory over Toronto. Joe Lutz, Richmond first baseman, came out of a batting slump to drive in all the Virginians' runs. He drove out a two-run homer and a bases-loaded single.

In the opener, Toronto broke a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning by scoring two runs off Bob Habenicht.

Tuesday's other two games were rained out.

American League Ratifies Plan Of Affiliation

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Hockey League's board of governors Tuesday ratified in principle an affiliation agreement among the four professional hockey leagues in the United States and Canada.

The pact, dealing principally with player rights and including an inter-league draft arrangement, already has been approved by the National Hockey League. It will become effective when it is ratified by the Western and Quebec leagues.

Like baseball's major - minor agreement, the hockey agreement covers such matters as the clubs' rights in regard to players, sponsorship of amateur teams and similar matters.

The hockey draft provides that the National League may draft a player from the American for $15,000 and the American may draft from the two lower leagues for $7,500.

The AHL also set the date for its annual meeting as May 24-25 at Hershey, Pa.

Allan Cup Finals Series Opens May 3

REGINA (CP)—The Allan Cup hockey final will open Monday, May 3, either in Winnipeg or Penticton, B.C., Al Pickard, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association official in charge of the western playoffs, announced Tuesday night.

Venue for the final will depend on the outcome of the western final series between Penticton Vs and Winnipeg Maroons who play the eighth and deciding game of their playoff tonight at Vernon.

Sudbury Wolves are the eastern champions.

If Penticton wins tonight, the remainder of the final will be arranged at a later date. If Maroons win, second and third games will be played in Winnipeg May 5 and 7. The remainder of the series will be played at Brandon May 8, 10, 12 and 14. Venue of the games was switched to Brandon because of a circus billed for Winnipeg's amphitheatre.

Grid Schedule Is Released

TORONTO (CP)—The Interprovincial Rugby Football Union Friday released a 1954 season schedule of 13 games for each of its four clubs.

The season will open Aug. 28 with Hamilton Wildcats playing the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton, and Toronto Argonauts as host to Ottawa Rough Riders. It will close Saturday Nov. 13, with Toronto at Hamilton and Montreal at Ottawa.

Senators Aces Clash Tonight In 'Do or Die'

QUEBEC (CP)—It's do or die for both Ottawa Senators and Quebec Aces when they meet tonight in a Quebec Hockey League playoff game at the Canadian capital. The victor goes against the West. The Aces, on the brink of elimination, Tuesday night blanked the Senators 1-0 before 5,138 fans here to square the best-of-nine final four games apiece.

Irwin Goosse was the hero, drawing goalie Ray Frederick out of his net late in the opening period and slipping the puck behind him. Defenceman Rags Raglan passed Goosse into the clear for the goal.

The game was slow-moving and checking close. Both teams appeared tired. The Senators were playing their 11th game in 14 days. Only eight penalties were distributed by referee Georges Gravel of Montreal, five to the losers.

Barons Split $14,919 Pot

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland Barons, who went from third place to win the American Hockey League's Calder Cup playoffs, will divide a pot of $14,919 for that performance.

Division of the player pool for the playoffs was made public Tuesday by the AHL. The total pool for 10 games was $47,462, an increase of $859 over last season. The players' share is 30 per cent of the net receipts of the first three games of the preliminary playoffs and of the first four games of the finals. Thirty per cent of this is split among the first four teams on the basis of the regular season finish and the remainder according to their playoff performances.

Hershey Bears, beaten in the finals, receive $13,261. They were second in the regular season. Buffalo and Pittsburgh, finishing first and fourth and losing in the preliminary playoffs, got $7,274 and $3,387 respectively.

Intercounty Is Urged to Sponsor Junior Clubs

GALT (CP) — President Tim Turner of the Intercounty Baseball Association has sent out an appeal to league centres urging that serious consideration be given to sponsoring junior teams. Teams have until Saturday, May 1, date of the association's spring meeting in London, to declare themselves in or out.

Three have been repeated attempts to re-organize the junior loop, which has declined steadily since 1950, but only Galt and Brantford have indicated they are prepared to sponsor junior teams.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

Beginners may not be as dumb as their bidding looks in a wrong bridge contract. The greatest masters in the world are not all in the same final bid with identical cards. Far from it.

Take a look at this deal:

NORTH

SOUTH
♠J 7
♥J 10 8 7 5
♦Q 9 4
♣6 4 2

This is number 25 from the Summer nationals for the championship of life master pairs only. It has some controversial points. Only the east-west pair is vulnerable. North is the dealer.

Everybody in north would open with a spade. East and west may stretch a little to stick in a defensive club or diamond bid. But two in spades or hearts looks like the most appropriate landing place.

But look at the endings. How many west two spades? Of the 36 tables (72 pairs, 144 players), 16 (less than half) were in it. And these wounds up with varying results.

One made three, which indicated rotten defence. Five made two. Six went down one. Two went down two. Two went down three. It looks as if most of them were groping in the dark.

One stopped at one spade and went down one. Three were in two no-trump and all went down. Six were in one no-trump, four going down. Six were in two hearts, five of which went down. A west player in three diamonds went down three. A west player in three diamonds doubled went down 1100. An east in two clubs went down 800 when doubled. An east in three clubs went down four.

The four east-west sacrifices smacked of moronic brilliance. The nine who ended in no-trump need a lesson in fundamentals. The 15 who went down at two spades or two hearts could have made it.

So, you see, the hot shots are not so hot when their hands are not cold. Simple and true rules would help a lot in this hand anyway. Would it do them any good? And how!

PHILANTHROPIST JAILED

LONDON (Reuters)—A former bus manager who enjoyed the power to lend money that he obtained overdrafts at his own discretion and cost his bank more than £50,000 in four years, John William Clary, 31, described by his lawyer as a "modern Robin Hood with a burning desire to help the world," was jailed Tuesday for four years for fraudulent conversion and falsifying bank accounts. He pleaded guilty.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lionel Barrymore marks his 76th birthday today, and the crusty old gent shows no signs of giving up his family profession.

"Me quit?" he snorts. "The day after I retire, I'll curl up and die."

I saw the eldest of the acting Barrymores at CBS, where he reported for a rehearsal of his radio show, "Hallmark Playhouse." He drove to his studio in a limousine, switched gingerly to his wheel chair and sailed into the studio. Although a hip injury has cut down his mobility for years, his mind remains as agile as ever.

He pretended to be pained that people were celebrating his birthday. He shuns all forms of sentiment.

"Celebrate my birthday!" he growled. "I should say not! I'm trying to forget it. When you get as old and broken down as me, you want to forget birthdays."

GRANDPA DIED OF DRINK

I asked him how long he expects to live and he said he had no idea. His sister Ethel is 74, and many others in his family lived to an advanced age.

"Of course, not all of the family lived a long time," he added. "There was my grandfather, John Drew, who died of drink at 31."

He said that he intends to go on acting as long as he is able. In fact, he is eager to get into television.

"The only thing holding me back is the studio," he declared, referring to MGM. He started his contract there in 1926. Since Lewis Stone's death, he is the ranking actor on the lot. The studio has a hands-off policy concerning its actors and TV. But Barrymore indicated that may be relaxed to allow him to accept one of the several offers he has had.

AT THE BELLE—Lovely Claire Bloom is starred with James Mason and Hildegarde Neff in Carol Reed's drama of suspense, "The Man Between", showing today and Thursday, at the Belle Theatre. A Tom & Jerry color cartoon is an added attraction.

AT THE CAPITOL—Love in the jungle is expressed in this romantic scene between Fernando Lamas and Rhonda Fleming from Paramount's brand new Technicolor adventure drama, "Jivaro", due to open Thursday at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing. Set against a background of the treacherous Amazon jungle, "Jivaro" tells a thrilling tale of treasure-hunting in a region little known to man. Brian Keith co-stars in the William Pine-William Thomas production. On the same program it's Bob Hope and Mickey Rooney in "Off Limits" with Marilyn Maxwell.

Softball League Adopts Player Insurance Plan

At a general meeting of the Belleville and District Softball Association held in the number two firehall last night, it was decided that all teams must carry the O.A.S.A. Group Insurance Plan.

The insurance costs $15 per team, covering all players, coaches and the umpires. It pays up to $250 per man for injuries and in case of accidental death $500.00 indemnity will be paid. The plan seemed to be generally approved by all present with the exception of Jack Devine who said, "the insurance should not be compulsory because some teams, Point Anne for instance, already have insurance on their players and it's not right they are forced to pay more."

About 25 persons were present at the meeting including representatives from Northern Electric, Point Anne, Stewart Warner, CNR's, Frankford and the Bluebirds, a Belleville junior team.

It was also decided that C.N.R. and Northern Electric shop teams will be permitted to affiliate with the Belleville and District Softball Association and to send a refinery against the City "A's" champs for the Labatt Trophy. These shop teams will now be able to file their O.A.S.A. cards and receive protection of the insurance plan.

President Gord Stewart announced that the Norlown Motors, Women's Canadian Champions, will play an exhibition game here on June 5th. The opposition will be a team of Belleville's best male stars with the C.N.R. field as the site of action.

President Stewart reported before the meeting was officially opened that Jim O'Brien has resigned as secretary, due to business problems. Lloyd Doran will act as secretary until another is elected.

Leo Culhane, while speaking on the minor division of the league, stated that they had five pee wee teams and are now lining up a baseball group which will consist of four teams, if sponsors can be secured. It was decided to name the groups "The Belleville Minor Softball Association".

The next meeting has been called for Sunday afternoon, May 9th, at the firehall, when the schedule will be drawn up.

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A hillside water tank in el Palagon, an oil-field town, cracked and burst during the week-end, hurling thousands of barrels of water over workers' homes below. A woman and two children were killed and 15 persons were hurt severely.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Some restraint may be felt now, also opposition to your wishes. Maybe you should give in today. Anyway, take it all in stride; don't overtaid or try too strenuously.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Time, repitition, is to be patient till things are more in keeping with what is best for you. Maintain a strict schedule to protect your interests, future possibilities. Shun worry.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — "Make haste slowly" if you expect high returns from your effort now. Give some thought to your health and personal happiness; you won't need to neglect duties in so doing.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Be cautious not to overindulge desires. The day offers much to the temperate, little to the self-satisfied or dominating one.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — This is no day to act on your own against concerted opposition or to think that you can get things merely for the asking. You will have to work, be diplomatic and tireless to succeed.

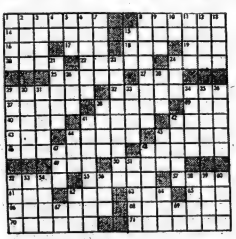
August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Your resourceful mind coupled with the good will of those who usually help you, will be factors in your achievement now. You know your capacity and your faults; cultivate your possibilities.

September 24 to October, 23 (Libra) — Bear in mind during this somewhat mixed period that, though you try hard and seek honestly, you may not always achieve. Maintain your sense of balance, show appreciation and hail the battle is won.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You may face some tricky situations now, and wrong deductions could prove costly. Be guided by your better judgment and be wary of unqualified advisers.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Some indifferent aspects fill later in the day. Be careful whom you trust or confide in. Prospects for good results depend greatly on your own best judgment.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Fewer chances to put over propositions than you may have wished for. Don't be surprised if you encounter obstacles. Don't become discouraged but fight on in a practical way.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Exercise care dealing with money, any valuables—especially after 3 p.m. Do your utmost to keep promises of others and your progress and ensuing prestige will be very worthwhile.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Unpleasant incidents could upset you if you allow them to. Show the spirit and the will and you can change unwanted attitudes. Exploit your best qualities; work to build good will, credits.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly practical, monetarily conservative, mentally (and usually physically) energetic, often persistent. You have executive ability, honesty, a faithful nature. You can be secretive about personal affairs and generally deliberate, it annoys you to be rushed. You like the good things of life, esp. improvements. Inventions, music interest you; also writing, art. Overcome fault-finding, self-will. Birthdate of: Wm. Randolph Hearst, publisher, writer.

Think Tombstone Perhaps Tied To Drowned Woman

STRATFORD- ON -AVON, Eng. (Reuters)—A small tombstone has become a vital clue in the death of a woman drowned in the river Avon near the burial place of William Shakespeare.

Police Tuesday night hauled a gravestone marker from the river bed near the spot where the woman was found Saturday. Investigators said it was missing from its usual place in a churchyard which sweeps down to the water.

It may have been tied to the body of Olive Bennett, 48-year-old Scottish midwife, when she fell, or was thrown, off the river bank.

RECONSTRUCT LAST HOURS

Detectives are trying to piece together the dead woman's last hours. She left a maternity home Friday to visit friends. The next day her body was seen in the river.

Mike Bennett apparently came to the churchyard of Holy Trinity, where he found reverend lithographer against Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph, he alleged wrongful detention ended Tuesday with a settlement between the parties.

The settlement was announced in Supreme Court where Avery's case was being heard, did not mention the amount of settlement, but was reported to be about $55,000.

The action also ended Mr. Avery's actions against four doctors who examined him, Dr. Arthur Doyle, Dr. James Loudoun, Dr. G. F. Boyer and Dr. Glenn E. Burton.

Mr. Avery claimed that he was committed to the sanitarium Dec. 30, 1945 while under the influence of drugs, in a conspiracy, false imprisonment, malpractice, breach of statutory duty and common law negligence.

He was released from the sanitarium in September, 1953, on a writ of habeas corpus.

Previously Mr. Avery, a native of Newfoundland, brought an action against his son, Donald, who in turn committed a incapable of handling his own affairs and who was appointed to handle his father's affairs. The suit against his son was dropped March 3.

Avery Awarded About $35,000 In Settlement

TORONTO (CP)—A two-year-old court action brought by Hayward Avery, 74-year-retired lithographer against Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph, he alleged wrongful detention ended Tuesday with a settlement between the parties.

Nasser Arrests 52 for Alleged Communist Plot

By ED FOLLAK

CAIRO (AP) — Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser today ordered the arrest of at least 52 persons, including Shafei Shafei Bey, on charges of plotting with the Communists to cause trouble in Egypt on May Day.

Maj. Anwar Nasser, Nasser's personal aide, told reporters the 52 officers will be tried by court-martial "and will be inflicted the most severe punishment."

The crackdown on the army followed the banning of political activity by most of the leaders of Egypt's former political parties and a purge of press leaders opposing the military government.

A government spokesman said the arrests had laid "serious complications in the army" and no reaction was expected from the military.

Those arrested were charged with working with the Wafdist, Socialist and Communist political factions against Nasser and the revolutionary council of officers who ousted King Farouk.

STRENGTHEN NASSER'S GRIP

The arrests were another step in clarifying Nasser's control following his relegation of the former government head, Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib, to a figurehead presidency April 18.

The government spokesman, Capt. Shems Eddin, said several of those arrested were officers of a cavalry unit which had played an important role in bringing Naguib back to power February 25, after Nasser forced him to quit in the first round of their struggle for power.

The cavalry unit was commanded by Maj. Khaled Mohieddin, ousted from the revolutionary council in March and now in Europe.

Eddin said the arrested officers are being held in army camp while an investigating committee prepares formal charges.

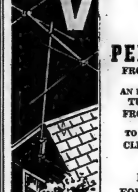
Steel Market Bit Stronger

NEW YORK (AP)—The price of scrap steel rose this week for the sixth week in a row and the American steel market appears a bit stronger, the Iron Age, national metal-working weekly, says.

The Iron Age steel scrap composite price jp up 50 cents to $28.17 a gross ton, and No. 1 heavy melting increases should be partially discounted as adjustments within that industry," says the magazine, "and they are not directly or totally related to present and future demand for steel."



Iron Age says the pick-up can be attributed to "progress in inventory correction and to desire of distributors not to let stocks get too low during a period of steel wage-contract bargaining."

HUGE PLANT

OSLO (CP) — Norway's largest aluminum plant started operations six months earlier than originally expected, and less than three years after the project was approved by Parliament. The plant will have an initial output of 40,000 tons a year, almost doubling Norway's present production.

Dogs Are Main Interest in Their Lives

Confidence Men Experts At Extracting Money

LONDON (Reuters) — British confidence men are experts at persuading people to part with their money, but not particularly original, the police say.

They believe in sticking to the old 'and tried tricks, which still find plenty of victims.

In this country where the way you speak English tells a great deal about your social background and education, the practised confidence man takes good care to acquire an upper middle class accent—if he was not born with one.

With the addition of good clothes, a bogus or genuine record as an army officer, he is well on the way to so impressing middle-aged widows or spinsters that they are overjoyed when he eventually "agrees" to invest their savings for them in stock exchange shares which he "knows" are due to go up.

One trick being played with success is concerned with horse racing. The swindlers set up what appears to be a genuine bookmaker's office complete with clerks and lists of odds. One of the gang pretends to be the bookmaker while another goes out in search of a victim.

VICTIM SUPPLIES CASH

Having found him, he talks about the good racing tips he has and shows some small winnings, suggesting that the victim join a small betting syndicate. One day, he announces that he has put up a really big bet of several hundred pounds and the partners have won a great deal of money. He suggests that the victim should accompany him to the bookmaker while he collects the winnings.

Before the supposed bookmaker pays out the winnings, he wants to be sure that the stake money really exists and could have been paid to him if the horse had lost. British bookmakers work on the credit system.

The swindler frantically produces a pile of counterfeit pound notes. But it is not enough.

The victim is then persuaded to hurry off to his bank and draw out several hundred pounds as his share in the bet.

He hands them over to his "friend"—only to find next day that "friend," bookmaker, clerks, equipment, and his money have all vanished.

DIRT UNDER CARPET

A simple trick which has duped many housewives is for a salesman to call at the door offering to sell "a genuine Persian carpet" at an extremely low price. He suggests that the woman should keep it for a night so that she can see how it looks, or ask her husband if he approves, and he will call to collect it next day.

When he has gone his partner, on some pretext or other, calls on the housewife. He sees the carpet, admires it greatly, and offers to buy it at double the price the salesman has asked. He tells her that he is in the carpet business and will buy more of the same if she can obtain them.

Next day, the original salesman returns. The housewife buys the carpet and several others as well, thinking that she is about to make a big profit. Too late, she realizes she is stuck with a lot of low quality carpets.

Russian Schoolboys

Schoolboys in the Soviet Union are the same as boys the world over when school is out . . . bubbling over with good spirits. These lads of Baku, Soviet Central Asia, are of Russian, Jewish and Azerbaijhi extraction. They live in Baku's "Old City." Education in Russia has taken on new importance in recent years. Professional men and intellectuals are replacing "workers" as the predominant group in the Communist party congress. — (CP Photo.).

Soviet Political Leaders Impressed by Ability of West To Provide Good Things of Life

These are two interesting trends in Soviet Russia: The Communist party leaders are growing older, and professional men are replacing the former revolutionists whose main interest was political theory. Bill Boss, Canadian Press Staff writer just returned to Canada from three months in Russia, in this story—one of a series—that these trends may indicate a change in the regime's path towards the aim of a completely Communistic state.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If the Soviet Union's political leaders are getting older, perhaps more conservative, and certainly more impressed by the ability of the West to provide the good things of life,

There is no possibility that Communist Russia will turn capitalist. But a fundamental change is under way — an avowed socialist—says Russia's ruling few now see much in the Western way of life to be incorporated, by Communist methods, into the Communist way.

"Except for Molotov, Voroshilov, Mikoyan and Kaganovich, the people at the top all were children during the 1917 revolution," he says.

"Thirty years ago, Russia was for the most part isolated even by Communist theories. That was all they knew.

PROMINENCE IN CHARGE

"Today it is run by technicians who know their individual jobs. They are business-like operational leader a system handed to them by the revolutionists. They are Communists, and working toward Communism's objectives—but the prime job is getting today's production today.

"As administrators, they are doing better business all the time. They want to do bigger business, and they watch United States methods as if America was a magnet."

What he told me in Moscow was borne out many times during my trip I made through Soviet territory in June.

In Tashkent, the city architect spoke of housing projects growing fast as American cities.

KEEP MORE OIL

TORONTO (CP)—Only 10 per cent of western Canada's potential oil lands have been examined to date according to reliable estimates, Ole Berg, Jr., president of British Columbia Standard Oil, said Wednesday at the company's annual meeting.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Skies are mainly clear over northern Ontario today and are expected to change but little the province. Friday as a very slow moving high pressure area remains along the eastern border of the province. Skies cleared over most of southern Ontario late Wednesday afternoon and rapid cooling brought expectations for patches this morning except in the Lake Erie region where the cloudiness of Wednesday persisted over night and prevented the formation of fog. Skies should be generally sunny this afternoon and Friday with a few fog patches Friday morning.

Wants to Feed Tired 'Gator In Back Yard

ATLANTA (AP) — "Mama, there's an alligator in the back yard," said three-year-old Mike McClain, "He's tired and hungry. Can I feed him?"

Startled, Mrs. J. L. McClain ran to the window and looked out. There lay the alligator, three feet long, growling—or whatever alligators do—at the family dog.

The McClains, who live in a thickly-populated section have no idea how the amphibian got there.

But they know where he is going to do now.

French Workers Ignore Call For Day's Strike

PARIS (Reuters)—The French trade union movement Wednesday suffered one of its worst setbacks since the bulk of the country's workers ignored a call for a 24-hour general strike.

The strike order came from the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor, France's most powerful labor group, and the Catholic unions, after months of intensive propaganda.

The Socialist Workers Force and the independent unions, while supporting a campaign to raise minimum wages from the equivalent of about $64 a month to $70, abstained from the strike. They considered it was being used by the Communists to embarrass the government at the opening of the Geneva talks.

Reports from all parts of the country indicated that few of the National Communist strongholds such as the railways and the national-ized car factories the stoppage was only partial. No public services were completely disrupted.

Queen Elizabeth Opens Big New Dam In Uganda at Head Waters of Nile

JINJA, Uganda (CP) — Queen Elizabeth today opened the new £20,000,000 Owen Falls dam here at the head waters of the Nile river.

"Not only will this dam produce power but, Uganda, it is also designed to store water for Egypt," the Queen said, noting Egypt's co-operation in its building. She said she was particularly pleased to see representatives of Egypt and the Sudan at the ceremony. Egypt and Britain have been in a long dispute over the future of the Sudan and the Suez canal zone.

"This part of the scheme, which is an example of practical co-operation between countries, is of broad scope and of the greatest importance to the future welfare of all dwellers in the Nile valley," the Queen said.

Pointing out that the dam will produce power not only for industries but for the peasants in their villages yet to be established, she added: "But let us not forget that when scientific wizardry and the building up of industries are not made in the interests of the object is the raising of peoples' standard of living."

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh flew here from Entebbe, Uganda, after plans were cancelled for a road journey to the dam. Security measures have been in force during the visit to east Africa because of death threats from the Mau Mau anti-white terrorists.

TWO ARE KILLED AS CAR CRASHES THROUGH BRIDGE

Vehicle Drops 105 Feet To Banks of Canal

CORNWALL (CP)—A man and a woman from Massena, N.Y., were killed early today when an automobile in which they were bound for Canada crashed through gates of the swing span of the Roosevelt international bridge and hurtled 105 feet onto stones on the bank of the Cornwall canal.

Police identified the victims as John Joseph Almond, 30, and Mrs. Shirley Tagge, 19.

They said Almond worked for the Aluminum Company of America. His widow and three young children live in Massena, 13 miles southwest of Cornwall.

Mrs. Tagge's husband is in the United States Army, police said. She leaves one child.

The accident occurred at 2:15 p.m. in clear weather. Bridge operator Clifford Hollister, 34, of Aultsville, Ont., had swung the span over to let the small pulp carrier Mount St. Mary pass westbound through the canal.

Hollister said that while he was standing on the span and peering down to record the name of the vessel, he heard a screech of brakes and a crash as the car hit the gates after the driver apparently missed the warning lights.

The car, which had cleared Canadian customs and was on its way into Canada, skidded 100 feet on the wooden planking in front of the barrier, smashed through the gate, then travelled another 50 feet on the bridge, police said. It dropped 105 feet straight down and landed on its roof on the concrete retaining wall, like huge flagstones along the canal bank, police said.

Cornwall firemen sped to the scene with their fire-fighting outskirts, and put out the fire.

CAR FLATTENED

Witnesses said the 1947-model car was pancaked to about two feet in height. Rescuers directed by police and firemen worked for about two hours to remove the bodies.

Immediately after the crash, the bridge operator swung the span back. He also said he ran to the lantern to flag down another car approaching from the U.S. side.

Bridge officials said the red warning lights were in operation. Traffic lights at each end of the span automatically turn red when the bridge is open.

The Roosevelt international bridge spans the Cornwall ship canal and the St. Lawrence river from Cornwall to Rooseveltown, N. Y. The vertical lift section of the swing span is located stretches from the Canadian mainland to Cornwall Island.

Circumstances of the crash were almost identical with one in 1938. A car carrying two men from Ottawa, Ont. and one from Alexandria crashed through the gates and fell into the canal, practically the same spot as did the Massena car today.

In Poor Taste

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The power of public opinion is singularly strong, sometimes. Fluorides in the water supply of this city's water supply last Thursday. Due to a delay in testing, how-ever, the fluorides did not actually go into the water until Wednesday. In the interim the water department was flooded with calls complaining about the taste.

HEPBURN BEST

LONDON (AP)—Audrey Hepburn, who starred in "Roman Holiday" as the princess in "Roman Holiday" was voted best actress of 1953 by British movie goers Wednesday.

Congressman Proposes French Get A-Bombs in Indo-China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Bob Sikes (Dem. Fla.) proposed today that the United States supply the French with atomic bombs for use in Indo-China to "end the war soon so we won't have to send American boys there."

"We have all kinds and all sizes of A-bombs that have been developed in the conventional warfare," the congressman said in an interview. "Let's see if they work."

He added that the Indo-Chinese war, in which French and native troops have been fighting Communist-led forces for more than seven years, "is becoming serious enough so that we had better use every weapon we've got to win it."

Sikes, a member of the House appropriations sub - committee which handles army funds, said he opposes sending U. S. forces to Indo-China without prior consent of congressional leaders. But he would back maximum material aid to the French.

Representative John B. Bennett (Rep. Mich.) meanwhile prepared a resolution aimed at barring U. S. troops from Indo-China "without prior approval and consent of Congress."

Such resolutions normally have no legal binding effect, but are advisory to the president.

Representative Frederic Coudert (Rep. N. Y.) has proposed a move which, if approved by the House and Senate, would have teeth. Coudert has offered a rider to the defence money bill now before the House, it would prohibit use of any funds in the bill to send U. S. troops into combat without congressional approval, except to fulfill treaty obligations or in self-defence.

It seems likely to touch off the only heated debate on the $28,600,000,000 armed services budget before the year starting July 1.

Conciliation Board Rejects Rail Workers' Main Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — The Kellock conciliation board on rail labor today turned down some employee demands and made varying recommendations on others.

In separate reports, the three board members were unanimous in rejecting two of the four proposals of non-operating employees.

On the other two proposals, two members recommended differing degrees of partial acceptance while the third reported against them.

The three board members met together in a majority report.

On two of the demands, the partial acceptance was recommended individually by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, chairman, and Dr. Frank Mc-ess of Mopse Jaw, Sask., employee nominee on the board.

M. M. Porter of Calgary, company nominee, recommended an outright turndown of all demands.

On the four requests of the 143,-000 non-operating workers, here was the board lineup:

1. All three recommended against the 40-hour week in terms of money—18 days sick leave with pay per year, saying such benefits would cost them $30,700,000 a year or more than half their estimated total cost of the proposals.

2. All recommended against higher penalty overtime pay for Sunday work.

3. Mr. Justice Kellock recommended three statutory holidays with pay per year, against eight sought by the unions. Mr. Wickens the four-week proposal.

Report Highlights

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of the Kellock conciliation board on railway labor demands:

Three board members filed individual reports.

All recommended rejection of 18 days a year sick leave with pay.

Casey Says UN Troops May Stay Until Korea Unified

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP) — External Affairs Minister Richard Casey of Australia told the Geneva conference today that United Nations forces may have to remain in Korea until the whole country has been united under a democratic government.

Casey's declaration to the 19-nation conference preceded a speech on Korea by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, his first since the conference opened here.

Outside the conference hall, a French source reported talks between Premier Pierre Mendes France in Paris and Premier Chou En Lai of Communist China have reached a stalemate.

Chou Enlai spoke in answer to Italian Secretary Gaetano Martino's proposal that all those elected seats in the 15-member legislative council as results of voting today in the Italian-run African British colony's first universal adult suffrage election become permanent.

The National party, strongest opposition party in the United Isles, suffered a severe setback in Wednesday's polling, when Herbert Usher, incumbent, was defeated by 101 votes to Philip Goldson, Labor party candidate, in a poll of 1,855 votes.

NEGRO LEADER WINS

Leigh Richardson, 30-year-old Negro leader of the People's United party, who this urged voters to "oust the British," swamped two opponents.

In a victory speech, Richardson said his party is prepared to "cooperate with the present administration in the development of the country along progressive lines."

"We are going to work toward internal and external control of our affairs by constitutional means."

"that some United Nations forces will be needed in Korea until a unified, free government has been established as been democratically expressed."

NO COMPROMISES OFFERED

Neither east nor west were offering any compromises to unify Korea.

Making his debut in the world spotlight, Molotov took Britain's premier-foreign minister demanded that all foreigners get their troops out of Korea to leave the Korean's problems to the Asians.

Casey, in his speech, made no reference to Secretary State Dulles' declaration of the United States Wednesday, The U. S. secretary said:

"It is not task here to show such strength of honorable and non-provocative character that communists will find it acceptable to grant unity and freedom to Korea."

He Got Credit

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP)—Four years cafe proprietor Hank Ridge told a friend about his wall:

"Everybody extended to those over 80 years and accompanied by their parents."

Ridge died at Stirbum, 82, of Seattle, walked in with his wife, Ida, 76, Baltimore, 107. Hagg paid for their meal.

AUTHORIZE INCREASES

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — City council Wednesday night authorized wage increases of six per cent for certain city employees. No provision was made for city hall employees whose negotiation committee had "flatly rejected" the offer of six per cent. Council set a list of 45 job-skills, compared with 51 last year.

QUEBEC INCOME TAX DEBATED BY HOUSE MEMBERS

Fleming Says National Unity Is Endangered

OTTAWA (CP)—The controversy over Quebec's 15-per-cent income tax, and whether it should be deductible from federal taxes, continues to hold the floor in the closing stages of the Commons budget debate.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said Wednesday that the government's attitude is endangering national unity.

Raymond Bruneau (L — Glengarry-Prescott) said the Quebec tax only "seeks to equalize that province from the rest of the country.

Maurice Breton (L — Joliette-l'Assomption-Montcalm) said there are some in Quebec, and even in the Commons, who dream of the day when Quebec will become a separate state.

The debate with only a few members left to speak, is expected to end next week. Other business will come before the Commons later in this week.

GOVERNMENT BELLIGERENT

Mr. Fleming said the government was belligerent in its rejection of Quebec's request for full deduction of its new income tax.

"We see the wells of Canadian unity being poisoned by statements by members opposite," he said, referring to speeches on the issue by Liberals.

Prime Minister St. Laurent should not remain silent on opposition Leader Drew's request that he call a dominion-provincial conference on taxation and constitutional matters.

"I challenge the prime minister to enter this debate and make a statement on the subject of Dominion-provincial relations," Mr. Fleming said.

It was unfair for Liberals to argue that the provinces had an equal right to levy income taxes when the federal government was taking that field to the limit. The government apparently was determined to force Quebec to come to Ottawa, cap in hand, seeking a tax agreement.

Mr. Fleming said double taxation in Quebec may have a devastating effect on national unity. As a bilingual member from eastern Canada, he regretted that the power to act for French-Canadians in other provinces.

"I would appeal to the federal government has made tax agreements with the provinces because it recognizes the joint rights of both levels of government to levy direct taxes."

Anti-Colonial Party Is Victor In Honduras

BELIZE, British Honduras (Reuters)—The anti-colonial People's United party headed today toward a clean sweep of all nine elected seats in the 15-member legislative council as results of voting in the first election in the Caribbean British colony's first universal adult suffrage election were known.

The National party, strongest opposition party in the United Isles, suffered a severe setback in Wednesday's polling, when Herbert Usher, incumbent, was defeated by 101 votes to Philip Goldson, Labor party candidate, in a poll of 1,855 votes.

NEGRO LEADER WINS

Leigh Richardson, 30-year-old Negro leader of the People's United party, who this urged voters to "oust the British," swamped two opponents.

"We are going to work toward internal and external control of our affairs by constitutional means."

Fort William Man Shoots Partner, Woman, Then Self

Goes Berserk in Shack After All-Day Wine Party

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A man killed a woman police called his common-law wife and another man, then took his own life Wednesday night in a triple shooting affray believed to have climaxed a wine-drinking party.

Police said Joseph Zimmer, 53-year-old former foundry worker shot Mrs. Elsie Zimmer, 45, and Angus Hrenchuk, about 38, with a rifle as they sat in his three-room shack in the west fort section on the outskirts of the city.

Then police said, he shot himself through the neck with a 16-gauge shotgun after telling a friend to get out of the house.

Neighbors suggested Zimmer had become jealous of Hrenchuk's attention to the woman.

TOLD TO GET OUT

Paul (Blackie) Lazaruk, 45, who called police, said he had been drinking with the trio and was asleep in a bedroom when the two rifle shots rang out.

"Then he stepped out of the bedroom and met Zimmer, who had a gun in his hands.

"Forget what you see and get out of here," Zimmer advised him, Lazaruk said he did as he was told.

Chief constable W. S. Brown of Fort William said in a statement the police were called to the shack at about 7:50 p. m. They found Zimmer, who is believed to have shot himself, lying in a pool of blood on the kitchen floor with a rifle beside him.

SCENE DESCRIBED

In the opposite corner of the kitchen lay the body of Hrenchuk with a bullet hole below the heart. A rifle bullet mark on the wall near the door had been sitting in a chair when he was shot, the chief said.

"The body of Mrs. Alice Zimmer, common-law wife of Joe, was found lying face down between the chesterfield and the table in the living room. A gunshot wound was visible in her abdomen. A hole in the back of a chair against the north window of the living room would indicate she had been sitting in a chair and lunged after being shot with a rifle.

"It would appear from the position of the two bodies that Hrenchuk was shot first, then Mrs. Zimmer.

"Zimmer appeared to have turned the gun on himself, as a large number of shot pellets were embedded in the kitchen wall where the body was found."

One report said that two dozen empty wine bottles were found under the kitchen sink. The chief's statement did not mention them.

Police said they were having difficulty finding relatives of the Zimmers.

Neighbors and relatives blamed the shooting on liquor.

They described Zimmer as a thrifty, sober man who for about 3½ feet tall, and "always needing a shave." They said Joe was laid off by Canada Iron Foundry several weeks ago because of a lack of orders and then had undertaken to saw lumber by contract with Hrenchuk at a lumber company.

Neighbors also said Zimmer was a crack shot with a rifle. They said he used to practise his marksmanship at open fields and old signs 40 or 50 yards away.

Call to Mayor Saves Hair Of Lady Fair

DETROIT (AP)—The age of chivalry is not dead—It just has strange manifestations.

A suburban St. Clair Shores housewife was bleaching her hair Wednesday. She didn't know the city was repairing a water main and had shut the water off.

Mayor Thomas S. Welsh got a frantic phone call: "Turn the water on or my hair will be gone in two hours."

The mayor got the picture. He dispatched patrolman William Vaughn to the woman's house with a five gallon can of water.

Vaughn took charge and rinsed the hair. The lady was bleached, but saved.

Britain Barred Air Assistance To French Force

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune says today that Britain barred an American proposal to send United States and Allied carrier planes to the aid of the French Union defenders of Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China.

In a dispatch from Washington, the paper's diplomatic reporter Dulles made the proposal to Foreign Secretary Eden in London last week-end when the two were leading strategy talks.

An extraordinary session of Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet ruled out such intervention, the Herald Tribune says, because the British government did not view the possible fall of Dien Bien Phu to the Communist-led Vietminh as of such dire consequence as did the U. S.

The paper says the British cabinet action has thrown the Washington administration into "a State of frustration bordering on despair over the prospects of preventing the loss of French Indo-China to communism."

Minstrel Show By Christ Church AYPA Enjoyed

"When Cork Is King", Christ Church AYPA Minstrel Show, played to an enthusiastic first night audience on Wednesday evening. The Parish Hall was well filled with devotees of by-gone minstrel days and found what they were seeking in a rollicking evening of black-face entertainment.

Reminiscent of the days when Eddie Cantor, Al Jolson and their Rotary Minstrelmen won the hearts of Belleville's citizenry, the show relied upon tried and true darky choruses such as "Camptown Races", "So Early In The Morning", "Georgia Camp Meeting", "Golden Slippers" and, of course, "Dixie". The old favorites were interspersed with modern numbers as "Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me", performed by Shirley Shaw, and Joe Howe's excellent soprano lead, Betty Garrow's "Carry Me Old Sun", sung by Ron Bater, and "Crog Over the Bridge," a choral number.

CHAIR ARLY FILLED

The interlocutor's chair was ably filled by Bill Dack, who conducted a good deal of amusing type-dotes with his four End Men, Leola Putnam, Fred Page, Shirley Shaw and Fred Meens.

Instrumental numbers were provided by Dorothy Stewart on the accordion, Mr. R. Bailey on the banjo, and Mrs. Jackie Bater, accompanist for the show, on the piano.

"Pretty Baby", a spirited chorus-line dance number was performed by Audrey Stewart.

The program was rounded out with monologues by Allan Gardiner and Fred Page and two skits, "Socks in Soup Suds" featured Audrey Stewart and Shirley Shaw, and "Where's Elijah Pratt" was presented by George Bongard, Audrey Bey, Gail Adams, Rosemary Jones Mitchell and Ted Warwick.

Members of the all-important minstrel chorus were Mary Grills, Gail Adams, Audrey Stewart, Wilfred Peters, Basil Chilvers, Eleanor McCrory, Evelyn Cullen, Marion Chilvers, Pearl Burns and Frances Adams.

Al Gardiner directed the show, and, with Gordon Leggat and Fred Page, wrote the script.

To Ask Council To Protect Fish In Closed Season

The Belleville District Fish and Game Association at its final spring meeting on the eighth endorsed a motion recommending that the city council be asked to draft a by-law restricting fishing in the Moira River during the closed season.

The recommendation arose from statements said to emanate from district conservation officers, that juveniles were fishing and spearing in the river, and they the officers were getting no support from the city police department.

Joe Shortt was named chairman of a committee to be named by President Don McKinnon which will wait on the city council.

Fred Sanderson, farmers, asked for a motion requesting the Department of Lands and Forests to check restocking activities. He said trout stock are being placed in lakes, where bass abound. He looks like we are feeding live bait to these fish," he said.

President Don McKinnon said that restocking was practically out of the Belleville district.

Major Percy Ketcheson, roving secretary of the Carling Conservation Club, was the guest speaker and gave a detailed outline of the spectacular lake trout project which recently named the "Wendigo."

To clear up some misunderstanding, Mr. Ketcheson said that the "Wendigo" formerly called "Wendigo Lake" which is a creek between a speckled trout and the lake variety, came about in Banff, Alberta, not in Ontario. Although several Ontario lakes have been stocked with the fish, he said.

The name "Wendigo" which was taken from 9,000 suggestions was chosen by popular vote and is a legendary background. The "Wendigo" is a voracious spirit that allured men to destruction, according to an old legend of the Chippewa Indian tribe.

OTHERS IN PROGRESS

Other hybrid experiments are in progress, Mr. Ketcheson said. These included the crossing of wild trout with the hatchery-reared fish, and the speckled variety with the cut-throat trout.

The Wendigo is reported fertile and is now classified as a true game fish in its third generation.

Major Ketcheson, an advocate of fish stocking in private lakes, said it was not fair to ask the government to divert money from the departments and health, welfare, old age, etc., and spend it on lakes and streams. This department produces little revenue from non-resident anglers and hunters but this amount is near enough to pay the department's expenses.

He also urged support of the suggestion to form a United Sportsmen's Council to unify Sportsmen's associations in the various districts and thereby to draw more purposes causing unnecessary friction," he said. A national organization, he felt, would eliminate this and also assist in equalizing fishing rights in the various provinces.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the showing for the first time of the newest Carling Conservation Club motion picture, "The Small-Mouthed Black Bass." The film proved to be a revelation in colored motion picture photography showing the evolution of the bass from the spawning bed through courtship until the time the highly-colored youngsters swim away from their own." Each of the photography is done underwater, with beautiful coloring and of the fighting "father" jealously guarding his young.

Another interesting film was the "King-Necked Pheasant," also done in color and which proved highly entertaining.

Major Ketcheson was introduced by President McKinnon with the club appreciation expressed by "Sandy" Saunders. Draw prizes were won by George Durno, Merton Wylie and Howard Smith.

Moonlight Row Costly For Hamilton Couple

A moonlight row on the Bay of Quinte last summer off a pointon with when the principals failed to register in a reasonable time, had its sequel in county magistrate's court today when a Hamilton man and wife pleaded guilty to being drunk and paid fines and costs of $13.50 each.

The incident occurred about a week ago when the Hamilton couple went for a row on the bay after dark. When they failed to return police were notified and arrangements were made to secure an RCAF crash boat to institute a search, when the rowboat was spotted out in the bay.

When the couple came ashore they walked into the hands of police who after aiding and abetting the situation charged them with drunkenness.

District Pharmacists Enjoy Speeches, Panel Discussions

Speeches and panel discussions on problems concerning prescriptions, photography and veterinary pharmacy featured the spring meeting of the Quinte District Pharmacist Association held Wednesday evening at the Belleville Shrine Club.

Upwards of 30 pharmacists from Tweed, Madoc, Stirling, Marmora, Picton, Kingston, Campbellford, Brighton, Trenton and Belleville attended the meeting.

Inspector Thomas Greenfield of the Ontario College of Pharmacy; James W. Laing, eastern representative of the Eastman Kodak Co. Ltd., and Solon W. Nixon, president of Nixon Laboratories Ltd. were the guest speakers. These men were called upon for their opinions following the panel discussions.

Inspector Greenfield, in speaking on "Reciprocity of Pharmacy Graduates in Canada and the British Commonwealth" stated that "reciprocity is a bad term and should be replaced by interprovincial or Dominion licensing."

"Under the old Pharmacy Act Pharmacists from Great Britain could obtain licences to practise in Ontario. This clause is in the new Pharmacy Act," he said.

SHOULD BE SAME

The inspector continued by stating that interprovincial licences would be acceptable if the standards of licencing were the same in all provinces.

"The only province with standards equal to those in Ontario is Saskatchewan," he said. "The Maritime provinces lag badly with Grade 11 standards and three years of university required for licensing. British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba require Grade 12 high school and three years of university," he continued.

"There is no one like your own apprentice," said the inspector in urging pharmacists members to encourage prospective graduates to attend the College of Pharmacy. Without graduates, the inspector stated, who will spot all of the intelligent and who buy his store, when he wishes to retire.

COLOR FILM POPULAR.

Mr. Laing, in an address on the difference between Kodachrome, Kodacolor and Kodachrome films, stated that color photography has become so popular that Eastman Kodak is building a 10 million dollar plant to manufacture and process color film.

He described Kodacolor as a negative process in which the negative was the reverse of the final print. A 25 one millimeter transparency the company makes a negative and positive process.

"You can't get a Kodachrome print from a Kodacolor negative," said Mr. Laing.

The speaker discussed briefly the various types of color films and appropriate filter systems for proper use of the films.

In his conclusion of his talk Mr. Laing stated that thousands of rolls of improperly addressed color film have been sent to Kodak for developing and that this film can not be returned because the company cannot identify the owners. He asks pharmacists in the field to remind their customers to address film properly.

VIRON FIELD.

Solon W. Nixon, in an address on, "The Pharmacist and Animal Health," stated that animal health work is a virgin field to pharmacists for service to farmers in their area.

"Livestock and poultry disease in Canada and the United States are increasing," said Mr. Nixon. Between 35 and 40 per cent of pigs and 25 per cent of calves die before reaching adult size. Approximately 20 per cent of animals dying are dying from deficiency diseases—from a lack of something in their diets," said the speaker.

"This is a challenge to you, the farmer, but the farmer is a skeptic and it is up to the pharmacist to educate the farmer in the best methods of offsetting or preventing deficiencies."

"Veterinarians cure diseases after animals are sick," said Mr. Nixon. "Usually they are too busy with this work to do much preventive work."

GOOD FIELD

"Prevention of diseases in animals is a good field for special work for the rural druggist," said Mr. Nixon, who urged druggists with a potential rural business to read available literature and stock appropriate products.

He warned that if druggists do not take a more sincere, active interest in the animal health business competitors will capture this business "which will then no longer be available to you."

Intimation of particular concern to pharmacists was forthcoming in subsequent panel discussion on fees for filling prescriptions, the question of more intensive instruction for students in the College of Pharmacy in fields related to photowork, and the need of serving the rural farmer in the field of animal health as it pertains to a pharmacist.

The speakers were introduced by Clem Bongard, and a number of the association were expressed by past president Mark Scanlon, who presented the speakers with blocks of Black Diamond cheese as tokens of appreciation of their efforts.

The dinner meeting, which commenced at 7.30 p.m., was preceded by a social hour.

CLEO COLLING CHAIRMAN

Cleo Colling, chairman of the meeting, thanked out-of-town members for their attendance, the ladies present for their fine spacious quarters, and the Colgate-Palmolive Company for the generous table gifts. He then read a message from W. J. Ivey, president of the Ontario Pharmaceutical Association, expressing his regret at being unable to attend.

Harold Seldon, secretary of the Quinte District Pharmacists' Association, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Joseph Foley, president of the association, thanked Cleo Colling for his untiring efforts in organizing the association and Mr. Harold Seldon for his work as secretary.

He emphasized the necessity of co-operation among pharmacists to meet the opposition from outside sources and in maintaining acceptable standards in dispensing. Co-operation was encouraged by practice, retaining prices and the success of the Pharmacy Act.

SUGGESTS REGIONAL GROUPS

He suggested that regional groups might be formed within the area accompanied by the Quinte District Pharmacists Association and that spokesmen be appointed from each group to bring constructive suggestions to the executive of the association's executive.

Steve Latimer, president of the Belleville Druggists' Association, outlined the history and accomplishments of the Association and stressed that co-operation and good relations with one's opposition is essential to success.

He paid tribute to the late Charles Dolan, and to Percy Green who has retired, for their work in organizing and guiding the association.

Entertainment was provided by Cleo Colling, who played the accordion and sang as chairman for the program.

Foremen's Club Holds Meeting

One of the most up-to-date training techniques used in industry, sales training and human relations was demonstrated last night at the April meeting of the Quinte District Foremen's Club. Under the guidance of Mr. Gil Wamboldt, chairman of the education committee, three other members of the club, Mr. J. Dalgleish, Mr. A. Fewtrell and Mr. G. Hendry presented the technique which is most commonly known as role playing or Psychodrama.

The presentation was made in three parts. The first section was a dramatization of an interview between a supervisor and two employees in which the supervisor made as many mistakes as possible in conducting the interview and antagonizing the workers. Following this Mr. Wamboldt conducted a discussion in which members of the audience criticized the supervisor's methods and suggested how the interview should have been carried out. The case was then re-enacted so that the supervisor conducted the interview in the best fashion.

Role playing is a technique which has been used considerably by the Hollinger Gold Mines in its supervisory development program. Much of the material used last night was supplied by the Hollinger Co.

Following the presentation the film "Man With a Thousand Hands" was shown to the group through the courtesy of Truck & Farm Supply Co. of Belleville a member firm of the Foremen's Club.

Mr. Doug Antoine entertained the members with three clever pantomimes to recorded music, including "Cocktails For Two" and "Dreamet." A sing-song was conducted by Mr. Bill Colclough with Mr. Ralph Beasley at the piano.

Officials Warn Residents Not To Use Water

RICHMOND HILL (CP) — A thousand residents of nearby Richvale are in serious danger of nitrate poisoning from contaminated wells, York county health unit officials warned today.

About 60 homes in the area are affected and the unit said new-born babies are in particular danger of developing blue baby poisoning, often fatal. Unit chief Robert Craig warned residents to boil all drinking water.

Richvale is 18 miles north of Toronto.

Gay 90's Walk Again at O.E.S. Minerva Chapter's Country Store

A magic wand was waved yesterday afternoon at the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, when the Order of the Eastern Star, Minerva Chapter, held its old fashion country store, for many of the personnel, arriving in latest styles, appeared in the space of a few minutes, completely changed into personages of the gay 90's both in costume and in deportment. In place of the quick, decisive step of 1954, they were noted to tread with calm and stately mein, with silk and satin skirts sweeping across the polished floor of the auditorium, their waspwike waists a strong contrast to the voluminous nether garments.

Receiving at the door were: The Worthy Matron, Mrs. D. Reddick, the District Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Garn Dobbs and the wife of the Worthy Patron, Mrs. C. Barnett.

Mrs. J. Ingram was in charge of the tickets at the door, and Mrs. D. Domosly in charge of the tickets at the tea room, while Mrs. A. Wonnacott and Mrs. M. Vanner invited to the tea room.

ORNATE AFFAIR BOOTH

The apron booth was ornate with yellow valance and loops of royal purple interlaced with yellow. In charge of the lovely array of aprons, all-over and half vanity, which included embossed organdy; dark green chambray with huge pockets of cretonne, a pretty one of mauve roses with scalloped edges, another was flecked with blue morning glories, there was also a Mexican apron with orange lily border and insert of Turkey red concealing a tiny pocket and bathroom aprons of striped yellow unwilling were Mrs. A. Cowper, Mrs. W. Bushell, Mrs. A. Williamson, Mrs. E. Mott, Mrs. J. Caldcart and Mrs. F. Furmidge.

Mrs. F. Burley was in charge of a pretty blue and white child's smocked dress in gingham, on which tickets were sold.

The parcel and hat booth was prettily decorated in red, white and blue and had a fine collection of summer garden hats, for children, men and women, among which were Coolie hats, and men's straw hats suitable for outings.

There were also prettily wrapped parcels, a sort of a touch-and-take proposition, containing attractive articles, of many varieties. Mrs. A. Jordan and Mrs. H. Broad were the conveners.

ENTICING DISPLAY

The candy booth drew its sweet-toothed customers with its enticing display of strawberry candies filled with nuts and fruits, a box of mints in white, yellow, pink and green were eye-catching as well as tasty.

Mouth-watering fondant slices; little serviette-adorned cups were filled to overflowing with maple creams and white candy; while other containers had fudge and maple creams. Mrs. J. Armstrong, Mrs. Y. Bushell, Mrs. H. Healy, Mrs. J. Kingston, Mrs. R. Carmichael and Mrs. P. Smith were the enticing dispensers. Besides these there was a lovely large box of assorted creams and fudge, convened by Mrs. W. Brown, which was won by Miss Dorothy Craighead.

The miscellaneous booth also drew an interested crowd of purchasers with its assortment of what-have-you's. This was adorned with mural wall paper with old time scenes, as well as sporting several old-fashioned bicycles hung back the days of the parlor organ, the bicycle built for two, and the country store keeper weighing groceries with his customer holding her side of the scale up, while he attempted to hold his down.

MISCELLANEOUS ARTICLES.

Displayed here were beautifully embroidered pillow slips, blue bird wall plaque, measuring cups and spoons, dog bookends, tri-branched china candelabra in shaded yellow pastel and green tints, blue-topped sugar jar, baby bibs, sleeper and suits in the form of Peter Rabbit and Chinese pagodas, aluminum covered cake holder, a basket of fresh rhubarb so nice for pie, bunches of chives, a tiny muff for boiled egg, a sweetheart cushion with red ribbon border, and a tomato stamp holder, shell jewellery, and plants for the spring garden, including Canterbury bells, peony roots, sweet Williams, and dahlia roots.

Those in charge of these endowments were: Meadames. M. Tugnett, A. Stalker, R. McBurney, J. Chapman, D. Hughes, and G. Fountain and D. Stevenson.

DELICIOUS CONFECTIONS.

The homecooking table abounded with delicious confections under the convenership of Meadames, R. Campbell, J. Weymark, J. Vandewater, L. Hinchey, L. Lemay, R. Hinchey, P. Boulton and L. Langabeer. A bevy of marmalades, jams, jelly, pickles, relishes and fruit salad occupied one end of this gaily decked table with its red and white loops and rose like clusters, while lemon pies, date breads, raspberry tarts, chocolate cakes, apple pie, homemade bread and buns, a gem of a cake drenched in shredded cocoanut and centred with a whole maraschino cherry, mince pies, cup cakes, an angel cake iced in cream and there occupied the pink rose edging, chocolate "Paddy" hats with green tops, macaroons, and many others occupied the rest of the space.

Those who served on the kitchen committee included Meadames W. Adams, J. Williams, F. Fretwell, B. Bloomer and J. Collins. Those in the tea room were: P. Bottrell, W. Batchelor, C. Clarke, W. Gray, W. Marner, L. Hunt, H. Thrasher, L. Henning, C. Hyde, R. Stark, A. Clare and T. Lewis.

Among the fetching costumes noted were some which took the mind back to the days of "Sam-antha Allen, Cousin Jed's Wife," with her little black bonnet, and black cape, and round, smiling face; "Sunbonnet Sue," was also present in her pink print bonnet and matching dress; "The Lady of the Lamp" (minus the lamp), tall, and stately in her turquoise, trailing taffeta gown accented with white; "Laura Secord" was seen and there in her mauve and white with white fuchsia; "Dolly Vardon" in her Battenburg, cream silk with black velvet trim and sash; "Aunt Het," with her spicy remarks; "Gone-With-the-Wind" with her three waving plumes; "The Gibson Girl" with her picture hat and beauty spot, and then the sweet-faced, dignified queen of long ago and diminutive figure in her lovely black satin and lace and embroidered apron, came strolling down the aisle to talk with the Lady of the Manor, in her voluminous grey taffeta skirt, black shawl and hat with matching grey plume.

A bresth-taking assembly of lovely ladies, who all unconsciously, to themselves, brought back mental pictures of those of bygone days, both in history and in fiction.

A splendid old fashioned country store, and tea, worthy of much commendation to its convener, Mrs. J. E. Marsh, and co-convener, Mrs. G. Matthews.

None Overcome

HAMILTON (CP)—Firemen were called to the home of Robert Prior early this morning when Mr. Prior, his wife Jean and their four-year-old son Russell were affected by what is believed to have been gas from the furnace.

The initiator crew under Lieutenant Ernie Cox used the inhalator on Mrs. Prior for a few minutes. None of the family was overcome.

IMPORTING TEACHERS SHORT-SIGHTED

The Ontario Department of Education's proposed plan to import 500 elementary school teachers from Britain for a one-year term has the appearance of a simple solution to the perplexing problem of this province's teacher shortage, but has the disadvantage of being short-sighted.

The shortage of teachers in Ontario will not be alleviated by any temporary measures. The elementary school population of the province, which mushroomed in the post-war era from the triple stimulus of a rehabilitating veteran group, marriage and immigration, shows no signs of appreciably slackening its rate of growth. Practically every urban and rural school board in the province has had to cope with the necessity of erecting more schools and hiring more teachers. This would appear to be a necessity that will continue to present itself for several years to come.

Any measure aimed at solving a teacher shortage that seems to be getting more and more acute with a program of importing teachers for one year is not realistic. What importing teachers for one year is going to accomplish at the end of the year? Does the Department of Education bild one group of 500 teachers goodbye while it beckons a welcome to another group of 500 more?

Such a plan, in fact, is bad because it seeks to relieve a permanent problem with a series of temporary measures. It is comparable to the practice of voting for annual solutions. Such a one-year program is worse still if it does provide some measure of relief because, for that year at least, the pressure of the teacher shortage will be reduced tending to relieve that sense of urgency that will more than likely be required to adopt measures for a concrete, long range plan of alleviating the teacher shortage permanently by training more Canadian teachers.

It is doubtful if the Province or not the province could strike an effective bargain in importing 500 British teachers. Experienced teachers in Great Britain, which the department would undoubtedly prefer, are not likely to be relinquished readily by their school boards, nor given a year's leave of absence simply to satisfy their wanderlust. Inexperienced teachers and those prepared to leave present positions in Britain are those more likely to be available to the province. It would seem to be more practical for the province to employ high school graduates of this province, equipping them with a short course of instruction during the summer, than inexperienced teachers from another country.

Exchange teachers from Great Britain have proven their skill in the past, but the practice of exchanging and importing teachers is thinking of employing 500 British teachers without giving up one Ontario teacher in exchange, an entirely different proposition, and one that changes the complexion of the plan that does not offer Ontario a choice of the best teachers in Britain.

A commercial aspect to this problem is that the present shortage of teachers has been one of the contributing factors to the rise in teachers' salaries. A temporary relief of the teacher shortage would serve to discourage additional salary increases and in turn discourage a percentage of high school graduates which otherwise might seriously consider teaching as a career.

The long range solution to the problem of a teacher shortage we would seem to be in a plan that would encourage more high school graduates to embark on a teaching career and in a training program to accommodate the increased number required rather than in temporary measures that merely postpone decision on an increasingly more serious educational crisis.

AN UNDESIRABLE TREND

The trade and industry branch of the Ontario Department of Commerce and Development, in a pamphlet reviewing the province's industrial growth during 1953, reports that 136 new industries were established in Ontario during the year. It estimated that the investment in industries represent an investment of approximately $75,-000,000 in new plants and equipment.

Southern Ontario claimed this growth. The list includes five new plants in this area, Caraquet Packers Ltd., and Morch Manufacturing Ltd. in Belleville, Candak Ltd. and Exser Electronics Ltd. at Deseronto and H. & Hawley Co. in Trenton.

But there is one disquieting feature. Fifty-six of the 136 new industries were located in metropolitan Toronto, which means that one out of every two industries to be shared by the remainder of the province.

The pamphlet lists 446 major expansions of existing industries, involving an estimated expenditure of $475,-000,000. Here the trend is not so disturbing. True, plants in the metropolitan Toronto area accounted for 145 of the expansions, but that is less than one-third of the total, while Toronto obtained 41 per cent of the new industries.

Nobody begrudges Toronto a healthy rate of growth. But is it healthy, either for Toronto or for the remainder of the province when this drive gets obtains four-tenths of the new industries established in Ontario?

And let it be noted, numbers do not tell the entire story. It is almost certain that the new industries locating in Toronto during 1953 included a larger percentage of big firms than did those opening at other centres throughout the province.

We hear much about the desirability of decentralization of industry, a need which the cold war and the hydrogen bomb have made much more urgent, but nobody seems to do anything about it.

CONTENTMENT

Spend not too much for place or pomp or fame.
Grieve not too much o'er small failure's petty stings:
The joys of life are very much the same.

Though richer mantles may be worn by kings
And costlier glasses hold their sparkling wine,
They eat no more than others when they dine.

'Tis not in much that happiness is found
'Tis not from splendor merry laughter springs.
The woman to the latest fashion gowned,

Though all her fingers blaze with jeweled rings,
Can have no more than she loves than can
The pure, good wife of any honest man.

So things are planned from cradle to the grave—
Sunshine and shadow, storm and stress and pain.
There are defeats which all who live must brave
And griefs 'gainst which the strongest doors are vain.
Given friends a few and love and peace of mind,
The humblest man has 'all the great shall find.

His father brought out a chair and sat on the verandah and Sir Rodmond borrowed a chair from a neighbor and sat in the roadway and he and his father visited in this way for some time.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 29, 1904.

A large property owner when speaking to a representative of the intelligencer yesterday afternoon was anxious to find out when Zwick's Island water scheme was to be inaugurated. He was told that the expense seemed to be the obstacle upon which the water committee had split; it being stated by the chairman of the committee, Ald. Charles N. Sulman, that the system would cost $8,000 and the by-law to provide the funds must be submitted to the ratepayers. Ald. Sulman's figures, we believe, are those furnished by a leading expert who should know. However, let the cost be what it may the city needs better water and steps should be taken to secure it as soon as possible.

The granolithic walks are to be built by day labor under the supervision of Street Commissioner R. C. Hulme, and this is as it should be. Mr. Hulme has done excellent work in the past and he will undoubtedly continue to do so.

Radar Fails To Stop Wrecks

(Hamilton Spectator)

A group of salvage experts reported the other day that since the war there had been more collisions between ships equipped with radar than without, thereby confirming us in one of the spiteful prejudices of our crotchety old age. Now if there is one thing of which we have a profound distrust it is gadgetry; we subscribe to the outmoded belief that a man is smarter than any little black box, and it is our gloomy conviction that humanity stands in great danger of being chopped off by nature, as an experiment that didn't pan out, like the dinosaur, if it goes much further with the process of ceding its prerogatives of observation, judgment and decision to a bunch of electronic tubes.

We are not belittling Sir Robert Watson-Watt, one of the great inventors of our age: it would be an insult to suggest that when they gave us radar and the rest they thought they were providing us with substitutes for the human mind. What they gave us, all they intended to give us, was aids—things to make each particular job easier, but still leaving the individual and peculiarly able mental processes to us. It is when we begin to rely on them to collide—or wars start, or civilizations decay. Gadgets have their place, but survival depends, in the end, on the continued ability of man to use old-fashioned deductive reasoning when it's needed—and to keep a sharp lookout.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

OUR LITTLE WHEELS

A youngster rides past my window on a regular two-wheel bicycle. He is not big enough for a two-wheel bicycle, but the bicycle manufacturers have affixed two little wheels on the outside of the back wheel which steady him until he learns to steady himself.

We read in the second chapter of Luke that after the Boy Jesus had arrived the distinguished temple teachers in Jerusalem for His insight into spiritual matters. He went with His parents to the town of Nazareth and was there subject to them. Joseph and Mary knew more than Jesus, even though this Jesus was the divine Son of God, for they were adults and the Lad was an adolescent. He was advancing in wisdom and stature and in favor both with God and with men. But He would have to be guided. In fact He would have to be dominated. He was sub-ject to them—docile, obedient. They had something to teach even this remarkable Boy who, with the wisdom of heaven incarnate within Him, had something to learn of them.

Our parents, our teachers, are the little wheels that steady us until we can steady ourselves. Don't be too foolish as to send a child into the crowded highway of living until you have taught him how to ride safely. Don't check the two little wheels on the back of the bike. He needs to be subject—docile, obedient, taught much love.

Grizzlies of the Rockies

By Wm. BRADY

Charles Mulvey recalls in London Calling, his experiances in British Columbia with the largest and by far the most powerful carnivore in the world —the grizzly bear—and dispoces of some widely held ideas about "Old Silver Tip," who combines muscle and brain.

High on the slopes of the Rocky Mountains, animals, both big and deadly, roams the mighty grizzly. Ursus horribilis is his name, and horrible indeed he is when he is enraged. Grizzlies at one time roamed the Rocky Mountains from Alaska to Mexico in great numbers, but in recent years they have been considerably depleted. A census taken a few years ago shows that there are only 400 grizzlies in the United States, 10,000 in British Columbia, the Yukon, and Alaska they are still numerous, but not near so plentiful we do not know.

The grizzly bear is the largest and by far the most powerful carnivore in the world; indeed, whoever first called the grizzly "just a bear' knew what he was talking about. No animal of equal size is more powerful than the common American black bear, which weighs 400 pounds. The grizzly grows to over 1,000 pounds and is strongly in the proportion.

The first time I saw a grizzly I came upon him suddenly in a clearing in the Rockies in British Columbia. I was down-wind from him, and I had the unusual opportunity of looking him over. I was impressed immediately by the fact that he is built on the general plan of a handsome animal: he is humpbacked, short-legged, and has a gigantic body. His distinguishing mark is his head, which is of a size and hirsute what his color may be — grey, brown, or nearly black—he has always a long, shaggy mane and silver-tipped hair. He walks with a heavy, lumbering gait, and from his appearance one would think that a child could outrun him, and that his movements would be slow and cumbersome. It is strange indeed how deceptive appearances can be. As a grizzly's speed was once paced at 30 miles an hour for a distance of half a mile in Yellowstone Park. Over that distance Silver Tip could run faster than an hour. I have known him to travel through the mountains country at remarkable speed for days at a time.

The hunting of a grizzly is a very difficult proposition. Mountaineers hunts the dogs which are trailing him, but the grizzly knows when the hunters are mounted. Again, no matter how well trained the dogs are, they are no match for the fierce grizzly, and should they venture to attack him, he would quickly give chase. If the dog escapes it is very likely he will not be caught by the grizzly on a hunting dog for the rest of his life. This fear can be attributed to the grizzly because a charging grizzly is one of the most terrifying sights in the mountains. Grizzlies must be hunted down and destroyed when they take killing sheep and cattle. In the National Parks of the United States and Canada the killing of grizzlies and for that matter of any other animal, is forbidden.

I said that the grizzly appears awkward and cumbersome in his movements. This is true enough, but he would be about as speedy in his movements as a locomotive. Nothing could be more inaccurate. Old Silver Tip is capable of the most delicate and precision of a hunting cat. I have watched a grizzly fishing for salmon in one of British Columbia. He was standing on the edge of a pool in shallows, peering intently into the fast-flowing water about him. Suddenly he struck at the water, and then lumbered up the river-bank with a fish flapping in his jaws. Angling in his mouth. Fish is one of the staples of the grizzly's diet in the fall when he catches them alive with his paws.

The grizzly will eat anything that is edible, and many tibits which we would not consider edible berries, roots, ants, rodents, and deer are all within his omnivorous taste. He is also a bee lover, particularly fond of honey, and if he believes that honey is stored in a certain place he will fight his way through any obstacle to get to it. I once saw a ranger once told me that he had opened the mandate of a deserted cabin and found it to contain over two pounds of honey and several hundred bees.

When I was in the little town of Golden in the mountains of British Columbia the word was brought in that a telegraph pole has been knocked broken to the ground. A group of us went along to inspect the damage. From the evidence of tracks nearby and claw marks on the broken pole it appeared that it had been by a grizzly. We came to the conclusion that a bear had chanced to travel by and found the base of telegraph wires. Associating that with a strong scent of bees he decided to investigate the top of the pole.

There are several ideas about bears which are generally believed and which are quite wrong. For instance, many people think that bears are clumsy and that black bears can climb trees, but only trees of a certain height because they place their forepaws side by side on the trunk. They wrap their forelegs around the trees. They dig their claws into the bark and hoist themselves upwards. They clasp the trunk with their hind legs while taking a higher grip with their forepaws. So the black bear can climb trees, but only those with a third trunk, and he does so only in emergencies. A grizzly cannot climb at all. His claws are as long as a man's fingers, but unlike those of the black bear they are blunt. Another popular belief is that bears will their enemies to sleep and then to death. The truth is that they hold their victims in order to bite them. Again, I have heard stories of the ability of bears to see their prospective prey at great distances: on the contrary, they are very short-sighted, but since they have keen senses of smell and hearing that defect is of slight consequence.

The outstanding characteristic of the grizzly is its tremendous strength. Some years ago I read an article by a zoologist in which he discussed the strength of various animals and the force of the blows they could deliver. It is generally known that the most powerful blow in nature is the blow of a whale's tail which can kill a man instantly, strangely enough, is the kick of a giraffe. Modern naturalists are inclined to discuss the matter are inclined to doubt the accuracy of the claim that the striking power of a grizzly is greater than the kick of a giraffe.

No matter what the correct gradation may be the striking power of the blow of a grizzly's paw is of tremendous force and is comparable to the irresistible quality of a swinging crane.)

I once came upon the larder of a grizzly high in the Rocky Mountains. There was considerable food, which they always maintain, there was the carcass of a moose which had been killed about 300 pounds. Moose graze in low-lying country and sometimes wander into the mountains. The nearest possible grazing land was several miles away, but even at that fifteen miles up the side of the mountain was a feast for Silver Tip had carried a creature of a hundred pounds for a mile and fifteen miles up the side of the mountain. The grizzly's strength is as remarkable as their strength, and all bear-hunters will tell you that the most dangerous animal is the wounded bear which illustrate the dynamic force suppose he was by far the most promising of our generation.

He bloomed prices. He was a tulip an early season organism, destined to flourish in a prizes condition, possibly a year period between the ages of twenty and thirty. He informed me without any rancour or regret, that he had lost all his ambition in his middle-forties, and had got an insignificant job in a wholesale business and has been content to be so ever since. I haven't had a duller lunch since the last time I ate alone.

In the afternoon, I went into a bookshop and bought a book about J.J. Hill, the old-time railroad builder. The clerk hunted around the shelves and in published lists, finally, and blankly went behind into an inner office to consult the manager.

Out came a middle-aged woman, as strikingly beautiful a woman as you would ever see in middle age: a magnificent head of white hair, a fine complexion, dressed like the fashion plate of a business woman; and with a manner to match. I left me with an expression of recognition, she listened to my request politely, made notes, and said she would have a couple of books for me in a few days. Then she asked me my name.

"Don't you remember me?" she said.

I found not a wisp of remembrance.

"Why," she laughed, "I was in high school, in the same room with you. We sat right next to the same classes. . . ."

She told me her name. I had trouble keeping my balance for an instant. I remembered a stable-boned, homely, bookworm girl, a Number One in the class sort of girl, who wore long dresses, bone-running, arms-full-of-books a girl. . . .

She was a summer and autumn blossom: asters, dahlias, zinnias.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It could be that people bloom, like bulbs, plants, animals. Some early in the Spring of life, some in middle-age, some late in Autumn. To the one hour day yesterday, I had a strange experience that suggests it. In the morning, I met and had lunch with an old friend who has been in Australia for the last twenty years. At college, he was not only the handsomest man for miles around, he was a great athlete, an intensely popular person and the companion of the biggest wit, humor and general intelligence. I body but the man. Four years of college gave him a perspective which he did not have when he graduated from high school. He thinks a student might go directly from high school to medical school if a special high school course were available, but that such a student would be missing an experience that can be rich and rewarding, scholastically or otherwise.

It is good to know that a medical student intends to enter general practice. No doubt his instructors and classmates will knock that silly notion out of his head, make a specialist out of him, by graduation time.

The very idea of a young man spending four years in college, four years in medical school and four years in general practice before he begins practise is, to my mind, absurd.

The medical student concedes that if a suitable high school course were available the high school graduate might go directly into medical school.

I had just such a course in Canadaigua High School under Wm Bennett, Ada Ellis, Anna Reeves, Gertrude Lee and others to teach.

But then, it may well be because of our ignorance that I can't appreciate the value of a college education as this sophomore medical student does. An ignorant man who doesn't know he is ignorant is intolerable.

The other day I had a courteous letter from a physician of the highest standing who tells me—and I'm afraid he may be right—that I am ignorant. (well, no, the physician doesn't say ignorant, but this is the sense of it) of elementary physics, because I brayed loudly in this column that a statement in a standard textbook is absurd. The statement is as follows:

"Therapeutically it" (digitalis) "enables the damaged heart to do more work with the same expenditure of energy."

I'm waiting now for some competent physicist or maybe a physician to explain to me, in plain words how the heart, sound or damaged; or anything else, can do that matter, do more work without expending more energy.

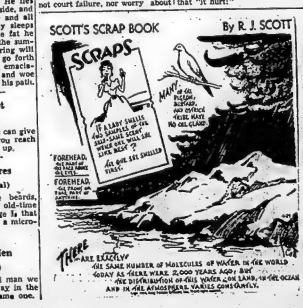
I have learned that this it follows that I'm wrong about high school courses preparatory to entry on the medical school course.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE ANXIOUS!

People who are not anxious to excell, or to get ahead, rarely do. The horse is a case in point. Complete is a physical contest, is anxious to get away, for his metile is to be tested and it is his nature to. When we look forward to a trip, or to some event, anxiouity, it always becomes a part of the joy or celebration.



Restlessness is the seed of desire, and if you wish enough, you'll get that desire. The happiest and most efficient worker, is the one who is anxious to get ahead and anxious to please. It's one of the first steps to something better. When I purchase a new book, about which I have read, or have been told, I am anxious to get home and read as soon as possible.

Rewards go to the anxious—to those who dare and dream, who do not court failure, nor worry about making mistakes. Getting anxious and excited about doing something that is your heart's desire is what makes up the joy and satisfaction of life. People who keep growing in ability are those who are anxious to do so.

By being anxious you will inspire all those about you, who make them anxious! It is a good plan to be anxious about getting rid of the difficult and unpleasant tasks that face us each day, so as to reap the great joy of following over them.

We do not always get what we think we deserve, but we get the major portion if we are anxious, enough for it. Certainly we have no right to blame others for any failure on our part. Not any. We self-made. Others always enter into it. A great American engineer once told me that upon leaving college he was so anxious to succeed that "it hurt!"

HISTORY OF CHURCH

The Sacred Heart of Mary Church, Madoc, had its beginning about the year of 1842. The first priest who attended to the spiritual wants of the people of this part of the Diocese of Kingston was the late Very Rev. James Brennan, of Belleville.

He held stations and celebrated mass a couple of times a year in the farmers' houses. This was about from 1842 to 1850. Under his supervision was built the old frame church in the Madoc cemetery, about the year 1850. Sir Charles supplied the lumber for the church.

The first resident pastor was Rev. Father Begley.

He took up his residence in Stoco in 1851. He was parish priest for about five years. Rev. Father Quinlan had charge for a short time, until a permanent pastor was appointed.

The next priest was Rev. Father Dowd, who looked after the spiritual wants of the mission for nearly twenty years, riding on horseback to perform his duties. He died in Toronto in 1904. These years all appointed by Bishop Gaulin's regime.

In 1859 Bishop Horan appointed Rev. Father Davis parish priest. He, as well as his predecessors, had charge of Madoc and Queensboro, the present parishes of Tweed and Marmora, together with a large strip of northern country as far as Bancroft.

CENTRE OF MISSION

Madoc was the centre of Bishop O'Brien, Father Davis moved from Stoco to Madoc, thus being the centre of the mission. Rev. Father Davis had as assistants, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Rev. Dr. Uther O'Reilly, who died in Madoc in 1880 was buried in the north side old church in the cemetery. The other assistants were as follows: Rev. J. Farrell, Rev. J. P. Fleming, Rev. George Brophy, Rev. P. J. Dwyer, Rev. J. O'Brien, Rev. J. S. Quinn, Rev. Bolison, Rev. J. J. Collins, Rev. Father John McCarthy and Rev. Father Murtagh.

In 1878, Father Davis built St. Henry's Church in Queensboro, and in 1880 the Sacred Heart of Mary Church, Madoc, was rebuilt and dedicated to the service of God in 1881 by the late Archbishop Lynch. Rev. Father Davis was 30 years in charge. In 1899 he was appointed to Bridge Street in 1904.

In 1899 Archbishop Gauthier appointed Rev. P. C. O'Brien to the pastorate of Madoc. He died after about two years in charge. The next pastor was Rev. John Meagher, who was appointed in 1902. He remained in Madoc until 1906 when Rev. Father Whittington was appointed. He attended to this parish until 1927, when he was transferred to Marmora. He just remained six months there and returned to Madoc as pastor where he was finally transferred to Tweed. Father Trainor was parish priest for 21 months.

In 1928 Rev. Father Vincent Heffernan was appointed as parish priest. He remained here for nine years and was succeeded by Father Hyland in 1937, who is in charge at the present time.

RENOVATED CHURCH

Under the regime of office he renovated the church. He began this work in 1938 and completed it in 1948. It was re-consecrated in 1948 by the present Archbishop O'Sullivan.

In 1945 the new cemetery was purchased and is situated about one mile east of the town on No. 7 Highway.

The sketch was prepared by Mrs. T. H. Rupert for the C.W.L. regional meeting on Sunday.

Cara and Greg Butler Delight Capacity Audience In Piano Recital at BCI

By EUGENE LANG

Very few seats were vacant in the Collegiate Auditorium Wednesday evening as a host of music lovers from Belleville and district were on hand to hear the debut recital of two of this city's most gifted musical talent to appear in many a long year in the persons of Miss Cara Butler and Master Gregory Butler, duo-pianists. Aged fourteen and thirteen respectively, these highly gifted young pianists are the children of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ormonde Butler, Dundas Street East, Belleville.

Both started their studies of the piano with Miss Leona Riggs when they were six years of age, continuing with her until 1949 upon her, retirement, then studied for the next year and a half with Mr. William Conner of this city. The distinguished musical pedagogue, Miss Mona Bates of Toronto accepted them as pupils after hearing them audition. Cara won the Ontario Department of Education Scholarship three years ago and in 1952 these young artists were each of nine awards at the Kiwanis Festival in Toronto. Having acquired the fore mentioned service clubs and fraternal organizations and on the radio in the past, last night delivered their professional appearance as duo-pianists in concert performance.

SHOW POISE, DECORUM

Showing exceptional poise and decorum, their ages the youthful brother and sister challenged the twin Steinways at their command to pour forth the best that was in them as twenty agile fingers began in perfect unison. The "Turkish March" from the "Ruins of Athens" of Beethoven was the first number selected by the young artists to acquaint their listeners with a showing of finger dexterity and dynamic shadings. Then came a scholarly rendition of the Bach arrangement of Bach, "Sheep May Safely Graze" in an arrangement for two keyboards by Mr. Conner. Command to pour forth the best that was in them as twenty agile fingers began in perfect unison. The "Turkish March" from the "Ruins of Athens" of Beethoven was the first number selected by the young artists to acquaint their listeners with a showing of finger dexterity and dynamic shadings. Then came a scholarly rendition of the Bach arrangement of Bach, "Sheep May Safely Graze" in an arrangement for two keyboards by Mr. Conner.

Miss Cara Butler showed her calmness of thought was admirably portrayed in the manner that made pictorial melody shine out like a glowing ember, always enhanced but never disturbed by the unobtrusive accompaniment. The finale from Mozart's Concerto in F major, K. 448 for two pianos was very deftly manipulated in a duo-minded conception of sparkling animation and brilliant clarity. Typical Mozartian runs and fast passage work were evenly tossed off in swift but sure cleanness of detail.

Gregory then soloed forth with Chopin's always popular "Polonaise Militaire" in a forceful attack on a pianist so young, in his virile interpretation. Then followed a caressing of the keyboard in Cara's visualization of the plaintive pastoral tune of Debussy's "The Little Shepherd". Edward Macdowell's "Hungarian Etude" was given a fiery, dramatic savory send-off also by Master Greg.

THREE MODERN PIECES.

Again both pianos were in use when the young soloists joined forces in three modern pieces. The rairical "Wedding Song" and Thomson's "Waltzing Song" and Rawa's "Beauty and the Beast" were artfully realized as was the rhythmic Spanish flavors of "Brazileira" by Darius Milhaud.

During intermission Mr. H. P. Mott presented the young pianists with numerous floral tributes on behalf of many well-wishers, also reading congratulatory telegrams from near and afar upon the Butler debut.

Cara Butler showed her accomplishments as a solo pianist in three familiar selections. Chopin's lovely "Etude Tristesse Opus 10" with its tricky three-against-two rhythms, completed in the four passages was very well played. The rippling impressionistic sonorities of his ghostly "Submerged Cathedral" were given a fine performance of tonal grandeur of well controlled blending. Liszt's fiery Rachmaninoff's ever (and over) popular "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" rounded out her depth of feeling and intensity of power.

BREAK-NECK SPEED.

Saint-Saen's zoological satire for two pianos "Carnival of the Animals" took up both pianists time for over twenty minutes and during the time they had ample opportunity to display every facet of their talents, be it break-neck speed of scale work, muscle tiring extended tremolos, complicated rhythm, delicate chordal crescendos, lightning fast glissandos, arpeggio and arpeggio climbings, poised emotional eccentricities and every other kind of complication that is contained in this Suite from majestic opening to brilliant closing. And, with one exception, they succeeded in their performance of gusto, virtuosity and feeling.

Considering the age of these two participants in last evening's most enjoyable concert, this reviewer can see nothing but a most promising future for both. The

Christ Church C.C. Hears 'Make-Up' Talk

The regular meeting of the Contact Club, Christ Church, was held on Monday evening with a large attendance of members and friends. The program was arranged by Contact Mailer group and opened with a lively game of "Who am I?". The lucky winner of this contest was Barbara Sweet.

Mrs. Jane McGuire, who was introduced to the girls by Catherine Hinds, gave a very interesting talk on the art of make-up and good grooming. Mrs. McGuire stressed that the trend today is toward a natural, glowing look in contrast to the heavy artificial make-up advocated in the past. Good grooming and cleanliness are both "musts" before good results may be achieved. Contact Club member Mary Forrester, volunteered as a most attentive subject for Mrs. McGuire's demonstration.

The thanks of the club was expressed by Bunny McLean.

A complete beauty kit, generously donated by Avon, was won by Frances Rogers and another prize by Betty Burch.

Tickets for the "Summer Tea and Shopping Spree" were issued by Convener Miss Terry Burch.

Archdeacon, the venerable that Archdeacon Ambrose Hicks that the Primate of Canada will be in Belleville on Thursday, May 6th and it was decided that the girls could provide tea and refreshments for the visiting clergy and their wardens on this occasion.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Doreen Mills, Freda Patterson and Mary Poole.

reds upon hundreds of hours diligent and arduous practice necessary for so exemplary a finish as was delineated to the most receptive audience was rewarded by great volleys in the form of tumultuous applause after each number. Floral tributes and bouquets of flowers were graciously given, both in solo and duo form.

SOUND RECOMMENDATIONS.

If this writer may be so forthright he would like to see more than one or two listings that Cara and Greg could ponder. To Greg: Study more assiduously and come back from the Polonaise, less pounding in the bass and more flexibility for the octave rumblings in the opening of the Grieg Concerto in A minor, the orchestrion. To Cara: Check your semi-quaver rests in the Chopin Op. 66, most notably measures 17-21 and analyze the phrasing more accurately. Then you will be more than ready for the Toronto Festival, which is not so sudden to the ear. That's all.

The Rotary Club is to be heartily commended for their thoughtfulness in giving these highly talented local musicians an opportunity to display their talents. As the rate they are progressing Town Hall, they will not be far from the mark. We loved them last night, and rightly so, May all their future performances be to them as we did. Good luck Cara and Greg. Here's hoping April 1954 onwards—we are solidly behind you!

Doctor Went to North to Stay One Year in 1929, Is Still There

KEG RIVER, Alta. (CP) — Dr. Mary Percy Jackson arrived in 1929 for one year's medical experience in the wilds of northwestern Alberta. She's still here.

Dr. Jackson was living in Birmingham, England, when she saw an advertisement in a British medical journal requesting well-qualified British doctors who were physically strong and capable of taking complete charge of any type of emergency without hospital facilities.

So she left England's industrial Midlands and a few weeks later found herself in a rugged land 100 miles from the nearest town and the railway and two miles from her next-door neighbor.

NORTHERN ASSIGNMENT

Dr. Jackson was assigned to the Battle River prairie district on the Saskatchewan border, between River Town, 227 miles northwest of Edmonton, and Peace River, 100 miles up the Peace river by boat then jolted the last 2 miles to her post by wagon.

The 14-by-20 foot shack which Dr. Jackson remembers as "not much" into a living room, a bedroom and a dispensary. The living room also served as a kitchen and a waiting room while the dispensary did double service as a consulting room.

There were no roads and no telephone or telegraphic communication. Even the Nothewin river, her only water route, was free to habitants. The current total of 317,153 sets compares with 186,170 in March, 1953.

Birthday Party Marks 79th Natal Day

A family birthday party was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wannamaker, Foxboro, in honor of the latter's mother, Mrs. W. R. Prentice of Foxboro, who was celebrating her 79th birthday.

A social time was spent and Mrs. Prentice received many lovely gifts of flowers and folding money, as well as beautiful cards from friends and neighbors.

Refreshments were served by members of the family and a large birthday cake was cut by the guest of honor.

Guests included Mrs. G. E. Ketcheson, Mr. Robert Ketcheson, Mr. James Ketcheson and two daughters, Jane and Marian, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Prentice and brother, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McAuley and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Prentice, all of Belleville, and Mrs. E. C. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T PUT "ALL YOUR EGGS IN ONE BASKET"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For almost two years, I have been dating a boy who is in service overseas. I was in the service once before for three years, then he came home, stayed about three months and joined up again.

Ever since he went into service the second time, we have had trouble, and don't seem to get along any more. I think he has taken up again with a girl he dated before he and I started going together. He told me that he didn't write to any girl but me, but someone else told me he was writing to her.

I love this boy better than I ever loved any other, and I haven't dated anyone steady since he went away. I just don't feel that I want anyone else but him, and I hope we can make a go of it again when he gets back home.

Should I feel this way about him? — F.O.

Dear F.O.:

I always feel it is a mistake for a girl of your age—you don't say how old you are, but never letter makes me believe you are a teenager—to "put all your eggs in one basket," so to speak. In other words, I think teen-agers should have a lot of boy friends and not get too serious about any one, although I realize perfectly that that is not the way you young people do things these days. Even so, however, I never have very foolish for you to sit around moping about this one chap and refusing to take an interest in any other.

If you're really smart, you will go out and have just as many good times as you can, so that you will have some interesting things to tell about when you write this boy. Moreover, if he sees you are sensible enough to do this, it will certainly make him think more of you than if you let him know all you are doing is mourning his absence and waiting for him to write some other girl.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

EYE-CATCHING EYES

Every girl should ask herself "What do my eyes reveal?" And answer the question truthfully. Are they friendly or cold? Let her realize that they can be eloquent. They can tell tales, they sometimes reveal character in a glance.

There are eyes that are soft and tender; they have a compelling and wonderful appeal. There are merry, twinkling eyes, and don't you love them? There are those that have the come - hither look, others that tell you plainly to keep your distance.

There are eyes that are calculating. Watch out for them; they bespeak a heart and disposition. Temperamental ones have flashes of anger or fear. You've seen them plenty of times and they aren't pretty.

While the color and shape of the eyes may contribute to loveliness, the real charm of it is a kindly expression. It's fun to watch the lights and shadows that come and go. They make the feminine countenance interesting. We can't change color or contour but we can light up our optic lamps and make them beautiful in the eyes of the beholder.

Like lovely gems, the eyes should have a pleasing setting which means that a certain amount of cosmetic care should be given the surrounding tissues. It is there, usually, that the first lines appear. Crow's feet make the eyes look old and it is surprising how early in life some women acquire them. Take precautions before they come. Keep the flesh firm by anointing with a heavy cream, doing light circles around the eyes, tapping the flesh lightly.

Twice a day the eyes should be bathed with warm water and then with cold, a treatment that will stimulate the blood streams, thus keeping the tissues strong and firm.

Many women abuse their eyes, reading or sewing in a dim light. As the eyes are active every waking moment, they should have plenty of rest. Now and then stand at a window and look far away to change the distance of vision.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) To whom should I address the wedding present my husband and I are to send?

(2) How should we sign our names on the card to be enclosed?

(3) How soon before the wedding date should the wedding present be sent? — C.

(1) Address the wedding present to the bride-to-be, at her home address.

(2) If you don't wish to write a message with your names (and it is not necessary to), you may write your formal names, as they would be engraved on visiting-cards. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nelson. But if you write a message, then your names become a signature, and the informal names should be signed. For example:

Devoted wishes to you for your happiness,

Arthur and Ramona Nelson

(The one who signs the cards writes her or his name last.)

(3) Send your wedding present as soon as possible before the date. An early-arrival present is, naturally, even more welcome, and gives the bride-to-be the good opportunity to write her thank-you note well before the last busy days before the wedding.

TO TIP OR NOT TO TIP

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion we have been having, please answer this: Is it correct to tip a Western Union messenger when he delivers a telegram? Or is it, as we believe in fact, a must? Do these messengers get a salary? — R.W.C.

Indeed Western Union messengers get a salary, and their salary is not predicated on their receiving tips. . .as is the case, for example, of the employees in most beauty parlors. Therefore it is not at all a must to tip a messenger delivering a telegram. . . you may give a tip merely if you wish to show your appreciation, and you'll probably have an urge to give the messenger a tip if he or she for any reason makes a special impression on you (goes out of his way, for example, or quite 'along-in-years'), or if it's late when the delivery is made, or if it's distinctly unusual weather.

QUESTIONS ABOUT WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please answer these questions that are bothering me about wedding invitations:

1. Is it true that when my husband and I receive a formal, engraved invitation to the church ceremony only, it is not necessary or expected, that we answer this invitation? In other words, that we reply only when we are invited to the reception?

2. And is it true that when I am writing a regret I do not necessary to repeat the hour of the occasion?

3. Must a formal invitation always be acknowledged formally—even when the sender or senders are intimate friends, or even relatives? — Ellen S.

Three good questions!

1. Yes, that is true. . .that a formal invitation to the church ceremony only, does not require an answer. (Unless, of course, a reply is requested.) But when you are invited to the reception for wedding breakfast or other post-ceremony festivity, then you must send a reply.

2. Yes, . .in a regret it is not necessary to repeat the hour.

3. Yes. A formal invitation must always be acknowledged by a formally-worded reply. . . even invitations from relatives and intimate friends.

Eggs As A Stand-In For Meat

By Mary Moore

To Barb, my poultry-fancier chum, I pay 30 cents per dozen for the biggest, freshest eggs available. As I have told you, before she leaves for town to bring me my eggs, she goes out to the chicken house, gives the hens a little pressure-pep-talk, and presto they produce a few more eggs "just for Mary."

To be worthy of all of this friendly and heavy devotion to duty I should produce more wonderful egg recipes for you. I can and I have—without pressure too.

At times like this I wish this newspaper were a magazine with colored pictures, for the picture of the Scrambled Eggs in a Basket would be beautiful indeed. Use your imaginations and try to picture it: Golden Scrambled egg nestling in two toasted cases made of hollowed-out halves of a whole loaf of bread. Halved slices of sauteed bologna lines the sides of the cases to make a colorful garnish. You serve these for supper, or much more effectively, for a buffet lunch or Sunday Brunch.

SCRAMBLED EGGS IN A BASKET.

For the two baskets (to hold a whole dozen scrambled eggs (cut a loaf of white bread in halves horizontally. Slice a piece off the rounded top half so that it will lie flat. Remove most of the crumb from the inside of each half, leaving 2 shells about ¼-inch thick. Snip the sides about ⅝ inch down to facilitate serving later. Brush each bread shell with melted butter. Place them in the oven with top oven turned on, but cover with inches from burner, to heat through and toast edges gold.

Into a large bowl break 12 fresh eggs and add 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, 2/3 cup milk and 1 (or 2) packages of white cream cheese mashed and crumbled. Beat them with a fork just long enough to blend. In a 10-inch frying pan melt ¼ cup butter, tilting it so bottom and sides are covered. When this is hot enough for a drop of water to sizzle in it, pour in the egg mixture. Turn heat lower and cook eggs, gently and slowly scraping sides and bottom of pan as the mixture sets, allowing the still-liquid part to flow to bottom of pan. If you stir or scrape too fast the eggs will have a curdled appearance, instead of soft custardy look. Cook until just set and still moist. While these eggs are cooking you are toasting the bread cases as described above.

Gently sauté six halved slices of bologna in another frying pan in a little butter until pale golden. Line the sides of each bread basket with these slices. Spoon the hot scrambled eggs into the cases. Garnish with parsley in the scallops between the bologna slices.

Note—If desired, sauteed mushrooms may be added to the scrambled eggs if you want to make this a little more flavorful. But if you do add mushrooms omit the cheese and increase milk to 1 cup.

EGGS MORNAY.

This is a favorite of my dear Pete's. That ought to be recommendation enough.

First you make a cheese sauce by mixing 2 tablespoons butter, stirring in 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, dash of tabasco, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1½ teaspoons prepared mustard. When this is blended stir in 2 cups milk until thick. Stir in ¾ cup (4 tablespoons) process cheese until mixture is smooth over low heat. Have ready a medium-sized casserole (shallow preferred), buttered. Into it pour a thin layer of the cheese sauce. Carefully break 8 eggs into it. Pour the remainder of the sauce around the eggs, to leave the yolks partially uncovered. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 or 20 minutes, or until whites are set, and yolks have thin film over top.

Few Russian Women Have Nice Clothes and One Dress Must Last a Long Time

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Russia's women deserve a better deal from the state beauty parlors.

They're hefty and they work hard. Few have nice clothes, and a dress must last a long time. But they remain feminine, even those at heavy work.

They have clear complexions, abundant hair which is usually worn long, and good capable hands.

You wish someone would show them how to dress their hair, teach beauty operators how to set not instead of fringy waves, and advise becoming styles for long tresses.

PRIMITIVE HAIRDRESSERS

There are plenty of "parekmakker-skayas" (hairdressers) in Russia. The word comes from the Old English "peruke maker." The Reds would hardly qualify for jobs in the West.

Cosmetics, if any, are usually limited to a touch of lipstick. Few women carry compacts although beauty-aids like powder and rouge are sold. They like nail polish, though not in brilliant colors, but chipped polish is seldom removed and their nails appear "flecked" rather than coated.

Perfumes are expensive and inferior. The top brand is "Kremlin," at 72 rubles—three to five days' pay. Personal soaps are highly aromatic, too, and a newly-bathed Russian in the next theatre seat is as distinguishable as those who don't wash often enough.

Not many wear jewelry. Novelty ornaments are scarce, and the real stuff is costly.

Soviet women would like more attractive clothes. Those they have are adequate and have kept in style for years. Suits are worn to the office, dresses reserved for evening wear. Most are long sleeved, and it is a daring woman who appears in a Moscow restaurant with a low neckline.

Clothes are available ready-made. Moscow and other large cities have a "House of Fashion" where mannequins display the latest creations. Each dress is numbered. After the show, most shoppers go to another floor and buy material which can be made up at home or in a state-operated dressmaker's shop.

One Moscow dress designer happened on an American fashion magazine and lifted a few ideas. His styles were rejected as "too advanced."

While I was in Moscow, my mother sent me the Easter number of another fashion magazine, in three days it was dog-eared. The women raved but didn't think they'd dare.

STONE CHURCH W.M.S.

FOURTH SUNDAY — The April meeting of the Stone Church Missionary Society was held in the Community Hall on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. E. B. Phillips was in charge of the worship service, with Mrs. Tufts reading the Scripture. The theme for this month being, "The Church of the Open Book", the confession is that we have not listened to Christ's voice speaking to us. We have kept to ourselves truth that might have brought light to others. We must pray for those in today's world to whom the Bible is a closed book.

Mrs. J. A. Delior, the president, gave chapters four and five of the study book on "China". Four different times Christianity has lost in China. In A.D. 635 there were at one time two or three thousand foreign missionaries in the country. Suddenly it all vanished, and even its memory was lost for about 1,000 years. Then they sent a letter to the Pope asking for 100 missionaries. So the Roman Catholics came to China but the Mongols ruled China for less than 100 years.

Again the church in China vanished in 1368.

In 1582 a Jesuit priest came up from the south to Peking and was soon powerful in the court of the Emperors. But the Mings had to flee from the Manchu conquerors. So they were defeated.

FOURTH WAVE OF CHRISTIANITY.

The fourth great wave of Christian advance in China was protestant, when Robert Morrison landed in Canton in 1807. It took him seven hard years to get just one convert. He said God will help and He did. In 1834 shortly before Morrison died there were about six converts after 27 years of labor. But by the power of God in 1934 there were 500,000 protestant Christians in China.

China's ruler was a Christian, Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-Shek. It was through the influence of his Christian wife. He had studied the Bible and learned to pray; his officers and men on whom he could rely, were almost always Christian.

Three-quarters of China in the 1940's were under-housed, under-clothed, underfed and illiterate, 30 per cent of the people who died in Tsingtein, died without a doctor or nurse seeing them.

Some think the Christian way is too slow but Dr. Jimmy Yen started to train health workers. A war lord offered him $2,000,000 for his work if he would leave it and go into politics. He declined saying, "You work for China from the top down, I'll work from the bottom up", and he added, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul."

Now Dr. J. Yen is in exile, Chiang-Kai-Shek is a refugee on an island off the coast of the country he once ruled. Will the church vanish again from China?

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and quilting was done on a quilt for the W.M.S. supply work.

Women's Institute

PARK DALE W.I.

The April meeting of Park Dale Women's Institute was held on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. A. D. Reid, with 27 in attendance. The president, Mrs. C. K. Keeble, opened the meeting, extending a warm welcome to the visitors, Mrs. W. Tufts, Mrs. R. E. Bunnett, of Quinte W.I, and Mrs R. Lumsden of Montreal, Quebec.

Mrs. G. E. Palmer reported the proceeds from the hostess chair raffle was $61.90.

Mrs. W. Tufts gave an informative talk on "Extension Services for the Homemaker."

Mrs. R. E. Bunnett explained how to make resolutions and the channels to follow up before the approved resolutions eventually reach the government.

The members of Park Dale W.I. were indeed indebted to both Mrs. W. Tufts and Mrs. R. E. Bunnett for their enlightening talks and feel they gained much valuable information.

FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

Mrs. W. M. Rice was replaced as first vice-president by Mrs. G. E. Palmer and Mrs. R. Morey was nominated to succeed Mrs. Rice as board member for Park Dale Association. It was decided to divide the offices of secretary - treasurer into two separate offices. Mrs. R. Rolston is the new secretary and Mrs. H. Bronson is the new treasurer.

PROGRAM

Mrs. W. Bamk took over the program. "Eat What You Can, and What You Can't Eat, Can," was the topic of a talk composed by Mrs. H. W. Hodgson and given by Mrs. G. Miller.

A short sing-song and cat contest were much enjoyed. A most appropriate reading, "Haven't Got Time," was given by Mrs. W. Bamk.

The hostess for the evening, Mrs. A. D. Reid and her assistants, served refreshments and a short social hour concluded the meeting.

Smart Boater

Many of the new smaller hats are styled to tip to one side over the forehead in the manner of this smart boater. Floral Toques a Hit Number At Recent London Hat Show

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—It's spring bonnet time in the Mayfair hat salons where elegant women with money to burn are purchasing frothy bonnets for race meetings and other social events.

Floral toques that might have graced the wardrobe of the late Queen Mary were one of the hit numbers at a recent hat show. Shallower than the royal bonnets, they will have fashion points similar to Queen Mary's favorite hat style.

In spring flowers of pink and mauve, white and blue and more violent shades, the toques tip over the forehead and give gay contrast to dark silk and linen dresses. One colorful number is composed of white mayflowers and glossy red cherries set on a lattice of green leaves and stalks. Veils are coarse and important.

Smith Boater

Designed by Erik, milliner with shops here and in Paris, the hats have sufficient chic for either country. A black and white boater tipped over one eye has an impudent similarity to the hat style peculiar to Maurice Chevalier. This shape comes in varied materials and colors and is worn with matching bow fixed to a white sailor collar.

Small hats are tipped to one side or over the forehead and include shapes from tiny berets to narrow-brimmed hats with high, round crowns. Blue and white predominate and materials range from exciting printed piques, shantungs and straws, to American oilcloth. Shallow-crowned hats have big floral sprays at the back and high-crowned numbers sport single flowers dangling from the brim over one eye.

There is a predominance of mimosa in cheeky wreaths of flowers and leaves that form tiny floral bonnets, or bunches of the delicate pieces ranging from tiny cloches to picture hats with brims that stretch beyond the shoulders.

MIMOSA TRIMMING

Mimosa is the English equivalent of the Australian wattle flower, which decorated hats and dresses worn by the Queen during her tour. Hats by royal milliner Kate Day are credited with starting a spate of small flower hats.

In her recent spring show, Miss Day featured one big hat. She says women now are practical even about their new spring bonnets. They find small ones more useful —and stick to them. Her tiny hats this year are even tinier than last. For instance, "bitti fruiti" is a pillbox tipped over the forehead and looking small—and precarious.

A close - fitting, white straw draped with tan silk jersey, that dips over the forehead, is close in style to several the Queen has worn during the tour. A similar style in black satin called "headbob" had flowers at the back.

"A French woman changes her hair style and make-up to suit a new hat," said Miss Day. "An English woman buys a hat to suit her face and hair." She showed styles that would appeal to both nationalities.

BUENOS AIRES (CP) — President Peron Tuesday released four opposition Radical party leaders arrested 24 hours previously.

Women Admitted for 1st Time To Mining Institute Convention

MONTREAL (CP)—In a historic moment at the annual convention of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, two women took their places at the annual dinner Tuesday night.

It was the first time women had sat down at the gathering.

The annual meeting established a precedent in giving the ladies greater prominence. Although many women hold engineers' degrees in Canada, few if any, are mining engineers.

However, the institute delegates during the current session approved unanimously a resolution that women be admitted with proper qualifications. That decision must be approved by the institute membership before becoming final.

The women seated at the head table Tuesday night were: Mrs. Ann Shipley, Liberal member of Parliament for the Ontario constituency of Temiskaming, and Mrs. Viola R. MacMillan, president of the Ontario Prospectors and Developers Association.

Reporters, pressing the ladies for their views on the situation, were firmly admonished: "No comment."

James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said in an address at the annual banquet that despite the "wonder metals" which he compared to "wonder drugs," Canadian industry faced serious problems especially competition on world market which is likely to become more severe.

Newfoundland held the centre of attention today as the institute began its final meetings.

R. J. MacNeill, chief geologist of the Newfoundland and Labrador Development Corporation, told of the province's development.

His report was one of the final items on the three-day program which saw the institute's convention—attended by nearly 1,500 delegates from coast to coast—end a record series of sittings.

THREAT TO CANAL

PANAMA (AP) — A widening crack in a rock ledge above the Gaillard cut of the Panama canal could cause a slide that could block the canal, officials said Tuesday night. Experts have been brought here to study the situation.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Plans Activities

The monthly meeting of St. Joseph's C.W.L. was held Monday evening in the school hall. Mrs. H. Carr-Brains, president, was in the chair. Along with the general business, reports were given by the various convenors for the first report to be forwarded to the Diocesan president. Items for the rummage sale, to be held in the middle of May, can be brought to the school at any time during the day, or left at Mrs. C. Murphy's, 277 Victoria. Anyone unable to send their donations, get in touch with Mrs. Murphy and arrangements will be made to pick up same.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Petrov Gives Information On MacLean, Burgess

LONDON (AP) — Britain has disclosed that a Soviet diplomat who sought asylum in Australia has produced some hearsay evidence about the case of two long-missing British diplomats, Donald Maclean and Guy Burgess.

A foreign office spokesman emphasized that British authorities regard the information from the Russian, Vladimir Petrov, with some reserve because it is second-hand and undetailed.

The spokesman was commenting on British newspaper reports that Petrov, former third secretary of the Soviet embassy in Canberra, had revealed the full story of the two British officials who vanished with little trace May 25, 1951. The foreign office previously has made clear that it believes Burgess and Maclean are behind the Iron Curtain.

The spokesman said: "It is clear that Petrov has no first-hand knowledge of the Maclean and Burgess affair and no detailed knowledge whatsoever."

KHOKHLOV KNEW NOTHING

The spokesman also denied press reports that Capt. Nikolai Khokhlov, Soviet secret police agent who gave himself up to the West in Germany, had given some information about Burgess and Maclean.

Most of the newspaper accounts said Petrov and Khokhlov gave this story of the flight of Burgess and Maclean:

The pair met a Soviet agent in Paris after leaving London. They were flown to Rome, then smuggled through the British and American zones of Austria into Prague.

Maclean now is an adviser to the Kremlin on foreign affairs and is drafting some of Moscow's foreign office notes and memoranda.

Maclean's wife was blackmailed into joining her husband and may be used in Russian counter-propaganda against the West. (She vanished with her three children from Switzerland last fall.)

Burgess is running a Moscow English - language propaganda newspaper and advising on English - language broadcasts from Moscow.

Petrov was said to have named names in connection with the missing diplomats' case. His wife, who chose freedom in Australia in a dramatic last-minute decision, also was said to be talking.

Maclean headed the American department in the foreign office. Burgess had once been in the Washington embassy.

HOSPITAL GRANTS

TORONTO (CP) — Hospitals in metropolitan Toronto will receive $5,661,000 in capital grants during the next eight years from the metropolitan government.

BANCROFT

Red Cross Drive Tops Objective By 200 Per Cent

BANCROFT — A record Red Cross campaign total of $1,775 was reported by campaign chairman E. G. Thomas at the April meeting of the Bancroft hospital board. This result topped the target by 200 per cent, an achievement equalled by only three other districts in the province.

A letter from William B. Hanna, provincial chairman, was read, congratulating the board on the success of the campaign.

Mrs. O. W. Anderson proposed that E. G. Thomas and Bert Griggs be a committee to arrange tuning of the hospital grounds. Mrs. W. L. Martin seconded the motion. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Jack Brown were appointed to take charge of the planting of decorative flowers and shrubs and Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. F. Hibbard agreed to undertake provision of suitable trees.

Bills totalling $180 for plumbing, telephone and coal supplies were passed for payment.

A proposal by Mrs. Anderson that copies of the operating statement be forwarded to the press, the reeve and the county council was seconded by Whitney L. Martin.

A query by E. G. Thomas, who thought the provision of $2,200 for bad debts rather high, brought the retort from nurse-in-charge, Miss Sigrid Laine, "You should see our ledgers".

After consideration, the board decided that the recent slight flooding of the cellars was due to abnormal weather conditions and that no further action was necessary.

The original HBC fort of Norway House was built about 1800 near the northern end of Lake Winnipeg.

Microwave Setup To Link Toronto With Winnipeg

MONTREAL (CP) — Construction of a microwave radio relay network from Toronto to Winnipeg, capable of transmitting television as well as telephone calls, was announced by Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

The network, expected to be completed late in 1956, will extend a similar link-up between Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, in operation since May last year.

The Toronto - Ottawa - Montreal system was the first in Canada capable of transmitting both television programs and telephone calls, a company spokesman said.

The new network is being developed across a 1,200-mile area running from Toronto through North Bay, Ont., to Winnipeg. It will comprise a line of 45 radio relay towers placed at 25 to 30 mile intervals.

A Bell telephone official said the extension is necessary because of the "ever - increasing number" of telephone calls between eastern and western Canada.

Testing of six tower sites between Toronto and North Bay has already been completed and Bell crews will begin site testing of another 36 towers between North Bay and the Ontario - Manitoba border as soon as weather conditions permit, probably in May.

Three other routes from the border to Winnipeg are being handled by the Manitoba Tele phone Company, officials said.

CAMPBELLFORD

Grass Fire Burns Several Acres, Menaces Cottages

CAMPBELLFORD—Campbellford firemen were called out to extinguish a grass fire on Sunday at a summer resort operated by Harry Clements, about two miles north of the town on the west River road.

The fire had been blazing for more than an hour before the alarm was turned in and had burned over several acres of land. The firemen were called when the fire appeared to be threatening some nearby cottages, and they extinguished it with hand extinguishers and one line of hose from the tank on the pumper.

The fire had apparently got under way when a Campbellford resident set some long grass afire in the bush.

Davies Exerting Bad Influence On Prisoners

OTTAWA (CP)—A grand jury reports that Montreal writer Raymond Arthur Davies, convicted last week of giving false information to obtain a Canadian passport is "exerting an adverse influence" on other prisoners in Carleton county jail.

Davies is in jail awaiting transportation to Kingston penitentiary for a two-year term on the passport charge.

The grand jury of the Ontario Supreme Court's spring assizes has been examining conditions at the jail and other institutions "in the capital area."

Jury foreman Ira Boyd of Carp, Ont., said in an interview after the report was presented Wednesday to Mr. Justice John L. Wilson that Davies apparently has appointed himself spokesman for the 14 prisoners in his block.

Davies apparently had "stirred up" several of the prisoners, especially the younger ones, and should be segregated, Mr. Boyd said.

Otherwise, conditions at the jail were good, the jury found.

Victoria Votes For Liquor Sale

VICTORIA (CP)—This capital city, which has not boasted so much as a sign advertising "licensed premises" since shortly after the First World War, voted overwhelmingly Wednesday for liquor by the drink.

About 60 per cent of the electorate cast ballots on the issue that was hotly debated on editorial pages and at public meetings.

Victoria has sold liquor of all types but only in the so-called proprietary clubs requiring membership.

The plebiscite was on four types of licences—cocktail bars, where all forms of drinks by the glass may be served; dining rooms, where all forms of drinks by the glass may be served with meals; dining rooms, where beer and wine may be served; and public houses, where beer may be served.

Hees Appeals For Government To Start Project

OTTAWA (CP)—George Hees appealed to the government Wednesday night to get on with the St. Lawrence seaway and to reduce sales taxes and down payments on homes to alleviate the country's gradually worsening unemployment situation.

The president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada said the government also should continue paying unemployment insurance benefits to those who have used up their credits and, through no fault of their own, cannot find jobs.

Unemployment has increased by 40 per cent in a year to 570,000 from 408,000, the Toronto member of Parliament and manufacturer said in a speech prepared for delivery before the PC Associations of Ottawa West and South.

The government could create more jobs by reducing the sales tax. Canada was facing strong competition from the United States, Germany and Japan. The only way to keep factories going was to cut prices.

Getting ahead with the St. Lawrence seaway project also would create jobs.

Uranium Found In N.Y. State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Albany Times-Union said Wednesday night that a uranium deposit had been found on state-owned land near Peekskill in the lower Hudson valley and that 34 claims involving 1,360 acres had been filed with the state.

The newspaper said all the claims had been filed by Edward Chalmers of Glenville, Conn., who prospected the area.

The deposits were found on the New York national guard military reservation at Camp Smith, the newspaper said.

The newspaper reported that ore samples had shown "an unusually high uranium content" but added that the extent of the deposit had not yet been determined.

Will Not Resign

WINDSOR (CP)—Mayor Arthur J. Reaume said Wednesday he will not seek re-election to the Ontario legislature at the next provincial election but has no intention of resigning his seat before that time.

The mayor, Liberal member for North Essex, said he would not put the province to the expense of a by-election. He said, in reply to criticism that he is too often absent from the House, that he had written Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver stating he had extra-heavy duties as mayor because it is a centennial year and would not be able to be present in the House as often as he would like.

Concerned About Possible Trust In Auto Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — Attorney-General Herbert Brownell said Wednesday night the justice Department is concerned about possible trust collusion in the multi-million dollar auto industry.

In a speech prepared for the Economic Club of New York, he added:

"We know well that increasing concentration in an important industry contains dangerous potentialities. . . we want to find out whether this pattern is nothing more than the consequence of competitive forces freely at work, or whether any one or more of the facts which amount to collusion or the suppression of competition has been at work."

His remarks followed by only a few days a disclosure by the justice department's anti-trust division that it is looking into four specific phases of the auto field.

The division expressed concern with the growing concentration of production in the hands of a few big companies with a resultant shrinkage in business among the so-called independent motor firms.

The auto industry has gradually contracted over the years until today the "big three"—Ford, General Motors and Chrysler—produce and market an overwhelming percentage of the country's cars!

Says Smelts, Not Lampreys Killed Trout

GORE BAY, Ont. (CP)—An old-time commercial fisherman says smelts, and not lampreys, killed lake trout in Lake Huron's north channel and are reducing their numbers in Georgian bay and Lake Superior.

John H. Merryleea, 86, is retirement in this Manitoulin Island community, fished the north channel for lake trout for more than 30 years until they died out about 10 years ago. He said the smelt became numerous, contracted a disease and poisoned trout, sturgeon and seagulls.

"Eels never kill healthy, mature fish," he said. "Why, I saw more eels when I was 14 than I've ever seen since. The trout used to eat the eels."

Mr. Merryleea, whose hobby is taxidermy, said he mounted a big lake trout two years ago that had 30 lamprey marks on it. All the marks were healed and "it was as healthy a fish as you'll see."

Police Chiefs Ask Clarification Of Lottery Laws

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's police chiefs believe the public is confused by lottery laws and ask Parliament to clarify and put some teeth in them.

The claim was made Wednesday by chief Walter H. Mulligan of Vancouver, president of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada, who headed a five-man delegation appearing before a Commons-Senate committee.

He said some people favor broader lottery laws; others tighter laws. The police were in the middle, a position they did not relish. The association should not take sides in the controversy.

However, chief J. A. Robert of Hull, Que., said his personal opinion is that all forms of gambling, except lotteries conducted by recognized religious and charitable organizations, should be banned.

He said families were disrupted by gambling and sometimes children from such families developed into delinquents and criminals. Bingo and small raffles often led to other forms of gambling.

'No Short and Easy Way' To Keep Peace in World — St. Laurent Tells Newsmen

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says there is no "short and easy way" to keep peace in the world.

He said Wednesday night the western world must continue to build up its strength to deter aggression and turn with generosity and understanding to 445,000,000 people in southern Asia struggling to improve their conditions.

Unless security is world-wide, "we are not apt to have it for ourselves," he told The Canadian Press annual meeting dinner.

"I am convinced we must in a true spirit of equality and co-operation join in a world-wide concerted effort to help the peoples of Asia obtain greater material advantages and the hope of a better future for themselves."

The prime minister devoted most of his 2,000-word address to the problems of southern Asia where he spent 2½ weeks on his recent 26,000-mile world tour.

His audience of more than 300 represented the newspaper, radio and publishing fields. R. J. Rankin, new president of The Canadian Press, introduced the prime minister who was thanked by Walter A. MacDonald, president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association.

GOODWILL FOR CANADA

He said his tour demonstrated there is an "abundance of goodwill" for Canada which has a special opportunity to help in the problem of achieving understanding between eastern and western peoples.

"It is important for us to realize" said Mr. Laurent, "that the peoples of southern Asia, because they have had so little direct experience of Russian imperialism, Communist or otherwise, are not inoculated as we are against the false ideals and illusory promises of Communist propaganda.

"On the other hand, they are apt to associate the whole western world with former imperialism they resented so deeply and unless we can show them we really want to be their friends and to treat them as equals, we can hardly expect to enjoy quick sympathy and enlist their support for the kind of peaceful world we are seeking to achieve."

The nations of southern Asia were bound to play an increasingly important part in world affairs. Every opportunity to improve goodwill and understanding should be seized.

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY

"Canada has a special opportunity because like these nations we, too, have emerged from a colonial status to a status of equality in the Commonwealth and that common experience is itself a basis for mutual understanding."

He said an important aspect of Asian affairs is the desire of Asians for national independence and their "new sense of the dignity of the individual and the equality of all men regardless of origin or color."

"One of the most important tasks they face is to insure an adequate supply of food, clothing and shelter to meet the minimum basic needs of their many millions of human beings.

"It is by assisting them to meet this challenge and encouraging them to achieve their goals that we can demonstrate our friendship and goodwill toward them.

"... there is not much use talking about the abstract advantages of political freedom to men and women who are perpetually hungry."

Crash Inquiry Now Completed At Moose Jaw

OTTAWA (CP)—Investigation of an air crash which killed 37 persons April 8 at Moose Jaw, Sask., is completed, Transport Minister Chevrier said Wednesday in the Commons.

He told CCF leader Coldwell he expected to receive the investigators' report later this week and will discuss it with the cabinet before making a statement to Parliament.

The air tragedy occurred when an RCAF Harvard training plane collided with a Trans-Canada Airliner.

At Moose Jaw, a coroner's jury inquiring into the collision urged that steps be taken to keep air traffic away from urban areas as much as possible. The jury also urged that officials "keep air training bases well informed as to when public passenger craft will be passing through on established air lanes, so that all aircraft will be kept a good safe distance away from the public craft."

The jury gave no opinion as to the cause of the collision.

More Direct Aid For Civil Defence Being Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — Increased and more direct aid to municipalities for civil defence is understood to be planned by the federal government.

Since 1952 the government has made available a total sum of $1,600,000 annually which provinces may draw upon, according to their populations, for civil defence projects if they match the federal money dollar-for-dollar. In turn, the province could assist their municipalities.

It is understood the new plan is to increase the total amount to about $2,000,000 under a formula which would permit direct federal assistance to municipalities.

So far only the four western provinces, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland have drawn on the dollar-for-dollar basis. The planned formula, it is understood, would enable federal assistance to municipalities in provinces which do not themselves draw upon the fund.

Total planned federal civil defence appropriation this year is understood to be about $6,000,000.

Back-Bencher Opposes Govt. Budget Proposal

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal back-bencher Wednesday opposed a government budget proposal to tax the surpluses of mutual fire insurance companies.

Raymond Bruneau, Glengarry-Prescott, speaking in the Commons budget debate, described the proposal as dangerous and urged members from rural constituencies to scrutinize it closely when it comes before the House.

He said that practically every farmer in his constituency has fire insurance in two mutual companies, organized on a county basis. The companies made no profits and any surplus they accumulated was solely to meet legal requirements.

"There is no doubt that, if these two companies have to pay taxes along the suggested lines, the additional cost would have to be charged to the insured farmers who, in my estimation, are already charged heavily enough."

Union Official Says Stratford Mayor Partial

TORONTO (CP)—A union official charged Wednesday that Mayor Lawrence Feick of Stratford influenced employees at Canadian Fabricated Products Limited to join a rival union to keep the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) out of the plant.

John Eldon, international representative of the UAW, testified at an Ontario labor relations board hearing here, Mayor Feick is personnel manager of Canadian Fabricated Products Limited, a Stratford auto parts firm.

The UAW is trying to have the other union, a local of the Trades and Labor Congress, decertified and the certification given to the UAW.

Mr. Eldon accused Mayor Feick of asking employees to name workers who attended a CIO meeting and of telling them "it's all right to join the TLC, and tell your friends it's all right too."

"ONLY ANSWER"

Stanley E. Dinsdale, company lawyer, said: "Mr. Feick told them to use their own good sense which is the only answer any personnel manager could give his employees."

The TLC presented evidence in hearings at Stratford that union workers at the Studebaker factory in Hamilton had turned back car seats because they "wouldn't stand" for employees in the feeder plant belonging to the rival TLC. Mr. Dinsdale said it was significant that this evidence had not been denied by the Auto Workers' Union.

Mr. Eldon said the seats were turned back because of poor workmanship by employees doing secret work. "The Studebaker plant was on the verge of closing down because of rotten work from this (Stratford) plant," he added.

Managing Editor Halifax Papers New CP Head

TORONTO (CP)—R. J. Rankin, managing editor of the Halifax Chronicle-Herald and Mail-Star, Wednesday was elected president of The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news service. He succeeds Ray Thomson, president for the last two years.

Herve Major of Montreal La Presse was re-elected honorary president.

D. B. Rogers of the Regina Leader-Post was elected first vice-president and Philip S. Fisher of the Winnipeg Tribune second vice-president.

Mr. Rankin, who succeeds to the CP presidency after terms as first vice-president, first broke into newspaper work in Halifax, Oct., 1920, joined the Halifax Herald as a reporter in 1921 after serving as a signals officer in the First World War. He was appointed managing editor of the Herald and the Mail in 1925, and is a director of the Halifax Herald, Ltd., which operates the two newspapers.

MEMBER SINCE 1929

He has been a member of CP since 1929 and a director since 1946.

Officers of the association were chosen by the board of directors after the annual general meeting of members at which Mr. Thomson reported on the co-operative's operating problems. Walter Parrell, general manager, on details of the news service.

CRITICIZES RESERVES

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Canon Alford Abraham said Wednesday that Indian reserves are "places of derelict economic stagnation." The rector of St. Andrew Anglican church here said "I really believe we can never be content until our Indian brethern have all the privileges of the white man and at the same time the responsibilities."

'Rapid Increase in Soviet Air Potential' But U.S. Still Ahead Says Official

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two new estimates are before the American people on how their air strength stacks up against Russia's.

Word from United States diplomatic sources is that there has been a "rapid increase in Soviet air potential" through the conversion of much of Russia's 20,000-plane force to modern jets.

There is also a statement by Representative Errett Scrivner (Rep. Kans.), chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee handling air force funds, that the U. S. outnumbers Russia three to two in the air and that the Soviet Union has no long-range bombers able to reach the U. S., and return to home bases.

The views were given out at the time of these events in Washington and elsewhere:

Congress was considering the annual air force appropriation. Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, had just talked with President Eisenhower after a hurried trip to Europe and a London visit with Prime Minister Churchill. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization was reassessing its own and Soviet strength in the air, on the ground and at sea.

SUMMARIZES STRENGTH

The diplomatic officials, who may not be named, made available an over-all summary of Communist military strength, 6,000,000 men under arms in Russia, Eastern Germany and the satellite countries.

They figured that 4,500,000 are in ground forces; that 22 divisions are in Germany, constituting "a ready-made spearhead" for a rapid advance into Europe; that the bulk of the 22 divisions are armored outfits.

Backing up the 22 divisions are another 60 Soviet divisions based in western Russia and eastern European satellite countries. These satellites have about 80 divisions.

Communist air strength is calculated this way by the diplomatic officials:

NEW TYPES SEEN

New types of medium and heavy bombers, including jet models, have been observed. (These presumably would include at least two new designs of long-range planes, one four-engined, another six-engined, powered with propellers driven by jet engines. The six-engine bomber obviously is intended to counter the American B-36).

The diplomats said the Soviet air force remains at a steady overall strength of about 20,000 planes but that it is the thorough-going modernization that is increasing the potential so fast.

Scrivner told the House, during debate on military appropriations, that balanced against Soviet air strength are more than 21,000 planes of the U. S. Air Force, plus 10,000 more U. S. navy and marine planes.

Foreign Office in Moscow

Decisions that affect the world's attitude toward the Soviet Union are made in this striking building on Smolensk Square in Moscow. It is the foreign office, which also houses the ministry of foreign trade. The building was opened in 1953. All over Russia, new construction goes on apace. — (CP Photo.)

SOVIET

U.S. TRAINING UTILIZED

The textile plant in Tashkent is directed by a man who spent 10 years in England studying British cotton production. An American who visited it told me it is one of the most modern in the world.

In Baku, an engineer spoke of the city's new industries as being set up "along the lines of Astera can production."

Some foreign observers credit the business-man approach in government to Prime Minister Malenkov, more especially to Mme. Malenkov, a home woman said to Moscow to have held out with her husband for a better deal at last for Soviet womanhood.

Others say it was planned by Stalin and that decrees of the 19th Communist party congress in 1952, some months before he died, laid the foundation for the present program with its emphasis on a better life for the average Russian.

GOALS UNCHANGED

The goals of the government are the same as they always were. The 1952 congress put it this way: "To build a Communist society through gradual transition from socialism to communism, continuously to raise the living and cultural standards of society . . ."

It is the technique of the transition that may have been altered. The people at the top, with the exception of Malenkov, are almost the same as when Stalin was alive. But collective leadership seems to have replaced one-man dictatorship, and sound business practices seem to have replaced delusion by grandiose figures and statistics.

Some recent speeches, the drive for more consumer goods, the unprecedented frankness with which agricultural shortcomings have been discussed, strike many observers as the actions of people who have recognized that they've been kidding themselves.

MALENKOV BUSINESS MAN

Malenkov has been reported and photographed visiting farms, industries and housing development. His reaction to a formal welcoming speech by the chairman of the enterprise is said to be:

"Comrade, your remarks sound like a report to the Central Committee. Forget it. Tell me what the situation is."

Then he makes a detailed inspection of the farm or plant. One westerner who has met Malenkov personally said he impressed him as the chairman of the board of a well-run enterprise.

"Stalin was rather like a well-behaved tiger," he said. "Those about him behaved like a bunch of attendants who weren't sure when he was going to bite.

"Malenkov and those with him are more like practical business men together. The conversation veils equality. He doesn't give the impression of being a man who felt himself to be in a hot seat."

DELEGATES OLDER

The socialist-Western diplomat I interviewed had checked the ages of delegates to the 1939 and 1952 Communist congresses in Moscow.

In 1939, 49.5 per cent were 35 years old and under; in 1952, 5.5 per cent. In 1939, 32 per cent were between 36 to 40 years old; in 1952, 17.7 per cent. In 1939, 15.5 per cent were between 41 and 50; in 1952, 41.1 per cent. In 1939, only three per cent were over 50; in 1952, 35.5.

"Delegates who are getting older also are getting more conservative," he said.

PROFESSIONS IN LEAD

Another trend is a swing in the delegates' occupations. They used to be predominantly "workers"—as was and is still supposed to be a workers' revolution. Now they are predominantly professional men and intellectuals.

In 1952, 686 of the 1,192 party delegates were from university posts, 352 were engineers, 82 were farm technicians and only 178 had only secondary school education or less.

Part of the regime's current troubles in agriculture possibly may stem from the low representation of agricultural delegates in a country in which two-thirds of the population are peasants and other rural dwellers.

DIVORCED EIGHTH TIME

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Judge Philip Elliott described as "impalement party" the record of a couple he separated by divorce Tuesday. They were Henry Stevens, who got his eighth divorce decree, and his wife, Josephine, who got her seventh. Stevens couldn't remember the wife's maiden name.

Thomson Says Papers Still Only Place to Get News

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian newspapers were urged Wed., by Roy H. Thomson to work hard at their basic job, getting the news to the public.

If they do that, he said, they needn't worry about television or other competition.

Radio had been considered a threat. But it turned out radio helped to build circulation and widened the field of newspaper advertising. TV would do the same.

Mr. Thomson, outspoken Toronto-onian who owns newspapers in three countries, was speaking to the annual meeting of The Canadian Press. He retires from the presidency of CP this year after a two-year term. Besides newspapers in Canada, Britain and the United States he has radio and television interests.

"Television cannot do a 'complete job of news reporting, not even as complete as radio," he said. "The newspaper remains the one place where you can get news when you want it.

"I look to see news coming back into the newspaper. More spot news and more background. More sport because of women and youngsters watching TV. More art, more theatre, more maps and charts. More pictures."

MORE NEWS, PICTURES

He said CP is aiming at more and broader coverage in news and pictures. He mentioned the national news co-operative's plans for independent coverage of Washington and United Nations and urged its members to bear down on their joint effort with CP to cover thoroughly the news of a growing Canada.

He said:

"We have got to look forward and be prepared to experiment. In the last few years the courage in try new things has given us a highly efficient teletypesetter network, a valuable and expanding exchange of Canadian pictures and a service of news in the French language. Each of these looked impossible four years ago. Each is alive and can grow to the benefit of Canada and its newspapers.

"We should not be afraid of the untried."

CAMPBELLFORD—The April meeting of St. John's Young Adult Club was held this week with the president, Wayne Gunter, conducting it.

The devotional theme was in keeping with the Easter season. Betty Elliott, Doug Oddie and Doris Heagle participated in the devotional exercises and Bruce Bannum accompanied on the piano for the playing of Easter hymns. Walter Elliott contributed an appropriate solo, "The Old Rugged Cross."

The program was in charge of Clayton Robertson. Ileen McKelvie contributed two solos, 'Moonlight and Roses' and 'When I Grow Too Old to Dream.' Don Ferguson rendered two piano solos. Peter Edwards pleased the audience with piano selections while preparations were made for the showing of movie picture films.

Rev. D. Mansell Smith operated the projector for the showing of the Canadian Pacific Railways film "Klondyke," a travelogue of Alaska, and the Yukon in natural color, and a film depicting the huge H.E.P.C. development at Niagara Falls, with the scenic wonders of the vicinity, all in true color.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Lenin - Stalin Mausoleum

Religion is dying in the Soviet Union, says Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer who recently spent five months in that Communist country. He says most Russians think being religious is old-fashioned. Materialism is more important to them. This picture shows the Lenin-Stalin mausoleum in Moscow, the country's most important materialistic shrine. — (CP Photo.)

Religion in Russia Dying Because Most Russians Are Not Interested Says Boss

Is there freedom of religion in the Soviet Union under atheistic communism? Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer who has just returned to Canada from Moscow, says he will carry—one of a series—that the answer is a qualified "yes." There is nothing to stop a Russian from going to church; but few go and all churches in Russia are gradually dying.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Being religious is old-fashioned in Russia. Some people still go to church—but most Russians I spoke to just aren't interested.

In five months in the Soviet Union I attended many services: Christian, Jewish and Moslem. I visited some churches often, and at irregular intervals.

When I first went to the Baptist church and Moslem mosque in Moscow, I suspected the overflow congregations might be for my benefit. Subsequent visits indicate the services are always well attended.

RELIGION DYING

But religion in the Soviet Union is dying. The vast majority of congregations are aged. The sprinkling of children I saw will not fill a chapel 20 years from now.

"We are much more concerned about making our heaven in this world," said one student who never goes to church. "But this is a free country. If som want to go to church, they will not be prevented."

No one says Communist teaching now approves of religion, or that budding Communists may be religious. Periodically Pravda and Komsomolskaya Pravda, the young Communists' newspaper, "Unmask" as shocked terms party members who, while discharging their political obligations, have secretly gone to church, too. Their party organizations are urged to get them to correct their ways or summarily expel them.

Students scoff at religion. When you discover one whose grandmother goes to Mass he is embarrassed. To most Russians I talked to, religion is an outmoded form of oppression favored by the ruling classes to keep the people happy with their lot.

Moscow today has only 37 churches of various denominations the Russian Orthodox faith apparently still has the support of the country peasantry.

ONE R. C. PRELATE

The Roman Catholic Church once had three archbishops and 14 bishops in what is now the Soviet Union. Now its only prelate is the Archbishop of Riga, with only 4 priests to carry on the church's work in the union. He once had 900 priests in Latvia alone.

The churches, is not the clergy, appear wealthy. Each church congregation pays a monthly tax of 1,000 rubles—$10,000 at the official rate of exchange. In the last state loan, Patriarch Alexei of Moscow and all Russia bought bonds worth 20,000,00 rubles.

The chance for state influence in religious matters is not clear, but it is there. Theoretically the patriarch, the Jews' chief rabbi and the Moslems' muftis are "independent." Most have publicly criticized Western religious leaders. All have had to support the Moscow-sponsored "peace" crusade.

Minareted St. Basil's cathedral on Red Square, just outside the Kremlin, used to house an anti-religious exhibition. Now it is being restored as a cultural monument and the museum has been removed.

It is not so evidence that churchgoers are checked upon or bothered in any way. On the contrary the regime goes out of its way to stress to the foreigner the freedom of the people to worship if they want to.

IMAM SURPRISED

One day I interviewed the imam of the Moscow mosque. He said his congregation is 1,000 every Friday, 15,000 on holy days. He didn't know how many Moslems there are in Moscow.

As I ended our talk he looked confounded.

"But you have not asked about freedom of worship in the Soviet Union" he said.

"The foreign press says there is no freedom of worship in the Soviet Union, We are happy that you have come to see for yourself that there are no obstacles."

The mufti of central Asia and Kazakhstan, whom I met in Tashkent, is 83 years old. He said the Soviet Union under Communism has been good for his religion.

"Before the revolution, religious leaders had too much power," he said. "Men were killed for not living according to the law is Islam, and Islam opposed the emancipation of women.

USE PERSUASION

"Today, if we feel a man is not living rightly, we try to persuade him to change his ways; but we have no authority.

"Islam attracts fewer today, but its membership is stronger. Men are better educated and when they stay with the church they give it a stronger membership. The Soviet system has been good for Islam."

I noticed that the newer generation of better educated Moslems were sparsely represented in his congregation.

Freedom of religion does not extend to religious books, all of which come from state publishing houses. They do not publish the Bible. Presumably they do not publish the Koran either.

My state-provided guide at Tashkent, a 26-year-old Russian, did not know we would meet the mufti. Afterwards he said: "It is an honor to be with such an important man."

I expressed my surprise.

"You do not understand," he said. "This is a free country. For those who believe in him and what he stands for, he is significant. They are my fellow-citizens and I respect them."

"What about the teachings of the party and the schools about a godless society?"

"That will come. All this is dying out. Some day there will be a mufti and he will have no reality."

EARLY TIMEPIECE

The earlier watches were really portable clocks driven by a mainspring and carried on a chain or girdle.

Moslems Pray

Some people in the Soviet Union still go to church, but they are a small minority of Russia's 210,000,000 citizens. Many faiths are represented in the country. Moslems pray during a Friday service outside the central mosque in Tashkent, Soviet Central Asia. Branches of trees in the courtyard make handy hangers for shopping bags.—(CP Photo.)

Korean Churches Always Filled

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Korean churches never have an empty seat, Mrs. Hugh D. Taylor told the 29th annual meeting of the London conference of the women's missionary society of the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. Taylor, secretary of the overseas missions executive, said Koreans have known a "vibrant interest" in Christianity.

She said there is little actual starvation in Korea but much malnutrition. Hospital conditions were inadequate and one hospital cot might be shared with three seriously ill children.

The United Church sent 200 tons of clothing to Korea last year to supplement United Nations assistance.

Eisenhower Opposes Move To Tie His Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower declared anew today that the United States is not going to get into any war in Indo-China unless Congress declares it.

However, the president told a press conference that a proposal in Congress to forbid the sending of American troops to Indo-China, or any other place in the world without prior congressional approval, could not fail to damage his flexibility in handling the situation.

The president, asked for his evaluation of the possibility of U. S. combat forces having to be sent to Indo-China, replied that he already has expressed his views on that matter rather emphatically.

WAR UP TO CONGRESS

At a press conference about a month ago, he recalled, he said the U. S. would not get into a war except through constitutional processes.

And that means, Eisenhower said, only through a declaration of war by Congress.

He said the U. S. has provided technical assistance, money, and equipment to bolster the fight against communism in Indo-China, and that is as much as the present foreign assistance law permits.

As far as peculation on the future was concerned, he didn't want to do too much talking at this time.

He said it would be inappropriate for him to speculate while the Geneva conference is in session.

LAYS CORNERSTONE

HAMILTON (CP)—Works Minister Winters laid the cornerstone of the $2,750,000 federal building at the northeast corner of Cardine and Main streets yesterday.

SUBSIDIES NEEDED

TORONTO (CP)—At least five metropolitan road projects will be shelved this year unless the province agrees to pay subsidies on more than $8,000,000 worth of road work, the metropolitan roads committee said Wednesday. Among the developments to be set aside is the lakeshore expressway, to cost more than $50,000,000.

Clouds Prevent French Planes Raiding Rebels

HANOI (Reuters)—Thick clouds today stopped French planes from flying over the rebel-encircled Indo-China fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

A lull continued in the ground fighting there, except for shelling from the guns of the 4,000 Vietminh rebels surrounding the fortress.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the growing rebel menace throughout the Red river delta has pinned all 10 American members of the United States technical aid mission to Hanoi.

The technical experts, who three months ago were roaming freely through the delta helping to improve crops and fight disease, can no longer travel safely even along the main roads.

REBELS MINE ROADS

The Vietminh now mine the roads and frequently ambush cars and trucks in day or night. Viet Namese native teams still try to visit outlying towns.

On Monday the rebels ambushed an American aid station wagon marked with red crosses northwest of Hanoi. Witnesses said the Viet Namese driver was killed outright.

Two Viet Namese nurses in the station wagon were rescued by an armored car. The attack took place 200 yards from a guard post manned by foreign legionaires.

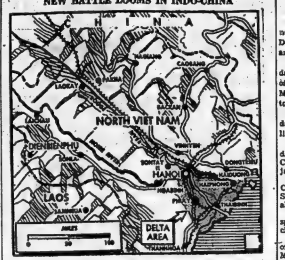
After-Care Of Spring Bulbs

Tulips, daffodils and the host of other smaller spring-flowering bulbs such as scillas, snowdrops, Star of Bethlehem and crocus are among the best-loved of garden plants, and unless the garden contains some early flowering shrubs, spring bulbs provide the first show of color after the snow goes. For two or three weeks their beauty and color compensates for the long wait since the bulbs were planted several months before.

When their bloom is finished the bulbs should be given every chance to prepare themselves for another spring show the following year, says D. F. Cameron, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. This the bulbs do by storing up food which is manufactured by the foliage. If the foliage is removed immediately after the bloom is finished, this supply of food is reduced and the bulb may not bloom or may fail to grow the next year.

For this reason the foliage should be allowed to ripen naturally. This usually takes about a month or six weeks, when the foliage turns yellow and can then be removed without doing any harm to the bulbs.

If the bulbs are growing in a bed which is to be used for annual flowers, the small annual plants may be set out between the bulbs. If preferred, the bulbs may be removed as soon as they have finished flowering, and be "heeled in" in a shallow trench out of the way until their foliage turns yellow. With tulips and daffodils, the seed pods should be removed as the seed ripening delays the maturing of the foliage and also weakens the bulbs. With the small-er bulbous plants, like scillas and chionodoxas, the seed pods may be allowed to ripen and the resulting seedlings will gradually increase the size of the clump.



When "heeling in" bulbs of tulips and daffodils, as much soil as will adhere to the bulbs should be lifted along with the bulbs to prevent injury to the root system. The bulbs should immediately be set close together in a shallow trench three or four inches wide and deep and be covered with an inch or two of soil to prevent them from drying out.

When the leaves have turned yellow they will come away easily from the bulbs which can then be lifted, dried in the shade, cleaned and stored in shallow boxes in a dry warm place until late September or early October, when they should be planted out in the garden.

NEW BATTLE LOOMS IN INDO-CHINA

The Communist rebels of Indo-China are reportedly gathering their forces in the river delta around Hanoi (shaded) for a battle more critical than that now being waged at the Dien Bien Phu fortress. The delta is rich in rice and strategic Hanoi, Indo-China's war capital, is a city of 230,000. Nearly 100,000 Viet Minh Reds are said to be in the area, with clashes occurring daily. Observers believe the Indo-China war could easily be lost if the delta were taken. (Central Press Canadian).

Little Benny's Note Book

This was pop's bowling nite, and I kept waiting for ma to send me to bed and hoping she wouldn't notice the clock was after 9, and she kept on sitting pop's second sock and I thought, Oh boy, if I can only keep her intrested, maybe she'll forget all about the clock.

And I said, Ray ma, tell me all about when you were my age. Can you remember that far, ma? I said, and she said, Yes indeed, I had the cutest little 4 poster bed, and I was never as happy as when the time came each nite for me to go to my little room and sleep in it. Say, when I think of my little 4 poster bed that I was so glad to get into, ma said.

Being a bum start, and I quick went and got my question book from the bookcase, saying, See how many of these you can anser, ma, it's called a Thousand and One Interisting Facts.

I used to lie in my little 4 porter bed and think of all kinds of facts, till the next thing I knew I'd be asleep, ma said, and I said, Well see if you know any of the answers, ma, these are intristing. How many elements is air composed of? I said.

The most most important element is to have plenty of it in your room while you are sleeping at nite, especially at your age and size, ma said. And by the way, speeking of intristing questions, have you any idea what time it is? she said.

Aw heck, ma, I bet you knew it was time for me to go to bed all the time, I said, and ma said, All what time?

Aw, you know, I said.

Which she did, and proving your mother is generally smarter than you think she is.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WHAT, NO GUNS!

Belleville will see senior baseball this season after a lapse of a year, but the club will pay through the nose for privileges. And so will the Peterborough Petes.

In a dual "hog-town" role the Oshawa and Toronto clubs demanded travelling expenses to Belleville and Peterborough with no reciprocal attitude on their part.

The Toronto club asked for $50 travelling expenses, when out of a blue sky the Oshawa delegation, through its spokesman, Ab. Walker, sided and abetted by one George Campbell asked that their club be paid $25 similar expenses by Belleville and the Petes.

It was simply a case of "Cough up or get out," with the rest of the league fully aware that Belleville and Peterborough would have to play in their loop, or not at all.

The request of the Toronto clubs for travelling expenses was to be expected, but the Oshawa hold-up, and that is exactly what it is, came as a stunning surprise to the Belleville and Peterborough delegates.

What is more surprising is that it was suggested by Ab. Walker, of Oshawa, a member of the Ontario Baseball executive, a body supposed to operate for the betterment and furtherance of baseball in the province.

Yesterday, both Belleville and Peterborough decided to throw in their lot with the Viaduct League, which now can be dubbed the "Flatfoot League", simply because, as was mentioned before, they have no other loop in which to play.

The Toronto clubs should do right well with the financial arrangement. They will travel to Peterborough and pick up the travelling maxuma, then on to Belleville for a night game and another "donation."

Geo Perdue, Peterborough sports editor, commenting on the Dick Turpin attitude, said: "It is the same old racket the Toronto teams pulled on us in the past, but we're surprised that an OBA member like Ab Walker, who hails from Oshawa, would insist on the Petes and Belleville paying the Transporters to play in Belleville and Peterborough. We can't figure out why Toronto and Oshawa should be hogging all the Petes always proved a good drawing card in those centres."

Curly Alberico, of the Peterborough club, added: "They have us over a barrel. They said they could get along without us and were only letting us in to accommodate the Peterborough club."

The Belleville and Peterborough decisions to enter were announced late yesterday after the clubs had discussed the financial problem with executives and in Belleville's case, it's sponsor.

Manager Jack Carson in releasing the statement said: "It was the only thing we could do if we want to give Belleville senior baseball this summer. They not only had us over a barrel but in, out, and all around it!"

However, the die is cast, and now to concentrate on a team. Manager Carson will likely call practices within the next day or so, depending on the weather and all players are invited to attend the workouts.

Peter officials were particularly wrathy at the unexpected Oshawa demand—backed up by an Oshawa OBA man—and fell it was going "after a pound of flesh" just because Oshawa already was in a league and knew Petes and Belleville had no place to play. They recalled that as other Oshawa team had ever asked for travelling expenses and they felt that Ab Walker (of the OBA) was doing nothing to encourage senior baseball by his attitude.

Since the above was written it has been learned that Vern Goyer has been named coach of the Belleville squad. Goyer took over the coaching reins of the club two years ago after Ralph "Lefty" McCabe was given his release. Goyer showed fill the bill to a nicety since he knows the game and the players, and did a highly satisfactory job in leading the Belleville team during the brief term he was at the helm in the Kingston-Peterborough loop.

Incidentally the team will be known as the "Belleville Bstas" since the Bata Shoe Company is sponsoring the club.

There is a strong possibility that the opening game will be played here on May 24th with a Toronto team playing here in the afternoon and going through to Peterborough on the "greyy train" for a night engagement. A meeting for schedule purposes is said to be slated for next Monday night.

In the meantime Coach Goyer and Manager Carson are getting players rounded up. There will be a practice at the Fair Grounds over the "week-end" starting at two p.m., and all players are asked to turn out.

TOUGH GUY!

Of all the piscatorial pugilists, the small-mouth black bass has the ugliest mug that ever scared away an eggbungry minnow. We saw the "fightinest fish" in a colorful close-up in the Carling Conservation Club's newest release "The Small-Mouth Black Bass" at the Flah and Game get-together last night. The picture, in color, is by far one of the best "Ketch" Ketcheson, the Carling roving columnist, has produced, and is well worth viewing by all and sundry fisherfolk.

It shows the life of a small-mouth from the rough but effective courtship of the plug-ugly "old man" until the young fellas fill away on their own. The "poppa" may have a point in that when the kids reach a certain age he chases the old gal out of the house and takes over the nursemaid duties until the young 'uns are ready to shift for themselves. True, he is a rather fer a thing about this time and that's where angler sportsmanship comes in.

"Ketch" also showed a fine film on the "Ring-Neck Pheasant" among others. He gave a fine address touching on the new hybrid, the "Wendigo" trout and others in the breeding. He urged the formation of a National Sportsmen's Association, claiming it would do away with the differences and difficulties that exist at present among the various provincial organizations.

Base-Pilfering Is Big Factor In Redbirds' Sudden Upsurge; Cincy Holds Lead With Win

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis Cardinals are stealing their way back into the National League pennant picture.

Running bases with an abandon no Redbird team has shown since the last St. Louis flag winner in 1946, manager Eddie Stanky's club has moved to within a game of the top.

In 13 games the Cards have stolen 12 bases. They need only half a dozen more to equal their total for the entire 1953 season, but Stanky claims there is no radical difference between the base running tactics of the 1954 outfit and last year's club. "We're just trying a few things and they're working," he said.

A steal worked directly in the result of Wednesday's game when the Cards edged Brooklyn 6-5 in 10 innings. Rookie baby Dick Schofield, running for Ray Jablonski who had walked with two out, stole second on pitcher Jim Hughes and rode home on Steve Bilko's single. Twelve hits off the Cards collected two singles and a double, driving in five runs as he raised his average to .326.

The defeat, Brooklyn's second in a row in St. Louis, dimped the Dodgers into a third-place tie. They went west Monday in first place, Cincinnati Redlegs, who replaced the Dodgers at the top Tuesday, stayed there with Wednesday's 8-4 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates. New York Giants moved into a tie with Brooklyn by topping Milwaukee 9-1.

Rain and bad weather caused the other five scheduled major league games to be postponed.

Spectacular relief pitching by little Jackie Collum preserved the Cincinnati victory after the Reds rallied for five runs in the third inning to gain a 7-4 lead. Collum stopped the Pirates on one hit through the last 4 1-3 innings after they had battered starter Fred Baczewski for nine.

Ruben Gomez pitched six shutout innings and drove in the first New York run at Milwaukee before leaving the game with a wrenched back after running the bases in the seventh.

Elmira Wins Intermediate A Hockey Crown

ELMIRA (CP) — Elmira Polar Kings won the all-Ontario intermediate A hockey championship Wednesday night by trouncing Aylmer Trojans 12-3. They won the best-of-seven series 4-1.

Butch Martin led Polar Kings with four goals. Stan Stoddard and Harvey Vines each scored twice. Singles went to George Blake, Ab Martin and Ted Lacey. Rafuse and Pearson scored for the Trojans.

The Trojans were never in this game. They rallied 4-3 at the end of the first period and 10-0 at the end of the second.

Don Marshall Top Rookie In American League

NEW YORK (CAP) — Don Marshall of Buffalo Bisons, the highest-scoring first-year player in American Hockey League history, Wednesday was named as the league's outstanding rookie of the 1953-54 season by a unanimous vote of sports writers and broadcasters.

Marshall received the first-place votes of all six league cities for a maximum of 30 points. Larry Cahan, rugged defenceman with Pittsburgh Hornets, placed second with 10 points and Pete Wright, Buffalo goalie, third with five points. Scoring was on a 5-3-1 basis with one ballot from each city.

Marshall, 22-year-old native of Montreal, will receive the Dudley (Red) Garrett Memorial Trophy and a $300 bonus.

'Hurricane' Gets 30-Day 'Rest'

NEW YORK (AP) — Hurricane Tommy Jackson Wednesday was given 30 days to reflect on his newly made decision that mother and the New York state athletic commission know best.

The commission called Tommy Jofor a talk about his behavior after he was defeated by Jimmy Slade Monday night in an upset that cost him any immediate chance of gunning for Rocky Marciano's heavyweight boxing crown.

The 20-year-old Hurricane was quoted in post-fight statements as saying he expected to lose and that his manager had bothered him by trying to restrict his social life.

The commission also was displeased when it learned Tommy had gone into the fight with a swelling on his right forearm without bothering to tell anyone about it.

The fighter apologized to the commission and to his mother, who was present, saying he was wrong in making his statements and blaming them on the disappointment of defeat. Commission chairman Bob Christenberry then imposed the 30-day suspension.

Hockey-Mad Sudbury People Sure Wolves Will Win Cup

SUDBURY (CP) — The hockey-mad city of Sudbury makes its second bid in history for the Allan Cup and Canadian senior hockey supremacy next week against Penticton Vees.

Sudbury Frood Tigers captured the coveted trophy back in 1937 and since that there have been a lull here in both competition and interest.

This season coach Maxie Silverman and his Wolves nosed out the strong Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds for the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's southern group's league championship, then got by Iroquois Falls Eskimos, Owen Sound Mercurys and Matane Que., Red Rocks in a series of battles to the eastern Canada title. They leave for the West and the Allan Cup final today.

STRONG IN GOAL

Strong in goaltending and forward strength and average on defence, the Wolves are confident they can win. Outstanding are Hub Beaudry, who fractured an ankle in the Matane series, but the team is ship shape, well rested and ready for the big series.

For coach Silverman it will be his second bid for a national triumph. He managed Sudbury Cub Wolves to a Memorial Cup championship in 1948, beating out Weyburn Monarchs. Three years later he took Copper Cliff Redmen to the Memorial Cup finals but was defeated by Winnipeg.

He also has a 5-1 record in world amateur championship tries. In 1938 the Wolves won the world title at Prague, Czechoslavkia, but 11 years later Silverman's Caughlys lost to same Czechs.

BRILLIANT GOALIE

The Wolves will be pinning much of their hopes this time on the goaltending of Al Miller, who has been turning in brilliant performances ever since the team hit the playoffs. In case of injuries the team has capable Lorne Anderson for a replacement.

On defence the Wolves have four ex-professionals in Orval Lavell, Lloyd Kraiger, Fiori Gongan and Johnny Baby and two more specialists in Jackie Speck and Billy Barrett.

The top forward line is the trio of Gord Heale, Nick Tomluk and Andy Milne. Heale returned to the line-up in the series against Owen Sound after a layoff of nearly three months due to an enlarged heart. Tomluk, the team's top scorer, has been considerable service in the American Hockey League and the old Pacific Coast League.

The team's passers and playmakers extraordinary, however, are Yanker Flynn, Maimo Kangas and Tatter McClellan. This trio has played together since their midget days in nearby Copper Cliff and were with Atlantic City Sea Gulls before joining the Wolves last year.

RESERVE STRENGTH

Three ex-pros make up the third string. They are Ed Harrison, former Boston Bruins winger; Pete Horeck, who retired from Chicago Black Hawks two years ago, and George Defelice, who was an Eddie Shore citadel in the AHL before coming to Sudbury.

Frank King with Charlottetown in the Maritime Major League last winter, alternates with Defelice as pivot for the Bills.

Beaudry, who will make the trip on crutches, will be for Christmas town last winter and was considered to be the best penalty killer in northern Ontario until his recent injury.

The Wolves pull out for the West by plane Thursday and hope to get in some practice before the final opens on Monday.

Ice at the Sudbury arena was taken out Tuesday so the team is leaving two days ahead of schedule.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Central zone of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association will hold its annual spring conference here May 2.

VERN GOYER has been named playing coach of the Bellewille Juvenile "C" club. Manager Jack Carson announced yesterday.

Sport in Brief

MONTREAL (CP)—Henry Martell, Canadian Professional Golfers Association champion from Edmonton, has been named captain of the seven-man Canadian team which will meet top American pros in the third annual Hopkins Trophy matches, it was announced Wednesday.

This year's matches will be played at the Mississauga Club near Toronto, June 10-12.

The announcement was made jointly by the CPGA and the International Golf Association, which sponsors the tournament. The full make-up of the team will be announced in Toronto on Tuesday.

Gordon J. Stringer, IGA vice-president and the CPGA has decided that in future its champion will automatically be named to the team and appointed captain. Martell won the CPGA title last year at Royal Quebec.

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Stanley Dancer, three-time driving champion of Yonkers Raceway, was suspended for three days Wednesday for an "indifferent drive" of First Dream in Tuesday night's fourth race.

It was the first suspension for the 36-year-old harness racing driver from New Egypt, N.J., since he started in 1947. He won the Yonkers championship in 1950, 1951 and 1952.

SYDNEY (AP)—John Landy, Australia's champion miler, left Australia by plane Wednesday night for Finland, where he will try for the four-minute mile.

Landy expects to be overseas for about 18 weeks. Later he will represent Australia at the Empire Games in Vancouver, B.C.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hurricane Tommy Johnson dropped to fifth place Wednesday in the latest Ring Magazine heavyweight rating while Sammy Slade, his conquerer, became No. 4 challenger for Rocky Marciano's title.

The Jackson upset here Monday shuffled the ratings in both the heavy and light-heavy classes for Slade had been No. 3 in the 175-pound class. As the New York State heavyweight titleholder, he was moved to the bigger division.

Ezzard Charles, the former heavyweight champion from Cincinnati who fights Marciano for the title June 17, remains the leading contender. Cuba's Nino Valdes is rated No. 2.

Large Crowd To Greet Leafs In Today's Opener

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The International Baseball League goes into its third country today as the northern teams—three from Canada plus Rochester, N.Y.—open home stands.

The loop opened last week with games in Havana, Cuba, and Richmond, Va., and the southernmost hosts. However, Buffalo and Syracuse, in northern New York state, were grouped with the "southern" teams for scheduling reasons.

Toronto Maple Leafs, Montreal Royals and Ottawa Athletics are the Canadian teams greeting their fans today for the first time this season. The attendance goal, counting Rochester, is to beat the opening-day record of 60,000-odd fans which sent the league off to its best start in six years.

The Cuban Sugar Kings, who finished fourth last year in the league for the first time, drew 25,000 fans to their park in Havana against the Leafs. Richmond had an opening-day crowd of 12,000.

Bonus Baby Is Back from Battle, May Help Yanks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bobby Brown, a one-time $35,000 bonus baby who used his New York Yankee pay to put himself through medical school, is back home after a two-year hitch in Korean duty as an army doctor and determined to devote full time to his first love—medicine.

But he hopes to put in two months at his old job as a Yankee third-baseman before he quits baseball.

"If the Yankees want me until July 1 I am ready," said 29-year-old Bobby.

"But let me make something plain. This is merely for two months. On July 1, my residency begins in the San Francisco County Hospital."

No Protest Over Junior 'Delay' Says George

KEMPTVILLE (CP) — W. B. George, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Wednesday night he has received no official protest over the delay in completing the eastern Canada Memorial Cup final.

He had received word from J. Harper Parry of Lethbridge, Alta., president-manager of the Western Junior Hockey League "regretting" the delay, but little could be done about it.

George said "we are scheduling the games as soon as we can get them scheduled," but risks in setting the games must be played have previous commitments. The eastern series could be played only when the rinks concerned are available.

The two eastern champions were to have been declared by April 27. St. Catharines currently is tied 1-1 with Quebec City in the best-of-seven eastern final. Edmonton Oil Kings, Western finalists, meanwhile are marking time.

Penticton, West. Canada Champions Meet Sudbury Wolves for Allan Cup

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Penticton V's rode into the Allan Cup finals Wednesday night by defeating Winnipeg Maroons 3-2 in the eighth game of a best-of-seven western Canada final.

V's will open the finals at home May 3 against Sudbury Wolves, eastern champions.

Penticton won three games to Maroons' two. Three games were tied.

V's exploded for three goals in the second period and two more in the third after Maroons had taken a 2-0 lead on a first period goal by defencemen Ward Bradlow and another tally early in the second by Cord Simpson.

Second period marksmen for V's were Jim Fairburn, George McAvoy, and playing coach Grant Warwick. McAvoy counted his second at 12:12 of the third and Jack McDonald closed out the scoring four minutes later.

Victory gave Penticton their second western Canada senior title and the Patton Trophy is as many years. They lost out in the Allan Cup finals last year to Fort William.

V's won the Okanagan Senior League in a walk and then downed Nelson Maple Leafs in a bitter, eight-game feud before meeting Winnipeg.

Stamps Rally To Edge Canucks And Even Series

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders, trailing 3-0 early in the second period, rallied to score a 4-3 victory over Vancouver Canucks last Wednesday night and square their Western Hockey League final at two games apiece.

Centre Ray Barry, on a breakaway play, fired the winner past sub netminder Lucien Deschene with just over three minutes to play to give Stampeders the victory and cap the brilliant comeback.

The game was marred by an injury to Canucks' regular netminder, Lorne (Gump) Worsley. The talented custodian was taken from the game early in the third period when he suffered what was thought to be an injured vertebrae in his back after a mix-up with Stampeder defenceman Gus Kyle. Worsley was taken to hospital for further examination.

George Fargo, Sid Finney and Archie Scott got the other Stampeder goals, Bill Wylie, Billy Dea and Cy Denis fired the Vancouver markers.

Quebec Aces Oust Ottawa Senators After Sensational Uphill Struggle

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec Aces have captured the Quebec Hockey League championship and will be the first eastern Canada representative to compete against the Western Hockey League winner for the new Duke of Edinburgh Trophy.

Backed by the stellar net-minding of goalie Jack Gelineau, the Aces shut out Ottawa Senators 2-0 Wednesday night in the deciding game of their best-of-nine finals to capture the Thomas O'Connell Memorial Trophy.

The Aces whooped it up in the dressing room following the game and sipped champagne as they prepared for their trip home to Quebec before leaving for the West. There they will meet either Vancouver Canucks or Calgary Stampeders in the east-west final. The best-of-seven WHL series is currently tied at two games each.

GRUELLING SERIES

The Quebec win called a halt to the gruelling series in which the two teams travelled back and forth between Ottawa and Quebec to play nine games in 11 days.

The Aces won the series 5-4 in games. They upset all predictions with victories in the last three starts—two of them via the shut-out route—to turn the tables on the Senators, who once held a comfortable 4-2 edge in the series.

Gelineau was the hero of the two winners, chalking up his second shutout in as many nights to bring to three the number of times the Aces humbled the Senators in this series.

Gerry Cabana scored for Aces in the second period and the other marksman was Ray Powell, who rammed home the clincher in the eight in the second minute of the third period.

Ken Soble Puts Tigers, Cubs On Sale Block

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tigers and Hamilton Cubs were put on the block Wednesday by owner Ken Soble.

The asking price is "approximately" $5,000 for each.

If no one offers to buy, there will be no hockey in Hamilton next season because Soble feels "it is neither wise nor desirable that I personally continue to operate hockey clubs."

He estimated his total losses in hockey during the 1953-54 season at $45,000 — $22,000 by the junior Cubs, $23,000 by the senior Tigers.

Figures indicate that over 80,000 fans paid just over $45,000 to watch the two teams play hockey this season.

"That's a lot of money and maybe a record for gate receipts and attendance for Hamilton hockey," Soble said.

"My chief reason for getting out of hockey isn't financial; my other interests and my general lack of hockey know-how" make such a move advisable."

A couple of offers have been made for the senior franchise.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Let nobody persuade you that the intricate bidding of masters is better for you than simple rules. Even the masters make more mistakes with their methods than they would with simpler ones.

You heard me tell that most masters in the nationals reached the wrong contract in this deal:

NORTH
♠ A Q 10 9 8
♥ K 3
♦ 7 5 4
♣ A Q 7

WEST
♠ K 4 3 2
♥ Q 6 5
♦ K 9 8 3 2
♣ 10

EAST
♥ A 4 2
♦ Q J
♣ K 9 8 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠ J 7
♥ J 10 8 7 5
♦ A 10 6
♣ 6 4 2

With north as dealer and only east-west vulnerable, how should it be bid? Nothing extraordinary about the cards in any hand. Why should masters find the bidding difficult?

Surely north, would never think of doing anything but starting with an opening bid of one spade. If he opens with a no-trump or a club there must be a lot of loose ends in his mind.

The count is east is five tricks; enough for a defence simple overcall of one. To bid clubs he would have to say two, a promise of six tricks. He is short one of a true bid. He should pass.

Whether east bids there or not, south should pass. An immediate bid in response to an opening of one promises two highs among more than two tricks. South is a high card short of a true bid reply.

If east and south pass, west does not have a simple overcall in diamonds. He lacks a sixth trick that would show in two diamonds; nor does his hand contain a sure trick it would also promise.

That's a simple set of rules would guide the players away from disturbing the one spade opening by north. And the contract would end at one spade, which is sound and a satisfactory spot.

If either of the others bid, north has the stuff for a second bid; rebiddable suit, extra high card, extra trick. Of course, master players must throw some interferences into the picture.

So, how wrong or how right are they? It is a subject worth a few more words. They may be well spent.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Your planet Mars in best aspect of all planets now. This augurs well for backing good principles to the fullest. Military, government men honored; also your affairs.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Wise precautions advised in all undertakings. Do not make hasty decisions, but go forward with routine tasks; be gay.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may not find everything to your liking now but you can make things much more pleasant by being amenable to suggestions and not forcing your way. Gentle persuasion more effective.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Finish incompleted matters, clear desk, bench so as to have a smooth-er road next week. Don't become irritated easily or fret over trivia. Life is worth living and good folks like you make it so.

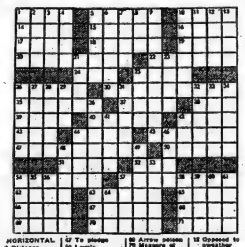
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — "A little with contentment" is helpful slogan—especially today. A day doesn't need to be a whirlwind of activity or produce showy gains to be truly successful. Steady, quiet advancement pays.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Even if you cannot produce brilliantly in everything today, go ahead confidently and finish all you can; prepare for restful week-end.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Heed advice to Leo, Virgo now. You will achieve more if you don't rush and fret and further exhaust yourself. Familiar matters, tasks for which you are trained should move gainfully.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Self-restraint, consideration of others and kindliness will be your best weapons and aids this not-so-easy or generous day. We advance quicker, gain willing cooperation when gracious.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Extra care urged in finances, investments, important business and personal matters. But do not fear to try reasonable ideas, methods, even odd projects that have value, promise.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Some restrictions likely but they need not deter achievement. They can serve to keep you from making needless errors, promises you may not be able to keep. Be careful in general advice.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Choose the straight-est, surest road now and you will avoid some obstacles that could hamper future gains. This does not mean to use extraordinary tasks if urgent. Keep a steady pace.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Mildly favorable, especially in familiar matters, activities for which you have special interest and liking, but you may have to hustle to get going. Don't worry but do try.

Remember, too, that humility must attend all activities else the faults of arrogance and egotism grow, spoiling the joy achievement and happiness that can be yours. If you so desire and strive for it you can attain and hold a high position of trust and dignity. Seek God's guidance and aid in all you do—you will never regret it. Five Charges Laid Against Brutal Mother

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five criminal charges against the pregnant mother of seven children were filed Monday as the result of an aggravated child-beating case. Complaints charging mayhem, assault with a deadly weapon and three counts of "assault likely to produce great bodily injury" were filed against the mother, Mrs. Thelma Vera, 34. Unable to post $5,000 bail, she was held pending a hearing May 6.

Authorities said Celia Sanchez, 9, Mrs. Vera's daughter by a previous marriage, was the victim of one of the most brutal instances of child-beating in years. The child was blinded in one eye, for which mayhem is charged; both her arms were broken by being twisted, her nose was broken and her body was covered with welts and bruises with a rubber hose, inflicted repeatedly over a period of weeks, police and sheriffs deputies reported.

Police said many letters have been received from physicians who offered to treat the child, but that her blind eye is beyond restoration.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — School opened on Monday after the Easter holiday vacation. The scholars welcomed Mr. Hayward Wannamaker following his recent illness. Due to this fact the senior room had no regular holiday that day.

Guy Thompson and Ronald Adams spent a holiday last week at a tourist conducted tour to New York, U.S.A. They reported a most delightful holiday, especially taking in the interesting sights of that great city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Juby, of Stirling, visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. Yateman on Sunday afternoon. They also visited briefly with Mrs. C. Reid.

Friends of Mr. Don Clifford were sorry to learn he was about to undergo surgery and remain a hospital patient for a week.

Mrs. D. Richardson, Errol and Shirley returned home to Robertsville on Saturday afternoon, having spent part of the holiday at Stirling and Wannaburg.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson and Nancy, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Defoe, of Stirling, were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. W. Yateman.

Miss Sharon Vance spent part of her Easter holiday with her grandmother, at Flinton.

Mr. C. Mouck, who has been convalescing since his recent stay in hospital, was able to return to work last week.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. Elisha Post, of West Hill, Toronto, is visiting his brother, Ed Post, and Mrs. Post.

Mrs. Roy Jackson returned home on Saturday from Bloodrice Surgery, Toronto, where he recently underwent an operation.

Master Robert Shaw spent last week with relatives in Campbellford.

The postponed monthly meeting of Marmora Home and School Association is being held in the Public School, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Treichler and daughter, Bonnie Jean, of Sanborn, N.Y.; Mr. William Clooney, of Madoc, and Mrs. Ethel Herton, of Toronto, were week-end guests of Mrs. E. Horton.

Mrs. J. W. Hickey, James and Phyllis, are visiting at Mrs. Hickey's, Mr. Thomas Lewis, (nee Isobel Hickey), in Detroit, for a few days.

Grand 5, 6, 7 and 8 of Marmora Public School were taken over a tour of the Coca Cola plant in Belleville, on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jones and son, Ernest and Mr. and Mrs. Orville McGarvey spent Sunday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Paquet have left on a trip to Europe.

Writer's Defence In Libel Suit Is Struck Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ottawa writer Blair Fraser's defence in a libel suit brought by Gordon D. Wismer was struck out Tuesday by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane because the writer refused to obey a court order.

Unless the decision is appealed, Mr. Wismer now may enter an interlocutory judgment against Mr. Fraser and apply for assessment of damages against him.

The suit for libel damages against McClean-Hunter Publishing Company, would remain to be tried by judge and jury.

A court order, made last August by Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker, required Mr. Fraser to disclose the sources of information on which he based a 1952 article in Maclean's magazine titled "B.C. Coalition Commits Suicide."

A majority of the Court of Appeal upheld the order and the Supreme Court of Canada refused leave to appeal to that tribunal.

ORDER UPHELD

Pre-trial examination of Mr. Fraser was resumed in Toronto early this month by Senator J. W. de B. Farris, counsel with T. G. Norris, for Mr. Wismer, attorney-general in the 1952 coalition government in British Columbia.

Senator Farris, in the hearing before Mr. Justice Whittaker Tuesday, quoked Mr. Fraser as saying in the Toronto examination:

"I feel I am under a moral obligation to my sources of information not to disclose them; the information was confidential.

He also quoted Mr. Fraser as saying that he wrote nothing in his article that reflected on the honesty of Mr. Wismer.

D. N. Hossie, counsel for Mr. Fraser, said "the punishment they seek is out of all proportion to the crime, if it is one, to refuse to give this information."

He said that Mr. Justice Whittaker should not penalize the writer by striking out his whole defence because he would not answer three questions which he claimed involve the freedom of the press.

"His contempt of a court order was 100 per cent, nevertheless," Senator Farris said.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane granted the application to have the defence struck out, saying if Mr. Fraser chose to disobey an order of the court he must abide by the consequences.

Army Vehicles Being Driven Without Plates

VEGREVILLE, Alta. (CP)—A four-car convoy carrying Defence Minister Claxton and Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, general officer commanding western command, from Edmonton to Vegreville, Alta., was stopped Wednesday by two RCMP constables because two of the cars did not carry 1954 license plates.

Constables H. Malouin and H. Jensen halted the cars about 15 miles southeast of Edmonton. Vegreville is about 35 miles southeast of Edmonton.

The two cars without plates were army vehicles. Mr. Claxton and Gen. Vokes were riding in one of them.

Gen. Vokes got out of the car and asked the constables to "please make a report" on the matter.

As he turned to get back into the car, Const. Malouin said "just a moment." holding up a finger. He asked Gen. Vokes why the cars were without 1954 plates. Gen. Vokes replied the cars had not come from army ordnance.

"HOW DO YOU SPELL IT?"

Gen. Vokes turned once more to get into the car and again Malouin held up a finger and said "Just a moment. What's your name?"

The general replied: "Vokes. General Vokes."

"How do you spell it?" asked the constable.

The general spelled the name for him and then got into the back seat of the car with Mr. Claxton, who took no part in the conversation.

Const. Malouin said it was the first time he had ever stopped a cabinet minister and a general.

A free-lance television cameraman riding with the convoy took films of the exchange.

Drivers of the four cars said the army provost marshal was to have notified RCMP and other police officers that two of the cars in the convoy would not be carrying 1954 plates. The deadline for obtaining plates in Alberta was April 10.

LOANS INCREASE

HAMILTON (CP)—Housing loans have been increasing since Parliament recently authorized the chartered banks to lend mortgage money, Works Minister Winters said Wednesday night.

IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE

QUEBEC (CP)—The immigrant ship Groote Beer arrived here Wednesday night from Rotterdam with about 700 European immigrants aboard.

Provinces Will Control All Highway Traffic

OTTAWA (CP)—A formula for giving the provinces control of all highway traffic was worked out Wednesday at the federal-provincial highway conference.

It involves an unusual federal-to-provinces switch of jurisdiction over road transport crossing interprovincial and international boundaries. The federal government now owns—but does not exercise —this control.

Under the legislation, Parliament would give the provincial highways boards the control of cross-border traffic that is vested in the central government under the British North America Act. For this purpose, the boards would be designated as federal agencies.

However, informants said, the provincial control of border-crossing traffic would be administered under the laws of the various provinces.

Preference Clause For Veterans Under Fire

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control Wednesday recommended that the veterans' preference clause be abolished from city hiring regulations.

The move brought immediate criticism and charges of "ingratitude" from Canadian Legion officials. . . .

The clause, in effect since the First World War, gives the edge to veterans over civilians with similar qualifications.

Mrs. Patrick Biggs of the Legion said "perhaps the board has forgotten that thousands of men from the Greater Toronto area gave their lives in the two world wars."

He said "the matter will be threshed out" at a May 16 meeting. "I hope they stand along a controller to address us. He'll get his ears pinned back."

Controller David Balfour said the clause "is no longer necessary—we have to give young fellows in their early 20s a chance."

A veterans' preference clause should be in effect for only six months after the end of a war, said controller Leslie Saunders.

Ontario Will Not Participate In Defence Aid

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Secretary Arthur Welsh said Wednesday night Ontario does not intend at this time to join or participate in any new federal system to finance civil defence work in municipalities.

He said there has been no general agreement on a new system whereby the federal government would give direct assistance to municipalities.

Health Minister Martin said in the Commons Wednesday that he will announce later the terms of a federal-provincial agreement on financing civil defence in Canada. He said general agreement on a new financial formula was reached at a recent federal-provincial conference.

Col. Welsh commented:

"Ontario and Quebec definitely did not agree to the proposal. We told the federal officials we were not interested in the scheme. We do not intend to saddle our municipalities with all kinds of new expenditures."

He added that Ontario will not enter into any such financial scheme until the province has completed its project of converting fire hose connections. The project, to be finished sometime this year, will cost more than $1,000,000.

Army Shortages At Ipperwash Being Probed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Shortages in equipment at Ipperwash army camp—involving a reported $15,000 were disclosed Wednesday when Brig. T. G. Gibson, western Ontario area army commander, said the losses have been reported to a nominal sum.

Most of the missing goods were personal items of clothing issued to the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, under a new system of bookkeeping, Brig. Gibson said. The battalion now is in Korea.

Meanwhile, town officials at Thedford, 15 miles north of here and near the big camp, said the RCMP has been investigating in the area. Unconfirmed reports from citizens said police took army boots off the feet of some civilians and army sheets from their beds.

Manager, Wife Of County Home Are Suspended

OWEN SOUND (CP)—The manager of the Grey county Home for the Aged and his wife have been suspended after five former maids allegedly made charges of wild parties and indecency at the home.

Mervyn Gould and his wife, Edith, matron at the home, received notice of their suspension Wednesday. Mr. Gould said it was a "frame-up."

The suspensions were announced by the home's board of management. John W. Cook, former board chairman, said the maids resigned in a body April 19 and made sworn statements charging:

. . . instances of habitual intoxication, public indecency, bribery, falsification of reports, improper use of morphine, neglect of duty, all-night parties and carousing, misplacement of institution equipment, lack of medical care and attempted criminal assault.

INVESTIGATION PENDING

The board of management said the suspensions are in force pending investigation by the Ontario welfare minister. Mr. Cook said the girls came to him after they left the staff.

"What they said convinced me the set-up was rotten," he added. "I advised the girls to present their charges to the crown attorney."

It was reported that a transcript of their statements, which Mr. Cook said were sworn out April 22 and 23, has been sent to the attorney-general's department in Toronto. The statements have not been released by the crown attorney.

Mrs. Gould, in her 50s, said he has been in charge of the 100-room institution in Markdale, about 25 miles southeast of here, since 1944.

"CAN'T LEAVE"

"Nobody has come out to take over from us," he said in an interview. "I can't leave these poor people.

"If we walk out, the rest of the staff will go, too. I'm not going to leave these old people. I'm sure it's a frame-up."

There are only one maid and three men now working at the 51-year-old, three-storey home. Two of the men are Mr. Gould's sons who work in the stable and tend part of the 200 acres of land surrounding the home. The other is an orderly.

Until the five maids quit, the staff of six girls and one orderly looked after the 90-odd residents.

An official on the management board said Wednesday night there is no overcrowding in the home. There are two wings on the old structure.

Prison Chaplain Says Reform Badly Needed

MONTREAL (CP) — A Quebec prison chaplain told Wednesday of instances he had witnessed where a young boy and a 17-year-old girl shared jail quarters with insane prisoners.

Rev. John Peacock, visiting chaplain at the district of Bedford jail, Sweetsburg, Que., mentioned the two cases in an address to the Anglican synod of Montreal diocese to stress "the vital need for prison reform."

Mr. Peacock said the boy, whom he did not identify, had been imprisoned for trying to set fire to a church.

"He remained for nine days in the same cell as an insane man and at the end of the time he was ready for psychiatric treatment."

The girl—also unnamed—shared quarters with a woman, "an hopelessly insane that she had to have a special attendant to care for her."

Mr. Peacock said the local jail attendants were not responsible for the situation. They were "kind and competent."

"The combination of the machinery of law and the circumstances of the neighborhood make it impossible for them to give the kind of treatment prisoners should have."

DECLINES COMMENT

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Martin declined to comment when asked in the Commons Wednesday by Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) whether he could report on the mystery of what is causing pock-marked automobile windshields across Canada and the U.S.

Russians Camera-Shy

Restrictions on use of cameras by foreigners have been eased by the Soviet Union, but most Russians don't know it and dislike being photographed. The three Moscow boys in this picture, seen by Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer just home from Russia, weren't sure they could trust the foreigner but said almost defiantly: "Sure, go ahead." The little girl didn't go along with the idea, subsequently burst into tears. — (CP Photo.)

Censorship and Strict Control Of Information Keep Safe Most of the Kremlin's Secrets

Editor's Note: The Kremlin decides what can be printed in the controlled Russian press, and censorship of what foreign correspondents write about the Soviet Union. After three months in that Communist country, Bill Boss of The Canadian Press now has returned to Canada. In this story, one of a series, he tells of handicaps in full reporting of what goes on behind the Iron Curtain.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Censorship and strict control of information keep safe most of the Kremlin's secrets.

Censorship applies only to stories sent from Moscow. Lack of detailed information affects even stories written outside the country.

Reporting about Russia can be honest and objective, it cannot be complete.

No Westerner will write the full Soviet story until the latest bandit in the Kremlin decide to tell 200,000,000 Russians. There is too tight a rein on facts about life under communism.

FIVE MONTHS IN RUSSIA

I was five months inside the Soviet Union. When I arrived I told the foreign office what I wanted to see and whom I wanted to interview. I prodded constantly.

Only a handful of the projects in my program were arranged. I looked at schools and hospitals but did not see a factory or a collective farm. I interviewed some Russians but not a cross-section of them.

The controlled Communist press which I can read, publishes the facts, buried in reams of propaganda. Nothing is printed without a purpose: to tell the Russian people something the party bosses in the Kremlin want them to know.

Reasons for further information usually are side-tracked:

"When there is an announcement, Mr. Boss, it will appear in the official press."

Big Sturgeon Caught

SAVANOQUE (CP) — A blue sturgeon weighing 160 pounds and measuring seven feet in length and three feet in girth went on display today. It was caught Thursday on a night line seven miles east of here, in 100 feet of water.

The fish, one of the largest caught in this district in recent years, was landed by Herbert and Arthur Cook, Canadoque district official fishermen.

The fish, a male, will not yield any roe or milt, but will bring about $1.15 a pound when sold commercially.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cold air from western Canada is edging eastward into northern Ontario but its advance towards southern Ontario is being held up by disturbances developing over Kansas. As this centre of low pressure moves eastward into Michigan, showers and thunderstorms will spread up the Mississippi valley into Ontario on Saturday.

FLOODS FEARED ALONG FRASER RIVER IN B.C.

Key Lies in Snow Covering Mountains

VANCOUVER (CP) — The slumbering Fraser river, which has twice risen to tear its economic heart from the banks flowing its banks, again looms as a threat this year.

And 200 miles east, the Columbia, also rolling south, lies as a silent menace as flood season approaches.

The key lies in the snow covering the mountains and muskeg. British Columbia—snow heavy with an unusually high water content.

One of the coolest west-coast April in history has limited the run-off which must come gradually to allow for normal drainage of the snow fields.

John Nelson, who has lived 47 years near Lake at Arrowhead, B.C., looked at a field flooded by the Columbia during "the big one" of 1948.

"It was flooded in '48," he said. "Now it looks like it will be flooded again this year."

MAY BE TROUBLE

Mayor E. G. Fletcher of the smaller city of Trail, B.C., said: "If it rains heavily for a short period or temperatures climb exceptionally high, there's going to be trouble. It's dry during the run-off period, with temperatures moderate in June, then suddenly shivers of excitement from watching the water rise, everything should be O.K."

Last week, when the old sternwheeler SS. Minto made her final trip down the Arrow lakes, her last home, she steamed through the shallowest water since 1948.

The story is much the same along the Fraser, which boiled over its banks and tore through dikes both in 1894 and 1948.

Village commissioners at Mission city have urged B.C. dike commissioner A. MacDonald to take all possible precautionary measures.

COMPLETE WORK SOON

Ballasting of 4,000 feet of river bank in Mission was almost complete, B.C., will be completed within a week with up to 1,500 cubic yards of rock being dumped daily by 21 trucks rolling on 12-hour shifts.

Under normal conditions, the Fraser would be rising and muddy with grey silt—but it isn't. It's rolling low and green and the snow line is high on the mountains.

Lands Minister Robert Sommers, visiting the area, said the provincial government is aware of the threat and all available steps will be at the city's command should the flooding occur—even to calling out the army which was employed in 1894 and 1948.

On the other side of the ledger is an $8,000,000 item, the amount poured into the Fraser delta system by the federal government to stave off any repetition of 1894 and 1948.

This year may answer the question: Was it enough?

12 Horses Die In Rail Accident

KITCHENER (CP) — Twelve horses were killed in a Canadian National Railways yards shunting accident Thursday, when two cars of horses were tipped at a 45 degree angle.

The crated animals trampled each other in a frenzied attempt to keep their feet. Some of the wounded had to be shot. A crane finally righted the tipped cars.

Escaped Killer Gets Mixed Up In Air Raid

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)—An Australian jail breaker decided this week that when the long arm of the law closes in with droves of fighter planes blazing away with machine-guns and flights of bombers showering high explosives, it's time to give up.

An aborigine killer, a fugitive from justice for two years, is now in jail here because he got mixed up in an air force exercise which he mistook for the greatest manhunt in the nation's history.

Jackie Bellaring, sentenced to 12 years in jail for a killing during a prison escape fight in 1951, thought the police were getting too tough when his hiding place in the remote wilds of northern Australia was attacked by the air force, using this apparently deserted stretch of country as a target.

Jackie ran and kept running until he reached the main northsouth road across Australia, and sent a message to the police to come and get him.

Damage Estimate More Than Million in RCAF Fire in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A giant RCAF hangar and seven planes it contained were destroyed in a spectacular, gasoline-fed fire at Sea Island here just before Thursday night. Damage is estimated at close to $2,000,000.

The 180-foot-square frame building was a total loss. No one was in the hangar when the fire broke out.

Cause of the fire is not known. An air force investigation was to begin today.

Wing Cmdr. D. C. S. McDonald said the damage would run to at least $2,000,000, but other air force officials set the figure at approximately $2,000,000.

Base firefighters had no chance to save the hangar as exploding oxygen tanks and gasoline in the aircraft sent the blaze roaring out of control. Two nearby hangars also were threatened for a time. NO JETS LOST

First reports said a number of jet aircraft were housed in the hangar. No. 19 plane but this was later denied by RCAF officials. None of the five $500,000 Vampire jets on the base was endangered, they said.

Fire crews from Vancouver fire department, eight miles away, helped RCAF crews.

Most of the aircraft destroyed belonged to No. 3 maintenance and rescue squadron. They included two Expediter Beechcrafts, one Lancaster bomber, two Dakotas and one helicopter. There were 2,000 gallons of gasoline in the Lancaster's tanks.

Three Canso, sitting in the hangar doorway when the fire got near the fire, broke out, were hauled to safety by airmen who rushed to the scene. Airmen also succeeded in rolling out 900 gallons of oil stored in barrels in the hangar. They tried to save the Lancaster bomber but one tail caught fire as they neared the door and the plane had to be abandoned.

Many airmen lost all their private equipment in the fire.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A newspaper photographer said today that RCAF police "manhandled" him and tried to seize his camera after he took pictures of the $2,000,000 RCAF hangar fire here Thursday night.

Photographer John McGinnis of the Vancouver News-Herald said the only reason he wasn't put in the guardhouse was that it "was locked and they apparently didn't have the key."

He said he "handled me more roughly than I've been handled by anyone during seven years of taking pictures."

McGinnis' charges were contained in a front-page story in today's News-Herald.

CIVIL AUTHORITY INTERFERENCE

Photographers from other newspapers were "furious" at being ordered RCAF police to keep the RCAF station while the fire was being photographed.

A CBC television camera truck was "waved straight through the gate," pictures were taken, McGinnis said.

McGinnis said he and two other News-Herald reporters climbed over a fence outside the station when the fire got near the fire.

McCarthy's Aide Does Not Know Who 'Cropped' Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Anastos, an aide of Senator Joseph McCarthy swore today he did not know who "cropped" the controversial photograph of Army Secretary Robert Stevens and Pfc. G. David Schine.

Called to the witness chair at Senate hearings on the row between McCarthy and army officials, Anastos said it was correct, as Schine had testified, that he received the picture from Schine.

Anastos said Schine gave him the picture at the Washington airport when Schine was immediately after Schine brought it from New York.

Anastos said he took the picture to room 101 in the Senate office building—one office of the McCarthy staff—and put it on the desk of Ruth Young, staff director for the investigations sub-committee.

He said the picture was wrapped and he did not see it.

THIRD MAN IN ORIGINAL

Schine, wealthy New Yorker and former consultant to the McCarthy sub-committee, testified Thursday that the picture, as he brought it from New York, showed him, Stevens and Roy Cohn, McCarthy counsel.

An enlargement turned over to the investigations committee by McCarthy's camp, showed only Schine and Stevens. Bradley had been cut out.

The army has denounced this as "tampering" and alleges the picture "shamefully doctored."

Schine came back to the witness chair today, but was excused for the time being.

The subcommittee said they had further questions they wanted to ask him about pictures and had decided whether he wanted to have it subpoenaed.

Schine had been called to the witness chair with the understanding he would be questioned only about the "cropped" picture. He is to be a guest witness later.

Schine testified Thursday that he was asked by Stevens to pose for the picture by Cohn. McGuire air force base last Nov. 17.

Cohn, however, contends Stevens asked Schine to pose with him as part of an effort to persuade the McCarthy sub-committee to drop its investigation of subversion in the army.

The army contends that the session at the White House arranged improper pressures for preferential army treatment for Schine.

SECRECY TALKS CHECK

Before today's session opened, Senator McCarthy said in an interview he has "persistent reports, tips and rumors" that the army is attempting to "get" all persons involved in the controversy.

He declined to say if Mr. Cohn, chief counsel to his sub-committee, the Senator said he wants the current hearings to determine whether these rumors are true. They were denounced by the army principals in the case.

Eden Sounds Out Chou En-Lai On Indo-China

GENEVA (Reuters) — British Foreign Secretary Eden today sounded out Chou En-lai on an Indo-China settlement in his first private meeting with the Chinese communist premier and foreign minister.

Eden conferred for half an hour with U. S. State Secretary Dulles before driving to a luncheon meeting with Chou at Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's closely guarded villa.

It was understood Dulles and Eden discussed the best way to sound out Chou on Communist China's attitude toward getting the Indo-China debate going here as soon as possible.

EMERGENCY ACT OF GOVERNMENT ENDS ON MAY 31

Act Strongly Attacked By Opposition Parties

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's power to legislate without parliamentary approval ends Monday, May 31, with the expiry of the Emergency Powers Act.

Prime Minister St. Laurent informed the Commons Thursday it will not be asked to extend the act beyond that date.

Twenty - five orders-in-council, with the effect of law, have been made by the cabinet since the legislation was passed in 1951 to meet emergency conditions affecting outcome of the Korean war.

The legislation gives the government wide powers to control Canada's economy and national security without reference to Parliament.

It was strongly attacked by all opposition parties, especially the Progressive Conservatives, when it was first introduced in August, 1950, and 1953. Five weeks ago a PC motion describing the power as "dictatorial" was defeated as government was defeated 134 to 68.

NO FURTHER EXTENSION

The Government's reply to criticisms was that the legislative authority was necessary to provide emergency powers as the world passed through "a crisis."

Mr. St. Laurent said Thursday the Government had a grave decision to make whether or not to ask to expire "because there is a perfect explosive situation in the world."

He said he hopes future situations will not develop requiring anything more than normal powers of order-in-council. If the interests of Canada's safety called for powers not normally provided under existing legislation, "we would have to resort to the War Measures Act."

The War Measures Act, now dormant, was passed in 1914 and invoked again in 1939 to give the government "absolute powers during bold wartime years between 1945 and the passing of the Emergency Powers Act. Under the latter powers were retained under emergency transitional powers acts.

HIGHLIGHT OF DAY

The prime minister's announcement was the highlight of a day's sitting that was devoted largely to consideration of budget estimates of the various government offices departments.

The 25 orders approved under the Emergency Powers Act, 12 still are in effect and the prime minister told the Commons today whether they will be continued. The other 13 either lapsed or were cancelled or were written into subsequent legislation passed by Parliament.

The nature of one order-in-council was disclosed in brief in passing it. the cabinet approved another order excusing it from disclosing the order's terms.

Mr. St. Laurent said last month, in the case of emergency powers that it may be possible to allow the act expire at the end of the Criminal Code or the Official Secrets Act are revised to give "adequate sufficient safeguard to meet the conditions involved.

Given 25 Years For Shooting His Landlady

OTTAWA (CP) — Hugh Conrad Hayes, 25, Ottawa nine-store clerk convicted of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Miss Grace Currie, his landlady, today was sentenced to 25 years in penitentiary.

Mr. Justice John L. Wilson pronounced sentence which was subsequent ever imposed in an Ottawa court for manslaughter.

Hayes told a confused story of the killing. He said that on the morning of Jan. 15 he visited Miss Currie, 56-year-old Ottawa nurse, was slain, he had intended to commit suicide.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Wilson said he had the duty of protecting society from the accused as Hayes, who, physchiatric evidence declared, had a "psychopathic personality," not able to control himself when faced with frustration.

There were no institutions in Canada to which he could send Hayes for treatment and he did not believe that punishment would have any effect on Hayes.

However, institutions for the criminally insane in Canada would accept only individuals who were mentally deteriorated than Hayes.

Reds Ask India Attend Parley On Indo-China

U.S. Expected to Be Outvoted But Russia May Not Insist

GENEVA (CP)—Russia has requested that India be invited to participate in discussions on Indo-China. This followed a British move to get India, Pakistan and Ceylon to help guarantee any settlement that might be reached at Geneva.

The fifth session of the conference today ended abruptly after only 40 minutes. No further sessions are expected before Monday.

Thailand and Turkey held the floor today as the Korean problem. Both voiced opposition to Communist proposals for Korean reunification.

The Russian move to invite India to the Indo-China talks was considered likely to meet opposition from the United States delegation.

French and Indian circles expressed belief, however, that the Russians will not press for India's inclusion. Officials were understood to feel that the Soviet delegation will finally settle for a nine-party list also acceptable to the Western powers.

Informed sources said they feel Russia will not make the inclusion of India a condition for settlement of the Indo-China parley. They pointed out that Russia has already played in Korea.)

ONE OBSTACLE REMOVED

The request of Russia's move to bring India to Geneva came shortly after it was revealed that Vice Nam's chief of state, Bao Dai, had agreed to sit down at the conference table, been with delegations of the Vietminh.

Until the reported new Russian demand, Bao Dai's previous opposition to rebel participation had been the major obstacle preventing organization of the Indo-China talks after the conclusion of the present debate on Korea.

It was reported earlier that the East and West were virtually agreed on including nine parties at the Indo-China talks. They would be the U. S., Russia, Britain, France, Communist representatives of the Vietminh and the Bao Dai government, Communist governments of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Agreement on the composition of the talks would make it possible for the conference to get down at once to the three Indo-China states and to the Vietminh regime. The Korean conference papers are already are in Geneva.

AGREEMENT IMPORTANT

The importance of early agreement became apparent Thursday when Thailand's prince Wan Waithayakon, one of the three chairmen of the general War Executive conference, said the debate on Korea probably will be completed by the end of the week.

The discussion may be transferred then to the committee designed to consider the details of various proposals made so far.

Five Swift Raids Made by French At Dien Bien Phu

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI (AP) — French Union commandos in daring daylight raids struck again today at Communist-led Vietminh troops edging to within 6,000 feet of Dien Bien Phu.

Five swift attacks were launched northwest, north, south and east of the main French defence complex, netting 29 Vietminh killed and the smashing of rebel gun positions and arms depots right on the rim of the French barbed wire barricades.

Rebel progress was encouraging today as French forces were confined to gains of feet or yards and often these were being lost in fight but swift attacks by the French defenders.

It was still 1,800 feet to the heart of the main French defence complex.

Other than comparatively light attempts at infiltration through the defence bulwarks, the Vietminh are for the moment confining themselves to artillery fire from their strong points with intense mortar and artillery fire.

Rear Car Glass Looked Like Honeycombed Ice

Reports of pitted and pock-marked windshields are being treated by the majority of motorists with an "I'm from Missouri, you've got to show me" attitude, but for Harry Hitchon, Alexander street, auto glass damage is real enough.

Thursday afternoon the entire rear glass of his late model sedan blew out with explosive force. A hole as big as a man's head appeared in the glass and the remainder of the wind screen was so shattered it looked like honeycombed ice.

The car was parked in the bright sunlight at the rear of the Hitchon Radio Store. The Hitchons were working on a car radio nearby, when they were startled with a loud sound like a gunshot and glass showered about the yard.

No explanation of the broken windscreen has been given, but one suggestion is that the curved glass was shattered as result of stress built up by expansion in the warm sun.

One thing Mr. Hitchon is sure of, that is that he has to have a new rear glass for his car—at a cost of somewhere around $40.

District Assessing Officers Meet for Panel Discussion

Assessment problems were the topic of discussion at the local city hall Thursday, when approximately 50 officials convened for the annual convention of District No. 5 of the Ontario Association of Assessing Officers. The district represents five counties in Central Ontario.

District chairman Stewart Sparling, county assessor of Hastings, presided at 3rd vice-president of the provincial association, welcomed members attending the convention, then turned the meeting over to Leighton Thompson, Belleville assessment commissioner, who acted as chairman of the meeting.

Mayor John Both officially welcomed the visiting assessing officers, noting that the assessor's office was one of the most important departments in municipal government. He paid tribute to the sound judgment of assessing officers.

Hastings county warden, Fred G. Mitchell, also welcomed the visitors. He too stressed the importance of the assessing department, which he said was one of the main positions in municipal work.

Mr. Sparling noted that the object of the Ontario Association of Assessing Officers was to bring about better and more equitable assessing. He said the membership of 350 made the convention body the largest association or appointed municipal officers in North America.

He called for greater interest in the association in the western part of the province and explained the different phases of a course at Queen's University for the Institute of Assessors. He said the assessing officer's duties and responsibility be raised from $10 to $15 to cover the added costs of the course.

ALL INVITED.

He invited all to attend the provincial convention to be held at Niagara Falls May 24-26 and noted the next meeting of No. 5 district would be held at Lindsay in June or July.

Harold D. Bateman, clerk-comptroller of Belleville and a former city assessment commissioner, congratulated the association on its large membership and stressed the importance of equity in assessments. He noted that the value of land was of greater importance than the value of buildings, where re-assessment was being done.

He expressed the opinion that the larger and older type of home should be allowed considerable depreciation in assessment where these had not been turned into apartments or multiple family dwellings.

He noted that sound judgment on the part of assessing officers was of vital importance and said the taxpayers should be encouraged to talk over their problems with assessors.

LEADS DISCUSSION.

Secretary Harold Baty of Lindsay led a discussion "overbuilt" homes in the urban and rural areas, suggesting that certain obsolescence should be granted when such homes were only partially occupied. There was a sharp difference of opinion on this matter with some assessors feeling, that no obsolescence should be given, but that the owners of such homes should sell and purchase accommodation more suitable to their needs.

Belleville city solicitor R. A. Pringle spoke on the preparation for tax appeals in court. "The best preparation," he said, "was to persuade the taxpayer that the appeal should not be made."

A question and answer period followed concerning the proper court procedure in appeals and the jurisdiction of various courts in assessment matters.

Leighton Thompson of Belleville was named the new chairman for District No. 5 with Harold Baty of Lindsay as secretary. Cecil Green, Hastings county assessor, and J. E. Davis, assessment commissioner at Peterborough, were named vice-chairmen.

Rev. T. H. Good Is Inducted At Kingston

The Rev. Thomas Harvey Good, former Anglican rector of Madoc, was formally inducted as rector of St. Paul's Church, Kingston, with impressive ceremonies on Wednesday night.

The institution was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, Ph.D., D.D., bishop of the Anglican diocese of Ontario, assisted by the Ven. L. E. Davis, M.A., D.D., archdeacon of Kingston, the Rev. Cecil Winter, rural dean, and visiting clergy.

Mr. Good was presented with the keys of the church by V. Cornell, rector's warden, and was escorted to the various stations in the church by fellow clergy.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Arthur Smith, rector of Deer Park Anglican Church, Toronto and former rector of St. Thomas Church here.

He spoke of the new rector as a man of strong opinions and evangelical zeal, one, whom he thought, would make himself very welcome to the parish. In his sermon, Mr. Smith spoke on "The Good Shepherd", stating the incumbent to be gathered from this to the day-to-day life of the church, with the minister as the shepherd and the people the flock.

Congratulatory addresses were given by His Lordship Bishop Evans, Archdeacon Davis, Canon H. J. McConnell, Trenton and the friends of the new rector. The long tradition of Irish rectors of St. Paul's was referred to by Archdeacon J. R. H. Coleman. Mr. Good is a native of Ireland.

The church was filled with parishioners and friends of Mr. Good came from Madoc to witness the ceremonies.

Father and Son Banquet Held At St. Thomas

The First Belleville Scout, Cubs and Rover Packs held their Father and Son Banquet last night at the St. Thomas Parish House with approximately 135 persons in attendance.

A bountiful dinner, prepared by the mothers, was served to the fathers and boys as well as troop leaders, the district commissioner and special guests. Rev. W. J. Robinson said grace before the meal with chairman C. A. S. Smith introducing those seated at the head table immediately after. A. C. M. Graumne Bell led in a sing-song, while the mothers cleared the tables in preparation for the addresses and presentations.

Andrew Robb proposed a toast to the fathers and thanked them on behalf of the pack for helping during the year to make it successful and preparation of being good citizens. Mr. M. Bertrand replied for the fathers and said that he hoped in the coming year, more men would be able to come to some of the meetings, just stand around and watch, which how their boys are progressing into fine citizens. He said further that he was sure it would make the boys proud just to see the fathers out and taking more interest.

Mr. Robert Tanner then made a toast to all the Rovers, Cubs and Scouts of the First Belleville Troop. He drew a chuckle from both fathers and sons when he said: "I've heard several times before and why the games were originated but I don't believe them now. I think it was just so the fathers would be treated to such a grand banquet as this once in a while."

George Hosang Jr. thanked the fathers for the toast and said: "It's up to us, the young generation of today, to make a better world for tomorrow and we cannot do it without the leadership we are receiving from our fathers."

The speakers in general stressed the point that more and more leaders are needed to teach the fast increasing groups of Cubs, Scouts and Rovers.

CRESTS PRESENTED

The next part of the program was the presentation of crests, stars and badges to the Cubs and Scouts.

Cubs Betty Smith, group leader (Akela) gave second stars to Chris Tanner and Graydon Scott and a first star to David Chalmers in the Cub division. A.C.M. House Orderly badges went to Harold Ures, Arthur Liddle, Jim Fisher, Wayne Kingston, John Tooth, George Fisher and Graydon Scott.

The Scout troop was presented with a Plan Achievement crest by Mr. Archie Lewis, district commissioner, which will be worn on their troop flag.

Swimmers' badges were to David Smith and Larry Tramaine with Andrew Robb receiving the pathfinders' badge and his "A" cord, which shows that he has passed six badges.

Rev. W. J. Robinson followed the awards with a vote of thanks for the fine meal prepared by the mothers. He also welcomed all the boys to the St. Thomas' Parish House and told them "When you grow up boys, try to put back in life as much as you got out of it, or more if possible."

Films were then shown with one entitled "Scout Trail to Citizenship", proving to be very appropriate for the occasion. Others viewed were "The Loon's Necklace," dealing with Indian folklore, a cartoon and a nature sanctuary picture called "Point Police."

A complaint that blasting operations at the excavation for the new W. Bean building on upper Front Street, were endangering pedestrians in the area, was received by police yesterday.

Bicycle Left When Person Stole Bottles

The old adage about a fair exchange being no robbery has little consolation for a West Hill woman, who now has a bicycle instead of milk bottles which were taken from her doorstep.

The West Hill woman heard the milk bottles rattling at her doorstep. On investigation she found the bottles missing, but a bicycle had been left in her driveway. She's assuming the culprit had been scared away and had no opportunity to retrieve the bicycle.

Pilot Makes Crash-Landing On Runway

TRENTON (Special) — An RCAF expediter aircraft coming in from North Bay made a successful crash landing on a runway at the Trenton Air Station Wednesday. The pilot, an experienced flier, went through emergency landing procedure, when he found that the green light on the instrument panel would not go on, indicating that the wheels lowered in the normal manner would not lock into place. He flew over the control tower and one of the controllers acknowledged that the wheels were down and appeared to be properly locked.

Driverless Car Damages Building

TRENTON (Special) — Colon Burnham, resident of 55 Lorne Ave., Trenton, will not be likely to try and start his car when he's not inside the vehicle from now on.

Twenty-one-year old Burnham parked his car in a parking lot last evening and when he returned the car would not start. He tried pushing the car backwards and the motor burst into action, ran into the side of the Quinte Plumbing Building, Front Street, broke a fire escape ladder, crushed a stove standing by the building and pushed in double doors on the southern section of the structure.

The estimated damage to the car was $75.00 while no estimation has been given for damages to the building.

The accident took place just before midnight in the parking lot between the Riley and Quinte Plumbing buildings.

Mechanical Test Will Be Made Of Car's Brakes

Hearing of a dangerous driving charge against Gordon B. Faulkner, Stirling, driver of the car in the fatal accident in which a Marsh Hill school girl was killed two weeks ago, has been adjourned until May 10th.

Faulkner appeared Thursday in magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills, the hearing being adjourned following completion of the crown evidence.

Provincial Constable D. W. McAlonen told the court that skid marks from the front wheels of the Faulkner car measured 224 feet. A Belleville Motor Car mechanic said he had checked the brakes on the Faulkner car, and said: "only the front wheels could be skidded. The hand brake was inoperative."

A mechanical test of the brakes on the Faulkner car was directed to be made.

The dangerous driving charge was laid following the accident in which Georgina Nobles, 11, was instantly killed when struck by the Faulkner car. The child had been playing ball on her way home from school and darted in front of the Faulkner car when she missed the ball.

Armour was taken to Belleville hospital by Bush's ambulance.

It was reported that the two men were eastbound when their car went off the highway on the first curve east of Shannonville. The vehicle went across the ditch and into the field, where it turned over. The car was badly damaged. Provincial Constable Toll investigated.

THE SIGN TAX QUESTION

The request of approximately 50 Belleville merchants and business men that the City Council rescind the by-law levying an annual over-hanging sign tax is one that the whole citizen will regard with mixed feelings. He will not envy the members of the council's finance committee their task of studying the question and making a recommendation to council.

On the one hand it cannot be too emphatically stated that the sign tax is a nuisance tax of the worst type. The money collected is negligible. It totals $600 a year. The city would not "go broke" if it were to forego it. And when we know that this total is collected for some 100 signs it is evident that the average tax is so small that it does not impose a financial hardship on any merchant.

But the tax is a nuisance — to pay and to collect. That $600 does not represent a net return, for the city must pay employees to handle the collection. It may be argued that this work is just an extra duty carried out by the regular employees — but it is just additional duties which tend to make employees discontented, damage the efficiency of an otherwise smooth-working staff and lead to eventual demands that additional help be hired. There is no reason why the same cause would not produce a similar effect in a municipal office.

Unfortunately the finance committee which must reach a decision on this matter, there is another side to the question. The sign tax is not intended to produce revenue but to provide control over signs. And it is lamentably true that the exercise such control. Signs hanging over sidewalks might fall. Falling they might strike and injure, or even kill, some passer-by. If this happened, the city would be liable.

George DeVuyst, who presented the petition seeking abolition of the tax, said that the merchants carry their own liability insurance. This is true — but the city's liability does not affect the city's liability. The city, too, must carry insurance. It is impossible to ascertain just how closely the cost of this insurance approximates the revenue obtained from the sign tax, because there is no breakdown on the city's liability insurance policy, which covers many other forms of liability besides that of the dangers of sign falling. But it is a matter of principle, however, it may be argued that those who create the liability should pay the cost of the insurance, not only for themselves but also for the city.

So much for principle—but in practice the sign tax is not so much intended to cover this insurance cost as it is to tighten the control over signs. And it is only the tax makes it possible for municipal authorities to exercise at least some form of control over the canine population. It may be argued that this city could require all signs to be licensed, without imposing a fee, but in practice experience has proven the licensing is a much simpler task if a fee is imposed.

So there is the problem. There is no question but that the sign tax is a nuisance. It may, however, also be argued with considerable force that it is a necessity.

MENTAL HEALTH WEEK

Next week, from May 2 to May 8, is Mental Health Week.

The Canadian Mental Health Association has selected an excellent time for this observance. Right after the beginning of the fishing season ought to see the mental health of the community at a post-Christmas peak, unless, of course, the trout are not biting.

Seriously, though, it seems that this is not just another of those "weeks" which we are afflicted with from time and forever. The Canadian Mental Health Association presents statistics showing that in 1952, for each group of 10,000 persons in Canada, there were, on an average, 40 persons in mental institutions. Dr. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare, says that "during the past ten years there has been a remarkable growth in the citizens' desire for treatment and care of persons suffering from mental illness." But we all know that not all persons who need treatment in institutions are receiving it. It is therefore evident that the number of mental illness is much greater than the 40 per 10,000 figure quoted would suggest.

But perhaps it is a problem about which the average citizen can do nothing?

Not so, in the opinion of Mr. Martin. He says: "In the final analysis, unless the citizen himself sees this field as a vitally important one in which he has a personal stake, progress in the future will be disappointing. This is where voluntary organizations, like the Canadian Mental Health Association, can be so helpful. They can provide a setting in which the citizen can work alongside the scientist. He can learn that mental illness is much like any other illness—in its causes, it can usually be cured if caught in time, and to some extent it is preventable."

So there you have the problem and the suggested solution. We still do not think that a little fishing trip will be out of keeping with the week's objectives.

TO ALL PARENTS

"I'll lend you for a little time a Child of Mine," He said,
"For you to love the while she lives, and mourn for when she's dead.
It may be six or seven years, or twenty-two or three,
But will you, till I call her back,
take care for Me?
She'll bring her charms to gladden you, and shall her stay be brief,
You'll have her lovely memories
as solace for your grief.
I cannot promise she will stay,
since all from earth return,
But there are lessons taught down there I want this child to learn.
I've looked the wide world over in my search for teachers true
And from the throngs that crowd life's lanes I have selected you.
Now will you give her all your love, nor think the labor vain,
Nor hate Me when I come to call to take her back again?"

I fancied that I heard them say:
"Dear Lord, Thy will be done!
For all the joy Thy child shall bring, the risk of grief we'll run.
We'll shelter her with tenderness,
we'll love her while we may,
And for the happiness we've known forever grateful stay;
But shall the angels call for her much sooner than we've planned,
We'll brave the bitter grief that comes and try to understand."

Muted Whistle Impossibility

(Windsor Daily Star)

Ever since the coming of the railroad municipalities have been on the prongs of a dilemma. Should train whistles be eliminated to let the millinery rest undisturbed, or continued for the greater protection of crossings?

Woodstock, Ont., though it had the answer last December, when had CNR locomotives stop whistling within the municipal limits. Now motorists are claiming this silence permits trains to creep up on them too suddenly at crossings and want the whistles restored.

The municipality is trying to find a middle-ground by ordering trains whistle less raucously.

If the trains can do this, it will be the first time many of us can recall they had it in them. Whistlings that can be heard at a crossing half a mile or even a quarter of a mile ahead of them certainly will be loud enough for a flute-like quality to household ears at shrieking range.

As experience has shown in various places, including Windsor, the whistle is one of the weakest safety devices. Crossing bells and lights, plus reduced speed, offer the better safeguard. Where that combination is found whistling is of minor importance.

THE GLORY OF EARTH

The longer I live, and the more I note all in nature, the more do I glory in this earth of ours. Actual miracles everywhere. A lover of this earth never ceases to wonder and take pride in his free inheritance.

There are protective agencies ever at work to assure continuity and progressive life. It is so pronounced in the Springtime. After the long gone in our colder climates there is the good earth ready for the hands and instruments that prepare it for additional beauty through cultivation and husbandry. Then comes the rain, nature when you tell it that you love it!

I like to walk through forests and non-cultivated areas, for there is much self-support there. Co-operative agencies everywhere one looks. There dying here and there but only to point to new life. It is only when nature is disturbed that it revolts. The tragics and

(Written for Unesco by Jean Hardy)

Europe's Last Nomads

Like every young Frenchman, I had been a wonderful reader of tales of travel and exploration, long before I ever dreamed that I would some day be able to visit foreign lands. My chance came in 1951 when I received one of the Zellidja Scholarships, which permit 250 teen-age boys every year to undertake voyages of adventure. The Scholarship, and the 20,000 francs (56) which went with it, had made it possible for me to visit the United States and Canada. After my return, I was lucky enough to meet the famous Greenland explorer, Paul-Emile Victor, and to have him autograph one of his books for me. His words: "To Jean Hardy, hoping his wishes will soon come true."

The wishes did come true, when my second Zellidja Scholarship permitted me to undertake a trip to the European Arctic—to visit the people of Lapland.

It was a real exploration, for nothing had been written in France about the Lapps. I chose a district, worked out a route, with the help of a few maps which I managed to get off with a friend, Gerard Coppel, one evening when we had lunch at 25,000 francs ($100) between us, and the journey—first hitch-hiking, then on foot—became long, uncomfortable, and instructive too.

The real adventure came later, after we had walked for hundreds of kilometers and reached the Lofoten and over mountains, when we were accepted as members of a Lapp family, adopted as sons, by one of those households which seem so closely tied to reindeers. We took part in the Lapps' activities; "we learned to adapt ourselves to the harsh life of those lands; we learnt a great deal about the Lapps' unpredictable "living" in the full sense of the word.

I intend to say exactly where Lapland begins and ends, for its territory changes with the migrations of the reindeer herds which are the basic livelihood for these 8,000 Northern nomads.

Thus, Lapland includes parts of Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia. For most of the year, the soil of Lapland is frozen, covered by a thick layer of snow. Then, in May, the thaw begins, and the reindeers, released from the shelter-ing from the severity of the long winter night in wretched timber-filled huts, half-buried in the snow, shake off their lingering torpor. Feverish activity begins. The winter camp, for the herds of reindeer are moved away from the wooded districts of the taiga, where they have been subsisting on the lichens which grow there on the branches and on the bark of trees.

The first rays of the April sun, which, in Lapland, with a pale gleam as the reindeer gradually emerge from their winter sleep, set and move toward the lowest of the mountain valleys. Then begins the long, slow, difficult journey. The herd stops of its own accord, when it has reached the mountain range, in the warm thicket of the valleys, where it will be the moment when reindeer fawns are born. The births nearly all take place within a few days, and then the herd, suddenly calming down, begins to graze peacefully on the fresh lichen just laid bare by the melting snow; the abundant new grass, the first fresh leaves and twigs keeps them on the spot for two or three weeks, until the animals, now in their recovered agility, the fawns now strong enough to follow their mothers, full of energy and zest for life.

The Lapps often takes place beside a lake whose waters are thawing, and where fishing is abundant, time fishing, and hunting a little.

Towards the end of May, the herd becomes restless again, and the migration northwards begins. Now for the lichen is now withered and they must seek the grass of the higher region.

So the Lapps move out of their spring huts, and set off on their sledges inside. Supplies of wood and food, tents, reindeer skins and clothes are strapped to the backs of reindeer and the hard climb begins again, following the herd, which allows, by short pauses at night.

Reaching the foot of the fells, the Lapps choose a spot for their summer camp. The district usually consists of broad strips of land, surrounded by natural barriers, mountains, lakes, rivers, which limit the wandering of the herd.

In the summer camp, wolves are the chief danger, for they attack in the dark, in groups of half-a-dozen. Reindeer breeders have also to watch out for other dangers, including beasts, the herd scatters, panics, and the wolves, seizing their opportunity, attack, filling themselves on grown reindeer and fawns, tearing them, killing from threats or devouring them alive.

The Lapps berate their wives with every kind of epithet and invectives such as:

"Stupid wolf,"

"Stay no longer in this wood,

"Go away, to some far country,

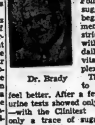
"Or perish under the huntsman's fatal knife!"

With the help of their dogs, the Lapps keep watch over the herd, year-long pursuit of the wolves, wolverines and bears. They prefer to have the wolves to bay and kill

Bank Beaver Is Never Busy

(Canadian Mining Journal, Quebec)

Miners in a gold camp in northern Ontario were beset by a strange problem: A bank beaver squatting in the Lake Shore Gypsy Queen gold mine shaft area dry—will not be coaled out or persuaded to choose another residence.



The provincial game warden, contacted by the mine, sent a commission to trap the animal, has been unable to help—Ontario husbandry—he believes that the law in regard to out of season sport. That the beaver is a protected animal by mining men on the subject of the "bank" beaver, is somewhat unusual as so called because his principal, if not only, part in the construction of dams, is the cutting along the streams consists of silver poplar trees which are felled tail on the ground at frequent intervals, and exhorting the workmen to hurry.

The bank beaver is an outcast who will have no part in building at all useful in a beaver colony. He has been known to start building of a dam or habitation, and as soon as the other members of the colony have appraised his worthlessness—as they do in short order—he is drummed out of camp to wander about the country, with or without his immediate family. He has lives along the banks of the streams, in shelters abandoned by muskrats, and burrows of beavers, in hollow, fallen tree trunks or, as in the case in point, in

By DR. WM. BRADY

B-COMPLEX AND CARBOHYDRATE FOOD

Dr. Brady

Mrs. A. R. A. reports that for some time her husband has had no beard. He seemed to make him feel better. After a few weeks his urine tests showed only light green—with the Clinitest that means only a trace of sugar, probably less than ½%.

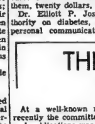
Then the man went to a physician for an examination. The doctor found a "light trace" of sugar in the urine, told him to give it another thought. But the patient blabbered how glad he was that his wife had persuaded him to take those tablets.

Up went the doctor's ears at how long they are said to have circulated. "What tablets?" The patient explained about the B-complex tablets this Dr. Brady advises diabetics or persons gorging their systems on refined foods as a daily supplement to the diet.

If shooting had been lawful, says Mrs. A. R. A., her husband might have been shot. The doctor angrily left the patient on—to his own value and it is senseless to take them, twenty dollars, please.

Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, top authority on diabetes, stated in a personal communication, that he had not been convinced that vitamin B (thiamin) has any effect on blood sugar level or insulin requirement.

With the greatest admiration and respect for Dr. Joslin, I have the faith of deep friends and company partner's ace. Haven't I dared to ridicule Dr. Colgey's teaching that chronic rheumatiz "is most common among the poor, particularly washerwomen, dish-washers, and those whose occupation exposes them to cold and dampness."



I am more impressed by a statement made by Robert R. Williams, Sc. R., co-author of Vitamin B1 (Thiamin) and its use in medicine. In nature, said Dr. Williams, thiamin occurs abundantly in egg yolks, lean pork, crude molasses, peas and peanuts, but most abundantly in germs of ripe grain. Millers discard the germ or heart of the wheat kernel to make white flour, and so, said Dr. Williams, "Man accomits a crime against nature when he eats the starch from the seed and destroys nature's mechanism necessary for the metabolism of that starch." (Italics and Bracket Mine)

In any event it can do no harm and may do much good to supplement the diet of a diabetic or a person trying to prevent development of diabetes with a good daily ration of the vitamin B complex. And the unrestricted diet of most Americans is deficient in vitamin B complex.

Dr. Brady has been committing a crime against nature all these years it may be that you are paying for it now in one or another nutritional deficiency disease—scurvity, for instance.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"Gentlemen," he said, "you are both wrong. Both books are literary bunkum."

So the committee ordered "Herbie" to take the thing, to sit beside Bairnsfather in the club shelves. Herbie, who is a very modest fellow, like human flesh, humor is. Very, very little humor survives its generation. But most people, like literary or artistic creatures. Even with Shakespeare and Charles Lamb, you must have a specialized sense of humor to appreciate all that of a collector of antiques or classical paintings or of writers of the works of belleidlers in their day. To make a collection of the jokes of Punch or the New Yorker covering a fairly short period of years is, I am told, a job for an editor of books, I'm shaking job. Only the cream survives at a month as ten years. Our radio and television comedians, desperately reeding the joke books of the past, ship a thousand to find one.

"I've looked at that book one of the first war members of the committee," and I must say I can't see anything funny in it."

The younger members of the committee bridled.

"Now, we've already got Bairnsfather," continued the older man, "a man." The great classic of wartime humor. I imagine it's enough."

"Sir," said one of the younger men, "I've posed through Bairnsfather books, and I'll be jiggered if I can see anything funny in the."

The older man stared incredulous.

The chairman of the committee was a lieutenant in the first war and had been in the thick of it.

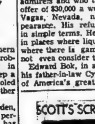
"Gentlemen," he said, "you are both wrong. Both books are hilariously funny."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IDEALS AND HARD CASH

You can generally tell how much a person cares for the moral ideals he claims to espouse by the amount of dollars and cents he is willing to relinquish in order to make those ideals real.



Nothing is cheaper than a glib and enthusiastic endorsement of good projects and high ideals. Words cost nothing! I read the other day of a great television performer in this country whose show is watched by millions of admirers and who was offered an offer of $30,000 a week for a Los Vegas, Nevada, engagement. His appearance. His refusal was given in simple terms. He never works in places where liquor is sold or where there is gambling. He did not even consider the proposition.

Edward Bok, in a description of his father-in-law Cyrus Curtis, one of America's great editor, tell of a campaign Mr. Curtis waged against patent medicines. His magazine refused to accept such books, but he had an opportunity to get going again on easy street if he would accept one of the books. Bok said very simply, "Of course we could not." Nor did his magazine go on the rocks. Good ideals have a habit of paying for defeat and still pull through. Good ideals have a double-and-cent value which is frequently most disconcerting.

Prime Minister Tries to Interpret Minister's Talk

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Thursday it is a matter of opinion whether a policy of maintaining the present size of Canada's forces will mean little, if any, tax changes for years to come.

He added: "I think there has been a government policy determined with respect to taxes for future years."

The prime minister was asked in the Commons by J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) about a report by The Canadian Press of a speech Wednesday in Edmonton by Defence Minister Claxton.

The story quoted Mr. Claxton as saying the existence of the hydrogen bomb has not lessened the need for conventional weapons and that there was still a need for a navy, army and air force of about the present size as the minimum force necessary.

DEFENCE COSTS UP

The story noted that defence expenditures are at least 40 per cent of the national budget and said Mr. Claxton's speech indicated there will be little, if any, change in taxes for years to come.

Mr. Macdonnell asked whether that represented government policy.

Mr. St. Laurent replied:

"That seems to have been the impression made upon those who heard the speech, that there was not likely to be a change in taxes for years to come.

"There seems to have been no such statement made by the minister, and it may or may not be an accurate conclusion to draw from the statement of the minister that the situation seemed to require the maintenance of as large forces as we have at the present time. . . ."

The statement on taxes appeared to have been a conclusion drawn by the reporter.

"Whether or not that is an inaccurate conclusion to draw from the assertion of that fact is a matter of opinion."

Shown above is Air Vice Marshal J. G. Kerr, CBE, AFC, Air Officer Commanding RCAF Training Command, presenting Warrant Officer J. D. Zufelt with the RCAF Long Service and Good Conduct Medal, at a reception held in the Sergeants' Mess on April 19th. Warrant Officer Zufelt was born in Belleville and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Zufelt, now residing at 44 Victoria Street, in this city. Enlisting in the RCAF in 1935 as a machinist, Warrant Officer Zufelt has had a long and varied career. After holding positions in Ottawa and Trenton he was posted to RCAF Station Centralia and at present is in charge of the Station Workshops.

Everyone at Centralia knows him as an ardent hobbyist. Warrant Officer Zufelt builds and operates model railways, and is an authority on model aircraft building. His prize model at the present time is an exact scale model of the Mitchell twin engine bomber and it flies powered by two small gas engines. Warrant Officer Zufelt and his wife have one three-year-old son, and are living in permanent married quarters at Centralia.

Russian Embassy Staff Departs For Homeland

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Russian embassy staff sailed for Moscow from a silent and darkened pier at Fremantle Thursday night aboard the immigrant ship New Australia.

Hours later, and half the world away, their Australian counterparts left Moscow by train amid the shouted good-byes of almost the entire diplomatic corps.

Russia broke off diplomatic relations with Australia last week following the defection of Vladimir Petrov, second secretary at the Soviet embassy at Canberra, and his blonde wife, Evdokya. Russia protested against the granting of political asylum to Petrov, whom she said was a "criminal," and claimed Mrs. Petrov was "kidnapped."

Three hundred diplomats and members of their families thronged the railroad station at Moscow for more than an hour before the Australian embassy staff left, reports from Moscow said. As the train steamed out, British and Commonwealth staffs sang "Waltzing Matilda," Australia's rousing national song. Some of the diplomats' wives burst into tears on the platform.

The Australians handed over the keys of their embassy to British embassy officials, who will look after Australia's affairs in Moscow.

India Regains Trade

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India Thursday regained her trade foothold in the Chinese Communist state of Tibet, and eased the passage of pilgrims to and from the holy monastery land.

In exchange, Communist China will establish trading agencies in three Indian cities: New Delhi, Calcutta, and Kalimpong, the seat of the Tibetan trade route.

The trade and travel benefits were covered by an eight-year pact signed Thursday in Peiping, China.

PICTON

Two Collegiate Students Admit Damaging Desks

PICTON — Two collegiate students who had confessed to marring a desk in the new school were suspended by principal R. L. Perkin. A meeting of the property committee of the board was held yesterday to further investigate the matter. Later it was announced that the boys could return to school. The board felt that the act was a thoughtless one rather than a matter of malicious damage, and that the boys had been sufficiently disciplined by this suspension without extending it for a further period. They upheld principal R. L. Perkins action in the matter.

During the Easter holidays it was found that a name had been inscribed on the top of one of the new desks in the physics laboratory. An investigation revealed that one boy had written the name on the desk and another had watched him do it. The instrument used was the round end of a pen and the indention was not deep.

Canadian Legion Navy Show Much Enjoyed

PICTON — Presented by the Canadian Legion, a navy show, 'Skirts Ahoy', attracted capacity crowds to St. Gregory's hall, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Producer was Al Stonebridge and the stage resembled the deck of a ship. A Calcutta, and Indian was heard to advantage in several choruses and also provided much humor. Seamen were Vince Gentile, Jack Newman, Ralph Pickering, Sherwood Reid, Bill Woolmore, Goodwin, Gerry Meyers, Earl Holt and F. Tupper.

During a cruise, H.M.S. Petticoat had picked up a group of stranded stage and screen stars and the concert they presented formed a portion of the show. Sherwood Reid, imitated Liberace with a piano solo. Bill Woolmore, Goodwin, and Al Stonebridge gave navy songs. In skirts and middies, the Rockettes, Eleanor Anderson, Nancy Wright, Marlene Norton, Sandra Harrison, Beverly Norton, Abella Gibson, did several smart dance routines. Precision tap dances were given by Joan McLean and Daisy Alkins. In the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy manner, Shirley Colliver and Ralph Pickering sang two duets. Joe Cowan contributed piano accordion selections. Miss Carolyn Yott impersonated Mariyn Monro and sang "Make Love to Me." In "Barnacle Bill the Sailor", Olive Oyl was impersonated by Sherwood Reid and Pop-eye by Earl Holt.

A parade by "Picton Band" with novel instruments caused much laughter. In a tribute to Picton, a cannon thundered and there was a salute to the RCNVR as the Ensign was hoisted and a chorus sung.

Final chorus "So Long, It's Been Good to Know You", was sung by the entire cast to conclude one of the finest quality shows ever given here.

A seven-piece orchestra provided music and Ron Connolley was pianist. Young ladies as usherettes in naval dress. Proceeds around $1,000, are for Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital Building Fund.

Jennie Lee Hits At McCarthyism

TORONTO (CP) — Jennie Lee, British Labor member of Parliament and wife of Aneurin Bevan said Thursday night that McCarthyism is a "primitive form of political obscenity"

She said in an interview on her arrival for a speaking engagement here that she finds "it hard to believe that intelligent people can be so fascinated by this McCarthy business." Miss Lee will speak here Monday night under the auspices of the Toronto and District CCF party.

In reference to Joseph McCarthy, the Communist-hunting senator from Wisconsin, Miss Lee commented:

"It is an extraordinary thing I refuse to accept what I have read and heard as being the real mind and heart of the American People. When the decent people of the United States get moving, that will be the end of McCarthy."

RUCKSTUHL—EASTERBROOK.

The Church of England chapel at 6RD, Trenton, was adorned with Easter lilies, snapdragons, and lighted Sanctuary candelabra, on Saturday, April 24th, at 2.00 p.m. when Barbara Maxine Easterbrook, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. J. Easterbrook, became the bride of Lance Corporal James Lawrence Ruckstuhl, of Trenton, son of Mrs. F. Ruckstuhl and the late Mr. Ruckstuhl. Flight-Lieutenant White, padre of 6RD Chapel officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Mr. George Down, organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. W. W. Davenport, of Trenton, who sang: "O Promise Me," and "Through the Years."

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Arthur Perry, of Oshawa, Ontario, cousin of the bride, was radiant in her bridal gown of white lace and nylon net over taffeta with strapless, fitted bodice, featuring a stand-up collar with matching lace bolero having long, molded sleeves. The full skirt was of cocktail length. Her full-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a halo of seed pearls and bugle beads. She carried a shower bouquet of red American Beauty roses tied with white lacetex ribbon. White, brocaded pumps completed her ensemble. She wore a three-strand pearl necklace, the gift of her bridegroom.

Miss Lenore Irvine, of Oshawa, maid of honor was attired in blue nylon net over taffeta made in cocktail length, featuring a fitted, strapless bodice with matching taffeta bolero and mittens. She wore a matching feathered headdress, and carried a shower bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Herbert Ruckstuhl, of Trenton, Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman and Lance Corporal J. Richardson, and Lance Corporal A. Forrest, both of 6RD air station, Trenton, acted as ushers.

At the reception, which was held in the Queensway Hotel, Trenton, the bride's mother, wearing navy with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses, received the 90 guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in teal blue with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was appropriately appointed with white damask, centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked by the bridal flowers of the attendant and bride. The toast to the bride was proposed by the padre, Flight-Lieutenant White, to which the bridegroom responded. Soft music was rendered throughout the reception.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was a matching set of cuff links and tie clip; to her maid of honor, a matching gold and rhinestone necklace and earrings; the bridegroom's gift to his groomsman, and ushers, gold cuff links.

For the wedding trip to Montreal, Ottawa and points east, the bride chose a dress of toast color with navy accessoring and white, wool shortie coat with corsage of red sweetheart roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ruckstuhl will reside in Belleville.

Among the out-of-town guests from Trenton, Oshawa, Picton, Napanee, Ottawa, Whitney, Frankford, Huntsville, Maple Grove, Coe Hill and Middleton Park, Trenton, were the two grandmothers, Mrs. Gelford Poste, of Napanee, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Shields, of Whitney, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a presentation by the WMS of Grace United Church, Trenton, when she was the recipient of a silver tea service; a shower at the home of Mrs. Russell Bennett, Belleville, given by her girl associates of the Northern Electric office staff, and a cup and saucer, and canned goods shower, by Mrs. Elmer Adams, of Belleville.

$190,000 IN GEMS STOLEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Two bandits trussed and robbed a jeweler of more than $190,000 worth of gems and $1,000 in cash Wednesday night, police said. They grabbed the cash and then scooped unset stones and gold and platinum settings into a pouch, ignoring a handful of gems which slipped through their fingers and scattered about the floor.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A GOOD AND ADEQUATE INTRODUCTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Isn't it quite correct for me, when I am making an introduction, to mention only the names of the two people I'm introducing? Helen D.

Yes, is practically all circumstances, a good, simple way to make an introduction, in good taste, and a really adequate way, is merely to mention the two names. But . . .

(1) You must know whose name to mention first. For example, when you introduce a man to a woman, mention the woman's name first: "Miss Brooks . . . Mr. Rivers." A younger woman to an older woman: "Mrs. Oldersey . . . Miss Young."

(2) You must pronounce these two names distinctly and clearly and with a gracious manner and a friendly interest in your voice.

(3) You should keep in mind that very often, the best grace to an introduction, it is well to use the simple words "this is" between the names. For example: "Mother, this is Richard Leighton, a classmate of mine." "Mrs. Thompson, this is my daughter who lives in San Francisco."

Mrs. Wallace.

WANTS TO INFORM ABOUT PARENTS' NEW ADDRESS ON ENVELOPES AND CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a special problem concerning my wedding invitations. My family will be moving shortly before my wedding, and so it is necessary that our new address (the "return address") be shown on the invitations in some way. Should this be shown on the back of the envelope? I have seen reception cards with "Please reply to—" and the address shown, but I am in doubt as to wether this is correct. I would prefer to show the new address on the back of the envelope, and show it in the lower left corner of the reception card "Please reply before—" and the date. Would this form be acceptable? Or should only the words "Please reply" be used?

C.

It is not correct to have a return address engraved or printed on the flap of the envelope. However, it may be enclosed on the flap of the envelope. Or, if it is essential that it is in your case, it may be carefully written on the flap.

It would be correct, and extremely practical, for you to have the new address engraved in the lower left corner of the reception cards. The customary form today is:

Mr. and Mrs. Jones
R.S.V.P.
123 Park Street,
Haven, New York

Or you may use:

The favour of a reply is requested to:

Or:

Please reply to:

(Note: It is not correct to use the form "Please reply before —")

ANOTHER RING ON "THE" FINGER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should any ring, other than the engagement ring, be worn on the third finger of the left hand?

Mary C.

There's no rule against wearing any ring one wishes to wear on the third finger of the left hand. However, the point is that a ring worn on that finger, which is "the finger" for the engagement and wedding ring, quite naturally is likely to make people wonder whether or not it signifies an engagement or a wedding.

GIFT OF TEA

CANBERRA (CP)—Defence Minister Sir Philip McBride accepted from the Indian high commissioner here a gift of 2,400 pounds of tea sent by the central tea board of India as a gift to the Australian armed forces. Sir Philip expressed Australia's thanks for the kindly gesture.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: My mother and I follow your cooking column all the time. Do you have a recipe for potato cakes...and "Fairy Buns"

We want to make these buns years ago. They were made with rice and a little sugar and 1 egg and flour. We have lost the recipe for the yeast that we put in the buns. If you have a recipe for oysters or oyster soup we would be glad to get it. J. M.

ANSWER: Potato Cakes as I know them are merely fluffy mashed potatoes which are leftover and cold shaped into 3-inch cakes ½ inch thick, dipped in flour and sauted in hot butter or fat until golden brown and crispy. Is that what you want, or is it

POTATO PANCAKES

Three medium-sized raw potatoes, 1 tablespoon each flour and cream, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt. Grate potatoes directly into the other ingredients (to prevent browning). Stir well. Cook by spoonfuls in heavy frying pan in hot fat, turning about 4 times. These are fairly easy when done.

I cannot locate a recipe called Fairy Buns. I have Butterfly Buns and Fan Tans. I have a vague recollection of someone referring to Butterfly Buns as Fairy Buns, but am not sure. Would you please be more specific. Maybe there are readers who recognize what I M. wants. If so I would be grateful if they would send in the recipe.

OYSTER BISQUE

Through a sieve drain the liquor from ½ pint of oysters. To liquid add 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ tablespoon grated onion, 2 teaspoons very finely minced parsley. Stir these then add 2 cups whole milk and heat to scalding point in top of double boiler. Meanwhile melt together 2 tablespoons melted butter and 1 tablespoon flour. When milk is hot stir this roux into it until thick. Chop the oysters into quarters and add them and let this heat, covered, until the oysters are plump and hot.

NOTE: If desired, when you melt the butter for the roux, add 2 tablespoons very finely chopped celery and stir over low heat until celery is transparent before you stir in the 1 tablespoon flour, then proceed as above.

OYSTER STEW

In top of double boiler heat to scalding point 2½ cups whole milk (or 2 cups whole milk and ½ cup cream). Just about 5 minutes before serving time melt ¼ cup butter in a saucepan, then add 1 pint of oysters including their liquor, and cook gently until the edges of the oysters curl. Then add them to the hot milk with 1 teaspoon salt and shake of pepper.

NOTE: If desired add ¼ cup very fine sifted cracker crumbs when you add the cooked oysters to the milk.

QUESTION: ...I wonder if you could provide me with a recipe for potato chips, of the dry type, such as Saratoga Potato Chips. Mrs. M. H.

ANSWER: Unless you are an expert cook you may not be entirely successful on your first attempt, but try again.

SARATOGA CHIPS

(French fried potato slices)

Slice pared potatoes as thinly as possible and soak in ice water 1 hour. Drain and dry. Drop into hot good quality fat at 395 deg. Fahr. adding only the number of potatoes that will not lower the temperature below 375 deg. Salt out as soon as they are a delicate gold and drain on unglazed paper.

NOTE: For puffed Saratoga chips, few potatoes only until pale biscuit color, then drain and dry and chill. When ready to use, fry again in fat of 385 deg. Fahr, until delicate gold. Drain and salt.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

LEARN TO RELAX FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE

Are there times when you have that all-dragged-out feeling, when you are tired, tense and taut, dying to throw yourself down any old place and rest? Are you aware of the fact that you have a nervous system and it is ringing bells? Watch out. Take it easy. Relax, if you can.

Tenseness of the mind reflects itself in rigidity of the muscles and, in order to permit the body to relax, one's mind must be at peace. When you want to catch forty winks you had better forget about those "valentines" that come in the mail on the first of the month and that bill that you owe and you don't know where to begin.

Unless you allow yourself periods of relaxation you are going to find that the evidence of weariness shows on your face—in the form of little crinkles and creases that may unqualify-develop into wrinkles. After that you might as well throw cosmetics out of the window. They can't do a thing for you until you untangle your knotted nerves.

It is possible to learn to relax. Lie down in a darkened room. Keep perfectly still no matter how restless you may be. Keep your eyes closed. Try to feel that every muscle and fibre of your body is limp. This state of limpness will give the nerves controlling the muscles a brief respite from the constant telegraphing of impulses to be up and doing.

The smart thing is to find out what makes you tense. Perhaps you are worrying about the high cost of living. In that event it is senseless to desire more possessions. What pleasure the new car, the television set, the gorgeous frock if it is ever in your mind that it is going to be tough going paying for them? Peace of mind is worth more than all the luxuries in the world.

Possibly you will find rest and relaxation in outdoor life. Sunshine is a booster, brings a more cheerful state of mind than sticking within the four walls of the home. Sometimes a jolly book or an amusing movie will pick up out of that ditch of depression and boredom into which most of us fall now and then. To be tense and worried all the time is to be only half alive. So something should be done about it.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IS THIS CHILD HIS OWN, OR ANOTHER MAN'S?

Disillusioned and heartbroken, a husband writes about an unfaithful wife who admits that she doesn't know whether her youngest child is his or not.

The circumstances, as he relates them, are these:

"A few years ago, when our youngest child was born, I was told by a friend of mine that my wife had been seeing other men while I was at work on the night shift. I asked her about this and she said it was not true.

"Now I have just learned that there were two men she entertained right in our home on many occasions, after I had left for work. Again, I asked her if she had had affairs, and she now admits it and says she doesn't know who the baby's father is.

"Up to now I loved my wife very much, and I do love the child, but I'm heartbroken and don't know what to do, as I don't think I could ever forgive her.

"Help me, please."

Well, I hope you may not say so. I rather imagine that the kind of help this man wants is help that will show him how he can regain the confidence in his wife, and the love for her, that will save their marriage. For I do not believe he really wants to leave her. What I think is that he is in such a state of shock that that cruel confusion he is groping blindly for a way out and needs someone to point it out to him.

HUNT FOR FAMILIAR SPOT

The first thing anyone does who is lost, say, in the woods, is hunt for some familiar spot from which to take bearings. If, when everything else around them is frighteningly strange, their eye can light on something they know, it brings a comforting sense of security. Then, from that known point, they can begin to figure out the direction they must take.

And so it is in this man's case. First, he must find that necessary familiar thing by which he can stand while figuring out which path will lead him back to where he wants to go.

As I have already said, I believe that where he really wants to go" is into an adjusted relationship with his wife which will make it possible for them to live together in peace and harmony. So, looking toward that end, I think he should take as that "familiar thing" which will give him his point of departure, his admitted love for the child whose paternity is in question.

However he may feel right now about his wife, I am sure he does not want to give up this child, whom he has loved as his own for the past few years. I am sure, too, that he does not want the child to suffer, but would like to protect him and give him a normal home where he will be surrounded by the love and care of both mother and father, and kept happy while he is growing up.

TAKE FIRST STEP

From this point, realizing that the presence of his wife is needed to carry through such a plan for the child he loves, can he not take the first step toward reconciliation with her? It does seem to me that at this moment he needs to keep struggling with himself over whether he shall or shall not forgive his wife. If he can make up his mind to go along with her for the sake of the child, Time may well make that decision for him; perhaps, even, make conscious decision unnecessary as he and his wife instinctively come closer together in their concern that the child shall be happy.

Nowhere in this man's letter is there any suggestion that his wife has had other affairs since the birth of this child. Since she finally came clean and admitted all earlier ones, perhaps she is now prepared to be honest enough to tell her husband whether or not the past few years have been lived in faithfulness to him. If she says they have been, as is likely, then can he not try to turn his thoughts from the past, and resolve to live only for the future?

Unless there is some factor in this situation which he has not told me, I think this should be his program for the immediate future.

FATHER OF SIX CHILDREN HAS SOME WISE ADVICE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been following your column for a year, and nearly all the time you have been darned good with your comeback.

A short time ago, you had a letter from a wife who had been married for a year, and she and her husband had been moving around a lot. She was harping about not having all new furniture.

I would like to have her read the installments of Mamie's life with Ike which I have read already in some magazine. It is very good, and might show her that many young couples have to wait for things. Also, you might add that, when you have six children, as my wife and I have, you can't have everything, either.

Charlie Allen

Dear Mr. Allen:

Thank you very much for writing me. It is a great pleasure to have you tell me that you enjoy my column and feel that my advice is generally good. Any time you don't feel that it is, or that you disagree with me, I hope you will write and tell me. I am just as interested to know when my readers differ with me as when they are in accord with my views on any subject.

I'm sure a great many will be reading the story of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, and will be particularly interested to discover that the early experiences of a young married couple, no matter how high they may rise as time goes on, are little different from those of any other young couple. For, as they begin married life, almost all young people have to do without a lot which they later get later on by wise planning and wise living.

I was interested to hear that there are six children in your family, and the kind of philosophy you seem to have will, I'm sure, be a great influence on your growing children in helping them develop into fine men and women.

Carnifton Charge Pays Fraternal Visit to Centennial Service

By MRS. PERCY McMULLEN

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was banked with a large array of flowering geraniums in various colors from the home of Mrs. Clayton Cooley, a basket of snapdragons from Mr. Clayton Tucker, for the centennial services on Sunday.

At the morning service, Elizabeth Brown Baker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. F. W. Baker, Toronto, was baptized with her grandfather, Rev. A. E. Baker and her great grandfather, Rev. W. S. Irwin, each having a part in the ceremony.

MUSIC CONTRIBUTED

Mrs. A. E. Baker A.R.C.T. contributed a "Hebrew Melody" and selections by York and Matthews. The Royal choir sang "Soldiers of Christ". Miss Grace Hearman sang a selection and the senior choir rendered "Great and Marvellous."

Mr. Baker gave a special message on the theme, "Four Classes."

In the evening Rev. L. S. Throop B.A., B.D., chairman of Belleville Presbytery and minister of the Carnifton pastoral charge, paid a fraternal visit. This circuit is composed of Carnifton, Bethany and the combined Carnish, Gilead, St. Andrews.

Mrs. W. H. Farnham, organist, and choir leader, furnished appropriate music for the service. Twenty-five voices of the composite choir contributed two anthems, "Let the Earth Rejoice" and "Hear to the Heart of God." Mr. Bruce Martin sang effectively, "The Children's Friend."

VISITORS PRESENT

There was a large congregation with several visitors in attendance for St. John's Church of England, St. Andrew's Presbyterian and nearby country churches. Mr. Baker conducted the opening and graciously welcomed the guests who included Warden Fred Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell.

The offering was gathered in the old Methodist collection boxes by Messrs. George Carlisle, Guy Bradshaw, Douglas Thrasher, Jack Bush and a member of Carnifton choir.

The congregation joined heartily in that old hymn "Fight the Good Fight."

The Rev. L. S. Throop brought greetings to St. Paul's and spoke briefly on the days of "The Saddle Bag Preachers." He emphasized the many instances that St. Paul's had met with success in their centennial year which will close on May 31st. It should be a record of permanent value to the church.

CHRIST'S CHALLENGE

The speaker chose as his theme "The Challenge or Call of Christ, Come Unto Me". He said in part "the Christian life is one of testing, courage is needed if individuals are to take up the cross and follow and if they do just that then comes victory. Christians have a day-to-day struggle in order to keep the evils of the world in check. A consecrated life has no fear of petty disturbances, they can take that in their stride, but they must put up vigorous action in order to keep civilization sweet and clean.

Mr. Throop also stressed the great need of properly caring for our bodies and said, "God planned that we would have time for labor, time for recreation, and a proper amount of time for rest. He deplored the late hours of today and challenged the Christian youth to set a new standard. He urged that parties be planned for eight o'clock, and be completed at midnight, thus giving everyone time for rest.

He also challenged the youth of today to set up good moral standards, and fight the evils of alcohol, obscene literature, and instead build up a better Canada with happy homes, and secure marriages. The speaker gave several illustrations to prove his points and stressed that salvation only comes by way of the cross.

At this picture Mr. Baker eulogized the work of the centennial press reporter and said she had been writing news for the local weekly paper for over 40 years and had also served as press secretary of missionary organizations. He wished to pay tribute to her work, so he asked Warden Fred Mitchell of Hastings County, to make the presentation of "Fairy Cross" on his behalf. Mr. Mitchell spoke briefly and the recipient voiced a brief thanks.

Mr. George Carlisle voiced thanks to Carnifton circuit, choir and minister.

Following the service about 125 people enjoyed a fellowship hour in the Sunday school rooms when members of St. Paul's W.A. served light refreshments.

BRIEF ADDRESSES.

Brief addresses were given by Messrs. Brenton, Pound, Martin, Mitchell and several other representatives from the various appointments on the Carnifton circuit and visitors from other churches.

The choir sang their theme song followed by the social circle, and "Blest be the Tie that Binds", after which Rev. W. S. Irwin voiced a gracious prayer.

There will be six centennial services in May, and on the first Sunday a galaxy of retired ministers will gather in the morning at St. Paul's and present a "Veterans of the Cross Service". There will be no evening service.

FAIRY CROSS LEGEND.

The Legend of the Fairy Cross is that in a quiet sunny glade, nestled among the rugged foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, in Patrick County, Virginia, a section made renowned by the fact that old King Powhatan once held undisputed possession there, was discovered a single quarry of the far-famed Virginia "Fairy," or "Lucy" stones.

Here, little curiosities which range in size from one-fourth of an inch to one-and-a-half inches bear in the most unique form some shape of a cross, which has been outlined by nature's own hand. Many of them are of the St. Andrew variety, others Roman, while those most sought are Maltese.

In that weird spot, where the little wonder-working gems are to be found, the good fairies flourished and had their workshop many hundreds of years ago. This, one will probably say, was rather a strange place for fairies and fairy subjects, but were one to visit this charming mountain region they would find every rock and tree infected with a glamor of romance.

FAIRIES-NYMPHS

In that remote mountain section runs a pretty legend to the effect that hundreds of years before King Powhatan's dynasty came into power king before King, reeds breathed the gentle spirit of the lovely Pocahontas, the fairies were dancing around a spring of limpid water, playing with the naiads and wood nymphs, when an elfin messenger arrived from a strange city far, far away in the land of dawn, bearing the sad tidings of the death of Christ, and when they heard the terrible story of the Crucifixion they wept.

As their tears fell upon the earth, they were crystallized into little pebbles, on each of which was formed a beautiful cross. When the fairies had disappeared from the enchanted spot, the ground about the spring and adjacent valleys was strewn with these unique mementoes of that melancholy event, not even in the old world with its quaint and curious lore, is a more beautiful legend to be found, and just how it originated no one knows, but for more than a century, thousands of people have held these little cross of stone in more or less superstitious awe, being firm in the belief that they will protect the wearer against witch craft, disease, accidents and disasters of all kinds.

Every stone is in some shape of a cross, and millions of people are now wearing them in various forms of jewelry.

Mr. Baker is presenting seven crosses to St. Paul's women and seven to Carmel women for their unusual service along some line of church work and this will perpetuate a bit of interest with the St. Paul's-Carmel pastorate. The two charter members are Mrs. Vivors are asked to convene and nominate at least three names to fill the vacancy and from this list a name will be drawn and the perfect number of seven restored.

The number 'seven' is chosen because a perfect fairy stone cross has seven points. These presentations are a bit of historic ritual that will complete the centennial services lasting one full year.

Walter T. Elliott, St. Paul's and Mrs. Frank Bailey of Carmel.

The 12 ladies' names who have been honored in '54 will be published later as the list is not complete as yet. Each one has served the church and community in her own special way.

Air Controller

Norman Demeza (standing), senior air controller for the department of transport at Airport Montreal, is one of the men who control Canada's radio airways. He compares his job with that of a railway dispatcher whose chief responsibility is to prevent collision. Airliners probing through the clouds and storms are heavily dependent on the guidance of Canada's radio airways — sky "beam" highways which stretch from coast to coast. Demeza is shown receiving information and plotting the course of an aircraft which is flying on instruments. — (CP Photo.)

Men Who Control Canada's Airways Have Problems Of Despatchers, Hearts of Cops

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The men who control Canada's radio airways have the problems of railway despatchers and the hearts of traffic cops.

It's their job to see that traffic flies safely and smoothly along the airways—radio-range courses commonly referred to as "beams"—and to get aircraft to landings when the weather is foul.

Norman Demeza, senior area controller for the transport department here, compares his job with that of a railway despatcher whose chief responsibility is to prevent collision. He explained how aircraft, seeking to land quickly in heavy weather, are kept to a strict "first come, first served" basis.

Mr. Demeza, in charge of the Montreal area control centre at nearby Airport Montreal, better known as Dorval, stressed the team-work factor "within a ground station, between ground stations, and between ground and aircraft."

INVOLVES MANY WORKERS

"No one man twirls a dial and solves all problems," he said. "Many may be involved."

The radio airways operate between large centres of heavy traffic, mostly in an east-west direction in Canada. There now are seven control centres manned by aerial traffic cops across Canada—at Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Moncton, N.B., and Gander, Nfld.

Each zone is clearly defined, and despite the high development of radio, the telephone still is "basic" in relaying information between centres. The controller explained the operation this way:

"A plane leaves Gander on a flight to Vancouver. Its progress is checked by the Gander centre and all pertinent information must be telephoned to Moncton 30 minutes before the plane enters that zone.

"The Moncton controller then knows exactly when he becomes responsible for the plane, and is ready to receive or transmit information in an instant. The pilot doesn't necessarily know when he passes the air boundary—all liaison work is done on the ground.

"The same procedure is followed between Moncton and Montreal, and so on.

KEEP CLOSE CHECK

"Should the plane develop trouble near, for instance Vancouver City, we would immediately telephone our tower operator there, who would relay instructions to the pilot. We would not attempt to make contact with him directly from here, as the distance might interfere with transmission.

"Each centre has direct telephone lines to our airport towers, radio offices and operations offices in the whole area. We have some 25 direct lines in our centre. Thus a plane on the system is always within talking distance of a ground operator.

"Where there is no telephone service, there can be no fast control. Such a blank spot exists outside the radio range of Goose Bay, Labrador, where the land is inhabited only by roaming trappers and perhaps a few Eskimos.

"On isolated air routes where we cannot provide fast clearance, we don't attempt it at all, and a pilot is best left to his own resourcefulness under those circumstances."

Control centres and control towers have different functions, although there is close liaison between them. Under normal conditions, tower personnel handle aircraft in the immediate area of the field, but this varies according to weather.

SAFETY MARGIN

The time of greatest tension—"when our hair grows grey"—is when several planes simultaneously want to land. Then the "stacking" process begins.

The basic safety margin is 1,000 vertical feet between aircraft, but there are many minor rules—a whole manual of them," said Mr. Demeza. "And planes must be at 15-minute intervals at the same altitude, provided they're moving at the same speed.

"If 10 planes are waiting to get in, they'll be stacked up to 11,000 feet. If the bottom plane fails in his attempt to land, up to the top he goes again, and waits while the others have their try.

"Of course, if any plane is having trouble, it gets priority."

"We look forward to the day when we'll have radar control at dense traffic areas, as they already have in a few United States centres. The Americans claim they can handle just as many planes with radar in bad weather as in clear conditions."

A controller's job—there usually are two on duty at Dorval—requires about five years' training and a cool head, Demeza, 38, said few of the controllers are more than 40 years of age since it still is a young business. The first Canadian controllers were trained in Detroit in 1941.

Pilots swear by the system. Trans-Canada Air Lines use the radio airways even when the weather is clear as a safety precaution.

Fred Giguere, chief pilot for Canadian Pacific Airline's eastern district, said:

"If we didn't have this system, we wouldn't be flying."

Donkeys Set the Pace

The Soviet Union has made big strides in industrial development since the Second World War but the peasants still live and work much as they have for centuries. In Soviet Central Asia, firewood comes to market in the old way — on donkeys. These patient animals seem to set the pace in this part of the world. Even the express trains out of Tashkent, capital of the Uzbek Republic, average only 20 miles an hour. — (CP Photo.)

'Loss of Freedom' in Russia Means Service in Labor Camp; How Many Held Is Unknown

Editor's Note: Methods of the Russian secret police in extracting confessions from "enemies of the state" are a closely kept Communist secret. But Westerners in Moscow have knowledge of the handling of criminal cases and offences against public discipline. Bill Ross, Canadian Press staff writer just returned from five months in Russia, tells the story—one of a series—how Russian justice functions.

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jails as we know them were banned some years ago in Russia. The death penalty was abolished except for treason and espionage.

Instead of going to jail, those in ordinary trouble with the law now suffer "loss of freedom"—which means service in a labor camp.

You can have the doubtful pleasure for three years of pulling the emergency crank on a subway train in Moscow. Purse snatching or shoplifting is good for five years, or more likely 10 or 15.

How many Russians are held in labor camps is unknown. The International Labor Office in Geneva says millions. Western sources also claim that more than 1,000,000 German, Japanese, Italian and Spanish prisoners of the Second World War and earlier are in similar camps through the Soviet Union. The Soviet government has kept figures secret.

To get an idea of legal procedure, I asked permission to attend court sessions, legal consultation clinics run by the state, and places of correction such as labor camps. No such facility was given me.

But it is obvious to any visitor to Russia that the people have no more fear of the ordinary police than we have for a traffic officer. I saw no indication that the ordinary Russian has any fear of apprehension by the state's secret police—the MVD, as the old NKVD is known today.

The word "policeman" in Russia is "go-ro-do-voy." It is archaic. There's a state "militia man" on every corner, and often mid-block too. They stand outside public buildings, and check the identity of all seeking admission. They "guard" the entrance of any building where foreigners live and are on subway platforms.

Russians give them no more deferential treatment than they receive, and I never saw one saluted when an interview is over.

POLITE POLICE

I never saw a Soviet militia man behave officiously or rudely. Even a street brawl doesn't excite them. They stroll over leisurely, as though not wanting to interfere until the participants have worked off steam.

They control traffic strictly and whistle drivers to the curb for every slight infraction. Pedestrians aren't bothered unless they try to jay-walk.

They take no notice of beggars who often stand near stores or main intersections. Russians seem to think that beggars bring good luck.

I was arrested 20 times in my five months in Russia, always for taking photographs. Without exception I was treated most correctly and given a polite apology when I proved my right to use a camera.

One Western diplomat, a former minister of justice in his own country, said Russian criminal law is up-to-date and has been copied by Switzerland. He said a lawyer who can forget the Stalinic Communist tongue of UN Delegate Andrei Vishinsky will find Vishinsky's text of "Legal Evidence," handbook in all Soviet courts, sets high standards for the conduct of trials.

SINISTER SIDE

But he acknowledged no Westerner in Moscow knows anything about the special law applying to political offences — except that those considered to have "betrayed" the regime invariably confess and, after a form of trial, are shot.

Soviet double-talk in official announcements and the brown-grey walls of Lubianka, MVD headquarters around the corner from my Moscow hotel, keep hidden the methods used by the secret police.

Only a handful of Russia's 210,000,000 people rise to the eminence which carries risk of MVD attention, my informant said.

My diplomatic informant considered by other Western embassies to be the expert on Russian jurisprudence said justice for the three months. A first offence usually draws a warning. A second student the worker's name on a factory blackboard. A third brings jail before the tribunal. The president of which is usually another worker, and consists of three people only.

One conviction brings a fine by salary deduction and loss of certain privileges. Another means transfer to work under surveillance in some other city. The third brings "loss of liberty." He goes to labor camp for from one to three years. His salary from the state continues. The worker gets one-third, his wife two-thirds while he is in custody.

Lawyers are civil servants, as are doctors, teachers and barbers, and their services are free. They hold legal clinics where citizens may seek advice. Rulings by peoples' tribunals, as the courts are known, go automatically to courts of appeal where the proceedings and findings are reviewed. Appeal courts may disallow rulings, order new trials or alter sentences.

Pleads Not Guilty

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto firm, Lucoe Products Limited, Thursday pleaded not guilty to a charge of keeping and selling liquor in the form of cough medicine.

Alcoholic content of the cough medicine, authorities said, was 56.6 per cent proof. Liquor control board chief chemical expert, E. Clark, said alcoholic content of liquors sold through the board was 40 per cent.

Police seized 2,000 cases of the medicine in various phases of manufacture.

The case is continuing.

Police Officer Given 6 Months For Perjury

MONTREAL (CP) —Albert Villeneuve, Montreal north police officer, Thursday was sentenced to six months in jail at hard labor when found guilty of perjury.

Judge Eugene Lafontaine said Villeneuve had deliberately not told the truth when he testified that he had found a loaded revolver on Pacifique (Pax) Plante, known as Montreal's racket buster.

The charge arose after Plante was arrested Feb. 1, 1952, while a municipal election was in progress in neighboring Ville St. Michel.

Plante testified that he was arrested and searched twice by police who found nothing. Later, he said he was searched by Villeneuve who pulled a loaded revolver, wrapped in a handkerchief, from Plante's overcoat pocket.

Judge Lafontaine said Villeneuve's behavior "was not only criminal it was diabolic."

Wants to Know When New Bridge Will Be Built

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank E. Lennard (PC—Wentworth) Thursday urged the Ontario government to expedite construction of a high-level four-lane bridge over the Burlington canal at Hamilton.

He made his plea in the Commons after Works Minister Winters told him the federal government is prepared to pay one-third of the cost of the $13,300,000 bridge.

Mr. Winters said he informed Ontario Highways Minister Doucett of the government's decision April 5, but had not received a reply.

"Well, I think it is about time you did . . . because this is the biggest bottleneck in Canada and possibly the biggest on the North American continent," Mr. Lennard said.

Airmen Request Postings At Cold Lake

By DAVE MacINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

COLD LAKE, Alta. (CP)—The word is getting around about Cold Lake and airmen are already applying to be posted here, as remote as it is.

Defence Minister Claxton Thursday inspected the RCAF's new $30,000,000 weapons range in the Alberta hinterland 150 miles northwest of Edmonton.

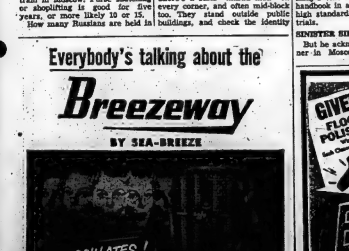
Cold Lake is as good an example as there is of what the armed forces are trying to do to persuade servicemen to make a career in the forces rather than go back to Civvy street after a limited engagement.

On his week-long tour of western Canada military establishments the first thing Mr. Claxton has wanted to see at various posts are the married quarters, schools and churches.

The camp takes in 4,600 acres of prairie, scrub and muskeg. The firing ranges, where CF-100 all-weather jet interceptors will test rockets and probably air-to-air guided missiles, are 25 miles north of the main encampment.

The station is ready for use now but so far only a 50-man advance party, under Wing Cmdr. Jack Watts, an armament expert, has moved in. The inflow of airmen will pick up gradually and the aircraft are expected this summer.

The 6,000,000 recreational centre is the eye-delight of the camp. It has a basketball court unequalled in Canada, bowling alleys, grocery store, beauty parlor, library, theatre and so on. A swimming pool is to be added later.



"The airmen's mess makes most officers' in Canada look shabby. Most big hotels would be envious of the kitchen equipment.

SEES SURPLUS

CLINTON (CP)—Gordon Greig, secretary of Huron Federation of Agriculture, said Tuesday night a Junior Chamber of Commerce plan to put settlers on all vacant farms in Huron county would only increase the "surplus of food in pantry, feed and dairy products and in many cases, cash crops."

Pearson Endorses Korean Proposals Made by Casey

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA (CP) — Canada's external affairs minister L. B. Pearson says the Canadian delegation supports the proposals for Korea outlined Thursday before the Geneva conference by Richard Casey, Australia's minister of external affairs.

One of Casey's key statements concerned the question of elections. He said he hopes that if necessary South Korea will agree to elections throughout Korea, not just in the south.

This represents a modification of the Western view as outlined Thursday by John Foster Dulles, United States secretary of state. Dulles, probably in an effort to placate the South Koreans, proposed that elections would be held only in the north, as elections had previously taken place in the south under United Nations supervision.

"Generally speaking we would subscribe to what Mr. Casey said, Pearson told reporters. "If necessary, we would agree that elections should be held in the whole of Korea."

TO START NEGOTIATING

The speeches Thursday by Casey and Russia's Vyacheslav Molotov marked the end of general declarations in Korea, and delegates will shortly start negotiating in earnest to see whether there is some compromise acceptable to both sides.

The Canadian delegation fears that if the Communists will not accept international supervision of elections there will be no agreement here on unification of Korea.

The resulting necessity of keeping United Nations troops in Korea would be unwelcome to Canada, which is reluctant to keep her forces in the country indefinitely.

The real work on Korea will probably start Monday. The 16 United Nations countries who fought there have been meeting regularly this week in an effort to iron out any differences in their own views on the subject. But the 16-country body is considered too unwieldy, and a decision will probably be taken to set up a working group of five, seven or nine countries, representing both East and West.

Vietminh Guns Steadily Pound French Fortress

HANOI (AP)—Vietminh heavy mortars and artillery continued for day to pump hundreds of shells into the main defence complex of the French Union fortress at Dien Bien Phu.

Answering fire from French guns was centred upon the Communist-led Vietminh troop concentrations in the jungle-covered hills encircling the bastion, and on truck convoys arriving from Red China with fresh ammunition and war materiel.

The French sent out more commando units during Thursday night to destroy rebel gun emplacements and arms depots on the rim of the fortress. Under clearing skies this morning French fighters and bombers heavily hit the Vietminh's positions and strafed supply lines.

Attempts by the Vietminh to infiltrate into the French defence positions were hammered back. The French high command in a terse communique described the period as "relatively calm."

Three Big Unions In United States Plan Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidents of the three major United States labor unions planned to meet here today to discuss ways their organizations "can be of assistance to each other."

Announcement of the meeting by Dave Beck of the AFL teamsters in Chicago Thursday night brought speculation that a big labor merger is in the works.

Beck said he would meet with John L. Lewis of the independent United Mine Workers and David J. McDonald of the CIO Steel Workers' Union.

Beck, before leaving for Washington, declined to discuss the subject matter of today's meeting. Neither Lewis nor McDonald was immediately available for comment.

Beck told a reporter he has no authority from the AFL council to invite Lewis and McDonald to join the American Federation of Labor. However, in an address Thursday at a conference of his union, the teamsters' chief said:

WANTS UMW TOO

"I not only want the CIO to join the AFL in a common labor organization, I also want the United Mine Workers and other independent organizations. And I would use every resource at my command to aid and assist in bringing that about."

Naturalists Move Their Camp

TORONTO (CP) — Camp Billie Bear, a unique nature study camp, is being moved this year from its site at Bellow lake near Huntsville in the Muskoka district, to Bark lake in the Haliburton area, 40 miles north of Peterborough.

The camp, designed to teach people recognition of native plants and animals in their natural surroundings, has been operated by the Federation of Ontario Naturalists for 18 years.

G. Marshal Bartman, executive secretary of the federation, said a shift of the camp will permit it to work more closely with the provincial department of education in Toronto.

TRAFFIC DEATHS DROP

CHICAGO (AP) — There were fewer deaths from traffic accidents in the United States in March and in the first three months of this year than in comparative periods in 1953, the National Safety Council says. The death toll in March was 2,550, or nine per cent under March, 1953. During the first quarter of 1954 there were 7,920 deaths, down four per cent from the 8,220 total for the period last year.

No Substitute For 250-Year-Old 'Gin' Trap

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Joan Robinson, president of the Canadian Association for Humane Trapping, said Thursday night unfortunately there still is no substitute for the 250-year-old "gin" trap that snaps steel jaws on the legs of its victim.

She told the association's annual convention there is little more than a ray of hope that the steel leg-crushing trap will be replaced by a more humane method of getting the animals.

Of the 3,000,000 fur-bearing animals killed each year in Canada, most of them are trapped in the wild state and mostly by the steel trap on far-flung traplines, she said.

The association faced three fronts in its battle for a more humane trap. These are the multi-million-dollar fur industry, political indifference and public apathy, Dr. Robertson said.

In many cases fox, muskrat and beaver remain beside the traps in agony for as long as three weeks before the trapper arrives to end its misery, she added. "That is, unless hunger or attack by some animal kills them first."

New-type traps, such as one which breaks its victim's neck, were unable to compete in the market with the less-expensive jaw-type springs

Aircraft Firm Moving to Perth

PERTH, Ont. (CP) — R. W. R. Hughes, president of the Perth Chamber of Commerce, announced Thursday that the Toronto aircraft firm, Isaacco Limited, will move its factory and offices to a new plant which is to be built here.

The building is to have a total floor area of 17,000 square feet and the contract for the construction has been awarded to R. T. Parks and Son of Perth. Construction is expected to start within the next 10 days.

A small number of key personnel will be brought from Toronto but the balance of employees will be local residents. Perth is 35 miles northwest of Brockville.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Jean Clement, who operates a roadside snack bar, won a prize at a card party sponsored by a fire department auxiliary — two chickens. Sinners at a restaurant across the street from her own.

Mental Illness Most Serious Health Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Jonathan Meakins of Montreal says that poor mental health is the most serious health problem today.

In a report prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the Canadian Mental Health Association, Dr. Meakins said one-third of all hospital and medical costs result from mental illness.

Other speakers who will address the meeting are Dr. J. D. Griffin, national director of the association, and Dr. Charles Roberts, chief of the mental health division, department of health, Ottawa.

Mrs. O. C. J. Withrow of Toronto, a native of Guelph, will be presented with Ontario's award in mental health. Mrs. Withrow has been the organizer of the entire membership of the Ontario division of the association.

The association says there has been some improvement in mental health services in Canada but that four persons of every 1,000 are in mental institutions.

Arrested 12 Times

Bill Ross, Canadian Press staff writer just returned from the Soviet Union, says no one can get the full Soviet story because censorship and control of information are too tough. Ross took this picture of a new uppercrian apartment in Baku, Soviet Central Asia. Seconds later he was taken into custody by a militia man (seen standing at the corner of the building.) During a 6,000-mile trip in Russia, Ross was arrested 12 times by these state police, who did not know restrictions on use of cameras had been eased. But Ross says the treatment he got was always courteous. — (CP Photo.)

CENSORSHIP

KREMLIN'S SECRETS

Significantly, the things the censor wouldn't let me write from Moscow—and the things the regime would have liked me not to learn—are the Kremlin's secrets from the Russian people, the things the controlled press never prints.

What sort of facts are kept from Russians in their own country?

Well, here are some typical rulings by the censor:

Censorship—I couldn't say my stories had to be approved before being sent to Canada. But I always knew what had been deleted and threw away the stories that seemed misleading after censorship. Often a censored fact could be rephrased and passed for publication.

The Iron Curtain—Mention of the Iron Curtain, the Communist bloc or "satellite nations" is taboo. The Communist countries tied to Russia's apron strings must be presented as wholly sovereign states and "people's democracies."

The Ruble—Value of the ruble must be given as the official rate or exchange, 25 Canadian cents. I could not say its value to me in Russia was not more than six or seven cents.

Comparisons — Comparison of Russian average income, living conditions, prices or quality of goods with those in Canada or other countries is penalized out. I could not write that Russia's living standard is far below Canada's that prices are comparatively high in terms of average income, that many things sold in Russian stores are shoddy and would be out-of-date here.

CROWDED QUARTERS

Housing—The censor never let me say that millions live three or four in one room. He lets through references to old, inadequate housing if they are in stories about Russia's extensive housing program.

Women at work—Everywhere in Russia there are women doing jobs we think too heavy for them: laying bricks, riveting steel in new buildings, fixing roads, driving steam-rollers and tractors. I never was allowed to write a paragraph about them.

Hidden Taxes—Income taxation is low in Russia and can be mentioned; but the censor frowns at reference to the hidden taxes on everything you buy—main source of revenue for the Soviet state.

State Loans—Government loans are in effect compulsory in Russia. In 1953 the state announced the subscription would be two weeks' pay. The censor let me say that Soviet workers put two weeks' pay into the loan as a "patriotic gesture." He would not let me say anything indicating Western countries have no compulsory loans. I could not intimate that failure to subscribe would brand any individual a slacker.

Defence—I could send out only what appeared in the controlled press about the military. I could not mention the troops and army vehicles that move in downtown Moscow on every state occasion—including the opening of a department store—or the small detachments seen occasionally marching through the streets. For some fathomless reason, I could not even say that I saw Soviet dignitaries drive through the streets in "cars with drawn curtains."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"GONE FISHIN'"

The great exodus is under way. Even as of now thousands, to paraphrase the "Kingfish," of that "Great Fraternity, the Misty and Musty Knights of the Rod and Reel," are creek, river and lake-bound or to wherever the elusive speckled trout haunts the cool waters.

Tomorrow as dawn silvers the eastern horizon, the great brotherhood will whip silver streams with plugs, bugs and spinners while the blokes who put their faith in a tuft of tied feathers will trust to synthetic insects or nymphs and minnows.

It is estimated that over 100,000 Ontario anglers of both sexes will lie for the woods and streams, camps and cottages in quest of one of the loathed pieces of piscatorial mouth-watering that ever graced a a billett. A lot will be disappointed. Many will not. Expert fishermen say that the best speckle trout are not caught until mid-May but this is pish-and-tush to the veteran open-day adventurers.

Those who get the daily limit of "one and an additional fourteen, providing the 14 in the aggregate weigh not more than ten pounds." likely will be the great minority. But who wants to get the quota on opening day?.. Four or five speckled beauties will satisfy the majority of the trout hungry fly-swingers, that is until he has eaten his fill.

The speckle is one of the most highly prized of all fish, according to the experts. Not only for the beauty and appetite-tickling qualities but because it demands a menu that would rival one of Gotham's topflight nighteries.

Your speckle will gulp worms, minnows and crayfish with gusto. It will show pleasantly on bacon and grass-hoppers. And it is not averse to an occasional touch of bird diet. Not roast chicken or duck, but if an unwary feathered delicacy of the small variety is tired of living it is he'r to be taken as a speckle likes it, bite trout, drooling at the sight, probably will murmur "Here's one for the birds" and make a flying upsweep at the unsuspecting feathered delicacy.

And he can be a stubborn cuss if he so wishes. Three one times when a fisherman can dangle bait of solid gold, with two oil wells attached, and Mr. Speckle will leer at the thing and roll lazily away. This, usually when the water is high, and natural food is in the form of the stream or lake.

Then there is the fitter type. These are usually trout whose mothers were frightened by a political convention taking time off for a fishing spree. They are nervous and will flash like lightning at the slightest noise or vibration on the bank or boat. If you see a red-armed human creeping on all fours towards a stream he is not looking for a nickel he lost last year, nor is he partly here-de-numbed from overindulgence in tensil nectar. He is merely "sneaking up" on some pinkish-tinged trout that are afraid they will be subpoenaed by Senator McCarthy.

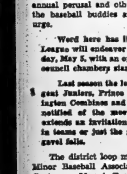
If you are out for king-size trout, try the Lake Nipigon district... There are some Gargantuan specimen up thataway. In fact it was in Lake Nipigon that Dr. W. J. Cook (no relation to William (Sailfish) Cook), caught his world's record-holding 14¾ pounder.

"But the average speckle-seeking Joe is not worried over such trivialities. All he wants is the feel of the rod; the chance to whip the waters, and the opportunity to get out in the open and shake winter cobwebs from his mental and physical system. Whether he uses $100 tackle or a bamboo pole plus a bent pin.

ATTENTION BASEBALLERS!

Coach Vern Geyer of the senior baseball squad, announced today there will be a practice at the Fair Grounds this evening at seven o'clock. All players are urged to attend. And don't forget that "wreck-and" practice..at two o'clock. This is all important. Again every body out.

Manager Jack Carson has announced the sale of season tickets. The tab is ten bucks for 20 home games. Regular admission will be 65 cents, so you clear three bucks on the venture. You can get tickets from Manager Carson, secretary Drury Denyes at the city hall, Bob Bleind's Sport Shop, or from this department, at any time. Better get 'em now!



BASEBALL MEETING!

Seeing as how the spring grass is getting fixed all right for blades; the angling fraternity getting all set to seek the elusive trout, and, incidentally, become ineligible for carpet-beating chores; vacation spots brochures are undergoing the annual pruning and other vernal seasons operations underway, the baseball buddies are developing the usual organizational urge.

Word here has it that the Belleville District Baseball League will endeavor to get things moving here on Wednesday, May 5, with an open meeting scheduled for the city hall council chambers starting at eight o'clock.

Last season the loop was comprised of the Belleville Real Juniors, Prince Edward Combines, Bloomfield, Wellington Combines and the Trenton ACAF. These groups have been notified of the meeting, but President Frank Grandame extends an invitation to all and sundry who are interested in teams or just the game, to be on hand when the official corral fells.

The district loop meeting will follow that of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association which is slated for the Kiwanis Centre on May 4, Tuesday, that is, and President Bill Gault would like to have all clubs interested in the minor branch of the sport to be on hand. Coaches, sponsors, managers, umpires, etc., are badly needed as are other willing workers and the prexy is looking for a good turnout as that much work may be accomplished before the playing season gets under way.

Whiffs Mathews Three in Row As Only 30 Batters Face Him; Tribe, Yankees, Brooklyn Win

By Ben Fellegar
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hitters beware! Philadelphia's Robin Roberts is back in form.

The tireless Phillie righthander has been mowing down the National League opposition with amazing regularity for 5½ seasons. But he hit the skids in the last six weeks of the 1953 campaign, losing eight while winning only three. Then, after showing next to nothing in spring training, he was kayoed by the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates on opening day.

But that's all over and forgiven now. He toppled the Pirates the next time out with a four-hit shutout, lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to New York Giants' Jim Hearn and then Thursday night stopped Milwaukee Braves' ace on one lonesome hit.

Del Crandall's third-inning double put the only dent in one of Robin's best performances. The 27-year-old ex-Michigan State star fanned 10 batters, walked two and struck out six. Three of the strikeouts were registered against homerun king Eddie Mathews.

ROBERTS' FIRST

The one-hitter was Roberts' first anywhere. Twice before he had given just two hits.

In other major league action Thursday, Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall pounded five home runs in beating Cincinnati Redlegs 13-3, but the Reds held on to top the Reds in the National League as Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis Cardinals 4-3. In the American League, Baltimore edged Washington 3-2, Cleveland defeated Boston 5-3 and New York Yankees evened matters with Chicago White Sox 5-4. The other clubs weren't scheduled.

Junior Gilliam led the Dodger home-run barrage in Cincinnati with a pair, and added a double to the Dodger attack. Harry (Suitcase) Perkowski.

The Yankees' Casey Stengel, who rewrites the rules of baseball strategy almost daily, brought in left-handed Zoon Gaughey to pinch-hit against lefty Billy Pierce in the ninth inning in New York, and the former Cardinal star delivered a single that tied the game.

Eddie Robinson, another pinch-hitter, followed with another single that meant another run.

Cleveland warmed up for a two-game series with the Yankees by pounding four Red Sox pitchers for nine hits at Boston.

Canucks Lose To Stampeders; Worsley Out

CALGARY (CP) — Vancouver Canucks, victims of a double set-back, now are the underdogs to grassroots Western Hockey League in the inaugural of a post-season series against the Quebec league champions.

The first blow was when Calgary Stampeders defeated Vancouver Wednesday night to edge Canucks 4-3 and deadlock the best-of-seven playoff finals at two wins apiece.

But Sunday's harder blow was the loss of goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley who suffered a severely bruised back in a third-period collision with Gus Kyle, buy-Calgary rearguard. Club officials said he's through for the season.

Thus Worsley, chosen league all-star netminder this season, won't play in the fifth game today of the series to determine an opponent for Quebec Aces in the Dominion-Hockey finals.

Lucien Dechene, the "fat man" who pinch-hit for Worsley in Vancouver's nip-and-tuck overtime victory Wednesday night to edge Canucks 4-3 and deadlock the best-of-seven playoff finals at two wins apiece.

Penticton V's Home of the Peaches Show No Fear of 'Big Bad Wolves'

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — The green-and-white-clad Penticton V's who play host to Sudbury Wolves when the race to the Allan Cup opens here Monday will be trying for the title which slipped through their grasp last year.

V's came close last season, making it to the finals where they lost out to Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen.

This year they led the Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League most of the regular season. However, Nelson Maple Leafs had them by the throat during their playoff with the Western International League champions for the British Columbia title. Penticton had to come from behind to win in eight games.

Penticton and Winnipeg Maroons turned a best-of-seven western final into a sudden-death affair when both clubs won two and tied the other three—all by 4-4 scores. Again, Penticton won the crucial eighth game.

The team's unique name stands for three types of peaches for which the orchard city is famous, valiant, victory and vedette, and were the initials of those who spelled it without the apostrophe.

ORIGIN UNCERTAIN

Club officials aren't certain how the things got there but they definitely frown on any other spelling such as "Vees" and "Vs".

Another unusual feature is the brother line of Grant, Bill and Dick Warwick. Grant, NHL veteran and coach, led the team with 17 points during the Winnipeg series.

Bill was top scorer during the regular season and named OSAHL most valuable player.

Dick is noted for his backchecking.

Guarding the nets is Ivan McLelland, OSAHL alternate all-star goalie who booted them out for 81 consecutive games this year.

Rearguards include former Waterloo junior Dino Mascotto; captain George McAvoy; Ron Montgomery and Kevin (Crusher) Conway, whose blistering shot is dreaded throughout the interleague.

VETERAN FORWARD

Ernie Rucks has played forward for the V's since the team was organized in 1951. Jack McDonald came from Edmonton Flyers and is known as "Iron Man." Bernie Sabbagata came from Kamloops Elks early in the regular season.

Jack McIntyre is a veteran of Victoria Cougars in the WHL and plays both forward and defence. Jim Fairburn was acquired from New Westminster's WHL Royals.

Forward Doug Kilburn's specialty lies in his speed.

Just rounding into shape again is Don Benoit, an accidental casualty who broke a leg during V's climb to the top of the OSAHL.

Major A League Holds Enjoyable Annual Banquet

There was a slight deviation in the regular proceedings of the annual banquet of the Major "A" Bowling League held at the Golden Acres Restaurant last night.

For the past six years Belleville Golf strods to the front and received the Labatt Trophy, emblematic of the league championship. Last night it was different. Walter Moore, wearing a victory smile a mile long, stood up and accepted the trophy from Bert Bolton, company representative here, on behalf of his "Chislellers" squad, as the chicken-gorged league members cheered.

"This is a h . . . of a good night", smiled the happy Walter. "It was a surprise for my team and a bigger surprise for the others. If they feel as bad about losing this trophy as we feel good about winning it, then they are in very bad shape."

Members of the champion team are, besides Skipper Moore, Ray Orr, Bert Bolton, Jim Cessna, Cec Hardwick, Al Hitchon and Frank Mulvihill. The Chisellers received handsome plaques from Mr. Bolton as individual mementoes of their winning the championship.

The Chisellers won the title from the C.N.R. and Belleville Golf teams all sectional winners. The railroaders won the first and fourth quarters of the schedule, with the Golfers taking the second and the Chisellers the third.

RECORD SINGLE

Jim McKenzie, who represented the Eastern Ontario district in the recent Molson Bowling Classic, rolled a single for a total average with a 240.5 mark. Phil Lott was the high bowler with 966 and it was stated that in another league Lott rolled a record of 1022, the highest in the city this year. High single of 420 went to Les Lemaire.

The champion Chisellers, however, fell by the wayside in the league playoffs for prize money. The G. H. Woods copped the "chips" with Schwaby's in second place. Then followed Upper Canada News, Belleville Golf, the Chisellers, Lever Bros. and Upper Canada Cement.

The executive body was turned back into office en bloc on motion.

President Jack Bennett, Vice-president Les Lemaire, Secretary Cec Hardwick and Treasurer Tom Cessna will again guide the destinies of the loop.

Secretary Hardwick and Treasurer Cessna were paid fine verbal tributes for their efforts, as well as being presented with honorariums.

During the business meeting, which was declared an open one by President Bennett, there was some lengthy discussion over bowling dues, but it was finally agreed that the dues be placed at $1.25 per player night, an increase of 25 cents over last year's figure.

There was also discussion on the question of who should foot the banquet bill each year, but this was settled amicably with "no change".

The league decided to operate again on the four-section schedule basis, although there was minor opposition to the motion.

President Bennett, in accepting office again, expressed his appreciation of the co-operation afforded him last year, and commented on the sportsmanship of the league as a whole.

Leafs Celebrate Home Opener With Victory

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League baseball season is only 10 days old but already the teams are feeling the satisfaction of success, and none as much as the Buffalo Bisons.

The Bisons have a winning streak going which now has stretched to five games. They haven't been beaten since opening day, and lead the league with a 5-1 record.

The league on the whole is enjoying the best crowds in six years and the second-day openers followed the opening three-day south, despite a disappointing turnout at chilly Ottawa.

Only 1,433 turned out there to watch Buffalo take its fifth straight with a 7-3 triumph over the Athletics.

But the other three second-round inaugurals drew more than 10,000 at each spot with the high crowd of 18,013 at Toronto, where the Maple Leafs scored a 6-4 victory over Rochester Red Wings.

WINGS BEAT RICHMOND

At Rochester, a crowd of 10,378 saw the Red Wings trim Richmond 5-0 on the four-hit pitching of Jack Fazzbolt. There were 11,099 at Montreal where Syracuse won over Syracuse Chiefs 8-7, in the 10th inning.

In all, the four games drew 49,909, not bad considering the spring chill. The southern openers last week attracted more than 60,000.

Frank Barrett was the winning pitcher for Buffalo while Ottawa's loser was Bob Cain, who had to be carried from the field in the bottom of the third when he was hit on the leg by a line drive.

Pitcher Ken Lehman singled home the winning run in the extra inning for Montreal. Eighteen extra-base hits, including three home runs, marked the Toronto game.

Record Crowd Will Attend 'Kaintuck' Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A human three-ring circus today to engulf this Ohio river city for Saturday's running of the 80th Kentucky Derby, with a near-record field in prospect for the $100,000-added classic for three-year-olds.

Louisville was bulging at the seams as the trainers of an expected field of at least 20 marched into the spacious infield at Churchill Downs today to drop the names of their hopefuls into the entry box until the field was picked of all Derbies.

The racing fans came from far and near by automobile, regular and special trains and airplanes. Hotel men said there wouldn't be an available room within 100 miles of Louisville by nightfall.

Few sporting events can match the Derby in color, and this year is no exception. The Downs itself is a thing of beauty with its multicolored flowers and plants and closely cropped grass.

Teepees Edge Quebec Frontenacs 5-3 Take 2-1 Lead in Eastern Jr. Finals

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Wimpy Roberts' second goal of the game, with less than eight minutes remaining in the game, broke a 3-3 deadlock and marked the St. Catharines TeePees to a 5-3 victory over Quebec Frontenacs here Thursday night.

A packed house of 4,07? watched the victory that gave TeePees a 2-1 jump in the best-of-seven finals for the Eastern Canada junior hockey championship. The winner of the series will also earn a berth in the Memorial Cup finals against Edmonton Oil Kings.

Frontenacs was tied three times before Roberts fired the winner. Frontenacs went ahead 1-0 before the game was two minutes old but St. Catharines scored two in a row for a 2-1 lead. Quebec deadlocked the count 2-2 before the period ended. Each team counted once in the second.

TEEPEE SCORERS

Barry Cullen, Brian Cullen and Don McLean scored the other TeePee markers. Mike Ratchford bagged a pair for the Frontenacs and Gui Rousseau notched the other one.

Early in the game Rousseau rounded a St. Catharines defenceman and paused to Ratchford who tipped the puck in for the first goal of the game. The TeePees tied the score while Quebec was playing one man short. Brian Cullen rifled a low shot at the net and brother Barry, standing in front, deflected it in.

Brian made it 2-1 for St. Catharines at 10:28 when he took aim and backhanded it at the goal. Frontenac goaltender Jacques Marcotte, screened by one of his defencemen, didn't see the shot. Rousseau tied the count at 13:08 while Pete Koval of the TeePees was in the penalty box. He took Stan Parker's goal-mouth pass and lifted it into the net.

Roberts scored his first goal of the night at 5:17 of the third period to send the Ontario Hockey Association winners in front again. It came at the height of a St. Catharines attack after Marcotte had stopped successive shots off Koval, McLean and Bullock. Cheo Warchol tipped Bullock's shot at the goalkeeper but he stopped that one too. Roberts got the rebound and fired it in.

Ratchford rounded out Quebec's scoring with about a minute left in the second period. It came on a pass from Ron Bonnerre and sailed into the far side of the net past TeePee goaltender Marv Edwards.

Hank Ciesla, behind the Quebec net, shot a pass to Roberts at 12:24 of the third period. Roberts tipped it in for the winning goal. Bonnerre and Rousseau received the marker two minutes later when he

Thousands Pour Into London For Cup Tie

LONDON (Reuters)—Thousands of fans from all over Britain are pouring into London for Saturday's soccer cup final between West Bromwich Albion and Preston North End.

Many of them are hoping to get a ticket for the classic contest, even though all tickets for Wembley Stadium, with a capacity of 99,000, were sold days ago. So ticket scalpers who hang around the approaches to the stadium should do a brisk business on the big day.

The hundreds of unlucky West Bromwich and Preston supporters who don't get tickets will spend the day painting London red before catching buses or trains back to the north Saturday night.

It is still anybody's guess which team will win.

At one time the boys of West Bromwich Albion, bidding for the league championship as well, were favored to take the cup. But they were hit by injuries in recent league games and have already been robbed of the league championship.

Now Preston are cup favorites.

But West Bromwich Albion trainer has oxygen as a pick-me-up among his equipment are still determined to try to take the cup back to the Midlands.

Red Kelly Gets $6,000 In Bonuses

MONTREAL (CP)—Red Kelly of Detroit Red Wings won two trophies and hit the National Hockey League award jackpot for a total of $6,000, the league announced Thursday night.

The perennial all-star is the first winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the best all-round defenceman, and also copped the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for exhibiting "the highest degree of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability."

Red, who was christened Leonard Patrick and owns a farm at Simcoe, Ont., is the only player to win two trophies in the NHL's 1953-54 season. He won the Byng Trophy last year as well and three times in four years.

The league's announcement said that each winner, including his basic salary or any bonus arrangements he may have had with Red Wings, Kelly earned $6,000 in extra bonuses.

As a member of the Stanley Cup winning team Kelly pocketed $1,000. By capturing a place on defence on the first all-star team he acquired $2,000 and the Norris and Byng trophies each carry $1,000 in cash.

The NHL commented in a statement it is fitting that a member of Red Wings should be the first winner of the Norris Trophy. Mr. Norris bought the team in 1933 and built it into one of the strongest clubs in the history of the circuit.

Kelly, 27-year-old bachelor, won the Norris silverware in a breeze, winning 125 points out of a perfect 180, compared to 57 points for Doug Harvey of Montreal Canadiens, in runner-up position. Bill Gadsby, captain of Chicago Black Hawks, finished third with 28 points.

Beer Hard to Find in Alberta As Beverage Room Employees In Forty Hotels Out on Strike

EDMONTON (CP)—Where would a man go when his whistle If they stopped serving the "suds" in every beer parlor in town?

It has come to that in some parts of Alberta, where unions have pulled beverage room employees out on strike fn 40 hotels in Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat in a dispute with hotel owners over wages and hours.

In Edmonton, the man without a car would be lost, as far as public drinking is concerned. The closest taverns would be at St. Albert, a French-speaking settlement five miles out of the city, and at Spruce Grove, an 18-mile drive. However, 15 of Edmonton's 23 hotels have not yet been affected by the strike and there is no immediate shortage of drinking places.

Pickets are shuffling through the seasonal snow in front of eight beer parlors now on the strike list in Edmonton with four closures. Now there are eight, and the strike committee of the union was expected to close at least another one today.

BUY FROM STORE

Apart from a long drive, the only alternative would be to buy beer from the government liquor store. But even at Medicine Hat, where all but one of five strike-bound parlors opened Thursday after a 10-week shutdown, it was surprising, says a government official, how many people apparently didn't care to carry cases of beer.

"There was only a slight increase in liquor store sales in Medicine Hat," said A. J. Mason, chairman of the Alberta liquor control board. "It certainly wasn't as much as one would anticipate."

Sales slips showed the same situation in Lethbridge and Calgary.

Calgary has only one of its 21 beer parlors open for business and it is doing a roaring trade. It is only a small men's parlor. Mixed drinking is not allowed in Calgary and Edmonton.

In Lethbridge, where all seven hotel beer parlors are closed, tipplers carry on a picket. There are no towns nearby where a beer parlor is maintained and the few chicks in the city allow each member only one guest.

Bad Language Startles CBL Listeners

TORONTO (CP)—A burst of bad language startled listeners to the CBC'S Toronto radio station CBL Thursday night when an announcer "working under considerable strain" forgot to turn off his microphone during a program break.

The incident happened at 8:30 p.m. after the announcer had signed off the last program "Popular Artists in America" on the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

Ira Dilworth, CBC director for Ontario, said in a statement to the press:

"The incident which occurred on CBL this evening when an unfortunate phrase was heard on the air during a station break was a regrettable occurrence for which the CBC apologizes to its listeners.

"The words were uttered by a CBC employee who was under considerable strain at the time. The circumstances which made this incident possible are being investigated most carefully by the CBC."

U. K. DESIGNER TO U. S.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (CP)—M. J. Brennan, flying-boat designer, sailed Wednesday night for talks with American aircraft firms about Britain's new 140-ton Princess flying boats. Work on the flying boats, which have cost more than £10,000,000, has been suspended while tests are made on powerful aircrew-turbine engines for them.

Snake-Infested Bar Proposed As Public Park

OTTAWA (CP) — A wooded, swampy, snake-infested sandbar jutting 14 miles into Lake Erie was proposed Thursday night as a site for a new national park.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) described the spot, Long Point island, as "a veritable paradise." He said in the Commons it should be taken over from a private company, largely owned by wealthy Americans, which now controls most of the island.

Northern Affairs Minister Lesage, who administers national parks, replied that any land for national parks must be offered by provincial governments free of all encumbrances.

Mr. Nesbitt said the private company has preserved the wildlife of Long Point as it was years ago. The public should be allowed to visit it and see nature unspoiled. The present holders need not be disturbed.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The master bridge players of our time are in wrong contracts too often. But they are too much in love with themselves and their devious ways to consider this to be an actual fact.

There is absolutely no doubt about their being wrong. This is evidenced by the fact that so many of them change from year to year. Revisions are only were wrong before if not now.

We were talking of the masters national deal shown here:

NORTH
♠A Q 10 9 8
♥K 9
♦7 5 4
♣A Q J

WEST	EAST
♠K 4 3 2	♠6 5
♥Q J 8	♥10 7 6 2
♦K 9 8 3 3	♦Q J
♣10	♣K 9 8 7 5 3

SOUTH
♠J 7 3
♥J 10 8 7 5
♦A 10 6
♣6 4 2

North has a sound opening of one spade. The other three seats lack the requirements for bidding bids in turn one. So, one spade is where the correct rule bids would leave it.

In stiff competition, east by west might stick in some kind of a bid for tactical purposes. If east thrown in a bid of two hearts, two spades, or three clubs would double. This is a takeout double that asks partner to bid something If no bid intervenes. A pass by east then lets south back in with a bid of two hearts.

When south bids two hearts in this spot, north should pass and let south play it there. Why? Since north has promised strength in high cards he should let south use his weak length as trumps.

North is a wise old fox by rule. How? By the fact that south passed on the first round. This warned north that south lacked the quality of the bid. Now he says his length is in hearts.

Despite this, if north then bids two spades he has the stuff for it. So, either two hearts or two spades is a correct bid. Rule says so, regardless of which turns out best in this one deal.

Master-minders would intrigue themselves into difficulties. In fact different pairs would land in odd spots. At least they did in the masters match where this deal appeared. Jugglers.

AT THE CAPITOL—Mickey Rooney plays the leather as Bob Hope teaches him how to hit in this hilarious scene from Paramount's brand new comedy sensation, "Off Limits," which is at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday. Hope and Rooney make a delightful team as a wacky pair of Military Policemen with an extra-territorial interest in prize-fighting. Curvaceous Marilyn Maxwell and funny-guy Eddie Mayehoff co -star in the film's laugh-loaded proceedings. Sprinkled throughout "Off Limits" are three hit tunes. On the same program and having its first Belleville showing "Divaro", color by Technicolor, announced "He-vs-iv", (headhunters of the Amazon) starring Fernando Lamas, Rhonda Fleming and Brian Keith, Continuous show Saturday from 1.00. Doors open at 12.30.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 1, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Some benefic rays, some not suspicious. A degree of shrewdness and thoughtful judgment could be the governing factors in smooth sailing. Aries natives seldom fail when they really try.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Excellent vibrations now should help to steady business, money and many other matters. Don't allow foolish emotions or self-approbation to spoil prospects.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Promote essentials, matters you understand and know are within your ability to perform creditably. Benefits likely in travel for business, work for State, government, children's affairs.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — This is no time to rest on your laurels. Today is a new period, one that has bright prospects for those who strive hard. Pace your action by studying possibilities—not by guess-work.

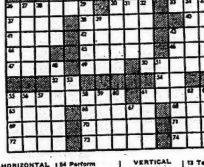
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Refrain from talking on debts, responsibilities that may be costly. Investments. Important matters may need more care in handling. You may face some restrictions which can be overcome with effort, tact.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—An uncertain attitude doesn't help. Avoid subtlety, reservation. If you are willing to postpone the execution of plans until a more propitious time the going will be easier.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—The overall picture is stimulating. With thoughtful management and a friendly attitude you should progress appreciably. Heart interests, youngsters' affairs

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Not especially tops for others than routine and familiar activities. In matters which have a tinge of uncertainty or speculation consider twice. Study requirements thoroughly.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You probably make acquaintances quickly if a true Sagittarian, therefore be more cautious choosing friends, activities. You can do fine work; don't spoil it by impulsiveness.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your ability to handle difficult chores and your desire to get on with things may lead you to overtax yourself if you are not careful. Guard against tricky propositions, schemers.

January 22 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Keep physically and mentally fit and you will make better progress. The laziness and inertia of others won't hurt you. Honest intent in all activities is important.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Though you acquire knowledge quickly, you may have to sharpen your memory a bit now. Usually you listen well, have foresight enough to accept needed changes in plans; great assets these days.

YOU BORN TODAY are steady, keen to discuss matters quietly and logically, than to brood over them. You can reach the heights if you will not listen to time-wasters, and will apply your fine brain to good purposes, and if you heed the counsel of those who have your interest at heart. Spend more spare time with an intelligent hobby. Pray daily; smile; don't dissipate energies.

Sunday School Lesson:

All Religion Is Not Good

By Rev L. Smith.

We make a serious mistake when we assume that a thing is good because it calls itself religious, that a man is good because he speaks in the name of religion, or that a religious system is good because it makes great pretense to piety. We are being importuned today by many d bad religion which, if we should embrace its tenets, we would find leading us to disaster.

BAALISM WAS A RELIGION.

The average reader of the Old Testament, approaching the problem of the ancient cults, is apt to think that the pagans alongside of whom the Hebrews lived were not religious. On the contrary, they were very religious. Their religion permeated every aspect of their lives and activities. They never planted a crop, set off on a journey, harvested their grain, watched a storm approach, or plowed a field that they did not attend it with a series of religious acts and ceremonies. Because they believed the gods gave them good luck or visited them with bad luck, they left nothing to chance, but made use of every known charm and incantation.

The trouble was that their was a religion without a conscience. A murderer, a thief, or an extortionist might be welcomed at the shrines if he came bringing a sufficiently large ram, ox, or sheep to be roasted on the altars (the priests getting the choice cuts after the service was ended). This had the effect of silencing whatever conscience the religion of Baal might ever have had in social matters.

BAALISM AND PROSPERITY.

One of the principal reasons the Hebrews were hoodwinked was that the incoming Baalism was accompanied by a period of unprecedented prosperity for the farmers of Israel.

The little kingdom of Israel had no seaport opening on the great trade routes of the world. Tyre, the homeland of Baalism, was in a position to strangle any economic life inside Israel because it controlled the export of grain and other agricultural products.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 9: "Elijah Challenges Baal Worship," I Kings 17:1—19:18.

When Omri, the king of Israel, contrived the marriage of his son Ahab to Jezebel, the daughter of Ethbaal, king of Tyre, the alliance had the effect of opening up the port of Tyre and providing Israelite farmers with the best market they had ever known. The resultant inrush of prosperity deceived the people into believing their government had made a good bargain for them. They thought it was good because it seemed to be good for the wheat farmers. They were ready to forgive the paganism which Jezebel introduced, because they were getting an unheard of price for their wheat.

PROSPERITY AND SLAVERY.

Like many another people, similarly deceived, the Hebrews did not realize that they had traded their souls and their civil rights when they had accepted the inflated prices for their farm products. They could not see that in the midden prosperity they were re-t— their liberties for full stomachs.

...ge struggle between communism and democracy in our modern world is only another instance of the old struggle reappearing among men. The Romans kept the people of the Mediterranean world enslaved for generations on the basis of bread and circuses. The totalitarian has always kept himself in power by feeding those who wielded the lash over the backs of the people.

The religion which endorses any economic system which leads to the enthronement of things and the dethronement of souls is a bad religion, no matter how elaborate its ceremonies may appear to be.

Kremlin Lifts Marriage Ban

LONDON (AP) — The Kremlin has formally lifted its seven-year-old ban on the marriage of Soviet citizens to foreigners.

Moscow radio, in a broadcast heard here, announced that the Supreme Soviet (parliament), has approved a decree issued last November permitting such unions. At the same time, the parliament put back on the law books a clause forbidding any change of citizenship as a result of such a marriage.

The action is not expected to make any difference in Soviet-Allies with the Western world.

A foreign office spokesman here said "all it does, in effect, is allow Russians to marry citizens from the satellite states . . ."

ROYAL OAKS

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Council agreed that two acorns from the oaks in the royal forest at Windsor, England, to be received by the Timmins Horticultural Society this year, should be included in landscaping for the aged people's home. In their first tender years however they will be reared elsewhere by the society's president.

Guilty of Manslaughter

OTTAWA (CP)—An all-male assizes jury Thursday found High Conrad Hayes, 22, of Ottawa, guilty of manslaughter in the shooting of Miss Grace Currie last Feb. 10.

The jury was directed to return the manslaughter verdict by Mr. Justice John L. Wilson. It retired for only a few minutes and then returned to bring in its finding.

Decision on the sentence was reserved.

Two psychiatrists were heard in court after the jury returned. They testified Hayes is a psychopathic case.

The judge directed the manslaughter verdict after the crown had completed its evidence and Hayes' lawyer, John Minsky, argued the prosecution had proved only that Hayes shot his landlady to death. He said the crown had not shown intent.

Mission Abroad Accomplished

Fourteen months and 30,000 miles ago a unique collection of 52 paintings of 22 Canadian Cities took to the air for a two-continent, 15-country international goodwill tour.

Painted especially for The House of Seagram by distinguished Canadian artists, these original canvases were on an unusual mission—to stimulate a deeper interest in things Canadian, and to earn increased friendliness and broader understanding for Canada by showing the peoples of other lands the impressive aspect of our urban centres from coast to coast.

This mission has now been accomplished. Everywhere it has been shown — in San Juan, Havana, Mexico City, Caracas, Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Rome, London, Paris, Geneva, Stockholm, The Hague, Madrid—the Seagram Collection of Paintings of Canadian Cities has made new friends for Canada and has left behind it vivid impressions of our land in the minds of the more than 215,000 people who visited this colourful collection on exhibition.

This widespread public attention stimulated by the Seagram Collection has created a mounting interest in Canada and Canadians by bringing to people of other lands a realization that ours is a vital, growing land—a land of tremendous natural resources, and remarkable human achievement.

Now back in Canada, the Seagram Collection of Paintings of Canadian Cities will shortly embark on the second phase of its tour—a twelve-thousand mile, two-year cross-country visit to the cities of Canada.

Thus Canadians will have the opportunity of seeing at first hand these 52 colourful Canadian ambassadors of goodwill.
